Trenton Residents Polled:

Do Rising Gasoline Prices Really Hurt?

TRENTON — In late February, T. C. Douglas (NDP—Nanaimo—Cowichan—The Islands) forecast that by June this year, gasoline and home heating oil prices will jump by eight to 10-cents a gallon.

Following his forecast, Imperial Oil Ltd. of Toronto upped its gasoline price 2.2-cents at the wholesale level. Other companies are also considering such moves and it is expected that motorists across Canada will soon be paying more.

A number of people in downtown Trenton commented on the prospect of the ever-increasing gasoline prices. Thier views:

BILL STENABAUGH

Rushnell's Ambulance driver Bill Stenabaugh termed the price hikes "ridiculous" and said they are high enough: "They've been raising and raising them over and over again."

He suggested oil companies kept prices level and "let's see what happens". He said any increases will hit him hard — he travels to Toronto, where his parents and friends live, at least six times a month.

HENRY SONNEVELD

Henry Sonneveld's first comment was "I'm glad I have a Datsun." An employee in a chartered accountant's office, he said he bought the small, imported car because "the price of gas is getting out of hand".

His small car costs less to operate from the cost of license fees ("It's four cylinder.") to the cost and number of spark plugs it needs. Luckily, he says, "I don't make too many trips."

JOHN YOTT

Prince Edward County resident, John Yott feels any increase the oil companies impose may fall at the pumps because of the competition between service stations: "That's what happened the last time."

He is hopeful the process of cutting prices to draw business will whittle down any company imposed price increases. He says one service station dealer he has spoken to said he was forced to cut his pump price by two-cents to meet competition from other dealers.

CHRIS TURNER

Wild County bass and organ player Chris Turner says any new gas price increase affects his musicians way of life. That is, being constantly on the road from job to job.

He won't be affected personally, but the leader of his band, will see the gas increase cut into his salary.

PENNY SCHWAGER

Optemetric assistant Penny Schwager said, "I don't notice increases even though I drive a lot." Despite driving 1,000 miles a month and being subject to any increase in the price of gasoline, she said she tries to ignore it. Her approach is philosophical: "If it doesn't go there, it goes somewhere else."

VALERIE HARRISON

Secretary Valerie Harrison said "Sure, everyone's going to cry about it, but they'll continue to do what they're doing."

"You don't see any fewer cars on the streets, do you?" she asked rhetorically.

Picton Loses Constable

PICTON — A veteran officer with the Picton police department Constable Cecil Farrington has resigned, effective April 5, for health reasons.

He joined the town police force in 1957, resigning for a four year period from 1970 to 1974, when he worked as a jail guard and commercial fisherman. He rejoined the force in February, 1974.

Constable Farrington this week was described by police chief Charles Fletcher as "one of the most honest policemen I have ever known".

The Picton Police Commission has advertised for another officer to replace Constable Farrington.

Gym for Tots Latest County Centre Project

PICTON—If enough parents in Prince Edward express interest a "kindergym may open at the county centre in Picton.

The program is being planned by Barbara Lindsay of Picton, a gym teacher who said she feels youngsters between two and five years of age can benefit from experimenting with basic gym equipment such as balls, hoops and bean bags.

Goal of the "Kindergym" program is to develop physical and mental co-ordination and provide the youngsters with a chance to play and move creatively to music and to socialize and learn from one another.

A 10-week session will be offered for $10 with classes in various age levels organized according to demand.

A half-hour session will be held each Thursday morning.

Information on the kindergym is available from Picton recreation director Richard Hall.

If you're a farmer planning for the future,

the Commerce has the financing you need.

Let's face it, you don't need a bank to tell you how to plan your future. That's your business. And we respect it.

But let's say you've got your plans all sorted out. And your plans are going to need money, come to us. We'd like to help you. We're the Bank of Commerce.

We can custom tailor an entire credit package specifically for your farm. The package includes short term credit to cover your month to month and season to season operations and longer range financing of items such as machinery, grain storage or additional land.

We can lend you the money you need now. And the nice thing is that you can arrange repayment specifically to suit your cash flow.

If you wish we can also arrange low-cost credit life insurance.

Whatever your credit needs, the person to talk to is your local Commerce manager. So if you're a farmer who has future plans that include money, come talk to us.

Discipline and Recreation

It was clear during the day-long seminar sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion in Belleville that many persons fear Canadian society is losing its grip on "law and order", that much bandied-about phrase that has too much of a Nixonian ring to it.

Statistics do show an increase of disturbing, but not alarming proportion in the incidence of violent crimes committed in this country.

But those that suggest — as some did at the Belleville meeting — that re-instituting the lash or capital punishment is any kind of feasible solution to crime problems are suggesting cures that merely serve to entrench violence as a way of life in our society.

More reasonable, it seems, are those people who feel the root of such problems as vandalism lie in homes where discipline is no more than a ten-letter word.

Most parents spend little time with their children. In some homes the only parent-child communication during an entire day might be a "pass the cereal" at breakfast and a "turn off the TV before you go to bed" at night.

The rest of the time, a child is baby-sat by everyone from schoolteachers to minor sport coaches.

But we can't go so far as the teen-aged girl who told the seminar the only recreational activity available for young people is pub-crawling.

There's ice-skating, roller-skating, swimming, dancing, table tennis, pool, snowmobiling, skiing, just to name a few winter pasttimes that come to mind.

An even better way for young people to spend some of their spare time might be to contact agencies such as the Volunteer Bureau and see if they might be of assistance.

That requires what is known as self-discipline, definitely a step in the right direction.

Temperatures Metric April 1

Everyone's been talking about conversion to the metric system, but few have been doing anything about it.

Beginning April 1, they'll have to.

That's the first of several metric conversion deadlines that should end by 1980 when Canada has completely switched to the metric from the imperial system of measurement.

Temperatures have been picked as the first system to be transformed, and you may notice that The Intelligencer's front page weather information now gives them in Fahrenheit, with Celsius following in brackets.

But starting April 1, you'll be on your own. From that date, most official weather reports will only give temperatures in Celsius.

There could be problems for a while. An Intelligencer survey of stores revealed there just aren't enough of the new thermometers to go around.

So when you hear that it will be 40 degrees Celsius, you'll have to take the weatherman's word for it — head for the beach.

A Busy MP's Social Life

Only the British, for so long thought of as restrained, if not repressed in such matters, could articulate a problem of the hard-working politician and his wife that might ordinarily remain somewhat in the realm of taboo.

A problem too for the bachelor MP, for it was Charles Irving, still single at 48, and a Conservative member of only six months standing, who complained the other day that long hours in the House of Commons were playing havoc with his social life.

Mr. Irving says he has had a rapid turnover of women friends; they cannot stand the hours. For married politicians, he says the divorce rate is high.

The new member won support from the wife of another Conservative member, Anne Winerton. The mother of three, Mrs. Winerton complains she rarely sees her husband except on Sundays.

Let's hope the problem is not compounded by any such decadent motto as "Never on Sunday!"

And Now...Belly-Dancing

Belly-Dancing anyone? The subject is not as frivolous as it sounds, especially in the context of fitness. Indeed, to judge from its growing popularity, it should qualify as a course at say Loyalist College — one maybe the men could get into as well, as a means of trimming off some of that excess weight.

In any event, there on The Intelligencer's front page last week was 265-pound George Cortez, who is 50 and balding and belies his formidable girth by imparting his skills "like a feather being blown around the stage."

That's how Mr. Cortez comes over to his belly dancing students at Toronto's Central YMCA.

Then there was that item about Gloria Shulman, the despair of Women's Lib perhaps in describing herself as very ordinary, devoting most of her time to making her home a refuge for controversial husband Dr. Morton Shulman and their two sons — but also representing Workmen's Compensation Board claimants in Dr. Shulman's High Park riding and, get this, she has just graduated from a city belly-dancing school.

So there must be something in this belly-dancing business. Where did it all start then, in this strange substitute of a Middle Eastern environment where it's the snow and cold man, and not the desert sand and burning heat that determines much of our recreational pursuits? Like hockey.

Come to think of it, maybe some of our hockey players could ward off those pot-bellies local poet Al Purdy warned they may be in for as time passes, in that article in Weekend.

Well, there was an item from Ottawa recently about a Mrs. Randi Cherry who teaches belly dancing to 100 women in five classes and she describes it as a "good way to get the mind and body together."

But before that again, toward the end of last year, NBC News did a little piece on Germaine Brown, a very attractive young woman who teaches the art at the Arlington campus of the University of Texas. Again, the objective is a combination of trimmer waistlines and mental repose.

In this age of perplexity and uncertainty and much that is in the category of horror, belly-dancing, for whatever purpose, is a recreational activity to be reckoned with.

On The Go

Adventure? Yes, it is still available, as witness those ads that are always appearing in big city newspapers. Do you fancy a three-month South American expedition, overland, beginning in May? Or a similar jaunt, only this time it is to B.C., the Yukon and Alaska, starting in June? Some people are always on the go, and have the time, equipment and money, or seek people to join in who do.

Nationalism and Canada's Image in the United States

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

What is the image of Canada in the United States? Do we care? And if not, are we prepared to face consquences which might result from proposed legislation or pressure applied by Washington in a way not traditional to Canada-U.S. relations because that image has turned sour?

If one makes a random selection of editorial opinion in the major American newspapers over the last year or so, since the energy crisis began, the image is a bad one, of Canadians wanting to hoard all their natural resources against the day when they might run out.

Heatless homes in Denver before Edmonton or Seattle before Vancouver or New York before Montreal? An exaggeration perhaps, but certainly where Canadian natural gas exports are concerned, such a possibility genuinely scares Americans

You might say that such editorials express blatant self-interest and indeed they do, just like editorials in Canadian newspapers reporting on similar crises affecting Canadians.

Then there is the confusion over the rise of economic nationalism in Canada, the reason in part Canada is taking a new and tougher line on energy exports.

The expectation has been in America that Canada would be the only hemispheric country in which nationalistic tendencies would not arise, no northern Mexico to contend with.

Remember the sharp blast against British Columbia's new socialist (New Democratic) provincial government a couple of years ago in Barron's financial tabloid of New York?

Unabashadly it told its influential American readers that British Columbia, for two decades a bastion of the "private enterprire system" under Social Credit, was now "the Chile of the north."

This was a comparison with the then Marxist government of the late president Salvador Allende who was slowly nationalizing all the major foreign-owned extractive industries in that country.

As for socialist Premier Dave Barrett he was "the Allende of the north' a result of his initial statements about government takeover of industries and utilities companies for both economic and ideological reasons.

Incidentally the B.C. state control of Canadian Cellulose has been a great success, one of the very few occasions when Western Canadian socialists have managed to show a profit from a manufacturing crown corporation.

Since then, Canadians in general, but Western oilmen in particular, have been labeled "the blue-eyed Arabs of the North," for hoarding their oil or hiking the price to the detriment of the American customer.

And then there was the Michelin Company affair of a couple of years ago when President Nixon imposed a special countervailing tax used against overseas firms including the Michelin tire plant in Nova Scotia for trying to dump subsidized products on the American market.

The hang-up here was apparently total misunderstanding in Washington of the Canadian federal and provincial grants to plants placing themselves in parts of Canada needing economic development.

Regional disparity apparently is a dirty word when applied to Canadian needs, but a respected one when the formula is applied in needy parts of the United States.

Well, expect more of this kind of backbiting press and congressional comment rather than less, as the American depression deepens and we become more and more concerned about how much of our energy we really have left for anyone, ourselves first.

Americans Now Are Worrying About 3Rs

Christian Science Monitor

A back-to-basics emphasis is being increasingly felt in American education circles.

Of course, even while school practices shifted in "liberal" directions in the past decade or so, a number of parents and educators were worried about the education implications of less structured classrooms, reduced emphasis on grades, the "new math" and so on. But they were overruled by the widespread impulse to alter the excesses of traditional methods — the rote learning, the too narrow curriculum, and what was taken to be an intellectually and emotionally stunting emphasis on imposed, rather than self-imposed, discipline.

What is now occurring is probably a counter correction of the excesses of the recent reforms. Parents and educators are concerned that student performance in basic skills like reading and writing has fallen too low. Laxity in school discipline has left them impatient with school administrations. Recession and inflation have revived a regard for job-winning, bread and butter values.

Unfortunately, it appears that some of the stress on educational fundamentalism may be itself an over-reaction. It is promoted by some school administrations less for purely educational reasons than to blunt community demands for accountability, or to broaden taxpayer and voter support for school systems troubled by racial or financial problems.

A renewed emphasis on grades and competition in college parallels the partial swing back to traditional attitudes in the public schools. However, the swing back to competition and grades is being criticized as having already gone too far. The pre-occupation with marks, the make-or-break pressures for gaining entrance to professional or graduate schools, is said to be "deforming" on some campuses.

There can never be a return to rote learning or an educational system which views students and teachers as automatons. The liberating progress made toward recognizing the individuality of students should not be reversed. But there must be a return to a high regard for the academic skills which provide the essential structure for further education, of objective rather than more generalized and subjective standards for achievement.

Bible Digest

"Praise ye the Lord. Praise God in his sanctuary; praise him in the firmament of his power. Praise him for his mighty acts: praise him according to his excellent greatness. Praise him with the sound of the trumpet; praise him with the psaltery and harp." Psalms 150:1,2,3. Have you ever heard of just a praise service to God? Doubtless He would like to hear one. A lot of the answers to our prayers are probably held up at this point.

Throne Speech: Even the Policy Clues Were Missing

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

This years throne speech was a most curious document in the long history of these most curious documents.

Historically, the Speech from the Throne is a teasing affair.

It gives vague hints of goodies to come and then, as the session progresses, slowly strips to show us the bosom and buttocks of what the government really has in mind.

This year's speech was unusual in that it contained even few hints.

Usually these are plentiful. But not this time. In all, there were less than half a dozen matters mentioned from which we may reasonably expect eventual legislation.

The one definite promise was that an ombudsman would be appointed for the province. A welcome bit of news.

But beyond this the few vague hints were even less to the point than usual.

Thus some steps were mentioned on maintaining farmer's incomes, on assistance to the needy and more emphasis on restraint of crime and violence.

There also was mention of voluntary restraint of prices and incomes.

But just how these particular tricks were to be pulled off was left in the dark. Even in later interviews, Premier Davis and officials had little to offer in the area of hints.

The analysis one has to take from this is that Mr. Davis is holding back his ammunition.

One would say that his plan is to hold back with the first stages of the session routine.

Then he will attempt to build to a climax toward the end.

He will save his block-busters until the last stages—providing he has any.

By releasing what he hopes will be eventual points of appeal early he would be giving the opposition a chance to powder them, which is not good politics.

Personally and frankly, I believe that Davis probably does have a few aces up his sleeve.

But, we are going to wait a while before we see them.

Stanfield is Backing the Left-Leaning PC Elite Says Alberta Member

..By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Jack Horner, Conservative MP from the Alberta riding of Crowfoot calls them "The Four Fingers."

They are the fingers — with a thumb— of "The Hand" he sees running the Toronto-bossed Conservative Establishment.

Jack Horner is a rancher, operating a big spread of cattle country southeast of Calgary a winner of seven successive elections since entering the Commons 17 years ago, a Diefenbaker disciple, and a candidate for the Conservative leadership.

He is also the acknowledged leader of the right wing of the Conservatives in the Commons, and particularly of those who subscribe to the proposition that the leader replacing Robert Stanfield when he finally retires must be picked not by the party's Toronto organizational Establishment but from its parliamentary caucus.

If winning is the name of the political game, history is on Horner's side, because the only Tory to become Prime Minister in the last 40 years was a House of Commons Conservative, John Diefenbaker.

So who are "The Four Fingers," as Jack Horner calls them, of "The Hand" on the Tory Toronto controls.

He names them and their assignments.

They are all expected to be leadership candidates.

But he claims that these leadership aspirations are only a front for their real responsibilities, on assignment from the Tory Establishment to line up certain special segments of the voting delegates who will elect the new leader at the coming convention.

He fears that if they are successful, they could deliver the majority of delegates, the convention itself, and so, the party leadership, to the Toronto bosses.

They are, he says:

"Flora MacDonald, whose job is to organize the women delegates" Miss MacDonald for years was a key executive in the Conservative National Headquarters until former Prime Minister Diefenbaker fired her for "disloyalty," as he called it. She has been MP for the Eastern Ontario riding of Kingston for two terms.

"John Fraser, whose assignment is to marshal the West Coast delegates." Mr. Fraser is a two-Parliament MP for Vancouver South.

"Sinclair Stevens, whose responsibility is the dragooning of the party's right wing. Sinc," says Jack Horner, "is a right-winger-come-lately, and is being moved up in the parliamentary spotlight as the party's financial critic." He is a 48-year-old lawyer, a financial operator, and has been MP for the suburban Toronto riding of York-Simcoe since 1972. "But he isn't really, at heart, of the right, and I wonder about his strength in the West," says Jack Horner, whose power base is the same as the party's — the ridings from the Ontario border to the West Coast.

"Joe Clark, whose obligation is to collect the young Conservative delegates." Mr. Clark is the bright young, 36, two-term MP for the Alberta riding of Rocky Mountain. He is a former newspaperman and speech-writer for Mr. Stanfield.

So, the "Fingers Four," but what of the thumb?

"Stanfield" says Jack Horner, "sees a sharp shift to the right in the party and the country. He is working with the 'Four Fingers' to counter it through manipulating Conservatives and the Convention into the continued control — or in Sinc Stevens' case, management by — the left-leaning Toronto Tory Establishment."

While declining to "go into personalities," as he phrases it, John Reynolds, another young, 33 two-term MP from the West Coast riding of Burnaby-Richmond-Delta, agrees with fellow right-winger Jack Horner.

Uranium Dust to Be Controlled

TORONTO (CP) — Stricter regulations governing dust levels in uranium mines in Elliot Lake, Ont., will be announced "in the not too distant future," Resources Minister Leo Bernier told the Ontario legislature Thursday.

Mr. Bernier said the regulations will place limits on the amount of time miners are allowed to work in areas with a high dust level.

Stephen Lewis, leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party, had confronted Mr. Bernier with statistics indicating that existing dust limits set by the ministry are being violated

Mr. Lewis said samples taken at Rio Algom Mines Ltd. last January show that 67 of 77 samples and eight of 10 working areas are "significantly over the limits acceptable for the safety of human health . . ."

"There levels have been tested and they are above the acceptable standard," said Mr. Bernier.

"As I said earlier, it may well be that we will have to close down certain areas where they can't bring down the dust levels."

More Money About

OTTAWA (CP) — The money supply expanded by 22½ per cent in the 12 months to February, the Bank of Canada reported Thursday.

Average in February was $62.7 billion. This is the total of currency in circulation and the total of chartered bank deposits, what economists call the broad definition of money supply.

Diplomat Dies

OTTAWA (CP) — Gilbert Craig Langille, 57, Canadian ambassador to several Central American countries, died Wednesday in Costa Rica, the external affairs department announced Thursday.

Views Differ

OTTAWA (CP) — There now are two private hanging bills before the Senate—one to abolish capital punishment and the other to make it harder for the cabinet to commute death sentences.

Senator Hazen Argue (L—Saskatchewan) introduced the abolition bill Thursday

"Capital punishment, murder by the state, is callous and abhorrent," he said in a statement released when the bill was introduced.

May Ban Imports

OTTAWA (CP) — Two government departments are discussing the banning of imports of a type of asbestos linked to cancer, it was disclosed Thursday.

Andre Ouellet, minister of consumer affairs, in a Commons reply to Martin O'Connell (L—Toronto Scarborough East), said his officials are discussing with the justice department, regulations that would "effectively cover this subject."

Sea Law Studied

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen says detailed plans are being evolved in interdepartmental discussions on Canadian enforcement of economic control over broad areas of the continental shelves.

He told the Commons external affairs committee Thursday the talks involve the external affairs, defence, environment and transport departments.

But having said that he was unable to say in two sessions with the committee this week and in a major law-of-the-sea speech in Halifax last month when that enforcement will be needed.

Dam Held Necessary

ARNPRIOR, Ont. (CP) — Ontario Hydro expropriation of 900 acres here for construction of an $80 million dam and generating station has been approved by the environment ministry.

In a decision Wednesday, ministry officials said they agreed with hydro testimony given at an expropriation hearing last November on the necessity of the action.

Charge Denied

TORONTO (CP) — Charges by parents that their 10-year-old son had been placed in a jail-like cell for two weeks last fall by his teacher have been denied by a spokesman for the North York borough board of education, which has jurisdiction over the boy's school.

William Dempsey, executive assistant to Kenneth Mawson, education director of the board, said Thursday that Donald Perovitch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Perovitch, had been isolated "for his own benefit as well as his classmates."

Mr. Dempsey said the boy was isolated because he had become disturbing to others in the classroom of Peckham Public School. He said the room where the child was placed was about 10 feet square and has a window, lights, table and chairs.

Ethical Code Needed

TORONTO (CP) — All levels of government should be working under a written code of ethics in order to maintain public trust and confidence, says a report issued by the Institute of Public Administration of Canada.

Ken Kernaghan, author of the report, says such codes are needed because "we are faced with the simple fact that unethical conduct occurs occasionally at all levels of Canadian government."

Priority for French

HULL, Que. (CP) — Bilingualism in this city across the Ottawa River from Ottawa may suffer a setback if a proposed new bylaw gains approval from city council next month.

Civic administrators are putting the final touches on a law that will require the French language to be given priority on all public and commercial signs The English wording, if it must be used on a sign, will appear at the bottom and in much smaller print.

Fight Racism

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government will launch expanded citizenship programs this summer in an attempt to head off threats of racial tension, Secretary of State Hugh Faulkner said Thursday.

Mr. Faulkner promised new after three members of the Commons broadcasting committee said that racial tension is reaching crisis proportions in Vancouver and is threatening to become serious in Toronto.

Gifts Deductible

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's proposed election contributions and expenses legislation will include provisions to allow contributions to be tax-deductible, John White (PC—London South) told the legislature Thursday.

Mr. White, minister without portfolio, was reintroducing the bill first read during the previous session of the legislature.

Hydro Study To Be Made

TORONTO (CP) — An independent commission will conduct public hearings into long-range plans of Ontario Hydro, Allan Grossman, Ontario resources secretary said Thursday.

He told the legislature that the commission, headed by Dr. Arthur Porter, industrial engineering professor at the University of Toronto, will focus on alternative ways of supplying electrical power between 1983 and 1993.

For the first time, on an experimental basis, the government also will provide funds for potential participants at the hearings, he said.

Mr. Grossman said the commission also will consider "on a priority basis" the need for certain short-term generating and transmission projects that Hydro considers it must begin.

These include a generating station on the north channel of Georgian Bay, extra-high voltage supply lines to Kitchener, London and the Ottawa-Cornwall area and a second extra-high voltage lines out of the Bruce generating station.

The resources secretary said it was previously announced that environmental and socio-economic considerations of these projects would be included in any long-range hearings.

However he said the province has decided only to allow discussion of need to avoid "bogging down (the commission) from the start."

The long-ranges plans, however, will be assessed from "a wide range of social and economic factors" including provincial planning policies, environmental and agricultural impact, energy conservation, commercial and residential needs and industrial development, he said.

Mr. Grossman said he expects the hearings to last up to two years. Preliminary hearings will be conducted to define issues to be discussed in the main hearings.

Other members of the commission have yet to be named.

Holstein Sales To Syria Planned

AYLMER, Ont. (CP) — John Walker, owner of Walker Farms Ltd., said Thursday a cattle exporting syndicate he operates is discussing a contract with Syria for the export of southern Ontario Holstein cows

Mr. Walker said in an interview thousands of cows would be involved in the deal and Holstein farmers in the Brant County area would be affected.

He said he is expecting Syrian representatives at his farm next week for further talks. Aylmer is 10 miles east of St. Thomas, Ont.

Taylor Leads Off For PCs

TORONTO (CP) — Debate on the speech from the throne began in the legislature Thursday with a member of the government criticizing statements made by opposition leaders.

Lieutenant-Governor Pauline McGibbon delivered the six-page speech Tuesday. It promised consumers an ombudsman to guard their interests and asked for voluntary wage-and-price restraint.

Liberal Leader Robert Nixon said the speech was bankrupt of ideas and Stephen Lewis, leader of the minority NDP, said it lacked indications of a stream of positive legislation for the new session.

SPOKE FOR GOVERNMENT

J. A. Taylor (PC—Prince Edward-Lennox) rose on behalf of the government to begin debate on the speech.

The brevity and content of the speech, he said, was appropriate in a time when people want less bureaucratic control over their lives.

"It's time we stopped to think just what we should be doing in terms of more legislation," he said.

He accused the opposition of asking for too much in the speech before going on to list what he felt were achievements by the government during the last session of the legislature.

Arab Boycott List Ignored

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian trade officials say they are "assiduously ignoring" Arab boycott lists that mention Canadian companies.

They said in interviews this week they know of no Canadian company that has been hurt by such boycotts and added that they appear to have little effect.

The matter had not been broached by either side in talks with such countries as Saudi Arabia and Iraq over improved trade, although Saudi Arabia had an extensive boycott list with Canadian names on it.

They said that in some ways the lists make little sense and that one 1969 Saudi Arabian boycott list seemed little else than "overkill on Seagrams" distillers.

New Law Studied

LONDON (AP) — The Canadian government still hopes to introduce new measures to replace the stringent War Measures Act invoked during the 1970 Quebec terrorist crisis, Prime Minister Trudeau said Thursday.

"Our policy would still be to have an act of considerably less scope than the War Measures Act which could be invoked in certain emergencies well short of war and which could perhaps be incorporated in special provisions of the Criminal Code," he told a news conference.

Tremor Strikes

SANTIAGO (AP) — An earth tremor struck central Chile Thursday, toppling walls in the provincial capital of La Serena and killing two persons and injuring six, officials said. The tremor caused tall buildings to sway in Santiago.

Child Behavior Topic of Film

PICTON — The Quinte Chapter of the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (ACLD) met in Picton Thursday night when the film Child Behavior and You was shown at Queen Elizabeth School.

t is the first time the ACLD has held a meeting in Prince Edward since its organization several years ago, said Russell Williams, special services co-ordinator for the Prince Edward County board of education.

An international wide wide range of services including organization of meetings to provide educational programs, films, speakers, demonstrations and displays for home and school associations and community organizations.

The organization maintains and distributes the only film library on learning disabilities in Canada.

The Quinte chapter of the ACLD records approximately 50 members concerned with early recognition of and assistance with learning disabilites.

The film, Child Behavior and You stresses learning begins in infancy when babies cry for a diaper chan~e, food or possibly, just attention.

Its mother will not come running every time he cries.

If the youngster receives attention when he is smiling and happy he will discover that smiling pays off.

As the child grows and begins to crawl, he learns more and sometimes gets into mischief. It may be necessary for him to be returned to his playpen where a favorite toy should be placed to make it fun. When he plays contentedly, he should receive a pat or hug.

The pre-school child must learn to get along with others. When a youngster causes trouble he should be put by himself until he calms down.

Parents should talk to their children as much as possible and explain rules or commands. This increases learning.

School-age children sometimes behave badly, especially in class. The more a teacher scolds, the more the child misbehaves. This attention-getting behavior should be ignored. Good behavior should receive praise.

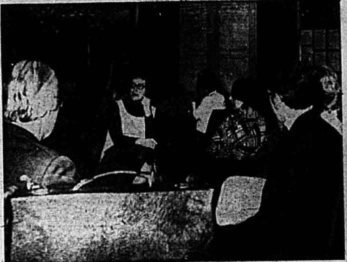
It is important for parents to make rules together and stick with them together to prevent the child from becoming confused. Praise should be awarded for good efforts and punishments for misbehavior should be fair.

Adolescence is a trying time for children and often pride in achievement is the only reward needed.

Sometimes the best reward is earning something that can be shared by the whole class. Conversely, if the whole class must suffer because of the bad behavior of a few, the offenders will be punished by their classmates.

The film emphasizes low grades, fighting, bedwetting, stealing and all kinds of behavior problems can be helped by a system of rewards and punishment.

Group discussion followed the film, with Ann Orfald, a school psychologist with the special nursery facility of Belleville General Hospital commenting on its content.



Learning Disabilities Discussed

Parents and teachers who met at Queen Elizabeth School in Picton last night to view the film Child Behavior and You divided into groups to discuss it. The film was shown during a meeting of the Quinte Cahpter of the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities.

HASTINGS MANOR

Hastings Manor residents attended a World Day of Prayer service March 7 conducted by Hastings Manor Auxiliary President Marguerite Wessels.

Several residents read scripture during the service, and Maud Roy played the piano for the singing of the hymns and before and after the occasion.

Vera Morris brought prayers from the Roman Catholic faith, and Daisy Bongard read United Church prayers.

Rev. Leslie Dean of Tabernacle United Church gave the sermon.

BONSPIEL

The women of the Frankford Curling Club hosted their 2nd annual open bonspiel recently.

The host club carried away first prize, with a team skipped by Carol Mawer; Yolande Acheson, vice-skip; Sylvia Lipner, second stone; Dorothy Cadwell, lead. Second place went to another Frankford team of June Putnam, Rose Menzies, Betty Boulter and Linda Reid.

A team from Stirling captured third place, with Mary Doran of the Stirling Club skipping.

The draw for the door prize, donated by Dominion Stores of Trenton, went to a member of one of the Campbellford teams, while Bev Reid won another lucky draw, donated by Madill Drugs.

Fashions at the Quinte Mall This Spring — Big Is News!

Cathy Lyons in a cinched coat

Big is big news for spring.

That was the message for shoppers at the Quinte Mall when the fashion merchants presented their annual spring fashion show Thursday night.

It was a forecast of spring fashions which will be sold at stores in the mall.

Fashion co-ordinator Carelyn Emerson told the audience that big dresses — usually cinched at the waist with narrow belts — will be topped by big coats. Some coats are almost capes, others are belted.

As for color, the word is pastel with shades of green and melon among the most popular shades.

More than 80 garments from 10 fashion stores were modelled by 10 women, eight children and four men.

The show ill take place again tonight at 6.30 and Saturday at 12.30.

Garden Club Meeting Set

The regular monthly meeting of the Belleville Garden Club will take place Tuesday at Harry J. Clarke Schools, Rollins Drive, beginning at 8 p.m.

John Warners, Smithfield Station, will speak on the growing of small fruits and the pruning and care of fruit trees.

A film, Food, Fads and Facts will be shown.

IN THE REALM OF REALITY

"Why shouldn't truth be stranger than fiction? Fiction after all has to make sense." — Mark Twain.

With the saying "Truth is stranger than fiction" in mind, have you heard about a man who attended the theatre for the first time?

The program read :

Act 1 — The Beaumont home.
Act 2 — One night later.
Act 3 — The courtroom.

After Act one, the man left. He came back one night later.

A true story.

Truth is stranger than fiction, for as Mr. Twain says; "Fiction has to make sense."

Reality does not.

This accounts for bizarre house pets: the black ocelot of an Ontario house-wife, or the 900-pound elephant that sleeps in the living-room of a New Jersey matron. For the amazing kindness of Irish Transport authorities who ordered workers not to move a freight-car until the eggs, a mother thrush laid beneath it, were hatched.

Reality accounts for memorable incidents, tinged with wonder.

Such as the day we drove with an English friend in her small car on a remote road leading across a lonely English moor. We hoped to reach a small village in time for tea.

Suddenly, the car began to sputter.

"We're running out of petrol!" wailed our companion. It was true. The car came to a faltering halt — just a few feet from an English Motor League Telephone booth. Help reached us with a supply of petrol within a quarter of an hour.

The day was memorable for a Belleville girl who arrived unexpectedly, in a large, strange city, where a friend lived and taught. She recalls:

"I called the Board of Education from a telephone booth located on a busy street. It was useless. I was told information regarding a teacher's phone number and address, was never given over the phone.

"Disappointed and nonplussed, I left the booth crossed the street and ran straight into my friend, amongst a group of pedestrians ..."

Whenever life becomes plain-sailing or extremely sensible, a bit on the dull side — what pleasure it is to recall these incidents, found only in the realm of reality ... stranger than fiction!

Women Today

"Women today — Challenge for change" is the theme of a three-day series of films being shown in the Corby Library Gallery March 18-20.

The public is encouraged to attend the free programs, which will begin each evening at 8 p.m.

Included with the films will be commentary by various experts who will deal with some of the current problems that women are facing. Nancy Madam of the National Film Board will speak Tuesday evening; Michael Catlin and Marvin Valensky of the provincial ministry of community and social services will speak Wednesday, and Scott Orfald of Belleville's Family and Children's Services will speak Thursday.

Ann Orfald, psychologist at Belleville General Hospital, and Evelyn Paton, social worker for the Children's Aid Society, will join the guest speakers in panel discussion.

Food Industry Explained To High School Students

BANCROFT—The problems of the producer, wholesaler and retailer in the food industry were explained to the students of North Hastings High School in Bancroft by Marie Paula Green, director of consumer affairs for the Oshawa Wholesale Group, Tuesday.

Mrs. Green, in addition to speaking to secondary school and consumer groups, also provides the consumer information which appears in the advertisements of the IGA stores, and deals with the public relations of the company

Mrs. Green emphasized the importance of approaching grocery shopping in a serious organized manner.

"Shopping for instore specials and comparing prices are important," said Mrs. Green.

She suggested that older citizens who are on fixed incomes are adjusting to the present rapid rise in prices more easily than the young families are.

"The older people remember what it was like to shop and eat during the depression," she said, "I really feel sorry for the young mother who has several children to feed. However, recent information from the Food Prices Review Board indicates that this can be done for about $2,000 a year."

In answer to a question regarding the costs added by the wholesaler to produce and other commodities, Mrs Green said, "Now, a lettuce salad can be eaten on the coldest winter day because of packaging and transportation and each one of these operations costs a little money."

Mrs. Green and Jerry Howarth, owner of the Bancroft IGA agreed that the best, most economical shopping now is being done by the people who are on fixed-incomes.

"Perhaps we could all learn from these people, said Mr. Howarth, "They only have so much money to spend and they seem to do it wisely."

This Pregnant Girl Doesn't Want Baby - But Her Mother Does

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl 20 and nearly crazy with worry. Please don't give me a sermon or tell me where I went wrong. You couldn't say anything to me that I haven't already said to myself.

I am nearly seven months pregnant and look like I'm ready to deliver any minute. The guy who I think got me pregnant is married. He says if I try to pin this on him, he'll go to court and prove that I was promiacuous. Unfortunately, he could do it.

I want to go to a home for unwed mothers, and give the baby up for adoption. My mother wants me to keep the baby. My little sister died 10 years ago, and mom is sure God sent us this child to replace her.

What my mother doesn't know is that the father might be black. She is very prejudiced against black people and she'd probably kill me. But it would get her off my back. Should I tell her?—Trapped

Dear T.: NO. Check into a home as soon as possible. Since you've had several lovers and have no way of knowing for sure who fathered this child, dont make additional trouble for yourself. You have plenty.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother-in-law is a lovely person—don't get me wrong. But she has started something I can't seem to stop and it is creating serious problems.

Our two children, four and six years of age, are the stars in grandma's crown. She adores them. Every time grandma comes to the house (at least twice a week) she brings gifts for the children.

This has become such a habit that they expect everyone who comes to the house to have gifts for them. Several times recently they have asked friends, business associates and other relatives, "What did you bring us?"

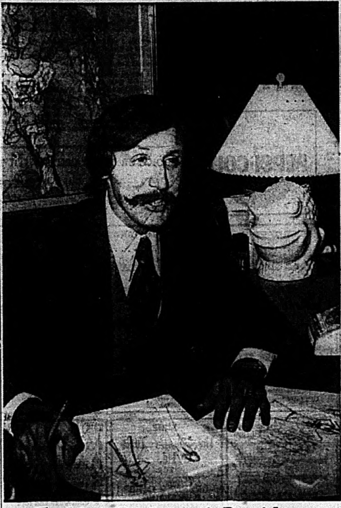
How can I stop my mother-in-law from continuing this practice? I asked her once and she replied, "Please don't deny me this great pleasure." What now?—Sideliner Mom

Dear Mom: Get off the sidelines and into the game where you belong. Tell grandma that her great pleasure is making "gimme pigs" out of your children and you can no longer allow her to bring gifts except for birthdays, Christmas and perhaps when she returns from an out-of-town trip.

And you can do something else. Instruct your children that they are not to ask anyone, "What did you bring me?" And tell them in a way that they'll know you mean business.

Creates New Course

HALIFAX (CP) — To recognize International Women's Year, St. Mary's University has announced a new course to be given this summer, entitled Woman — Anthropology's Other Half. The course will offer a study of female roles in different evolutionary stages of man from primitive and pre-historic societies to modern times.



Fashion Designers' President

Michel Robichaud, Montreal fashion designer, is president of the Fashion Designers Association of Canada. He has his own boutique and designs for two leading manufacturers. (CP Photo)

'A World of Elegance'

MONTREAL (CP) — Michel Robichaud, the personification of the elegant couturier, has created a world of elegance around him in which he lives and works.

The tall, slim French-Canadian, who sports a military moustache, has his own boutique frequented by a discerning clientele and he also designs for two leading manufacturers.

As well, he is president of the Fashion Designers Association of Canada, with 12 founding members.

The Montreal born designer entered the ready-to-wear field in 1967 with a Michel Robichaud line for Auckie Sanft, one of Canada's leading coat and suit firms. He still designs for Sanft. Now he also designs a lingerie line for French Maid. Recently he has done a small group of men's clothes.

His fashion philosophy is summed up in his simple but luxurious garments. His ideal client is at least 40 years old.

"A woman can't be really elegant until that age," he says. "That's when she stops trying to follow the latest styles and is ready to look like herself."

Last year Mr. Robichaud became the first Canadian designer to bring out a line of cosmetics, Brunante. Retail sales for the first year totalled $1 million. A factory is planned in California for American distribution of the line.

Mr. Robichaud, 36, started his career at La Chambre Syndicale de la Couture Parisienne in Paris on a Quebec province scholarship. He became a probationer at the famed Paris fashion home of Nina Ricci. Home in Montreal he opened his own haute-couture salon on the first floor of a handsome greystone house in the older downtown residential district.

His office, with its cafe-au lait velvet walls, is a perfect foil for Mr. Robichaud himself. On a table behind his antique desk stands a white lamp on a huge white ceramic frog base. Lucienne, his wife of 12 years, is the real frog collector and interested Michel in them. They have shelves of frogs in their Montreal apartment.

The apartment is on one of the steep mountain streets, with a view over the city. All the walls are covered with a camel shade of felt, with dark brown floors. For an accent there are ice-blue cushions in the Louis XVI living-room. The bedroom features Canadian furniture.

Now that Michel is so involved in his outside designing commitments and his cosmetics business, Lucienne not only runs the boutique but takes more responsibility in the creative side, even to helping choose fabrics for the Robichaud boutique line.

Four years ago the Robichauds bought an 85-acre farm with its 75-year-old farmhouse near Trois Rivieres, to be near Lucienne's father and mother.

It is difficult to visualize the vest-suited Robichaud of the haute-couture salon as a working farmer but he is. The Robichauds grow all their own vegetables at the farm and also have a herb garden.

There are a number of indoor plants in their Montreal apartment.

"We talk to them every morning," Michel says. "We have six African violet plants and put one pot on the table when we're having dinner. We rotate them so there won't be any hurt feelings."

The other member of the family, Chiffon, is a three-year-old lhasa apso.

Strings Attached

LONDON (CP) — Musical comedy artist Patricia Bredin, 38, has been awarded a divorce from singer Ivor Emmanuel, 49, on grounds of his adultery, but custody of the harp is still to be decided. Miss Bredin promised the judge she would not dispose of the antique harp, Emmanuel's most prized possession, until division of property is settled.

Strict Rules for Teacher's Conduct: Two Petticoats and No Face Powder

In 1923, a teacher named Lottie Jones made a contract with a board of education in Ontario.

Miss Jones agreed to the following terms of employment.:

1. Not to get married.
2. Not to Keep company with men.
3. To be at home between the hours of 8 p.m. and 6 a.m. unless she is in attendance at a school function.
4. Not to loiter downtown in ice-cream parlors.
5. Not to leave town without the permission of the chairman of the board of trustees.
6. Not to smoke cigarettes.
7. Not to drink beer, wine or whisky.
8. Not to ride in a carriage or automobile with any man except her brothers or father.
9. Not to dress in bright colors.
10. Not to dye her hair.
11. To wear at least two petticoats.
12. Not to wear dresses more than two inches above the ankle.
13. To keep the classroom clean; to scrub the classroom floor once a week; to start the fire at 7.00 a.m. so that the room will be warm at 8.00 a.m. when the children arrive; to carry out the ashes at least once daily.
14. No to use face powder, mascara, or paint the lips. — From The Grand River Sachem, Caledonia, Ontario.

Dear Doris: I am sending 25 cents and a stamped, addressed envelope for, "So You Are About To Be Engaged.", hoping it will answer a lot of questions we have floating around in our heads. Our granddaughter who is engaged to be married, is from divorced parents and it presents lot of problems that I'm sure can be overcome with a little understanding.

A couple of questions we have are: (1) Who gives a shower? (2) Who is invited to the shower? We see this thing so overdone, and would like to do it up right.

Some say the bridesmaid gives the shower. Well, in this case the bridesmaid is her sister.

(3) Does a close relative give a shower? (4) And are the ones who are invited to the wedding also invited to a shower?

Wondering.

Dear Wondering: The leaflet will answer most of your questions.

I agree that often showers are overdone, and people are asked to one shower after another for the same person. Hardly fair!

As for the numbered questions: (1) A close friend. (2) A special group of friends like fellow workers in an office, or club in a church or neighborhood friends. Avoid overlapping. (3) No relative should ever give a shower. (4) Not necessarily. Showers are often given for the purpose of sharing festivities with a larger group than possibly get onto the wedding list.

Dear Doris: I have very ugly legs. I have a fleshy lump on the inside of each knee. "Knockknees?" When I'm standing they look awful; when I sit down they disappear, but I can't be sitting down all the time, now can I?

Ugly Legs.

Dear Legs: It is not really a case of knock-kness though, where there is actually a slight curve of the legs.

If the lump is just fat, you could try a massage similar to our "Tummy Massage". Try squeezing and pinching the undesirable fat, which will break down the fat cells. Dieting does the rest.

(Write your problem to Doris, in care of this newspaper.)

Inquest Told Dead Engineer Had Asthmatic Condition

By COLIN BBRUCE
Staff Reporter

NAPANEE — In surprise testimony today, Carol White, daughter of Canadian National Railway's engineer Keith Boyle, told a coroner's inquest — in its final phase — here, that her father could "pass out" during an asthmatic attack.

The coroner's inquest is being held into incidents surrounding the Dec. 20 head-on crash of CN freight and passenger trains near here.

Both train engineers — Mr. Boyle on the eastbound freight, and Ray Mortimore, on the passenger train, both of Belleville, and a female passenger, Joanne Feeney, were killed in the crash.

Today's testimony, as the inquest went into its fourth day, opened with evidence from Mrs. White, of Belleville.

She told the inquest jury her father depended on an asthma spray to control his condition.

"He did not have his spray with him the day of the crash," she said. "I've seen my father pass out from an attack but he'd come around."

In earlier testimony this week the jury was told that Mr. Boyle was twice warned of an approach railroad signal — designating an upcoming stop signal.

The crew member with Mr. Boyle, trainman Donald Gardiner, of Belleville, could not recall if the engineer acknowledged the warning.

Dr. Douglas Alkenbrack of Napanee, the original coroner on the case, testified today "when his (Mr. Boyle's) condition was poor it could interfere with his job".

Dr. Alkenbrack, who cited the engineer's medical history to the inquest, also testified Mr. Boyle had complained of dizziness and high blood pressure.

Testimony at the inquest ended with Dr. Alkenbrack's evidence — the last taken from 33 witnesses. The hearing then adjourned briefly before the five-man jury was to be addressed by Dr. Peter King, Ontario regional coroner, conducting the inquest.

After that, the jury retires to consider its verdict.

Testimony Thursday dealt almost exclusively with the recollections of the two CNR employees, trainman Edward Beatty and conductor Gerry Grose, who were crewing the tail end of the ill-fated freight train.

The freight train, the presence of alcohol in the engine cab and mechanical fitness continued to be the major components of testimony.

By Thursday afternoon, some 31 witnesses had appeared before the coroner's inquest. These included yardmen who had worked on the train prior to its Dec. 20 trip, CNR experts in transportation and mechanics, doctors and crews of each train.

A central issue in the first three days of inquiry was the sighting of warning lights at trackside which direct the train's progress. On the night in question, the freight train failed to respond correctly to a set of lights warning of an upcoming stop and ultimately ran through a red signal two miles past the warning light and slammed into an oncoming passenger train.

Both members of the caboose crew stated their duties included keeping an eye out for trackside signals but that it was often physically impossible.

"We're supposed to observe the signals when possible," said Mr. Grose.

He explained that because the caboose was approximately half a mile behind the engine, signal lights would be obscured by cars ahead of the caboose.

Mr. Beatty, the tail-end brakeman did see the warning lights that particular night as the freight rounded a curve two miles before the crash site and relayed the information to the conductor — complying with regulations.

Though brakse were initially applied by engine crew, both caboose crew testified the brake pressure was released and the train's speed began increasing.

Two Trucks Collide

MADOC — Two drivers escaped serious injury in an estimated $20,000 two-truck accident at 4.25 p.m. Thursday at the Madoc bypass and O'Hara Mill Rd.

Ontario Provincial Police at Madoc said today John H. Martell, 60, of RR 1, Madoc and Robert S. Montgomery, of 21 Front St. in Hawkesbury were both treated and released from Belleville General Hospital. Martell suffered head bruises and a sore shoulder and Montgomery suffered scalp lacerations.

Four Held In Beer Theft

City police have arrested four Belleville youths in connection with the theft of a quantity of beer from the Brewers Retail warehouse on Station St. early Thursday morning.

Charged with break, enter and theft are William Mondeville, 18, of 5 First St., Dennis Harold Loyld, 19, of 48 N. Front St., Apt. 2; Wade Allan Grier, 20, of 20 Fourth St., and Timothy Moon, 17, of 3 Meyers St.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said police recovered 96 pints of beer out of a total of 21 dozen stolen in the incident, discovered at 3:51 a.m. That amount included 10 24-pint cases and one case of 12.

Tachometer Taken

PICTON — Town police are investigating the theft of tachometer, valued at $85, from the car of a Picton man.

Thomas Forbes, 8 Catherine St., parked his car in front of his home at 7 p.m. Thursday. When he returned to the vehicle 90 minutes later, the tachometer — a device for recording revolutions per minute — had been ripped from the dash.

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following call for assistance in a 24-hour period which ended at 8 a.m. today.

Fri., March 14, 4:12 a.m. — Small fire at 40 Bongard Cres., resulting from short in electrical extension plug of car heater, slight damage to exterior wall of dwelling.

Theme Song Selected

Laurie March, Carol Shannon and Kate O'Connor, three students at Nicholson Catholic College, have written a theme song to be used during Education Week April 20 to 27 on radio stations across Ontario.

Paintings Become Teaching Aid

Roger Heidt (seated), a resource technician with the board of education and Marten Lewis, curator of the Glanmore House, were busy Thursday photographing paintings by artist George Ackerman, who painted in this area during the last century. The paintings will be used by the Hastings County Board of Education for educational aides in history courses.

Arson Now Confirmed In Gilbert Hotel Fire

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Arson has been confirmed as the cause of the $150,000 fire that gutted the rear of the Gilbert Hotel in downtown Trenton early Tuesday.

Paul McKerracher, Belleville investigator with the Ontario Fire Marshal's Office said Thursday, "As far as I'm concerned, it was an intentional fire."

He estimated damage to the three-storey hotel at $150,000.

In an interview, he refused to reveal how or where the fire started, saying any premature revelation would interfere with what has now become a joint investigation. Town police were called in once the four-hour blaze was confirmed as a case of arson.

The investigator's statements confirm Trenton Fire Chief Cecil Ellis' suspicion that the Tuesday morning blaze was the work of an arsonist.

He reiterated the chief's assessment of the origin of the fire near the old kitchen in the rear of the hotel. Appliances did not start the blaze however, since the kitchen has not been in use for several years.

He said the fire was set between the ceiling of the first storey and the floor of the second storey. It spread through the ceiling joists at the rear, and then found a vertical vent through the walls.

The building has been insured in the past, but according to a local insurance agent, an investigation must be carried out to determine whether the building was insured at the time of the Tuesday fire.

The hotel has been sold but the new owners do not take possession until May 1, 1975.

Mayors Exchange Gifts As Token of Friendship

Dorothy Karkbeck Thursday came back bearing gifts to Belleville city hall from an exotic 12,000 miles away.

The city real estate broker left Feb. 6 on a three-week visit to her daughter in Tekuiti, New Zealand. Before her departure, Mayor Robin Jeffrey gave her an official presentation — a locally-made pottery setting — to present to Tekuiti borough, a community of 5,200.

A borough is a municipality —the title dating from the ancient British system of local government.

Its mayor, Claude Haines was "delighted with the gesture" when he received Belleville's gift after Mrs. Karkbeck had been introduced by her daughter, journalist Carril Kappes.

"He thought he would like to have a continuing friendship between the two communities," said Mrs. Karkbeck.

Tekuiti reciprocated by sending Belleville a sea-food tray made of local shells along with informative literature on its area.

Car Hits House, Driver Charged

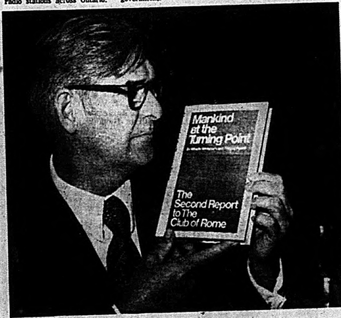
BLOOMFIELD — A Picton area man has been charged with careless driving after his car left County Road 12 near the Mallory crossroad and struck the front of a house causing $7,000 damage.

William Humphrey, 49, RR4, Picton, was charged by police shortly after 9 p.m. Wednesday when his car hit the home of Elson Authouse, RR1, Bloomfield.

The 1968 model car was described by police as a write off.

The front porch of the home was sheared off as a result of the collision.

Both Mr. Humphrey and an occupant of the home, Jack Thompson, were treated at Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital and released.



Mankind at the Turning Point
The Second Report to The Club of Rome

Soon to Be Published

Dr. Robert Uffen, a member of the exclusive Club of Rome, outlined the club's second report called Mankind at the Turning Point which will soon be published in Canada. The second report, unlike the first, is more optimistic and predicts there are solutions to the world's problems.

Tories Accused of Ignoring Eastern Part of Province

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Eastern Ontario has suffered too long from centralization of the province's development in the Toronto area, George Samis, New Democratic Party MPP for Stormont said Thursday night.

The government of Premier William avis has also imposed its patterns of development on the region without local consultation, he told a Quinte riding NDP nominating convention.

"Toronto has gotten more than enough. We've been ignored for too long. It's about time some industries and some government services were put into eastern Ontario — starting at Belleville and going down to Cornwall," he said.

Mr. Samis, the 31-year-old upset winner in last October's Stormont byelection — long a Conservative cabinet-post riding — was the keynote speaker at the convention that chose Bellevillian Carson McLauchlan, 30, as NDP provincial election challenger in Quinte — the constituency now held by Correctional Service Minister Dr. Richard Potter.

Mr. Samis also charged the Ontario government had forced creation of a 10,000-acre industrial at Spencerville near Prescott without local consultation. The project, announced in late January drew protests from heads of local governments in the region — including Belleville, he said.

But the province's attitude had been "that is what you can have — whether you want it or not . . ." he said.

After four years in office Premier Davis must now stand on his record as a politician — not on the image created for him in 1971 when the party and government became identified with the Davis personality, said Mr. Samis.

"Something is happening in the province," predicted Mr. Samis. ". . . People now are not saying are the Tories unbeatable. . . . The question now is who can beat the Tories."

Polls show the Liberals leading in voter popularity.

But the Liberals now are receiving funds from the "Bay St. barons" and other interest groups and individuals who are switching support from the Conservative government, said Mr. Samis.

But "what difference is there between the Tories and the Liberals?" he asked. "If they're finances by the same sources they're going to be controlled by the same sources after the election."

"The NDP is here to stay in Eastern Ontario," predicted Mr. Samis. "We're no longer a fringe party in some ridings."

Veteran, Newcomer

Carson McLauchlan, 30-year-old Bellevillian, selected as New Democratic Party candidate for next provincial election in Quinte riding, is newcomer, to senior-government campaigning. But at a convention, which named him Thursday night, he had backing of election veterans like Dorothy Cole, whose husband Art, ran for Belleville party in 1949 when it was Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

Sanders Accuses NDP Of 'Token' Campaign

Carson McLauchlan has become the first candidate to contest Quinte riding in the next provincial election — after his New Democratic Party nomination convention was handed a stinging rebuke by his political organization's most recent camapigner.

Mr. McLauchlan, 30-year-old Belleville railroad office worker was acclaimed NDP challenger in Quinte — the constituency of Correctional Services Minister Richard Potter.

His acclamation came after Robert Sanders, unsuccessful NDP candidate in Hastings in the 1974 federal election, declined to contest the convention, saying he didn't want to be "crucified twice" by another "token" NDP political campaign in the area.

Instead, he said, he would throw his support to the Liberal party.

His speech brought just as peppery a rebuttal ffrom Ian Reilly, veteran area NDP organizer and the local party's vice-president.

"I think he (Mr. Sanders) has yakked and talked quite a bit," retorted Mr. Reilly, "and I'm glad he came out and confessed to being a Liberal — because we all knew it all the time anyway."

The party, Mr. Reilly claimed, had been dissatisfied with Mr. Sanders' own performance as a federal campaigner last year.

Mr. Reilly said a few days before the federal nomination, Mr. Sanders had threatened to join the Liberals but changed his mind.

"We didn't make that public because we wanted to get as many votes as we possibly could, which stands to reason."

Later, in remarks wrapping-up the convention at Prince of Wales public school, Mr. Reilly light-heartedly compared the events contentious opener with old-time political tactics when parties sent factions to each other's meetings.

Mr. Sanders — a former social worker at Belleville General Hospital, who has charged he was dismissed from his hospital post last October because of his NDP candidacy — later said he is not a member of the Liberal party.

But he said he would join if he were asked or "might join voluntarily".

Mr. McLauchlan made no reference to the former candidate's remarks in his speech accepting his acclamation.

A native Bellevillian, he cut his political teeth on last December's city hall election and finished 14th among 22 council candidates.

Employed by Canadian national Railways, Mr. McLauchlan is married with one daughter.

Both Conservative and Liberal parties in the riding have yet to hold nomination conventions for the electon which has been predicted for some time this year.

Youth Held for Car Theft

A Peterborough youth has been charged with one count of car theft and several counts of attempted car theft following recovery of a stolen Belleville car by Ontario Provincial Police at Bancroft Thursday.

Charged is Richard John Fawcett, 17, of 550 Water St.

The car, owned by Anne Ames of 90 Prince of Wales Dr., was recovered at 4.30 a.m. by provincial police and a suspect apprehended.

The additional counts of attempted car theft were in connection with other incidents on the same street.

The car was stolen sometime Wednesday night.

Newsmakers

Executive Elected

The Bay of Quinte branch of the United Empire Loyalist Association has announced its new executive for 1975-76. They are Mrs. Charles Young, Bath, past president; Gwen M. Smith, Bath, president; Janet A. McGinnis, Kingston, secretary; Susan Hogan, Kingston, treasurer; Dr. H. C. Burleigh, Bath, genealogist; Richard M. Daverne, Bath, first vice-president; Patrick Galt, Bath, second vice-president; William Vankoughnet, Napanee, third vice-president; Bernice Milligan, Bath, fourth vice-president; Drury Denyes, Belleville, fifth vice-president and Marjorie Thompson, membership convenor.

New Club Formed

The Kinsmen Club is making final preparations for the formation of the K-40 Club of Belleville. This is for members and former Kinsmen over the age of 40. Charter night will be held on April 12 at Georges Vanier School.

Jones Gets Post

Janet Jones, a member of the Brighton-Trenton and District Association for the Mentally Retarded, has been named to the advisory committee on schools for the trainable retarded with the Hastings County Board of Education.

Thompson Joins Board

Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit Board members were informed this week of provincial government approval of the appointment of Russell Thompson of RR 7, Belleville to the board. He will serve the remainder of the unexpired portion of the term of office of Kenneth Hicks who resigned Dec. 31.

Inspections Increase

Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit is running slightly ahead in computerized inspections of food premises during the first quarter of this year over last year. Lloya A. Ellenton, chief public health inspector, said the increase is due to a decrease in septic tank inspections.

Conference Requested

Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit Board will request its parent provincial body that it be allowed to sponsor an annual health unit conference in 1978. Ald. Jean Smith suggested this week board members make the request during this year's conference in London.

Hotel Door Damaged

A Belleville youth has been charged with wilful damage in connection with an incident at the Crystal Hotel at 9:05 p.m. Thursday.

Charged is Anthony Donovan, 19, of 23 St. Paul St.

City Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said the charge involved a broken door. Damage was set at $39.

Canadians Told to Live More 'Spartan' Life

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

There is still time for global co-operation to divert disaster and chaos, says Dr. Robert Uffen, vice chairman of Ontario Hydro's board of directors and a member of the Club of Rome.

Speaking to professional engineers Thursday night at the Four Seasons Hotel, Dr. Uffen, a Queen's University professor, outlined the Club of Rome's second and more optimistic report called Mankind at the Turning Point.

The Club of Rome, composed of 100 selected experts from 25 countries, predicted in its first report, called Limits to Growth, that catastrophe would occur on a world - wide basis unless affluent countries changed their extravagant ways.

"The Club of Rome now believes there is still time left, but not much, to change the course of events. Already many of the things the club predicted in its first report have come true," he explained.

He said Canadians will have to adopt a "more Spartan approach to life" in an effort to adjust to a new economic order . . . and develop a new value system not based on material possessions."

The second report, soon to be published in Canada, is more optimistic about the world future if countries co-operate on a world-wide basis to use their money, resources and skill to help developing nations.

"Otherwise, there will be mass starvation, unemployment, and international upheaval," warns Dr. Uffen, who, from 1969 to 1971 served the federal government as its top scientific advisor.

Dr Uffen, 51, said the club rests most of its hopes on the adoption of a new economic order which has some characteristics of Marxism.

The new economic order has been developed by Dutch Nobel Prize winner Dr. Jan Tinbergen, who is also a member of the non-political Club of Rome.

Dr. Uffen said the new order would force industrialized countries like Canada to cut production by one half. These countries would then invest their capital in third world countries to promote a growth rate of five per cent a year.

For or Against? Does Anyone Know?

Ken Car-Braint has been fighting for financial assistance from the city for his Apollo Barbell Club for years. He's been deprived and embarrased by the city for so long that he finally stopped swallowing his pride — of which the gentleman has a great deal — and told the city he would no longer trouble it with the "burden" of his club.

Carr - Braint told the Belleville Minor Sports Association (by letter) at its annual general meeting and election of officers that the club has withdrawn as an affiliated member of the organization.

Carr-Braint has had to supply his own facilities for the club to work out. When the city rejected his request — through the BMSA budget — for heat and hydro expenses for the facility he threw in the towel. It was almost as if the city cajoled him into the final act of despair.

"It seems the city isn't interested in weightlifting," said Carolyn Moynes, treasurer of the BMSA.

That sums the whole thing up. The city just doesn't seem to care about its biggest national and international letter of introduction. The Belleville Apollo Barbell Cub.

If this is the case, why did the city present Ken Carr-Braint with a special plaque at the recent Honors and Awards Banquet? The plaque was to commemorate 27 years of service in representing the city.

Carr-Braint's prodigies have appeared at Commonwealth Games, Olympic Games, Pan-American Games (and the list goes on). Carr-Braint himself has received recognition in Canada and abroad. He is one of the two Canadian weightlifting coaches to be certified as instructors by the International Weightlifting Association.

Carr-Braint is president of the Canadian Weightlifting Association and coach of the Canadian National Weightlifting Team.

The city graciously presents him with a plaque for his representation of our 'Friendly' municipality and at the same time denies him any financial support.

How do you thank a person for his accomplishments when you don't care what he's doing?

SLICES — The Belleville Industrial Softball League has a problem.

It looks as if most of last season's 13 teams will be back for another go but volunteers to serve on the loop's executive are hard to find.

Twice this month, the league has attempted to hold election of officers.

So far, all organizers have heard is a steady stream of excuses from those who are approached to acept a position on the executive.

They'll try again Tuesday night.

But without some show of co-operation, the league is doomed.

This is the weekend the Quinte Fastball League's future is decided. Interested members of the loop will meet Sunday at the Recreation Centre at 1.30 p.m.

Unless representatives of at least six teams signify that they will be part of the operation this year, the loop's future will be anything but rosy.

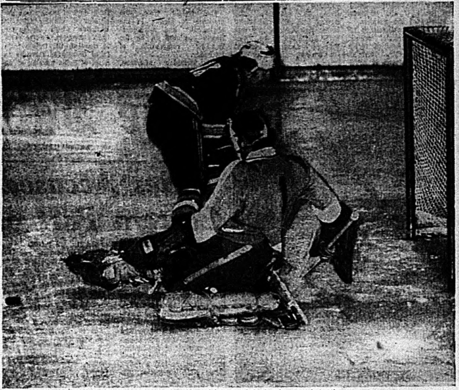
Frankford Junior C Huskies have an exhibition date in Brighton, Sunday.

Huskies will meet a team made up of players who were members of the 1970-71 Trent Valley Sand and Stone Juveniles who made it to the Ontario Minor Hockey Association semi-finals four years ago.

Proceeds from the game will go to Brighton Minor Hockey Association.



Cornerstone Builders goalie, Casey Soden, moved out of his net, cut down the angle and then robbed Belvedere Hotel winger, Jason Morris, with a fantastic pad save in Thursday night's semi-final, Quinte Hockey League game. Morris, had tried to fake Soden and go around him on this third period breakaway, but the goalie held his ground. Cornerstone won the game 4-2 to square the series at two games apiece.

Cornerstone Comes Back to Even Series

Cornerstone Builders came back from a two goal deficit Thursday night to earn a 4-2 win over Belvedere Hotel in Quinte Hockey League action at the Memorial Arena. The win squares the semi-final series at two games apiece.

In the other game, Stinson Construction moved one game up in their series with a 4-3 win over Reid's Dairy.

Belvedere scored just 3:35 after the opening face-off as Bob Reid connected from close range. By the end of the first period it was 2-0 as Dalton Lambert tallied.

Hotelmen Mike Caine, kept Cornerstone off the scoreboard for the first half of the game, but a couple of bad bounces late in the second period gave the Builders the breaks they needed to beat him.

The goals, just 45 seconds apart, were scored by Paul Paddon and Phil Meeks.

Norm Pope put the winner past Caine after a quick pass from a face-off in the Belvedere end. Barry Pyear took the puck after it was dropped and flipped it in front of the net to Pope who cleanly beat Caine. The marker came with 1:30 left in regulation play.

Belvedere pulled their goalie, and with 27 seconds remaining, Meeks fired the puck the length of the ice into the open net to put the game away.

The hustling Reid's Dairy Club couldn't contain Stinson's Rick Rosebush as he scored twice and drew an assist in his teams 4-3 win.

The victory gave the Constructionmen a 2-1-1 record in the series.

Kevin Allen and Joe Clark tallied the other Stinson goals.

Ralph and Carl Boomhower and Moe Hunter replied for Reid's.

The playoffs continue next Thursday with Cornerstone meeting Belvedere at 8:30 p.m. and Reid's playing Stinson at 10 p.m.

Stirling Takes Lead

STIRLING (Special) — Stirling juveniles took a 2-1 lead in their best-of-five DD Ontario Minor Hockey Association playoff series, here, Thursday night with a 7-4 win over Beaverton.

The local club had to keep their eyes wide open as the visitors hacked their way through the contest. In all, Beaverton took 34 minutes in penalties and had one player ejected from the game.

Rob Dejong and Kevin Solmes fired two goals each to lead the home team with singles going to Jeff Farrell, Pat Long and Ken Sharp.

Mike Carnevale tallied a pair for the losers and Boyd Young and Don Campbell got the others.

The fourth game in the series is scheduled for Beaverton on Saturday at 9 p.m. with the fifth game, if necessary, in Stirling at 5 p.m. Sunday.

Ties NHL Mark for Shorthanded Goals

Dionne Cracks Howe's Record

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Marcel Dionne has wiped out Gordie Howe's regular-season Detroit club record of 103 points.

Dionne scored a goal and added an assist to help the Wings to a 5-5 tie against Los Angeles Kings in a National Hockey League game Thursday night.

The Detroit centre now has 40 goals and 65 assists for 105 points, topping the 103 points Howe accumulated in the 1968-69 season.

Howe, now playing what he claims will be his last pro season with the World Hockey Association Houston Aeros, still dominates the Detroit record book with such career records as most games played, 1,687; most goals, 786; most assists, 1,023, and most points, 1,809.

In Thursday's only other NHL game, Philadelphia Flyers blanked Pittsburgh Penguins 6-0.

Danny Grant scored his 43rd and 44th goals of the season and Michel Bergeron added two goals for the Red Wings.

Dionne's goal came while the Wings were killing a penalty and tied Dave Keon's league record for short-handed goals in a season at eight. Keon set the record with Toronto Maple Leafs in 1970-71.

Philadelphia, defending Stanley Cup champions, clinched a playoff berth with the win over Pittsburgh.

Rick MacLeish, getting credit for points in his sixth consecutive game, assisted on the first two goals as the Flyers took a 2-0 first-period lead, first setting up winger Gary Dornhoefer and then aiding Bill Barber on a short-handed score.

Flyers goalie Bernie Parent came off a five-game absence nursing an injured thigh to record his 10th shutout of the season and then said the game was too easy.

"The only thing I know is that from the first period on, I seemed to be at the right place at the right time," Parent said.

"This wasn't a true test. When you face only two shots in the last period, it's hard to tell."

Speaking on the easy winning effort, coach Fred Shero suggested he has not lost confidence in the Philadelphia defence.

"When I talk about defence, it not only means the defencemen," he said. "When we are playing our game, we are good enough to win the Stanley Cup again When everybody is pulling his weight, you can see what happens."

Racers Edge Toros

Whitlock Never Quits

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Indianapolis Racers may be out of playoff contention in the World Hockey Association but forward Bobby Whitlock appears determined to at least salvage for himself a personal scoring record.

Whitlock scored two goals and assisted on two others by Ron Buchanan Thursday night, leading the Racers to a 5-4 victory over Toronto Toros.

That performance pushed Whitlock's season total to 29 goals and 19 assists. The 25-year-old centre and right winger, a native of Charlottetown P.E.I., appears set to surpass his best previous pro season total of 33 goals for Phoenix in 1971-72 when he was named rookie of the year in the Western Hockey League.

The only other WHA game Thursday saw New England Whalers gain a 5-5 tie with Phoenix Roadrunners.

Whitlock scored his two in the first period Thursday but the Toros took a 3-2 lead on goals by Jeff Jacques, Pat Hickey and Gavin Kirk. The Toros then added another score by Lou Nistico in the second period before Dick Proceviat and Buchanan scored to tie the count at 4-4 by the end of the second period.

BOB WHITLOCK

Midway in the final period, Whitlock set up Buchanan's second goal to provide the victory. The winning goal was Buchanan's 20th of the season, making him only the second Racers player to reach that plateau this season.

It was the first victory over the Toros this season for the expansion Racers who trail the East Division.

Wayne Carleton scored his 31st goal of the season with 2:49 remaining in the game to give New England the tie against Phoenix.

Two-goal efforts were turned in by Robbie Ftorek of the Roadrunners and Tom Webster of the Whalers. Ftorek's second goal in the third period gave Phoenix a 5-3 lead before the Whalers rallied on goals by Webster and Carleton.

In off-ice activity, Indianapolis announced Thursday they have sent right winger Ron Walters to Minneapolis Fighting Saints, completing a trade for forward Murray Heatley, acquired last month.

Sims Stats Not As Mean as Seem

TORONTO (CP) — Rudy Sims, Ottawa Rough Riders' outstanding defensive lineman, tops the Canadian Football League's list of badmen during the 1974 season, but charges against the veteran player are misleading.

In statistics compiled by T. H. (Hap) Shouldice, the CFL's director of officiating, Sims was nailed for 14 penalties, but 12 of those misdemeanors were for "harmless" offsides.

Another was for holding and another for unnecessary roughness.

Exil Bibbs of Hamilton Tiger-Cats was penalized 13 times, eight for offsides, while Wayne Smith of Ottawa was flagged 12 times and Jim Hopson of Saskatchewan, Heighton of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Ottawa's Charlie Brandon and two Montreal Alouettes—Peter Dalla Riva and Ed George—11 times each.

Only other players in the double figures were Ralph Galloway and George Wells of Saskatchewan and George Anderson of Toronto Argonauts, with 10 penalties each.

All-Canadian defensive tackles Jim Stillwagon of Toronto and John Helton of Calgary offered proof that aggressive football can be played within the framework of the rules. Each drew only four penalties—Stillwagon four offsides and Helton three offsides and one for clipping.

Montreal Pounds Detroit Hurlers

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — The Montreal Expos racked three Detroit pitchers for 18 hits Thursday, including solo home runs by Jose Morales, Pete Mackanin and Larry Parrish, in defeating the Tigers 6-5 in exhibition baseball.

The homers came in the first three innings off Mickey Lolich, who also gave up a run in the fourth on a single by Bob Reece.

Mike Jorgenson drove in another run while the Expos scored once on an error by shortstop Tom Veryzer.

Art James, Gates Brown, Nate Colbert, Bill Freehan and Veryzer drove in the Tiger runs.

Montreal which got a one-hit, four-inning relief job from Steve Renko, ran its record to 5-1 while Detroit fell to 2-6.

Jabbar's Wrath Overwhelms Hawks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar took out his wrath against Atlanta Hawks this time instead of the officials.

The Milwaukee Bucks centre, who had unhesitatingly blasted the officiating after fouling out in the Bucks' previous National Basketball Association game, lashed out at the Hawks with 41 points Thursday night in a 120-104 rout over Atlanta.

"Things went all right this time," said Abdul-Jabbar in reference to the refereeing. "I have no further comment. Once is enough."

The victory lifted Milwaukee within one-half game of idle Detroit in the fight for the "wild card" playoff berth in the Western Conference

Only half a game also separates Cleveland and New York, the teams battling for the "wild card" playoff spot in the Eastern Conference Cleveland maintained the slim advantage, beating Los Angeles Lakers 104-88, while the Knicks beat Portland Trail Blazers 116-103.

In the other NBA game, Buffalo Braves beat Golden State Warriors 122-103

In the only American Basketball Association game played, New York Nets beat San Antonio 108-94.

Buffalo's Bob McAdoo, the league's leading scorer, broke loose for 39 points, including 27 in the second half, and grabbed 24 rebounds in propelling the Braves to a record 43rd victory of the season

Hungary Wallops Canada

HAMILTON (CP) — Hungary's national water polo team, led by Tamas Farago's four goals, scored its fifth victory against the Canadian national team with a 13-3 score Thursday night.

Wayne Goudrie of Dundas, Ont., got the Canadians' only goal in the first half which saw the Hungarians take a 7-1 lead. Gaetan Turcotte annd Gabor Csepregi of Quebec City provided the other Canadian goals in the final quarter.

Other Hungarian scorers were Gabor Horkai with three, and Istva Szivos, Ferenc Konrad and Istvan Magas with two each.

MINOR LACROSSE REGISTRATION

Begins at the Recreation Centre on Pinnacle St., 6:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. this Friday, March 14 and again Saturday, March 15 — 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Registrations will be accepted on week-days at the Recreation Centre, during normal working hours. The Regisration Fee is being held at $6.00 again this year, despite inflation. This fee includes the mandatory insurance coverage for each player.

Evel Knievel Featured In Penalty Shooting

TORONTO (CP) — Evel Knievel, the daredevil of Snake River Canyon, will never realize his dream of becoming a professional hockey player but he will be the featured performer at a penalty-shot contest March 25 at Maple Leaf Gardens.

The 36-year-old motorcycle stunt driver will get four shots at the Toronto Toros goaltender between the second and third periods of the World Hockey Association game with Vancouver Blazers.

Each goal he scores will be worth $5,000 while the goaltender—Gilles Gratton, Les Binkley or Jim Shaw—will earn $1,000 for each save.

The penalty-shot competition is a regular feature at Toros games. The difference is that this time it will be Knievel and the stakes will be higher. And the event will be filmed for later showing on the Wide World of Sports television program.

Vern Buffey, WHA referee-in-chief, will be the official in charge of the competition and his word will be final in case of a dispute.

Knievel, whose most celebrated stunt was his unsuccessful attempt to jump Snake River Canyon in Idaho on a rocket-powered Sky-Cycle, is a frustrated hockey player.

A native of Butte, Mont., he played college hockey in his home state and, at 18, had tryouts with Seattle Totems and Charlotte Checkers, the latter at a training camp in Chatham, Ont. He failed both times.

But if it is any consolation he has been placed on the Toros' protected list giving the club exclusive rights to Evel as a hockey player in the WHA.

Edgar Brenchley Dead at Age 63

HAMILTON (CP) — Edgar (Chirp) Brenchley, who scored the winning goal for Britain against Canada in 1936 in the most controversial Olympic hockey tournament of all time, died here Thursday. He was 63.

Brenchley, a scout for Washington Capitals of the National Hockey League for the last year, was from Niagara Falls, Ont., where funeral services will be held today.

He played an important role in the only Olympic hockey tournament ever won by Britain, scoring the decisive goal in a surprise 2-1 victory over Canada, represented by Port Arthur Bearcats.

The game was played in a driving snowstorm in Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, and was largely dominated by two players who learned their Jimmy Foster and winger Alex Archer.

Canada at first protested that Foster and Archer had left their Canadian teams without permission and should not have been allowed to play in the Olympics, but subsequently relented.

The loss to Britain had been in a preliminary round and the Canadians expected to get another crack at the winners after disposing of the United States and Czechoslovakia in the final round.

But Olympic officials, heeding a lobbying program promoted by British team manager J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, decided that because Britain had beaten Canada in the preliminaries, it need not play again and the gold medal was awarded to the British team.

After finishing his playing career, Brenchley coached for 15 years in the Eastern and International leagues and scouted for eight years for Pittsburgh Penguins of the NHL.

Saunders Trio Of Victories Jumbles Running

EDMONTON (CP) — Scott Saunders came from Nova Scotia expecting to get some pointers during the Canadian schoolboy curling championship but the young skip from Lunenberg demonstrated Thursday he is already capable of giving them.

Cool and poised far beyond his 15 years, he led his rink to three successive victories in a 14-hour marathon to throw the competition into anoher jumble.

After the ninth round Thursday night, there was a chance four teams could wind up deadlocked before today's concluding round and that three of the four teams would wind up in a playoff.

Saunders, youngest skip in the 12-rink event, capped his brilliant day with a one-sided 11-6 victory over Alberta's Paul Gowsell rink of Calgary for Alberta's first defeat after 25 playoff wins this season.

Previously, Nova Scotia, which played three games in one day because its scheduled first-round match was postponed due to travel delays, defeated Quebec 9-7 in the makeup game in the morning and whipped Northern Ontario 7-5 in the afternoon.

"Sure, we're tired," said Saunders, who said he first hoped to pick up some tips he might use if he ever represented Nova Scotia in the schoolboy final again and planned only to improve on the four-and-six record Nova Scotia turned in last year.

"Everybody came here to win," he said "Somebody has to."

Nova Scotia's success, coupled with Manitoba's two upset losses, left those two rinks and the British Columbia foursome led by Dave Johnston of Prince George one game behind leading Alberta.

Alberta ended the day at 8-1 with the others at 7-2.

Manitoba skip Jim Quinn of Flin Flon curled his poorest game to drop a 13-6 verdict to Dave Velanoff and the erratic Ontario team from London in the afternoon and bowed 6-4 to Saskatchewan when Earl Garratt of Regina drew the pot with his last rock in the evening draw.

The closest squeeze was British Columbia's. Johnston set up the last end beautifully by plugging the front end and stealing one for a 5-4 victory over the Newfoundland crew skipped by Jeff Thomas of St. John's.

In other ninth-round games, Ontario defeated Northern Ontarios Dale Leskinen crew of Red Rock 9-8; Blake Gilks of Fredericton led New Brunswick to an 8-3 victory over Quebec's Barry Ness rink of Ormstown and Bill Jenkins of Charlottetown sparked Prince Edward Island to a 7-5 triumph over the Territories representatives directed by Jim Ramsden of Whitehorse, Y.T.

The eighth round was split to give Nova Scotia and Quebec company while playing the makeup game. Alberta whipped Saskatchewan 10-2 in the morning while British Columbia downed the Territories 7-4.

Quebec was beaten 8-4 by Prince Edward Island in the afternoon round, making the long day—which started at 9 a.m. and ended at 11 p.m. for the two rinks—a lost cause for Ness.

The morning draw today had Manitoba facing Alberta, Nova Scotia against Ontario and British Columbia against Quebec in vital games. Victories by Manitoba, Nova Scotia and B.C. would leave those rinks and Alberta with two losses each and one round to play.

Brooker Wins On Borrowed Skis

MANSONVILLE, Que. (CP) — Skiing on a borrowed pair of skis, Todd Brooker of Waterloo, Ont., won his first major ski race and took a gold medal in the two-run downhill at the Canadian juvenile ski championships Thursday.

Brooker smashed his own downhill skis during training earlier in the week and was given an old pair by his coach Peter McConville, of London, Ont.

Brooker's times were 53.65 and 54.27 seconds as he coasted home in the second run after building up a lead of three seconds in his opening run.

Battling icy conditions on the course caused by freezing rain, the skiers faced a lightning fast track down the 4,228-foot run.

Unfortunately, the third racer down the slope, 15-year-old Cathy Robertson of Thunder Bay Ont., took a bad fall breaking her ankle.

Loni Tiettl, 15 of Jasper, Alta., won a gold medal in the single run women's downhill with a time of 55.67 seconds. Her twin brother Howie was not as lucky in the men's double run downhill. He finished 11 seconds behind the winner.

Women's downhill results

1. Loni Tiettl, Jasper, Alta., 55.67
2. Diana Lehodey, Calgary, 57.42

Nicklaus Double Bogeys

MIAMI (AP) — Jack Nicklaus failed again Thursday to keep a hot streak going.

Nicklaus, who blew the title in the Jackie Gleason golf tournament with a collapse over the last seven holes, was five under par and two strokes clear of the field when he prepared to hit his second shot on the 18th hole Thursday in the first round of the $150,600 Doral Open.

He hit it in the lake to the left of the 18th green and scored a double bogey six.

"I turned something exceptional into a 69," said Nicklaus. "It's disappointing. I had a chance to get a couple of shots in front and I let it get away."

Instead of a couple of shots in front, his 69 put him one behind co-leaders Gary McCord and Wally Armstrong, who matched four-under-par efforts in the whipping winds that swept the 7,028-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club.

Nicklaus was one stroke off the pace and tied with former Doral champion Mike Hill, Jim Dent, Bobby Mitchell and Larry Nelson.

Lee Trevino rallied for a 70, just two shots back and in strong contention, after shooting an erratic 39 on his front side.

Johnny Miller struggled to a 72 in winds he said were "the strongest I've seen since the British Open."

Ben Kern of Toronto had a 71, George Knudson of Toronto a 76 and Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg shot a 79.

Robinson Satisfied Despite Debut Loss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frank Robinson was a loser the first time out, but he was still pleased.

"Gaylord and Jim Perry were very good," Cleveland's rookie baseball manager said of his top two pitchers, who blanked San Francisco Giants through the first six innings of their exhibition baseball game Thursday.

"Gaylord wasnt quite as sharp as usual, but he got the job done," said Robinson. "And Jim just threw the ball in and got them out. He made it look easy."

With the Perry brothers doing their thing, Cleveland jumped out to a 3-0 lead. But the Giants battled back in the late innings and won 6-4 on Ed Goodson's two-out double in the 10th.

Robinson admitted he was surprised by Goodson, a left-handed batter who is learning how to switch-hit this spring.

"I thought he was left-handed, which is why I brought (Dave) LaRoche into the situation when I did," Robinson said.

Goodson batted from the right side and hit LaRoche's first pitch.

In other exhibition games Thursday, Chicago White Sox blanked St. Louis 5-0, Milwaukee defeated Chicago Cubs 5-1, Texas beat Los Angeles 8-4, Boston crushed Pittsburgh 9-2, Montreal nipped Detroit 6-5, Cincinnati edged Minnesota 3-2, New York Yankees beat New York Mets 7-6, Atlanta edged Houston 3-2 in 16 innings, and Kansas City defeated Baltimore 7-1.

BURKITT — Alan and Wendy (nee Watkin) are pleased to announce the birth of their son David Alan Douglas on Thursday, March 13, at Belleville General Hospital. Weight 7 lbs., 10¾ ozs. Special thanks to staff at Belleville General Hospital.

IN MEMORIAM

GREGG — In fond and loving memory of a dear son Gerald Thomas (Jerry) who passed away March 14, 1971.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear,
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach,
Sweet to remember him who once was here,
And who, though absent, is just as dear.
—Sadly missed and never forgotten Mom and Dad.

GREGG — In loving memory of a dear brother and uncle Gerald Thomas (Jerry) who passed away March 14th, 1971.
His life was earnest, his actions kind,
A generous hand and an active mind,
Anxious to please, loath to offend,
A loving brother and faithful friend.
—Always loved and remembered Valerie, Dale and David.

KIMMETT — In loving memory of our only son and brother Ronald Glenco Kimmett who passed away so silently March 14, 1957.
Two little hands are resting,
A loving heart is still,
A son we loved is waiting,
For us just over the hill.
—Lovingly remembered by Mommie, Daddy and sisters Deborah and Darlene.

KNOX — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Doctor R. D. Knox, D.C., who passed away March 14, 1970.
Our family circle has been broken,
A link gone from our chain,
But though we're parted for a while,
We know we'll meet again,
Some day we hope to meet you,
Some day we know not when,
We shall meet in a better land,
Never to part again.
—Ever loved by wife Kay and Family.

KNOX — In loving memory of a dear son, Doctor R. D. Knox, D.C., who passed away March 14th, 1970.
Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tries to break but all in vain,
To have, to love, and then to part,
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days,
When we were all together.
—Ever loved by his Father.

BURKE — In loving memory of a dear sister Arlene Burke who passed away March 13th, 1974.
She has gone to be an angel,
Secure in our Father's care,
And her dear little feet,
Now patter along the beautiful steps up there.
—Ever loved by sister Sharon.

Franz Liszt Orchestra Charms Full House at BCI Auditorium

By EUGENE LANG

In over three decades of concert going the writer has seen all kinds of musical attractions in solo and ensemble presentations, from the excellent to the mediocre, but seldom have I been spellbound from beginning to end of a concert.

Thursday evening at BCI Auditorium, the local Community Concert Association closed the present series by introducing to its members the internationally famous Franz Liszt Chamber Orchestra from Budapest, Hungary. From first note to final cadence this listener was spellbound by the excellence of this 17-member string organization, and this judgment seemed to be unanimous by the large audience in attendance as witnessed by their applause.

Now in its 14th year, the group is making its first safari of North American music centres, with Belleville fortunate in being one of the bus stops.

All are graduates of the famous Franz Liszt Academy of Budapest and could be considered soloists in their own name, such is the proficiency of their playing.

The program chosen was one of careful planning in that it exemplified five marvelous compositions from the present and past two centuries. Bach's Third Brandenburg Concerto in G Major was given a shining rendition. The good-humored theme which is the meat of the opening movement was tossed playfully back and forth from one group of strings to the other, with the ever-incessant motion and close interweaving of the voices creating an exhilarating vigor.

Harpsichordist Zsuzsa Pertis extemporized a brilliant cadenza where Bach was wont to have done himself between this opening section and the zestful allegro which they spiritedly attacked.

Vivaldi's Concerto for Violin and 'Cello in B Flat Major featured Janos Rola, violinist and Maria Frank, 'Cellist in a stellar performance of this work. The two instruments talked back and forth with intimate musical conversation, the higher tones of the fiddle providing a fine balance to the deeply-baritoned 'cello. Delicate spicings were added by the harpsichord, especially in the slow movement and the final section was one of delightful 'echo' dialogues that was so popular in the 18th century, in which both instruments vie with each other to bold centre stage, but neither wins as they always end in a complete draw — so entrancingly played by our duetists.

Mozart's popular Eine Kleine Nachtmusic, the epitome of classical grace and splendor, was handled in reserved fashion with a no-nonsense approach. The opening exposition could have been repeated to give more temporal effect to the short development that follows. A gossamer touch was noted in the melodious Romanza, with a distant flutter reaching hushed excitement in the C Minor episode. Sturdy was the Minuet offset by sinuous violins in the trio. Final Rondo was most enjoyable, yet not overspeeded, with perhaps a little more gusto needed. What a treasure this Serenade is!!

Fellow countryman Leo Weiver was represented by his First Divertimento, a salon type four movement opus built on Hungarian style gypsy music, from the melancholy pleadings of the opening Lassu to the abandoned emotions of the final Friska. This was a decided asset to the program being performed in flairful fashion by the ensemble — here they were at home with their own musical tradition which is steeped in folklore of the past.

Tschaikowsky's Serenade in C Major Op. 48 was the final offering. Vigorous attacks were noted in the opening, while a leisurely yet lilting gait crept into the familiar Waltz. The Elegy was all warmth and fervency with fine-grained pizzicato sustaining the exquisite long lingering theme. The end of this movement reached ehtereal heights in most hushed highness of violins. Finale was elicited in boisterous manner which saw all instrumentalists playing their hearts out to an audience that really took them to their hearts.

This was no doubt one of the finest concerts that we have seen and heard in years, and one tht will be hard to top until they come back again. Frigyes Sandor and his musicians can be summed in one word: "Excellence".

As usual the hand clapping element had their say in between movements to unnerve the musicians and make sure that their spoiling imprint is left with us. Will they ever learn?

Shakespeare Celebrated

STRATFORD - UPON-AVON, England (CP) — On June 27, 1875, an association was formed for the purpose of erecting "a small theatre in which to have occasional performances of Shakespeare's plays."

Trevor Nunn, director of the Royal Shakespeare Theatre, has scheduled a special program to mark the centennial and more elaborate ceremonies will doubtless follow in five years when the theatre itself marks its 100th birthday.

Stratford had no Shakespeare theatre for more than 250 years although a three-day festival of sorts was held in the bard's honor in 1769 by David Garrick in which the renowned actor praised "the lov'd, rever'd, immortal name" on a meadow by the Avon but did not perform a single scene or recite more than half a line of his work.

Several plays were staged in a wooden pavilion in 1864 to mark the tercentary of the poet's birth and 10 years later Charles Edward Flower, a local brewer, donated a two-acre site for the erection of a Shakespeare theatre.

The memorial association chose a design by the London architectural firm of Dodgsun and Unsworth and most of the estimated cost of &2,000 was donated by Flower.

The red-brick building, externally towered, gabled, turreted and fussy, was described by a contemporary critic as a "striped sugar-stick" although Oscar Wilde later called it "a beautiful building, one of the loveliest erected in England for many years." The interior was bare and the stage desperately inadequate.

But the theatre gained popularity. It accommodated 800 and the acoustics were excellent.

Barry Sullivan starred in the two-week run of Much Ado About Nothing which opened the building in 1879 and conducted a three-week program the following year.

Later, provincial managers took responsibility for a fortnight or a single week in a year. In 1883 the library beside the theatre was completed, a building that still exists.

A great event occurred in 1886: the coming of Frank Benson, then 27, an ardent young man who had toured in small parts and taken over a company whose manager had abandoned it.

Few had Benson's gift for inspiring a company; he was a vigorous, experimenting intellectual and a magnificent teacher, though never a businessman.

Benson conducted most of the Stratford Festivals until 1919. Aided by his wife, an indifferent actress but admirable teacher, he staged in Stratford—or saw performed there—every Shakespearian play except Titus Andronicus, which had to wait until 1955.

By 1910 there were festivals in both spring and summer, and in 1913-14 the company toured North America.

During 1917 and 1918, the First World War closed the theatre and in the summer of 1919 Benson yielded the directorship to W. Bridges-Adams, who remained for nearly 16 years, a fevered period that included the burning of the old theatre in 1926, six seasons in a converted cinema and three North American tours.

The new Shakespeare Memorial opened in April 1932, an externally austere building that, after much reconstruction within, is the present theatre.

Ben Iden Payne followed Bridges-Adams in 1935, but though the festivals were profitable they had little artistic impact.

In 1946 Sir Barry Jackson entirely reformed the festivals; spaced productions to ensure adequate rehearsal; introduced such later famous names as the young actor Paul Scofield and the director Peter Brook and generally created a fresh atmosphere.

After Jackson left, Anthony Quayle and his successor Glen Byam Shaw brought a run of such star players as John Gielgud, Michael Redgrave, Ralph Richardson, Laurence Olivier, Vivien Leigh, Edith Evans and Charles Laughton.

In 1960 a young director, Peter Hall, arrived and the company hired a London theatre, the Aldwych. Hall engaged players for the Royal Shakespeare Company on a long-term basis. He proposed to express Shakespeare's dramatic richness so that it was immediate to modern audiences.

That is the aim still, both at Stratford and in London, under Trevor Nunn, who followed Hall in 1968. Now any Royal Shakespeare production is a major event—and they have been as various as the full-scale set of chronicles, The Wars of the Roses, and an unexpected Aldwych revival of Sherlock Holmes.

Productions now occupy most of the year and there are experimental seasons at both centres. Annually, in England more than a million playgoers see the company, while tours have covered much of the world.

Singer Complains Of Sore Throat

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Two years ago I began singing with a band, about four hours at a time. Last winter I began to notice that my throat would seem a little irritated every time I sang.

There was a three-week period of hoarseness, then a sore throat at other times. I had a checkup by a throat specialist. He said everything was all right. I'm 30, a little late to be starting a career, but I'd sure hate to quit singing now when things are going good. Could the smoke-filled bars have anything to do with it?

Also, I play the accordion. I'm 5 feet, 2 inches, and have to hold most of the weight on the left side, at the shoulder and arm. Will I pay later for this in the form of arthritis?—Miss M.

Since your throat specialist found nothing amiss, I suspect yours is more an occupational hazard than a medical problem. Singing puts abnormal pressures on the vocal chords under the best of circumstances, but having to do this while inhaling smoke-and dust-laden air worsens your problem, as you have learned.

I trust that you do not smoke. If you do, try to stop—although for you quitting would amount only to cutting down since you would still have your nightclub environment to contend with.

There are some things you can try when you get home from work. Some singers get relief by inhaling steam. Put boiling water into a clean basin. Then put a towel over your head and breathe in the hot vapors through your mouth as long as they last. For more immediate effect, try a hot gargle. Put a quarter-teaspoon of salt into a large glass of hot water and gargle.

One other thought. Since you are late in starting your career, it is possible that you are not singing properly. The sounds made in singing are directly related to the amount of air breathed in past the vocal cords. The louder the sound desired, the more air required.

However, entertainers who have been at it for a long time learn to conserve their breath, taking in as little air as possible for the maximum effect. If you haven't done so, a visit to a good voice instructor could ease your throat problem, perhaps even make you a better singer.

As far as your other occupational hazard is concerned, I doubt if you will develop arthritis from having to carry your accordion. Your body should adjust to this. Let's hope that your career will take you to better-ventilated establishments soon.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain the difference in symptoms of an urethral stricture and an urethral infection. What methods are used to treat the stricture?—Mrs. J. O. U.

The urethral infection is, as the name implies, an infection within the urinary duct which extends from the bladder to the urinary outlet. Several organisms can be the cause, but the one that is quite common is the gonocccocal germ. Symptoms are a burning sensation when urinating, or a discharge of pus, sometimes blood.

The stricture is a narrowing of the duct, usually the result of scar tissue left by an infection. A pelvic injury can cause a stricture. Usual treatment is dilation of the constricted area with a metal instrument called a "sound." In severe cases, surgery is required to open the duct.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could using a rather vigorous vibrator on a 3½-year-old cause back or leg damage? She enjoys it, and it seems to have helped bring on a bowel movement. She is troubled with constipation—Mrs. E. A. O.

It will not harm her, but I doubt if it has anything to do with her bowel movement. I'd find a more sensible method of amusing her. If she is truly constipated, she should be seen by a doctor, especially at her tender age.

Information; Please

LONDON (CP) — After waiting for up to three years for up-to-date telephone directories, many Britons now have been told there will be a further delay of at least six months. In some areas no books have been published since 1972 and thousands of new subscribers have no directories at all. The post office, which operates the telephone service, blames, in part, the emergency three day work-week last winter and subsequent strikes by printers.

World Energy Tomorrow

MANCHESTER, England (CP) — World Energy Tomorrow is the title of an international conference to be held here Sept. 1-5. It will survey world energy resources, their development and conservation and any social and economic implications. Topics will include more than the obvious sources of energy such as oil, coal, gas and nuclear power. To be considered also will be geothermal, solar, tidal, hydroelectric and biochemical energy.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

South's jump to four spades was a substantial overbid. In fact most players would have passed the raise to two, but South was one of those players who felt that dame fortune would favor him.

Dame fortune did as a starter. A heart lead and heart return would have cooked his goose, but West led the jack of diamonds.

South won; played three rounds of clubs to get rid of one heart and led a trump. West won with the jack and led a heart to East's ace. East led the jack of clubs, which permitted East and West to score their ace and king of trumps separately.

Overbidders should remember one basic rule: They must play exceptionally well. If South had, he would have made his contract.

The play isn't that difficult. After running the three clubs, South should have led dummy's last club and discarded his last heart on Easts good jack of clubs.

This play of a loser on a loser would have made it impossible for the defenders to get in an overruff. In this way South would have lost only two trump tricks instead of three.

Just One Question

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — "I guess I have just one main question of this person," Special District Court Judge R. Jay Cook said as he quizzed each of 12 prospective jurors in a civil case. "Will you obey my instructions," he asked. "Yes, sir," the woman replied and the judge swore in his mother, Veda Cook, along with the others.

Fatalities Show Drop

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Switzerland's traffic deaths declined in 1974 for the second consecutive year. A total of 1,360 road fatalities marked a 10-year low although the number of motor vehicles doubled.

Safety Nets

The lives of men who built the Frontenac bridge spanning the St. Lawrence River were protected by high tenacity nylon safety nets made in Bridport, England. Bridport has been making nets for 1,000 years and now exports to more than 70 countries. (CP Photo)

Bridport Makes Nets for World

BRIDPORT, England (CP) — They will tell you in this coastal town that the amount of twine and cordage produced here in a year would stretch 20 times around the world.

But then Bridport has been making the stuff for 1,000 years.

The town has supplied ropes and sailcloth for ships sailing to every part of the world, some of them laden with Bridport nets for sale to foreign fishermen. Today its nets are used not only for fishing but for all types of sport, camouflage and freight protection.

Centuries ago the sheltered valleys and soft climate of the area encouraged someone, probably a Roman or Phoenician, to grow hemp and flax.

A twine and yarn industry thrived and townsfolk began to make nets and ropes in their cottages. In 1213 King John, his realm threatened by invasion, urgently commanded "to be made at Bridport, night and day, as many ropes for ships both large and small and as many cables as you can."

British expansion overseas in the late 18th century created new markets, particularly the Atlantic seaboard of North America. "Wherever men need nets, there are Bridport's markets" became the town's motto.

When ships changed from sail to steam and ropes were in less demand, the town became a world centre for sports nets. Bridport nets are used on many English Football League grounds and on famous tennis courts including Wimbledon.

At first nets and ropes were hand-made at home but introduction of machinery led to the setting up of larger businesses. Many combined in 1966 into a company that opened a new factory said to be the largest in Europe.

On the second storey are 80 large looms, weighing two tons each capable of tying 100 million knots in nine hours. The nets drop through a slit in the floor by each machine to the ground floor, where they hang for checking.

One-third of the factory's production is exported to more than 70 countries.

Traditional materials still are used but high-strength man-made fibres have become popular. The town offers nets in hemp, braided ulstron, spun or braided nylon, highdensity polythene and polypropylene. The smallest nets, for billiard-table pockets, still are hand-made in cottages.

Nets are produced for gardeners. Stack and silage nets are offered to farmers. Camouflaged hides are made from spun nylon for sportsmen and also for military purposes in sand, snow or vegetation colors.

Bridport makes safety nets for the construction industry. Suspended from scaffolding over busy roads, they allow power cables to be erected without disrupting traffic. A small-mesh net is hung to protect the workmen, a wider mesh to support the cable.

The town's nets have helped to protect 14th-century Exeter Cathedral in the west of England from birds. Black polythene netting was used to seal off embrasures, louvres and ledges and a special net covered the fine tracery on a stained-glass window. The great advantage is that the fine mesh does not obscure architectural features.

Nylon braid cargo nets slung under helicopters can transport even a small vehicle over impassable terrain.

Bridport also continues to live up to its fishing net tradition. In 1972 it produced its largest net, measuring 610 yards long by 160 yards deep. It was made of 9,000 miles of twine with more than 150 million knots. Designed for the Scottish fishing industry, it had a new form of strengthening, the insertion of 10 reinforcing runs of heavier twine into each panel.

Latest development in Bridport is a net that has no knots at all. Knots have the inherent disadvantage of reducing cord strength; the new design, which uses a spliced intersection, preserves the maximum tensile strength of the cords.

The knotless technique uses cords of the same weight as for knotted nets. But less cord is needed and there is an over-all weight saving of almost a third.

USE COLORED BEADS

The Zulus of Africa use a system of colored beads that convey a meaning. For example, a yellow bead means I'm jealous. Brown: wish I were with you.

Gets Seat

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) — The Prince George school board has agreed to ask the Prince George Teachers' Association to name a representative to sit on the board. The association appointee will offer advice and take part in some discussions, but has not been given full "privileges of discussion" because the board felt a non-elected member should not have the powers of other members.

Denison's Road Story of North

By PAT USSHER
he Canadian Press

You are driving a 20-ton truck across a frozen, snow-covered lake in the Northwest Territories when it starts to sink through a hole in the ice. You are driving the same truck over a rough portage in 60-below weather in the Northwest Territories when the axle breaks. What do you do?

If you are John Denison or one of his men you summon help by radiotelephone and try to extricate the truck by using a chain winch which is part of the equipment owned by Denison, as is the truck. Or you send a message to Fort Byers—the nearest place with a garage—wait for replacement parts to be flown in and repair the axle on the spot.

Denison's achievements are described in Denison's Ice Road which tells of the building of a road made of ice and snow running approximately 325 miles through the Northwest Territories from Fort Byers, 70 miles west of Yellowknife, to Port Radium on Great Bear Lake.

The road is used during three months of winter to move supplies and equipment into the Echo Bay silver mine at Port Radium and to haul out ore. It was first built by Denison, a lanky Canadian in his 50s, in 1964 and it has been remade in the succeeding winters.

Denison's Ice Road is written by Edith Iglauer, an American free-lance journalist who accompanied Denison on one January road-making trip. The job is done with huge trucks weighing up to 20 tons and capable of carrying 30 tons of freight, a snowmobile (known as the Bug), a tractor and a camper in which some of the crew eat and sleep.

The road sticks to lakes as much as possible but there are portages between them, one as long as 40 miles. Travel on the lakes is relatively smooth except when ice pressure ridges have to be crossed, but the portages, hewn out of muskeg, around rocks and through trees, are rough.

Temperatures dipping to 60 below, howling winds and Arctic blizzard smake the job a rugged one. Readers will share the anguish and elation felt by Denison, based on good and bad fortunes besetting him, and will understand his comment on finally reaching Port Radium: "This was a real good trip."

Ontario's Ad Costs Attacked

TORONTO (CP) — Advertising and promotional spending by the Ontario government have come under fire in the report of the provincial auditor released Thursday.

Auditor F. N. Scott, in his investigation of government spending for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1974, named six areas where he found provincial spending was irregular or needed some explanation.

The 165-page report also comments on pension plan management in Ontario, including three government-operated funds; licensing of commercial laboratories and spending by Ontario Place and the Ontario Arts Council.

Mr. Scott, in a departure from past investigations, sometimes informed government officials of his objections during the audit and allowed them to take corrective steps.

The auditor found spending by the 28 ministries increased to $7.3 billion—up $821 million over the previous year.

Can Ban Possible

TORONTO (CP) — Environment Minister William Newman said Thursday legislation will be introduced within one year if the soft-drink industry fails to significantly promote the purchase of returnable containers.

After a meeting with industry representatives, Mr. Newman held a news conference to promote returnable bottles and cans.

"The refillable container is the most environmentally desirable package for soft drinks," he said.

"The government intends to effect a substantial increase in the use of refillable containers."

Lake Level To Be Lower

TORONTO (CP) — Environment Canada says the levels of Lakes Erie and Ontario continued their seasonal rise last month while the levels of Lakes Huron and Superior fell slightly.

In a news release Thursday, the department said that August levels of the lakes, with the exception of Superior, will be lower or equal to those of last year.

It said Lake Ontario is about a foot below its level of last year, and by August, is expected to be about 19 inches lower than the previous year.

Microsystems Deal Costly to Government

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will lose all $30 million it granted to Microsystems International Ltd. of Ottawa and most of the $6.7 million it advanced the company in loans, Trade Minister Alastair Gillespie said Thursday.

The company, 88-per-cent owned by Northern Electric Co. Ltd., a Bell Canada subsidiary, announced last week it is going out of business. It reported total losses of 45 million since starting operations in 1969.

Mr. Gillespie said in an interview all grants to the company would be lost because of the company's collapse.

He said the loans were secured by equipment purchased with the money but only "a relatively small part" would be recovered by the sale of the now-depreciated equipment.

Lang Does Not Know Extent Of Grain Shipments Delay

OTTAWA (CP) — Otto Lang, minister responsible for the wheat board, said Thursday there is no way to determine how far Canada is behind on overseas grain deliveries because of West Coast strikes.

But, he told Progressive Conservatives Don Mazankowski and Stanley Korchinski, the wheat board will do "everything that is humanly possible" to ensure export commitments are carried out once the difficulties are resolved.

West Coast ports have been shut down for more than 14 weeks of the last eight months by a series of strikes. Longshoremen and federal blue-collar workers who weigh grain now are on strike.

There have been several complaints in the Commons in recent weeks about the probability the strikes could damage Canada's reputation as an international grain supplier.

Earlier this week in Winnipeg, wheat board chairman G. N. Vogel said Japan, a traditional Canadian customer, was forced to buy five cargoes of wheat from the United States because of the strikes.

The cargoes totalled about 75,000 tons. Japan usually orders, on a monthly basis from Canada, between 125,000 and 135,000 tons and already had ordered enough to cover April or May when the latest strikes began.

Of the 33 vessels now sitting in Vancouver waiting for the strikes to end, five should have left for Japan by by the end of January.

Teacher Said Unreasonable

Nixon Backs Davis On Wage Demands

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario Liberal Leader Robert Nixon has joined the Progressive Conservative government in its criticism of wage demands by striking Ottawa high school teachers.

In an interview outside the legislature Friday, Mr. Nixon described the 40 percent salary increase demand by the teachers as "obviously unreasonable.

In a similar interview, Education Minister Thmas Wells said he has no plans to intervene in the dispute between the teachers and the school board and urged teachers to accept the board's latest offer.

The teachers want the minimum salary increased to $12,490 from the current $7,200 and the maximum raised to $26,230 from $18,535. The board is offering a maximum of $21,200, teachers say.

Talks broke down Tuesday.

About 200 students marched on teachers' federation and school board offices Friday to urge an end to the dispute and two student spokesmen met education director Art Cummins

The students said Mr. Cummins had assured them the demonstration had been successful in convincing superintendents that classes should reopen soon as possible in schools run by volunteer.

Student representatives from 18 Ottawa high schools wrote to the education minister Thursday asking him to intervene in the strike and calls for intervention are expected to increase.

However, Mr. Wells has said he considers the board offer to be a good one and that "I haven't anything else to offer."

He said he hopes to make an announcement next week on education spending ceilings which the government has been

Little Hope Seen In PSAC Strike

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Talks between representatives of the federal government and striking blue-collar workers were to continue this morning in Ottawa, but comments by the mediator and a union official indicated little hope for a settlement.

Meanwhile, as spotty interruptions in federal services continued, the Progessive Conservative party announced it will seek an emergency debate in the Commons to ask the government to legislate an end to selective strikes unless the dispute is settled this weekend.

When talks adjourned, mediator Tom O'Connor said the government and the Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC) were a "long way apart" and he was "not terribly optimistic" about prospects for an agreement.

Mr. O'Connor has been told to report on the discussions to Jacob Finkelman chairman of the Public Service Staff Relations Board, by noon today.

Bill Doherty, PSAC first vice-president, said Friday he could express no optimism about the talks He said the treasury board had not shifted from its position of accepting a conciliation board report proposing a 26-per-cent wage increase over two years.

Mr. Doberty said the union has made several proposals. A union official said the latest proposal was for a 30-per-cent wage increase over 18 months.

Alex Church, chief negotiator for the treasury board, said earlier Friday he is "reasonably optimistic" that a settlement will be reached.

About 18,600 general labor and trades workers began selective strikes across the country Feb. 17.

Environment Accord Coming Says Sauve

VICTORIA (CP) — A federal-provincial agreement will be signed within the next three months outlining national objectives for protection and enhancement of the environment, federal Environment Minister Jeanne Sauve said Friday.

She told a news conference the "umbrella agreement' will set out national objectives and outline areas of co-operation between the federal government and the provinces

Belleville Given Leave To Increase Bus Fares

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The Ontario government has exempted this city's bus system from the provincial freeze on fares.

Marylea Burtt, Belleville transit commission chairman, says city council now will be asked Monday to approve a five-cent increase.

The increase is needed to help offset a deficit that could run as high as $250,000, she said.

The exemption was granted by Transportation and Communications Minister John Rhodes who discussed the situation with the transit official.

The fares freeze was introduced three years ago when the province decided to subsidize 50 per cent of deficits incurred by municipal transit systems.

Mrs. Burtt said Mr. Rhodes told her the subsides during 1974 had increased to $80 million of his ministry s total $900 million budget.

Jail Guard Feels 'Goon' Work a Duty

TORONTO (CP) — Charles Casey, a Toronto jail guard, told a royal commission inquiry Friday that prisoners say he is on a goon squad because he always goes to the trouble spots.

"Since I've been at the jail I've yet to miss an alarm while I was on duty," he said. "I figure it's my duty and I never hold back. I always go."

Mr. Casey, who has worked at the jail two years, was explaining why he was named often as the man who kicked and punched prisoners. Allegations by former guard Gary Dassy that a guard goon squad kept order led to the inquiry.

Mr. Casey said he is stricter than some other guards and "there's no doubt I punched some inmates in the stomach in front of other inmates, but only to protect myself."

He denied allegations that he punched a man in front of a jail sergeant shortly before the prisoner told guards where to find drugs in the jail or punched another prisoner in front of the same sergeant after drugs were found. The sergeant, John Patterson, denied seeing Mr. Casey hit either prisoner.

Earlier in the hearing, Mr. Dassy and three former prisoners alleged that a guard put a man, accused of molesting two young girls, in a corridor and told other prisoners of his crime.

Guard Thomas W. Turnbull said Friday that "I was talking (about this prisoner) with Mr. Casey and we could have been overheard, but as for telling inmates directly what this man was charged with- no way".

Alexander Farouhar, jail deputy superintendent, testified Friday that his senior officers feel "there is no more tension in the institution now than there was before the commission was instituted."

He was replying to testimony Thursday from former guard David Cockburn that the inquiry is creating tensions which may explode into violence.

U. S. Tax Cut Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is one step closer to approving a tax cut that would give almost every family in the United States a rebate of at least $100 in May.

The Senate finance committee Friday approved a $29.2-billion reduction in 1974 and 1975 taxes on the earnings of individuals and businesses

The figure is $13 billion more than President Ford recommended as a stimulus to the sagging economy and $9.3 billion more than the House of Representatives approved.

Under a timetable that almost certainly will force Congress to delay its scheduled Easter recess, the Senate will begin debating the tax cut Tuesday or Wednesday. The measure could be ready for Ford's signature a week later.

Thus, in early May the treasury department would begin mailing the rebate cheques.

South Vietnam Police Shoot French Newsman

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese police shot to death a French correspondent at their headquarters Friday night after he tried to leave a compound where he was sumoned for interrogation about an anti-government dispatch he had written.

National police headquarters today said the reporter, Paul Leandri, 37, apparently died instantly from a single bullet in his head. He was deputy bureau chief of Agence France-Presse (AFP).

The police communique said five shots were fired, two as warning shots in the air an three at the tires of his car.

Police said Leandri tried to drive his car at "high speed out of the gate of the national police headquarters."

Other sources said more than three shots apparently were fired at his auto, and that there were bullet holes in the front, rear and the windows of the vehicle.

His car smashed into the pillar of the main gate of the headquarters and he was slumped over the steering wheel for about 90 minutes until the French consul general arrived, sources said. There was no autopsy immediately.

Search For Patty Goes West

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal grand jury is preparing to reopen its inquiry here into the year-old Patricia Hearst case amid reports that the search for the fugitive newspaper heiress has moved to new areas including Western Canada and the West Coast of the United States.

Reports this week that Miss Hearst and several associates hid out in a Pennsylvania farm house last fall triggered fresh leads for investigators.

But Washington sources said the Pennsylvania hideout was a "cold trail" and the investigation now is focusing on Las Vegas, among other areas.

RCMP at Golden, B.C., stopped a late-model green van bearing Minnesota licence plates Friday after a service station operator at Strathmore, about 20 miles east of Calgary, said he thought he saw Miss Hearst in a vehicle of that description.

"The van did not contain Patty Hearst, and the occupants had nothing to do with her," said an RCMP spokesman.

Police are not certain that the van was the same one seen in Strathmore, so the search continues in Western Canada.

"We've gone into new areas of inquiry, said San Francisco FBI agent Thomas Druken,

The Chicago Tribune says the trail has led the FBI from Las Vegas to Palm Springs, Calif., to the San Francisco area.

U.S Attorney James Browning said the San Francisco grand jury investigating the Hearst case will hear testimony Thursday.

Jury Makes Eleven Recommendations

Alcohol and Lack of Experience Held Rail Mishap Factors

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

NAPANEE — A five-man coroner's jury Friday decided alcohol and inexperience were the probable factors which led to the Dec. 20 head-on collision of two Canadian National Railways trains.

Three people freight train engineer Keith Boyle, passenger train engineer Ray Mortimore and a passenger Joanne Feeney, were killed in the crash.

The jury spent six hours deliberating before finally endorsing eight of nine recommendations made by the Canadian Transport Commission and adding three of their own recommendations. Testimony came from 33 witnesses over four days of inquiry.

The jury — in listing "probable factors" in the crash — stated, "train 318 (freight train driven by Mr. Boyle) proceeded at higher than normal speeds [illegible] to the collision.

"The presence of alcoholic beverages found in the (freight) engine and the presence of alcohol as determined by an autopsy (of Mr. Boyle) is a probable factor in the failure of train 318 to stop at the designated signal."

The jury stated the "inexperience, lack of training and lack of familiarity" with the operating controls of the engine of the head end trainman (Donald Gardiner) left him unable to cope with circumstances just prior to the crash.

Three members of the freight train crew were aware of an upcoming stop signal. Mr. Gardiner — riding with the engineer — drew Mr Boyle's attention to the lights warning of an upcoming stop.

Sufficient brake was not applied until the conductor and tail end brakeman engaged the train's emergency brake.

Because the emergency brake was not applied in time, the freight overshot the red light at Ernestown Station and slammed into an oncoming passenger train.

In his instructions to the jury Ontario regional coroner Dr. Peter King said "It is difficult to see how the crew of the passenger train could have done anything differently."

The jury concurred, recommending:

— A system that would automatically stop a train that was not complying with regulatory signals.

— Increased communication between engine crew and caboose crew, particularly concerning signal sightings.

— A study of training procedures with particular reference to fundamentals of engine operation and use of radio equipment.

— Installation of speedometers in caboose (currently, the conductor who is responsible for the safety of the train, has no speedometer in the caboose to determine speeds).

— A study into the Uniform Code of Operating Rules and the employees' compliance there to.

— Implementation of surveillance techniques to ensure employees reporting for duty are fit.

— Senior employees should ride with employees with less than six months experience when the new employees may not be completely familiar with engine operation.

— Placement of a low profile car ahead of the caboose, thereby affording caboose crew better view of the track and signals ahead.

— All employees should be given more frequent medical checks.

— More communication should be held between train crew and dispatcher during periods of inclement weather.

— The conductor should meet with the train crew prior to boarding the train.

— Regular checks should be made ensuring speed control valves have not been tampered with.

Dr. King warned the jury earlier: "You shall not make any finding of legal responsibility."

He told the jury, "Your recommendations will not automatically become law — but a very vigorous follow-up is done by the coroner's office," concerning conclusions.

Funerals and Obituaries

MRS. ROBERT HARRY KENNEDY
Tweed

Funeral service was conducted Tuesday from McConnell Funeral Home Chapel by Rev. James Stewart for Mrs. Emma Jane Kennedy of 79 McGowan St. in Tweed who died last Saturday at her residence in her 90th year following a two-month illness. Interment was at Thomasburg Cemetery.

Bearers were Burton Sherry, grandsons Douglas, Glenn and Maurice Gunning, Donald and Paul Kennedy.

Daughter of the late Allen Badgley and his wife, the former Ann Jones, Mrs. Kennedy is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Laurison Gunning (Olive) of RR 1, Tweed; a son, Laurison Kennedy of Thomasburg; and a sister, Mrs. William Grier (Ethel) of Trenton.

She was predeceased by her husband, Robert Harry Kennedy; a son, Ross Kennedy; and two brothers, Murney and Wesley Badgley.

Born in Hungerford Township, Mrs. Kennedy lived at her last residence for the past 15 years. She previously resided in Thomasburg.

Educated at Parks School, she was a member of Thomasburg United Church and was married Jan. 12, 1906, in Parks United Church.

Mrs. Kennedy was a member of Crescent Rebecca Lodge for over 60 years. The lodge held a special service for her last Sunday.

ISAAC STEPHENSON

A resident of Belleville for more than 60 years and one-time school trustee, Isaac Stephenson, 91, of 105 Great St. James St., died in Belleville General Hospital Thursday after a lengthy illness.

Born in Millon, in Cumberland, England, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Stephenson, he came to Canada in 1913.

He was a painting and decorating contractor who retired in 1962. Years ago he served on the city's public school board. A member of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, he also was a Sunday school teacher for many years.

Mr. Stephenson was a member of Belleville Masonic Lodge AF and AM 123 and a charter and life member of the Order of the Eastern Star, No. 55.

His wife, the former Marie Clark, died two months ago. He leaves three sons — Thomas, Belleville; Isaac, Toronto; William, Willowdale; a daughter, Jean of Belleville; eight grandchildren and six great grandchildren. He was predeceased by two sons, John Clark and Robert James.

Mr. Stephenson was the last of his family.

Resting at the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Chapel, Service will take place Saturday at 2 p.m., conducted by Rev. J.C. McFarlane with burial in Belleville cemetery.

Council To Debate Parking Fines

Increased penalties for various parking violations in Belleville are up for discussion before city council Monday. Monday.

Council's agenda includes a bylaw drafted after a meeting of police, parking and traffic committees which recommends stiffer fines.

Parking meter violations would remain at $1. But $1 increases with the recommended fines in brackets involve: Overnight parking ($3); prohibited-area parking ($3); double parking ($5).

Among correspondence is a request from the Belleville Family YMCA for exemption from general property taxes for 1975 and a request for a $16,500 grant to contnue service in the community.

This Hound Doesn't Lead Dog's Life

She's in show business, on posters has a big-name backer and the exotic name of Velvet 11.

But those aren't the only reasons she's a public hit.

There's an added simple secret to her appeal: "She just loves people," says Margaret Norman.

And Velvet 11 was proving it Friday in Belleville — on all fours.

Velvet 11 is the basset hound used to promote the casual shoe style known as Hush Puppies.

As such she appears on television commercials, special promotions for her company — Greb's shoe firm — including store openings.

Velvet 11 was in Belleville to highlight the expansion of Leslie's — the long-established Front St. shoe store.

Mrs. Norman and her husband, Dick — sales manager for Greb's safety-shoe division — are Velvet 11's owners and travel from their Kitchener home when such events demand.

The basset emblem has become one of the best-known advertising eye-catchers and is automatically associated with Hush Puppy brand name.

Velvet 11 wasn't in at the beginning — but she's carrying on a tradition.

First was Velvet I, a basset owned by company executive Chuck Greb when the original inspiration hit about using her in television commercials to promote the shoe.

Velvet 11 came later when, as a pup, the advertising format switched and brought both bassetts on the scene.

Then two years ago Velvet 1 attracted even wider attention — through misfortune. She disappeared, presumably stolen. She's never been found.

Velvet 11 stepped into her missing elder's paws and has been in show business ever since.

Promotions call for much travel by the Normans — a fact maybe not totally appreciated by Velvet 11, they indicated Friday. She's prone to car sickness, the couple revealed.

Education Beat

Give More Aid To New Authors

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Belleville trustee Richard Williams struck a familiar chord Monday night when he asked the board of education to promote the writing of Canadian textbooks by local teachers.

Mr. William's concern for Canadian textbooks was rewarded when fellow trustees approved a vote of confidence for the writing of Canadian textbooks and resource material.

However, both he and the board failed to see the significance of the concept. Rather than give the matter a token gesture the board could have set the stage for real change.

The ministry of education in the past five years has been ahead of the game in its effort to promote Canadian published and written textbooks.

In 1973, the Circular 14 textbook guide, approved by the ministry, had no less than 92 per cent of its books written and published by Canadians.

Although there are no statistics, it is generally accepted that a large proportion of these textbooks, especially in math and science, are written by teachers, principals or professors.

And why not? Most teachers have the basic writing skills and some have an instinctive knowledge of how to instruct their subject.

But like most jobs the time required to write a textbook, novel or resource material is seldom found. Most are preoccupied with trying to meet the daily objectives set for them.

The Hastings county Board of Education now budgets $10,000 a year for a research and development fund. The grants are given to teachers to cover costs in preparing resource material.

No doubt this is the first step in an expanding research and development program which someday may produce some important educational writers from Hastings county.

If the board really believes that teachers deserve the support in this area then it should establish a scholarship fund whereby one outstanding teacher could take a year's sabbatical, with full salary, to write a competent and competitive textbook.

In a sense the board would commission one teacher annually to write a textbook. A portion of the royalties could be funnelled back into the board and the entire community could reap some of the benefits.

Already the board's administration has seen the results and benefit from the present research and development fund. An expanded approach to this program could also double the benefits.

Undoubtedly, the program will continue to grow and gain importance for both the teachers and the administrative staff.

Eventually the board will have to support the concept of teachers writing textbooks with more than a token gesture.

Happy Headmaster

Doug Barnett, former Loyalist College English instructor and Grass Roots publisher, smiles as he tests the new pipe presented to him by college staff during a farewell party Friday. Mr. Barnett will assume duties as headmaster of Rosseau School, a private school for boys in the Muskoka area, next month. Photo by Bob Thom, Loyalist College.

Barnett New Head Of Rosseau School

Doug Barnett, publisher of Grass Roots, Loyalist College's literary magazine, will take up duties as headmaster of Rosseau School in mid-April.

Mr. Barnett, an English instructor for the last 4½ years in the college's school of business and communication, was feted during a staff farewell party at the college Friday, his final day at Loyalist.

The learning institution, a private school for boys, is located in the Muskoka area. It is on the site of the former T. Eaton Co. family estate.

In addition to his teaching and Grass Roots functions, Mr. Barnett was in charge of several special projects at the college.

He was the main thrust in the preparation and outline of a proposed course in letter writing when the college was commissioned by the federal department of health and welfare as a consultant.

And last year, he introduced a series of 10 booklets as a guide to writing for Loyalist students which analyzed basic writing faults. He is also a former co-ordinator of special services in the business and communication school.

A father of two teen-age sons, Mr. Barnett, 44, and his wife, Nan, reside at 251 Charles St. in Belleville.

Township Approves Road Resurfacing

AMELIASBURG — Council here aims high when it comes to authorizing improvement for township roads.

Council's plan for resurfacing 32 miles of concession roads could turn out to be the best public relations move induced by the municipality yet, road chairman Stan Goodfellow told Council recently. "It means that in four years time, providing the process is continued, all five main routes running east and west will be permanent and hard surfaced," he said.

The proposed treatment combines grading, followed up by an application of oil and then covered with enough sand to soak up the excess oil. It tends to eliminate dust and potholes as long as there is no break up action of the base, practical use of the process has proven.

The cost of road improvements was set at $55,000 this year moderately higher than the previous calcium, gravel maintenance method However, road chairman Goodfellow the township's former chairman of finance said he approved of the extra expense because he is convinced it would be justified by the results.

"You can easily see the difference for yourself by travelling hard surfaced roads in Fenwood Gardens and part of the second concession where the oil and sand treatment have been employed and thoroughly tested with great success."

A large delegation in attendance at the regular March meeting accepted council's proposal for upgrading road conditions in the township. The group was armed with a petition signed by 108 people residing on the second concession.

Ameliasburg Offers Murray Fire Protection

AMELIASBURG — Within two years Murray Township could have its own fire protection outfit fashioned after Ameliasburg's volunteer department.

Recently, Murray decided to end reliance on the Trenton fire department for protection for its residents.

The $30,000 bill Trenton presented Murray for last year's fire coverage prompted the change in policy Ameliasburg council learned this week.

This week Murray's reeve Harry Lafferty took what is considered the first step toward establishment of an independent department when he consumated an arrangement for Ameliasburg volunteers to cover that part of Murray lying south of the Murray canal.

Farmers Warned to Check Quality of New Fencing

By W. K. BILANSKI
School of Engineering
Ontario Agricultural College
University of Guelph

Most farmers are faced with the problem of putting up a good fence that will be sturdy for many years and yet be reasonably economical. This problem of fencing becomes much more acute when a right-of-way, expropriation, or severed portion of land is involved, especially if this involves replacing a section of fencing as part of the deal.

Those who have had this experience may have found that the fencing provided deteriorated within a few years. The fence sagged, the posts leaned, and in general, it became apparent that what had been accepted as a satisfactory fence proved to be a second-rate job.

This problem is due mainly to the fact that in Canada there is no comprehensive standard for the building of a farm fence. So, when the farmer is told that a satisfactory fence will be put up, he has had no standard to ensure quality work. Furthermore, since these fencing jobs are usually awarded to a low bidder, the tendency is to cut corners (and, consequently, quality) to keep the cost down. If the fence looks good immediately after construction, the farmer generally accepts it, thereby accepting the responsibility of future upkeep, little realizing that the future may be only a year away.

Is there any way that a farmer can protect himself from getting stuck with poor quality fencing? Although there is no official fencing standard in Canada, a very reliable one has been put forth by the American Society of Agricultural Engineers and may be found in the Agricultural Engineers' Yearbook under Specification for Farm Fence Construction. Materials, assemblies, construction and grounding wire fencing are covered on three pages of specifications and diagrams.

It covers such details as the top diameter and length of the posts and of the fenceposts, the depth to which the posts should be set, the dimensions and spacing of the bracing for the anchor posts, minimum weight of coating on zinc-coated wire, etc.

If a farmer is having a fence installed, especially by an outside agency forcing itself upon his property (in which case they usually must restore his fence), the farmer would be well advised to request the ASAE fencing standards and insist in a signed agreement that the fencing will be installed accordingly. If the fence proves to be of poor quality, the farmer will be able to go to court charging that the standards he specified were not met, and he will stand a reasonably good chance of winning his case. However, in all likelihood, the problem will not arise because once the contractors see what the standards are to be they can bid accordingly, adjusting their figures to the quality specified.

Among the other points that must be considered is proper grounding of the fence. Many cattle have been killed when lightning struck one part of a fence that was not properly grounded. At what intervals should a fence be grounded?

The ASAE Standard states that all wires of the fence shall be securely fastened, with galvanized wire ties, to fence grounding electrodes at intervals of not more than 150 feet for normally dry, rocky soil, and not more than 300 feet for normally moist or damp soils. (Fences built with metal posts set in earth are as safe from lightning as it is practical to make them, especially if the electrical continuity is broken.)

Gardening Column

Fertilizer Does Make Difference

By ROSS HAWTHORNE

Last week, we defined landscape gardening for what it really is — the exterior decoration of your home — requiring an application of the same principles of color, form, texture and style that you would apply to interior decoration. And perhaps a good place to start in the development of a specific exterior decorating plan is with your outdoor broadloom. Or, in other words — your lawn. And let's begin by deciding what type of lawn you want to have.

There are a few who consider a lawn should be immaculate, with hardly a blade out of place — a virtual no man's land for delivery men, children and pets.

For others, its a space between the house and the sidewalk that is pretty well left to fend for itself, weed-choked, overgrown, and in short — a mess.

For most of us, it is a well-tended, recreational area that is kept neat, but allows for all sorts of fun and relaxation. And that's the way it should be. And to maintain a lawn of this latter type is a fairly simple process

First of all, provide reasonably suitable soil. Secondly, nourish it adequately. Thirdly, embark on and maintain a regular schedule of watering and finally — if needed — use a herbicide to clean your lawn of an infestation of weeds. And at this time of the year, the most important step you can take in building a better lawn is through feeding, through supplying the nutrition your lawn needs so badly after its long winter hiatus. In other words, it's time to play — the numbers game.

Undoubtedly you've noticed, every fertilizer bag has three numbers, such as 22-7-7, 12-8-4, 7-7-7, and so on. Now each of these numbers has a definite meaning and represents an ingredient that serves a specific purpose.

The first represents nitrogen and serves to stimulate fast greening and growth. The second, phosphorous, a requirement for root growth, flowering and seeding. And the third — potash, for sturdy stem structure.

Most fertilizers sold in the spring have a higher first number on the bag. That's because everyone wants fast greening and growth. Who wouldn't, after five months of dull and drab. But that doesn't mean you use a fertilizer with the same formulation throughout the year — or you'd never stop cutting your lawn.

In mid season, choose a fertilizer with three numbers in balance, in order to provide your lawn with good balanced nutrition.

In fall look to a higher middle number for root and seed stimulation to better carry your lawn through the ravages of winter and the killing action of alternate thaws and freezes.

You'll also find fertilizer with extra added ingredients — such as herbicides, crabgrass killers, insecticides and fungicides. They too, have a place. But at this time of the year, don't worry about them The bag with the higher first number should be your immediate choice.

Questions: All questions are welcome and will be answered. Please designate if free to use your letter in a future column. Simply address your queries to: Ross Hawthorne, The Intelligencer, Belleville.

Council Almost Lost Day Nursery

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

Trenton's motherhood issue has been laid to rest and no longer can one hear paper being shuffled between the town and Hastings County.

Working mothers are triumphant — their children will have a nursery in Trenton in the not distant future.

But without doubt, it was a close call. The Trenton Day Nursery, housed in Grace United Church but run by the county social services department, was facing the termination of its lease March 31 and had no other premises to take its 17 children.

Plans for converting the former North Trenton School for them and a maximum of another 28 children were stalled amid a tangle of letters and misunderstandings between town council, who must lease the new premises, and the county.

It was decided this week that council will indeed acquire the former school. But that decision comes too late for the county department to make other arrangements for the children, who were then faced with unseemly eviction.

And then, where the council had previously wrangled and waffled, the church bailed council out with the indication it would extend the nursery's lease while the former school was readied.

But for the good grace of Grace United, the town would be minus one nursery. A definite hardship would have been created for the families of those children if the nursery closed. And council, deservedly, would not have escaped blameless.

There is a lesson to be learned here. Council, which often complains about the length of time it takes to get approvals and information from Queen's Park, had, in its power, the opportunity to cut through the chain letters at the local level. It didn't and just barely escaped the mothers of Trenton collectively boxing its ears.

Wednesday, a group of dark-clad men huddled in the dark, raindrizzling down their capped heads. Water, carried by the wind, thrown in their faces. A fire truck chugs in the background and pumps water through three hoses to a contraption pointed at the river.

It's a water cannon they're testing. Comments such as "Gee, I wish we had this for the Gilbert Hotel fire" are heard. Of course. They're firefighters.

What they were testing was a form of nozzle that can shoot a stream of water faster, further and higher than their present equipment. As little boys love new toys, they loved it.

But whether they could see themselves as "benignly ridiculous" is another matter. But consider gentlemen, before you ring my phone.

How many men would stand behind a building, in the dark, in the rain, in the cold, and play a stream of water, no matter how magnificent, onto a frozen river, already quite full of water. Hence, my comment.

Pool Support Group Not Really Needed

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Once upon a time there was a community project proposed to Picton and Prince Edward by a group of public-spirited service club members.

A junior Olympic-size swimming pool for county-wide use was suggested by the Picton Kinsmen with Picton fairgrounds as the tentative site.

Prince Edward County councillors were the first to hear a public presentation of plans for the pool and they supported the proposal in principle.

Gradually, plans were made known to other groups such as the Prince Edward Agricultural Society and the suitability of the fairgrounds for location of the pool was challenged.

Now, the pool committee is siteless and predictions were made in town council this month by Picton deputy-reeve Larry Richardson that unless a location is approved soon the project will die.

The pool committee has named three potential sites, all on county-owned property, and has decided to allow county council's property and supply committee to play X marks the spot.

In the meantime a group of "concerned citizens" has inserted an advertisement in the local press, urging all persons in support of the pool to cast a vote for the project.

At this point it does not seem that everyone is about to splash happily ever after in a community pool.

The advertisement appearing recently in the local newspaper possibly contains the key words in the problems confronting the proposal

The ad notes, "We read the opinions of those who are opposed —"

Throughout the weeks of discussion on the pool project one site was opposed but the proposal itself was not rejected.

The "concerned citizens" sponsoring the ad state they are not affiliated with the pool committee. If they were perhaps they could obtain first hand confirmation that the project generally was not put down by the individuals or groups that questioned it.

The Prince Edward Agricultural Society did not object to a pool but they did feel the fairgrounds was not the right location for it.

The residents of Maple Avenue and adjoining streets, who signed a petition to town council protesting location of a pool on the fairgrounds behind the grandstand did not state that they opposed the project

In an interview shortly before the petition was sent, one ratepayer who signed it said, "Sure, I want a pool but not in my back yard."

If Prince Edward is to have a community pool it should be built in a suitable location where the public can enjoy swimming without annoying home owners or interfering with other recreational uses of the area

Any project hits a major snag when supporters split into opposing factions. The "concerned citizens" acting independently from the pool committee are seeking support from the public through reference to those who have "opposed" the project.

There has been little if any open opposition to the project itself. For many, it has been just a question of where should the pool be, what will it cost, who will foot the bills?

A surefire way to create genuine opposition to the project is by lining up Prince Edward's residents as for or against.

Those who may have questioned location or cost are not the villains, they are just concerned ratepayers.

Cool Temperatures Harm Young Pigs

Check the thermometer if your young pigs are well fed but weak-legged. Recent research at the Ontario Agricultural College indicates cool temperatures can lead to weak leg bones and poor feed utilization in pigs not yet weaned.

"Farmers have long been aware that because the newborn pig is unable to regulate its body temperature well it needs supplementary heat," says animal and poultry science professor, R.G. Brown. "However, many do not realize that while healthy, mature pigs thrive at 60 degrees F in southern Ontario, young pigs right up to weaning need temperatures of 75 to 85 degrees F.

Toward Never-never Land

Canada is adrift — politically and morally.

Not that anyone would notice; it is happening nonetheless, this slow slide toward never-never land.

The signs are many: broken homes, young people striking out on their own but with no base, no roots, nothing they can hold onto; permissiveness, alcohol, drugs, attraction to modern cults.

Where the latter are concerned, young people, reaching out for something, but far from any ability to exercise mature judgement, become absorbed in strange mystic pracices.

Linda Epstein, a 19-year-old Toronto girl, joined such a group, the Hare Krishna sect and became a devotee of a program involving chants, wearing of beads and saris, a diet that did not include meat, fish or eggs, and the selling of sect literature in the street.

Miss Epstein did this for two years during which time she said she was deprived of sleep, fed poorly and overworked.

Not that she wanted out. She didn't; but then, as has been pointed out in an article in The Globe and Mail, the girl's father obtained the services of one Ted Patrick, a Negro who reportedly has had success in 'deprogramming" Miss Epstein. This is a process that involves in effect the debunking of the sect and its beliefs, a form of shock treatment aimed at bringing adherents back to reality.

Since the article appeared, The newspaper has had at least a dozen calls from worried parents, including a Belleville woman, who want help in getting their children out of the cult.

What has this to do with our times, with what we perceive to be a lack of direction and moral fibre in the land? Well, there is no question that, taken together, the various elements of the "anything goes" society are fostering a generation of, at best, second-class citizens.

It is true the times are difficult and the process of growing up perhaps more difficult than at any time in history. There are macabre political and psychological traps of the kind to which Patty Hearst fell victim, and there are countless tales of the demoralizing effect of big city life on young people arriving there from small communities.

It is the kind of situation that will take the best remedial effort this community and others can muster, with young people and adults sharing in the goal of a better lifestyle. The Legion's objective, to which reference has been made, is an example of what we mean.

A Question of Identity

External Affair Minister MacEachern had a good point when he referred recently to closer links with other nations as a means of easing Canadians "obsessions" over tiffs with the United States.

The paranoia that affects some Canadians vis-a-vis the United States and what the U.S. does or does not do is akin to the attitudes — again of "some" — toward the Monarchy and its role in government.

We don't help matters by driving around in cars festooned with signs proclaiming: "From Atlantic to Pacific — Canada Is Terrific," or that the driver is "A Proud Canadian."

If ever we reveal our inferiority complex it is when we "flex" our non-muscles in this weakly ostentatious manner.

We are too much into the corn, if not the suds, at times to even call ourselves a nation — in a manner which one could not equate say with the Mexicans who also share a border with the U.S., and need no artificial props to proclaim their nationhood or their pride.

Let's grow up!

Rhodes' Highway Dilemma

Provincial transportation Minister Rhodes is having cold feet over whether to go for another four-lane highway running north of 401.

He feels the public would not accept such a project, what with the impact on agriculture and environment, as well as cost.

Yet the idea has some merit. Highway 401 — someone recently referred to the "damned euphoria of it" — could do with a back-up route to absorb growing volumes of traffic in the years ahead, and hopefully, to reduce the accident rate.

It is significant that already, between Gananoque and Brockville, there are three routes, and from Long Beach into Brockville, a distance of about five miles, it is a four-lane highway.

At one time — during Expo 67 — before 401 from Gananoque to Brockville was completed — there was a rash of accidents on the scenic parkway along the St. Lawrence, a condition which now happily has been eased considerably.

Thus an additional highway, if it is found to be feasible in these inflationary times, might not be a bad idea at all.

Growing Music Tradition

Music in Ontario's smaller cities is enjoying a growing audience.

It is not just through the medium of the music festivals — and that is a strong influence in itself — but through the development of a symphonic tradition.

The Quinte-based Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra, may fall short of full symphony orchestra status (its members are non-professionals) but under Stephen Choma it nevertheless enjoys a high reputation.

Kingston of course has a fine symphony orchestra. There is one in the nickel city of Sudbury and in the news too in recent days was the Peterborough Symphony orchestra.

Music hath charms, as the old expression has it. It is gratifying to see it remain alive and well through the music festival tradition, as witness another of the local Rotary-sponsored events just concluded, as well as through the emergence of symphony orchestras in a growing number of communities.

Liquor Outlet

Just about everyone outside the Women's Christian Temperance Union seems to favor the Belleville Downtown Association's proposal for another Liquor Control Board of Ontario retail outlet.

The store would presumably attract more prospective shoppers to the city's core.

But if another LCBO outlet becomes a reality, it will bring with it the traffic congestion problems that plague most liquor stores, especially around 6 o'clock.

Availability of downtown Belleville parking is getting to be a serious problem, one that the appropriate city authorities will have to weigh carefully when confronted by any new Front Street area development proposals.

Rigid Party Discipline 'Impossible' Says Stanfield

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Ever seen Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield angry?

Reasonable Robert in a rage? you wonder.

Not just the ordinary, human (even for "Cool Bob") cross word in a private spat among understanding political colleagues.

But an open display, out there in the public glare of a newspaper editorial page, in a letter to the editor, 'ful' of passionate fury — impossible, you say?

Not so.

In what has to be a "first" in the usually calm and unruffled publishing scene of the National Capital, Mr. Stanfield has torn strips of THE OTTAWA JOURNAL and its editors.

Now THE JOURNAL has enjoyed — or survived — what could be the most vivid Conservative image of any newspaper in Canada, if, perhaps, for no other reason that it publishes here in the National Capital under the critical eyes and sensitive noses of the politicians in the Senate and House of Commons.

THE JOURNAL recently in an editorial, "A Challenge to Conservatives," complained that "The wobbling and contradictions are discrediting the Official Opposition in Parliament and in the country."

Then the paper asked: "Is there in fact anyone close to Conservative policy-making who has an intellectual grasp of Conservatism?

"It is said of President Dwight Eisenhower that he was so removed from a knowledge of the intellectual wellsprings of conservatism he thought that Edmund Burke had been a winner of the U.S. Open Golf Championship.

"The same comment could be made of Conservatives."

Well!

Thunders back Bob Stanfield:

"A rigid discipline of the operations of a national party in opposition is not possible and it has never been exercised.

"However, I find it a little difficult to see my party caucus charged with wobbling and contradictions by what must be one of the most schizophrenic newspapers in Canada.."

There was more, and all of it just as angry.

So what is getting to "Reasonable Robert," beside THE JOURNAL, that he should give it such an uncharacteristic shafting?

Pressure.

In his own parliamentary caucus — where he claims discipline not only is impossible but never has been exercised — pressure from the Left and the Right.

It was last July, after that surprising and shatteringly disappointing election loss, that he said he would be resigning and be gone at the convenience of the party. The date of departure was left, well, flexible.

So when is convenient?

There is the pressure.

The party's right wing, complaining that the uncertain leadership tenure is making for drift and indecision and a lack of firm policy, wants action soon.

It was hoping for a leadership convention in late Summer or early Fall.

It is worried that delay in convention planning is playing into the the hands of the party's Toronto establishment, the Conservative organization apparatus itself. And it suspects this establishment is plotting to hand-pick a leader from outside the parliamentary caucus — or one of its few left-wing supporters in its Commons ranks — and impose the choice on the convention.

They can't forget what the establishment did to John Diefenbaker, the party's only winner in 40 years.

The left-wing in the parliamentary caucus is concerned that the anti-establishment element is trying to hurry Stanfield out so that one from its own circle of MPs can be chosen before the party organization can block it and enforce a made-in-Toronto decision.

Both wings have good reason to worry.

And both are active in the Commons, so that the voters tuning into the Conservatives in Parliament are hearing policies, proposals, pap and propaganda both from the right and the left.

And both are leaning on Robert Stanfield, one working to ease him out as quickly as possible, the other struggling to keep him around as long as he will stay.

Businessmen's Tax Headache

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

For a Canadian businessman, a transfer to one of his company's foreign branches used to be a real plum.

It wasn't simply because businessmen prefer a change of environment occasionally. There was a distinct tax advantage.

Canadian income tax was payable by Canadian residents only. Canadians working abroad paid no Canadian income tax—and probably no local tax, either, if they were assigned to such countries as the United Kingdom or Eire.

Changed, all changed.

When sweeping tax reforms were implemented in 1972, Canadian businessmen moving abroad found themselves faced with financial headaches in the form of the so-called departure tax and the income tax on capital gains.

Now, a Canadian leaving the country to take up residence abroad is deemed to have disposed of certain assets at fair market value immediately prior to departure.

Not included in this category, however, is Canadian "real property." For example, if the businessman retained ownership of his summer cottage, the tax collector would not deem it to have been sold.

If, on the other hand, the cottage and other Canadian real estate were actually sold, any capital gain would probably be taxable.

A gain on the sale of any individual's "principal residence" is normally exempt from tax.

But timing is important, points out A. B. McKie, tax director of the Bank of Nova Scotia, in an article in The Canadian Banker.

If the sale took place after the owner left Canada, a tax of up to 15 per cent of the sale price would be withheld. It would eventually be refunded. The easier way is to sell the house before departure.

Consider another of the many possibilities: A house was worth $40,000 on Valuation Day (Dec. 31, 1971) and $50,000 at the time the owner was transferred abroad, retaining ownership of the house.

He pays no tax on the deemed disposition of the house, but becomes the non-resident owner of Canadian real estate with a cost base of $50000.

If he subsequently sold it for $58,000 on his return to Canada, he would be liable for tax on a capital gain of $8,600.

Most investments would be deemed to have been sold at fair market value at the date the businessman is transferred abroad, giving rise to an unrealized capital gain or capital loss.

Net capital gains in excess of $5,000 would be subject to income tax in such a case, Mr. McKie notes.

If a net capital loss results from the deemed disposal, the first $1,000 is allowable as a deduction against other income of the year.

The balance of the loss may be offset against the previous year's net taxable capital gains. But if there were none, only $1,000 of the capital loss could be offset against that year's other income.

One other tax penalty: Although there are generous provisions for writing off the cost of moving to a new job in Canada, they don't apply in the case of a move out of Canada.

The Path of Marxism, Militarism, and Revolution

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Looking at the mess in South East Asia, the imminent collapse of an anti-Communist regime in Cambodia, the spread of Communist control over more and more provinces of South Vietnam, the growing internal upheavals in the Philippines, one can understand why Marxists are convinced of the inevitability of their success.

Only where American military power lingers with any strength in the region and that has to be the air bases in Thailand, the offshore naval presence around Taiwan, can Communist military moves in any way be controlled or offset by national governments.

In South Korea there also is a major American military presence, enhanced as in Taiwan, the so called Republic of China, by major U.S. arms supplies.

While one accepts that Communist governments are scarcely representative, the alternative regimes which the United States supports, so-called "client powers," suggest little representation as well.

The closest to it was the beleaguered elected government of Philippine president Marcos, that is until he had to declare martial law over a year ago to control Moslem insurgent activities.

So far these are not the open Communist guerrilla groups represented 20 years ago by the tough-minded Huks, (abbreviation of the native Philippine or Tagalog word for People's Liberation Forces).

But there are rumors the Moslems are well-supplied with weapons because Arab countries are taking from their generous resources of Soviet weapons to help co-religionists in the Philippines.

In too many ways, the politics and the mores of South East Asian societies leave the Westerner perplexed, angered and alienated.

Imagine a country (Cambodia), where the chief-of-state actually believes a huge monster will wiggle through the earth to destroy his enemies, relying on his movements by what the soothsayers tell him.

The same country has had an army chief with the totally unlikely name of Sosthenes Fernandez. I believe the first name is Greek and the second is certainly Spanish.

The acceptance, (until recently), of massive corruption in all walks of public life makes our own whiffs of scandal, dredging contracts, provincial government kickbacks, seem like child's play by comparison.

In Manila, corrupt practice had reached the level of an art form before President Marcos, not free of besmirchment himself, stepped in to curtail it.

Remember the immolations, (that's burning oneself alive), which were carried out by Buddhist monks on the streets of Saigon (South Vietnam) to protest the war?

Nor are Westerners in any way aloof from the inhuman practices of the South East Asian communities with thousands of American Vietnam war veterans, also victims of drugs, once traffickers in the stuff, in fact traffickers in almost anything the needy South Vietnamese could get from vast military stores.

Pilfering became a major business since the black market was also a major business. Everywhere you looked societies were in deep trouble.

The Communist answer to all this, (after applying it through ruthless and often brutal political control, is an admittedly pristine and cleansed society, where the masses stay in line but where it would appear, if North Vietnam's resolution is any indication, also get a break.

Belleville City council is interested in rumors that the proposed new post office building will be constructed at a site other than the present location and have directed the city comptroller to write the local member — seeking information.

The work of the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board will be jeopardized unless council sees fit to grant its request for $1,950 as the city's share of the board's 1955 budget. In asking council to reconsider its decision to cut out the grant — J.J. Trudeau emphasized the importance of planning in the suburban area should the city decide to annex.

Church People Often Set Double Standards

by

Dr. Gordon C. Smyth

Bethany was a small village on the east slope of the Mount of Olives, about two miles from Jerusalem. It was where close friends of the Master lived. Apparently he made the home of Mary, Martha and Lazarus his headquarters during Holy Week.

Each morning he woudl sally forth with his apostles to deliver a message to people in the temple. Late each afternoon he would retire from the holy city to his haven of rest and appreciation in Bethany.

On at least one occasion Jesus used strong language in the temple "Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites for you tithe mint and dill and cummin, and have neglected the weightier matters of the law, justice and mercy and faith" (Matthew 23:23).

Our Lord criticized those religious leaders for the effect that they had upon their followers. He pointed out that their sins were three.

First, there was the difference between what they taught and what they actually did. A teacher is under obligation to practice his own precepts.

Second there was the heartlessness that imposed a heavy burden of "laws" on weak human nature, and yet offered no help in carrying the load. The "people of the land" were supposed to obey 613 commandments. Unable to do so, they were considered to be godless.

Third, there was the matter of displaying one's religion by praying loudly on a street corner, or by wearing extra long blue tassels of holiness on a robe, or by claiming chief seats in the synagogue.

Probably the most frequent criticism made against professing Christians by those outside the Church is that is has "too many hypocrites". Granting that in many cases this is an alibi on the part of the critic to prevent his getting involved, there is enough truth in the statement to cause us concern.

Church people have frequently set double standards. They condemn card playing and dancing on church premises while never questioning these activities at home and a local hall. It is much simpler to mouth the Lord's Prayer by rote, while concentrating on the Sunday roast, than to think about "forgiving those who trespass against us'.

.Church membership is something to be spoken of proudly to the degree that is represents a life that is lived as sincerely and consistently as possible. "Honest to God"

Promise of Watch Made Him Pianist

OTTAWA (CP) — A promise of a gold watch led to amost 52 years of interrupted service for choirmaster Lawrence Virr.

"I missed two Sundays this year because I was ill in the hospital," said the 80-year-old pianist and organist. "Before that I never missed a service."

Born in England, Mr. Virr came to Ottawa in 1922 and since then has led choirs every Sunday.

"My father, who was a great singer, promised me his gold watch if I could learn to accompany him on the piano," he said.

"I learned piano in two years but I didn't get the watch until he died. By that time I didn't want it."

Mr. Virr's professional career also included motion picture theatres in the early 1920s.

"Accompanying silent films nearly drove me nuts because we had to play the music on opening nights without having seen the films."

But his main interest was religious music. He was choirmaster and organist at St. John's Anglican Church for 31 years.

He has held similar posts at St. Barnabas and St. Thomas the Apostle Anglican churches and now, at the age of 80, he has been choirmaster at All Saints Anglican Church for 11 years.

"Music has been good to me and has kept me out of trouble," he said.

"I love old-fashioned church music, especially Bach, traditional hymns and Christmas carols."

Mr. Virr's dedication as choirmaster has led to great loyalty from his choirs. Some of his choir members have been with him for more than 30 years, following him from church to church.

Mr. Virr said it is difficult now to keep a choir together because of declining public interest.

"People don't attend church as regularly as they used to. Younger people especially are more interested in watching football on television or skiing on Sunday than singing in the choir."

As for Mr. Virr, he plans to continue playing the organ and leading his choir despite the creeping pain of arthritis.

Former Priest Buddhist Abbot

SINGAPORE (AP) — Dr. Stephan Palos says he has completed a long journey to "peace and calmness in the heart" by becoming a Buddhist monk.

Dr. Palos, 52, was ordained recently in Singapore as Ven. Dr. Seck Kuang Te by the abbot of Thor Kark See Temple.

Born in Hungary where he studied philosophy and medicine, Dr. Palos became a Roman Catholic priest. He fled to West Germany in the late 1940s.

Dr. Palos later left the priesthood, married and has a daughter, now 24.

In Germany he studied Tibetan literature, philosophy, theology and Chinese languages and medicine. Until recently he managed a Munich clinic because he said, "the healing tradition is connected with Buddhism.

"Buddhism is very practical, realistic and peaceful," said the new monk.

Nutrtion Information: Reliable References

The Ontario government says that books on nutrition are becoming increasingly popular but before buying or borrowing such a book you should take time to check its creditability.

The "Selected List of Reliable and Unreliable Nutrition References" is a wise investment according to the Ontario Food Council, Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

The questions: who checks up on the checkers? Who are the checkers?

The answer: They're the Toronto Nutrition Committee, a volunteer group of dieticians, nutritionists and home economists employed by government hospitals, universities and commercial agencies.

While some people might find that as suspect as some nutrition books, the list and its 1975 supplement could make insteresting reading.

You can get it from Dietetic Services, Ontario Hospital Association, 150 Ferrand Drive, Don Mills, M3C 1H6. The list is $1.50; its supplement an additional $1.

Day by day, a wide variety of mail arrives in our office (whenever the mailmen are working, that is), much of it from organizations and firms with an axe to grind or a product to push.

Recently we received a whole package of material from the Canadian Cotton Council, of Montreal, which is seeking mention of a girl name Kathryn Tenkhoff who is — are you ready? — 1975's Maid of Cotton.

The kit includes pages of type about this young woman from Missouri and four big glossy prints.

What it doesn't include is one word about the reason cotton prices have tripled in the past few years or even a mention of what the Canadian Cotton Council might be doing to encourage the U.S. government to lift its cotton-growing acreage restrictions.

In fact, it includes nothing at all of any interest to consumers.

It's too bad that agencies like the Cotton Council — and they're not alone — haven't reacted more positively to the demand by consumtrs for more information. Instead they continue to spew forth the same kind of public relations puff and fluff that satisfied people when money was freer — and everything cheaper.

After all of that, a pat on the back for a firm doing some intelligent public relations.

Kellogg Salada Canada has produced a new filmstrip for schools called "Don't Be a Breakfast Skipper."

I haven't seen the filmstrip but the company's material seems to indicate it doesn't particularly push corn flakes or any individual cereal. It seems to include the basic story of good nutrition, and its narration guide says its been produced to "help teachers encourage their pupils to eat a proper breakfast each morning. Too often children who have not had a proper breakfast cannot perform at their peak during school hours and often become restless and inattentive."

The film strip should appeal to pupils in grades three to five. It's 36 mm color and lasts 15 to 20 minutes.

The filmstrip is also available to women's groups and clubs.

For information, write Kellogg Salada, 165 University Avenue, Toronto, Ontario, M5H 3B8.

HASTINGS WEST WI

Women of the Hastings West District Women's Institutes spent an enjoyable evening together recently at the Sidney Township Hall.

Nellie Ketcheson, district president, introduced the new Provincial Board Director for Sub-division 5 of the Trent Valley Area, Irene Wellman of Halloway and welcomed everyone present.

A skit was presented by the Bay of Quinte W.I. Solos were sung by Mary Hoard with Lois Sills as accompanist, Anne McInroy with Vera Pyear as accompanist. Pansy Detlor and Peggy Evans gave humorous readings. Community singing followed with Mrs. Milton Grills leading and Evelyn Burkitt at the piano.

Highlight of the evening was a travelogue with slides given by Mrs. Ralph Kerr of Campbellford on her trip to the ACWW Conference in Perth, Australia. She attended as a representative of the National Farmers Union. She had visited New Zealand and Fiji as well and gave a description of these countries and their way of life.

Mrs. Ketcheson asked for suggestions for a new Tweedsmuir History Curator.

Coffee was served and a social hour brought the evening to a close.

TOY

Dolls Get Special Loving Care

Much to her amazement, as Joan Dixon was checking this recently-returned doll, she discovered it was wearing the borrower's pair of white tights! The labelled bag in the photo is one of 60 silk screened free for the library by Ray LaGuff.

Shelves of Toys to Borrow

Susan McConnell arranges dolls on a top shelf of a bookcase that is filled with all kinds of play equipment. The library is in a basement room donated to the project by the Hastings Board of Education.

Take-a-toy Library a Hit With Tots

Imagine being able to supply your pre-school tot with a new toy every time she tires of the ones she has. Believe it or not, it's possible.

You don't have to be spendthrift, and you don't have to worry about spoiling your child by giving her too many possessions.

All you need to do is visit the Toy Lending Library in the basement of Queen Mary School on Isabel Street.

Here you and your child may browse and borrow, choosing from a wide range of dolls, puzzles, game, and all kinds of toys to delight the under-six set.

Membership is limited to children who have not yet started school, although kindergarten pupils are welcome. Toys may be borrowed for two weeks at a time, and may be taken or returned Monday to Friday between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Open now for four weeks, the library is sponsored by a Local Initiatives Project grant until July. After that point, the project organizers hope that another method will be found to support and enlarge the present library.

Originator of the idea, Mary Sutherland, applied for the grant last year. She and the other members of the Volunteers for Preschool Action Committee — Miriam Bishop, Betty Exelby, Mary Jane Maturgeo and Marg Maddocks — continue in a supporting role.

Joan Dixon is bookkeeper and all round seamstress and handy woman. Susan McConnell, a social worker who recently moved to Belleville from Montreal was hired as chief librarian.

Dennis MacCormack, looking for work after graduating from McMaster Univerity, answered a newspaper ad and became the library's educational aid counsellor. It's his job to show children how to use those toys that need explaining. He has also become carpenter, painter and maker of blocks and puzzles, many of them made to Susan's design.

Susan believes that Belleville's Toy Lending Library is only the second one in Canada, the other having been organized in Vancouver.

Although the main function of the library is to increase a child's learning and playing experiences, there are several additional benefits, she points out.

Children must be accompanied by an adult when they come to choose their toys. In this way, parents can become familiar with the various types of educational playthings that the library has on hand.

"We hope that families who can't afford many toys will take advantage of our service," says Susan, "but even kids who have lots of toys are encouraged to come along too."

Although they have little money for buying new toys, the staff have already found out what every parent knows: Good toys cost too much money.

"But we realize that the good quality toys are worth the price if you can pay it," says Susan "They're the ones that have lasted for year, and will stand up to use by lots of children.

"What this library service means is that even if you don't want to pay $15 for a heavy plastic dump truck, your child can borrow it here and enjoy it for a while."

One advantage of the lending system is that if a toy doesn't hold children's interest for long, is badly made or easily broken, parents can discover this without any loss of money.

"Most of the toys that go out come back in good condition," says Mrs. Dixon, "We make sure they're kept as clean as possible and in good repair."

"How children treat toys seems to have a lot to do with the attitude of their parents" comemts Susan.

"Some adults have a responsible attitude that's absorbed by their children. One father, for example, taught his daughter to count the puzzle pieces as soon as she got home, and then to check the number before she brought it back," she says.

"They've the kind of borrowers we like!"

Several of the toys are handmade by the library threesome, and many of the dolls have been dressed in outfits Mrs. Dixon has sewn. Toy manufacturers have also sent several articles, and Susan is hoping that one of the large companies will use the library service as a toy-testing base.

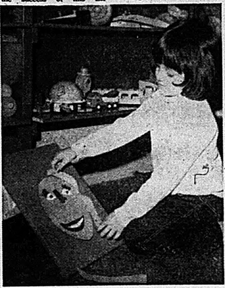
"We asked one company to send us zippers, and they sent us plenty, along with thread. We've sewn into them some of the stuffed toys and added shoelaces to the feet so that now they're learning tools as well"

Generally, stuffed toys are the least borrowed of any of the library's equipment Mrs. Dixon suggests this might be because most teddy bears and cuddly dolls become children favorite companions, and just any old stuffed doll won't do.

The library system is a smoothly-run one, with each toy and each library member (there are now 62 children registered) numbered. A card attached to the toy-carrying bag reminds the borrower when the toy is due back.

"Most children come more often than two weeks," says Susan. "The older children here at the school keep peeking in the door, wanting to come in. Perhaps in the future we can include all children under ten."

Donations are essential to the success of this LIP project. Anyone wishing to give used children's toys, games, books or records can arrange for pick-up by calling 968-7772, or can come to the library Monday to Friday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., as well as Monday and Wednesday evenings.



Happy Face Felt Board

Kelly Dimitropoulos, kindergarten student at Queen Mary Public School, spends a happy few moments in the library, playing with a felt board "puzzle" made by Susan McConnell. There are many handmade toys and games that are educational in nature as well as being fun to use

Perhaps you have wondered what the word means!

Simply put, it is buying a property, increasing its value, mainly the income, through improving the building, then refinancing to the maximum obtainable. The cash reserve will allow you to purchase another property and you will repeat the same procedure. When the maximum value is reached, you will sell (tax free having put the necessary 20% in improvements under the Tax Act) and use the equity to purchase a larger building. The same principle is worked again.

Thus in a fixed number of years you will obtain the necessary income to augment your salary and/or pension.

Children's Morals Destroy Marriage

Dear Ann Landers: Your recent column about how kids can break up their parents' marriage hit very close to home. Please reprint the enclosed column which appeared several years ago. I clipped it when my kids broke up my marriage. Now the same thing is happening to my cousin. Thanks, Ann—St. Louis

Dear St. Louis: Here it is:

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please deal with a problem that seems to be a serious threat to many middle-age marriages these days? I refer to the sexual conduct of their teen-age children.

The daughter of a close friend (age 17) was entertaining her boyfriend in her parents' bedroom several weeks ago, and I do mean entertaining. The folks came home unexpectedly and a scene followed. The mother was furious and made it plain that she was shocked, disappointed, and outraged. The father took the daughter's side. He said sex was normal and natural and so long as the girl didn't get pregnant, he saw nothing wrong with it. The argument didn't end there. They fought about this for two months, and finally the mother filed for divorce.

Another case involved my neighbor. The reverse happened. Their 18-year-old son told his parents he wanted them to allow his 17-yaar-old girlfriend to move into their home. Her parents had thrown her out for reasons he did not care to discuss. He had a nice big bedroom, so why not?

The father said: "Over my dead body."

The mother said, "Yes. We'll take her in. It would be the 'Christian' thing to do."

Three weeks later the father moved out. Last week he filed for a legal separation. There are two younger children involved. I view this as a tragedy.

Isn't life difficult enough these days without kids creating additional heartache for their parents? Please, Ann, tell your readers how this problem should be dealt with. Thank you.—Saddened By It All

Dear Sad: Early in life children learn the technique of "divide and conquer." A teen-ager who could have created such a wedge between his parents is no novice. He's had years of experience.

Parents should stand united, especially on matters of morality and discipline. If they cannot agree, they should seek counselling and permit a third party to decide which way to go and then BOTH parents should go in that direction.

Dear Ann Landers: Who buys the wedding anniversary present? Does the wife buy one for her husband, or does the husband buy one for his wife?

I've heard many conflicting answers. What is yours?—In Doubt In Tiffin, Ohio

Dear Tiff: The answer is not engraved on the Rosetta Stone, dear. It's largely a matter of choice. Usually the husband buys his wife an anniversary gift or sends flowers. Sometimes they exchange gifts. Children, on occasion, give parents an anniversary present—and vice versa. The door is wide open on this one.

Exercise Program Keeps Elderly Active, Interested and Happy

Dear Doris: You asked to hear from any (and to use your expression) young-old-age persons who are part of volunteer service in a Canadian community. Enclosed is an account of the volunteer group to which I belong

A Young-Old-Ager.

THE "GET WITH IT" CLUB 10 a.m. and its "Hi Neighbor!" So commences a happy hour of companionship, exercise and interest items for some of the guests at Pioneer Lodge

Many of the 500 guests are in wheel chairs, or suffering from physical or mental disabilities. Confined they must be much of the time to the four walls of their own small rooms.

Sensing the sore need for some form of daily exercise, Miss Ethel Peart set about it. She herself is confined to a wheel chair. A few friends at Pioneer meet with her each morning.

Miss Peart encourages and talks a while of world, local, and interesting items, so helping all to keep alive an interest in things beyond the four walls of Pioneer. A half hour is given over to exercise when hands, arms, fingers and legs that have been stiff or immobile for years, are lifted, stretched, exercised.

You should hear them all as they "march" (sitting in their chairs) while a 94-year-old drill sergeant of yesteryears calls out "Left, Right —". All this, Miss Peart conducts from her own chair. A volunteer now circles around to help lift this one's inert arm, or to support that one's elbow, or still another to aid in opening and closing fingers, etc. When least expected a twinge of actual movement is felt in a guest's inert limb!

Not 20, but over 80 are now listed as members. The volunteers have proved themselves more than willing through the months. All winter they battled it through snow, ice, and cold.

Then there is the need for visitors to the Pioneer Nursing Unit. There are scores of guests who have no one they know to reach out to them the hand of friendship — to give them a smile, or wave of the hand! How each one of them would love to feel that someone cared enough to adopt them as their "special".

To give of oneself is not easy, and it takes precious time when we are so busy in this work-a-day world, but once experienced, it is satisfying and more than rewarding.

Each one is "My Neighbor". Can I — nay rather, will I (for often I can if I will) give enough of myself to visit even just one of these, my neighbor, regularly?

Christ said, "Inasmuch as you have done it unto me of the least of these my brethren, you have done it unto Me."

(Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, is a graduate of McGill, Toronto and McMaster Universities, and has broad experience in social work. If you would like help with your problems, write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Even Basic Services Lacking in the North

INUVIK, N.W.T. (CP) — There are health problems in the North and their solution is complicated by overlapping government responsibilities and differences between the natives and authorities as to what actually constitutes a problem in sanitation.

Modern technology has brought to small northern communities plastic garbage bags replacing the old honey bucket for disposal of human waste but even these constitute a health hazard. Kids throw darts at them, dogs get into them and they occasionally confront communities with the possibility of a hepatitis epidemic.

"The basic services which are taken for granted in the south are very much needed in this area," said John Bankaland, environmental health officer in the Inuvik zone of the western Arctic.

He said the major problems in his 11 settlements are lack of proper water supply, poor housing and a lack of facilities for sewage and garbage disposal.

He also has found that even in settlements where water is delivered, some residents will refuse to drink it.

"Eskimo people don't like chlorinated water, any taste of chlorine at all," Mr. Lawrence said in an interview at Churchill, Man.

"If they detect chlorine in the water, they tend to go out and cut ice to melt down as drinking water.

"But they leave the ice outside until they want to use it. The dogs and kids play on it and it gets contaminated."

Mr. Lawrence said the houses in his eight Keewatin zone settlements are generally small and overcrowded.

"You may find two or three families living in one house and you'll see kids out at two and three o'clock in the morning because they have to take turns sleeping."

Mr. Lawrence said some communities have bath houses but most have no bathing facilities at all.

"You should try washing a family of 12 out of a 100 gallon jug of water delivered every two weeks or so."

In communities with no regular garbage and sewage pickup, there are dumps "often stretching across acres and acres."

As the weather gets colder, the natural tendency is to dump garbage and sewage bags far too close to housing.

"You see some dumps ending 100 yards from a house," Mr. Lawrence said. "And then you have the dogs getting into the garbage and sewage and spreading it around because it is all they have to eat."

The most hazardous time of the year is spring when the garbage and sewage thaws.

In a warmer climate, the sewage would break down biologically and eventually become harmless "but it doesn't around here because of the cold weather."

"Eskimo Point has gone through an epidemic of hepatitis in the last six months,"

Down-to-earth Diet

Mrs. Trudi Kassing eats dirt. That's right, honest clean dirt. And she loves it. Mrs. Kassing 38, admits a plate of dirt isn't everyone's cup of tea. But she says "I have eaten dirt just about all my life. I don't eat it for any protein or anything — we eat well enough at home. I just like the taste of it. It has become a craving, like smoking. She said "I keep a special patch of dirt and sand at home and eat it when ever I can." (AP Photo)

Singapore's Population Control: Abortions, Sterilization, Penalties

SINGAPORE (AP) — Singapore's five-year experiment with legalized abortion has been declared a success and is being written into law.

Abortions that cost five Singapore dollars—about $2 Canadian—along with voluntary sterilization for men and women that costs even less; penalties for those who have more than two children, and other family-planning measures have equipped this crowded island with one of the world's more elaborate population control plans, officials say.

About 4,000 abortions were procured each year during the trial period, seven per cent of all live births from 1970 to 1972 and 10.3 per cent last year.

"The rate of abortion recorded is within our original estimate," said Health and House Affairs Minister Chan Sian Chin. "It is also well within the rates reported in other countries which have similar liberalized abortion laws."

Singapore has 2.2 million people, more than 50 per cent of whom are under 20 years old. The city-state is 225 square miles in area.

The National Family Planning Program was formally launched in 1966 when the birth rate of 28.3 per 1,000 people meant a natural population growth of 2.3 per cent a year. Officials said the birth rate last year was 22.1 per 1,000, a natural growth rate of 1.36 per cent.

Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew said last year that a hard core of 12 to 15 per cent of the population "just refuse to conform" to official population policies.

He suggested that those wishing to have many children might be denied government medical aid and other subsidies.

"We just have to get through to these people. . . . If this hard core continues to be cussed, we may have to leave them with the problem of having to support their children on their own income, even at the price of making an example of the child who never asked to be born."

Silence Fosters Rape

TORONTO (CP) — A city film company is looking for women with stories to tell about rape attacks.

Metropolitan Toronto police reported 223 rape cases in 1973, an increase of 76 per cent since 1968.

And Diane Silverman, 28, a researcher for Summerhill Productions, said 75 per cent of such cases go unreported.

Her firm is preparing to film a 40 - minute documentary for sale to universities, professional groups and police departments to train officers in how to handle both offender and victim.

She said the number of unreported cases is a contributing factor in the lack of knowledge on the subject.

"Why don't the victims come forward? Is it through shame, guilt,fear or all three? This is what we want to find out. Rape continues to be fostered by silence."

She said those who provide personal information about sex crimes are guaranteed anonymity.

Professional actors will portray rape situations as well as what happens after to both victim and rapist. Psychiatric and sociological experts will provide on-camera opinions.

Ian Stuart, 33, the film director and screen writer, said he expects the $28,000 documentary to shatter a lot of myths and put forward a case for a change in the current law that allows a woman to be grilled about her past life.

Rape will be portrayed primarily as an outlet for aggression rather than sexual fulfilment. Mr. Stuart said he hopes the film will prompt victims not to be ashamed of resisting the rapist's intimidation.

He said research so far indicates the average rapist is Mr. Nice Guy, not a psychopath, and that his perverse sexual attitudes were gained at an early age.

Ontario Slow To Grow: Nixon

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader Robert Nixon painted a grim picture Friday of Ontario trailing behind other provinces in Canada under the administration of Premier William Davis.

In an hour-long response to Tuesday's speech from the throne, Mr. Nixon told the legislature Ontario had slumped in key economic and social areas in the last four years.

He said the throne speech had asserted that the province "will continue to fulfil its accustomed role within the Canadian nation."

"In fact, all the evidence indicates that under this administration Ontario is falling behind," the Liberal leader said.

He said:

—In unemployment, Ontario's rate is increasing two-thirds faster than the national rate.

PROBLEMS MANY

—In exports, Ontario growth had increased 34.1 per cent, only three-fifths of the national rate.

—In consumer prices, increases for residents of Toronto, Ottawa and Thunder Bay had been about 11 per cent faster than those in Halifax and about 12 per cent faster than in Regina.

—In housing prices in Toronto since last October had risen 18 per cent faster than the national average and accommodation costs in Ottawa are going up more than twice as fast as in Vancouver.

—In wages and salaries, the Canadian average was rising more than 12 per cent faster than the provincial average. In 1972, the average wage was $5.70 an hour higher than the national average. This year it was $2.89 an hour higher.

—In agriculture, between 1961 and 1971, farm land was lost at the rate of more than seven farms a day—eight times the national average.

—In education, Ontario's share of post-graduate degree awards had dropped 7.4 per cent and pupil-teacher ratios in schools increased, while other provinces decreased the ratios.

The Liberal leader also said management of the budget in the four years of the Davis administration was further evidence that the government's performance "has been seriously inept" and administration has been "weak and costly."

He said the provincial debt had increased 165 per cent to $3.7 billion under the Davis administration and interest payments on that amount had increased 124 per cent to $682 million in the four years.

Rhodes States Ontario Wants Cable TV Role

TORONTO (CP) — John Rhodes, Ontario minister of transportation and communications, criticized the Canadian Radio-Television Commission (CRTC) Friday for recent policy statements on the cable industry.

The minister told the legislature the CRTC statements issued Feb. 17 would "appropriate to the federal government all areas of cable communications, including those which have previously been considered the responsibility of the provinces."

He charged the regulatory agency is "zealously acting to consolidate" federal jurisdiction regardless of existing provincial claims.

Mr Rhodes said the proposals would severely restrict methods by which new services such as pay TV and two-way educational communications might be developed.

These unilateral, far-reaching and "restrictive, rigid policies" had been issued by the agency "which apparently considers itself beyond the need for political control," he said.

SAYS HE'S ANGRY

Mr. Rhodes said he was surprised, disappointed and angered by the CRTC actions which he said reach far beyond anything suggested in the federal government's 1973 position paper on communications policy.

He said he has written Gerard Pelletier, federal minister of communications, asking for a federal-provincial meeting on the matter.

Whelan Declares Opposition Telling 'Damn Lies' in Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan accused Opposition MPs of telling "damn lies" Friday after they ganged up on him during debate on his proposed farm incomes stabilization bill.

Conservatives Don Mazankowski (Vegreville) and Stanley Korchinski (Mackenzie) said they support the bill in general, but had some specific criticisms which raised Mr. Whelan's ire.

"There are too many damn politicians holed up in this place who forget there's an outside world," said the gruff agriculture minister as he answered criticism that he spends more time talking with farmers than he does in his Ottawa office.

"I am a strong believer in not making people come to the government. There is nothing wrong with taking the government to the people."

The stabilization bill, later given Commons approval in principle and sent to the agriculture committee for detailed study, would enable the government to assist farmers hit by poor crops or depressed markets.

It affects cattle, hogs, sheep, oats, industrial milk and cream, corn and soybeans, and barley produced outside the wheat board's so-called designated area of the Prairies and northeastern British Columbia.

These grains in the designated area would be covered by the western grains stabilization bill still before the House.

Mr. Mazankowski said the bill attempts to provide a reasonable support price for nearly all agricultural commodities, but it should not keep the government from working out effective marketing programs.

"Producers want to produce," he said. "They do not want to be hound by quotas and regulations."

He said last year's Canadian Egg Marketing Agency scandal, in which the producer-run organization was forced to destroy 2.5 million dozen eggs that went bad because a market could not be found for them, shows the need for marketing programs.

Mr Korchinski attacked Mr. Whelan on a more personal basis, saying the minister reminded him of a puffball—a hollow fungus.

"It is big, but if you step on it there is a cloud of dust and then nothing. With this minister you might expect something solid but when you step on it there is nothing there."

He said a change in the government's attitude is needed. "The minister represents restricted production" because of his support for product marketing boards, such as the egg agency.

Mr Whelan, closing second-reading debate on his bill, was obviously annoyed at the time, although he said afterward in an interview that he will be happy to listen to opposition amendments in committee.

"I don't forsee any difficulties, but maybe I'm optimistic. There may be some requests for changes, but if they're reasonable requests, I'll accept them."

In the Commons, however, he was angry, tearing into the opposition statements as ill-informed and unjustified.

"One person told me he sees me more often in Saskatchewan than the honorable member for Mackenzie. He thinks he is holed up here in Ottawa or some place."

Another criticism that annoyed the agriculture minister was that he seems more interested in farmers than anyone else.

"That is a damn lie," he retorted. "I will say that at mass on Sunday if anybody wants me to; it is a damn lie because if I can make a strong agricultural industry all society benefits, not just agriculture."

And, as far as the egg marketing agency waste was concerned, it was just one per cent of total annual production, which he said is a far better record than found in other industrial sectors.

"You could go into the automobile industry in my area," he said, adding that there has been no calls for a public inquiry into automobile industry over-production.

"The highest-priced computers you can buy, the highest-priced market analysis you can hire, the highest-priced marketing forecasters you can get—all made horrendous mistakes in the automobile industry," he added.

Reform Urged For Legal Aid

TORONTO (CP) — John Bowlby, chairman of the legal-aid committee of the Law Society of Upper Canada, said Friday that implementation of a provincial study-group report on legal aid in Ontario would have "a very real effect on our profession."

"With the proliferation of . . . (legal-aid) clinics, I can see the salaried lawyer taking on more and more work," Mr. Bowlby told a news conference. "Before the government embarks on change, I think it is going to have to look at this with a great deal of care."

Mr. Bowlby was commenting on a 164-page report by a seven-member study group formed in January, 1974, that says the province's legal-aid plan should come under the control of a non-profit corporation named Legal Aid Ontario.

The report, tabled in the legislature Friday, said it was impossible to see how the development of legal aid could be "sufficiently single-minded" if it were left under the administration of the law society.

The report also said neighborhood legal-aid clinics should be established in any area on the recommendation of the corporations's board of directors.

Mr. Justice John Osler, chairman of the study group, said in the report that the group, assigned to look into Ontario's six-year-old legal-aid plan for citizens who cannot afford their own lawyers also will report on legal-aid services for native Indians in the near future.

Attorney-General John Clement said in a statement that his ministry will study the document and report back to the legislature "in due course" with a statement on the ministry's response.

"We regard this report as a most important document," Mr. Clement said. "Individual liberty is jeopardized if a full participation in the legal process depends on financial circumstances."

Stuart Thom, treasurer of the law society responsible for administration of the legal-aid plan, said at the news conference that the corporate structure recommended by the report appears to be "top heavy and expensive."

Five-cent Fare Increase Will Ease Transit Losses

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The provincial government has approved a five-cent increase in Belleville bus fares.

Marylea Burtt, Belleville Transit Commission chairman, returned Friday from Toronto after discussion with Transportation and Communications Minister John Rhodes on reasons for exempting the deficit-ridden city bus system from the government's fare freeze.

The request — due to fears of even higher losses this year — goes to city council Monday for its approval.

Council also will be asked to endorse an exact-fare system to replace tickets.

Under the proposed new fare structure, adults would pay 30 cents, senior citizen 20 cents while — children's fares would remain unchanged at 10 cents.

Mr. Rhodes' letter makes the exemption effective immediately. But Mrs. Burtt said the new fare system — if approved by council would go into operation April 1.

Persons with tickets already purchased will pay the additional five cents and for a one-month grace period bus drivers will make change. After that, exact fares must be paid.

Mrs. Burtt could not immediately calculate how much the increase would add to BTC income.

Last year the 1.2 million passengers who used the service's five routes paid $235,700 in fares.

While the audit of 1974 operations is still awaited, the deficit for the year is estimated at $170,000.

This year, Mrs. Burtt said she fears the loss could run as high as $250,000.

Aside from normal inflationary factors the BTC now is engaged in contract negotiations with its 29 drivers, mechanics and other employees, who are members of the Brotherhood of Railroad and General Workers.

Conciliation talks between both sides broke down this week.

Mrs. Burtt said Friday the BTC's latest contract offer would cost $63,000 if accepted.

The province froze fares on municipal transit systems three years ago and began paying 50 per cent of all deficits.

An indication the ministry was reconsidering its freeze order came earlier this year when Mr. Rhodes expressed concern over the mounting costs of the subsidies.

Mrs. Burtt said Mr. Rhodes told her it is estimated 1974 payments to offset municipal transportation would account for $80 million of his ministry's total $900 million budget

Toronto has already been exempted from the freeze said Mrs. Burtt.

"I don't agree with raising fares all the time. But we haven't had an increase since 1971."

Compared to inflation since then the five-cent raise "doesn't seem too much," she said.

Increased income reduces subsidies paid by taxes.

With subsidies "directly it comes out of everybody's pocket. We all pay taxes one way or another," said the BTC chairman.

The BTC has had an annual deficit since it was organized in 1960.

District at a Glance

Wage Boost Approved

MARMORA — Municipal employees of Marmora and Lake Townships have been given a 25-cent an hour increase in their wages. The increase was recommended by Deputy-Reeve John Wilkes and is retroactive to Jan. 1. In addition, road superintendent Albert Leonard will receive a 50-cent an hour raise.

Canine Control Increased

AMELIASBURG — See Ameliasburg First is a slogan that has council's wholehearted endorsement — dogs excepted.

Council faced with the usual number of complaints about dogs on the prowl this time of year ordered the dogcatcher to beef up his patrols forthwith.

In the event your pet strays and is caught and placed in the pound you will be compelled to pay $15 for its release.

New Truck Delivered

MARMORA — Marmora and Lake Townships have taken delivery of a new truck which will soon be in operation on county roads.

The truck is equipped with a snowplow and dump box. Cost of the truck is not available.

Roads Get Facelift

MARMORA — A large chunk of a $60,000 road bylaw budget for maintenace purposes was utilized recently by Marmora and Lake Townships Council. About $10,000 has been allocated for construction start of the Ridgeway—O'Connor Road. Other amounts for construction work are $4,000 for Booster Park Road, $3,000 for Glen-Alan Road and $2,000 apiece for both Shanick and Sisters Lake roads.

King Guest Speaker

PICTON — Picton mayor Donald King will address the Picton Rotary Club next week during its regular luncheon meeting at Prince Edward Yacht Club.

Up to Date

Garry Reid, Belleville's bylaw enforcement officer, is shown here with the city's cartage ordinance. The city recently updated the 1885 regulations, which brought chuckles at recent Ontario Traffic Conference.

Parkdale Fun Fair Draws Large Crowd

Literally hundreds of people turned out to exceed the expectations of organizers at the Fun Fair at Parkdale Elementary School Friday.

The annual event which was instituted several years ago is a money-making scheme in the form of a bazaar sponsored by the Parkdale Home and School Association to raise funds for student activities.

No official count was available but an indication of the turnout was recorded at Faith Bochner's popcorn booth where over 600 bags were sold.

Faith was one of 10 Quinte Secondary School students who donated their time for the event. In addition, about 50 percent and the entire Parkdale staff chipped in.

Convenor Shirley Matthies said preparations began last October. "It's a lot of hard work, but it's really worthwhile — a real community effort,'' she commented. "Bernard (principal) Wright and his staff have been fantastic."

Parkdale's Pied Piper

Four-year-old Tracy Matthews, daughter of Bonnie and Donnie Matthews of RR 3, Belleville, shyly takes a trinket from the pocket of Mr. Pockets during the Fun Fair at Parkdale Elementary School Friday. "I feel like the pied piper," said school principal Bernard Wright, who portrayed the pocketed bearer of gifts, as dozens of children followed him through the halls.

Fluoride Program Reaching Over 3,000 County Students

Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit plans to have treated over 3,000 elementary school students through its fluoride treatment program by July, says Dr. Dennis A. Warrick, director of dental services.

He told health unit board members this week the program has received over 90 per cent acceptance from parents and there have been few negative comments about it.

The program began March 10 and due to the heavy demand for the service, eligibility has been restricted to Grades 1 and 2 students, says Dr. Warrick in a memorandum to school principals.

"Rural schools and schools in non-fluoridated municipalities have been given priority in scheduling of clinics in the school setting," he says. "Clinic days have been alloted on the basis of Grade 1, 2 enrolments."

He points out if some schools have not been included, there are appointment-based clinics with wider eligibility at health unit offices in Picton, Bancroft and Belleville.

"Plans are under way to considerably expand this service in 1975-76 with the addition of increased dental staff," notes Dr. Warrick.

MacDonald Gets $20,000 Job

From The Ottawa Bureau
Of the Intelligencer

OTTAWA — Stewart MacDonald, of RR 1, Frankford, has ben given a $20,000 contract for sluge removal and disposal from Canadian Forces Base Trenton, Supply and Services Canada announced recently.

Antique Cartage Bylaw No Longer on Books

Belleville's ordinance on cartage — the bylaw licensing transport of goods in the city — is no laughing matter after all.

Ancient regulations that set the Ontario Traffic Conference chuckling two weeks ago, don't apply these days.

The 1885 by-law, which caused such convention hilarity two weeks ago in Toronto, hasn't been in existence for years.

In fact, its replacement, passed in 1965 was updated as recently as November 1973, points out Gary Reid, city bylaw enforcement officer.

The original bylaw was quoted to the Toronto conference in the presence of Ald. arthur Keegan, representing Belleville at the Ontario-wide convention. Although accepting the humor of the situation, the alderman confessed to enough embarrassment to raise the issue in city council two weeks ago.

Ald. Keegan was philosophic about the sequel.

"I'm glad the police commission has seen fit over the years to bring the bylaw up to date.

He had a parting suggestion: City archives might well be scrutinized to ensure that no outdated bylaws are still on the books.

Board Ups Staff

More teaching power has been added to the area's three schools for the trainable retarded.

The Hastings county Board of Education at its last regular meeting approved the hiring of the equivalent of 1½ teachers for the three schools.

E.T.(Ted) Morris, superintendent of special education, said the additional teaching staff is not a major change but one designed to increase the number of paraprofessionals.

Mr. Morris said a paraprofessional is the equivalent of one-half teacher. The formula system is used to obtain fair personnel distribution across the schools.

Bridgewater's staff will remain the same the William R. Kirk school will have one additional teacher added to its staff. L'Amable school will have an additional paraprofessional.

Cash Taken

City police are investigating the theft of $725, mostly in small bills, from Spiro's Restaurant on Bridge St. E. sometime early today.

The robberty was discovered at 4:15 a.m. by Constable Gary Gingras on his rounds of checking doors when he found the restaurant's rear door forced.

Two other locked doors leading from a storage room into a kitchen and finally into the dining area were also broken open, said a police spokesman.

The bills were removed from a cupboard in the dining room. The spokesman said police believe the unknown theif is "someone familiar with the operation of the store" since nothing else was disturbed and even the cash register was untouched.

The thief also left behind $10 which had been placed in a binder in the same cupboard with the stolen money, added the spokesman.

Police had no suspects as of press time today, he said.

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following calls for assistance in a 24-hour period which ended at 8 a.m. today.

Friday March 14, 1:35 p.m. — smoke investigation at Whalen's Music Store on Front St. due to ballast in overhead lights, no damage.

Friday March 14, 1:51 p.m. — fire in garbage bin at Moira-Schuster Fuels, 17 Pinnacle St. S., no property damange.

Saturday, March 15, 12:14 a.m.— false alarm via telephone caller on St. Paul St.

Able Archer

Donnie Johnson, 10, a Grade 5 student at Parkdale Elementary School, tries for a bullseye at the archery game during the school's Fun Fair Friday. Donnie was one of several hundred Belleville area residents who attended the annual event.

City Streets and Recreation Major Concern

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

If you had control of the budget of the city of Belleville, what would be the first thing you'd spend money on? That was the question posed to a number of people around the four corners — Bridge and Front streets — Friday. An interesting similarity in replies emerged that is reflected in these answers.

Those interviewed, as well as those pictured, had two major priorities: the city's streets and its recreational facilities.

BEN RITCHIE

A retired Northern Electric employee, this 63-year-old city taxpayer would like to see less spending. "We're spending too much now. We should be looking for ways to save, not spend. Have taxes ever gone down?"

DON GARIEPY

Proprietor of a Bridge Street smoke shop, Mr. Gariepy, 62, had a quick and emphatic answer to the question. "Repairing or rebuilding city streets would be my first priority."

BOB BENN

The 35-year-old blocker at AOCO, about to embark on a golfing holiday at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, didn't hesitate in his answer. "Ball parks, more and better recreational facilities. I won't mention golf right now, for obvious reasons."

NICK MARKANASTASAKIS

"We have a lot of streets to fix up in this city," said this 34-year-old Front St. barber. "There are kids walking on dangerous streets and there are some intersections that should have traffic lights, North Front and Donald, for example."

LOUIS MELOCHE

A Grade 9 student at Nicholson Catholic College, Louis Meloche, 15, would like to see the city discourage the building of apartment buildings. "We have more than enough now. Also, I'd clean up the river for fishing, renovate the arena and buy new equipment for the Bobcats."

JANE RIDDELL

A florist clerk, Jane Riddell, 23, puts her first priority on recreational facilities. "We need more of them ... and that means for all sports and interests. We need more leaders in the recreation field to inspire and guide young people in the city."

Where Has Everyone's Spare Time Gone To?

This looks like it's going to be a decisive week for softball. Sunday, the fate of the Quinte Fastball League will be decided and Tuesday it will be the Industrial Softball League's turn.

Both leagues have been trying to get off the ground for some time now and organizers are being frustrated by the response — or rather, lack of response—to their requests for help.

This is supposed to be the age of leisure time. Experts tell us people today have more time on their hands than ever before. So why, when it comes to doing a little volunteer work, does everyone say they don't have enough time. There are some, of course, who just don't have time and there are those who are already tied up with volunteer work and just can't fit anything else into their schedules, but what about the majority of people. Surely everyone isn't donating their spare time. If, so, why can't these two leagues put together an executive.

Doing something for nothing seems to turn people off. It isn't often people get into these positions — where they do something and receive no material gain — it isn't as bad as you might think. Sometimes the benefits far exceed the investments.

Last season there were almost 300 men involved in softball through the Quinte Fastball or the Industrial Softball Leagues. Of that number, there must be seven or eight who have the time to sit on an executive this summer.

Look at it this way. It's an opportunity to give back to the respective leagues some of the enjoyment you've gotten out of them.

If you're interested, the QFL meeting is scheduled for 1:30 Sunday at the Recreation Centre. The Industrial Softball League is meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club on the corner of Queen and Dufferin Streets.

Now you know the time so why not make a little.

SLICES — The QFL meeting is also a deadline meeting for entries to the league. If you're going to get a team in you'd better be there with some money. Entries will be accepted up to 1:30.

The Belleville Badminton Club is one organization which doesn't have to worry about getting people on the band wagon.

Thursday, the club elected its executive for the 1975-76 season. In all, there are seven people on the new directorate.

Bob Berry took over duties as president and Sue Smith is the new vice. Diana Faulds is the secretary and Don Desaulniers is the new treasurer. The directors of the club are Brian Holtzhauer, Len Cleaver and Donna Hawkes.

The new executive begins its duties on May 1.

Former Belleville Defenceman

Larry Mavety Gives Toronto A Little Blue Line Beef

By JIM WATERS
Toronto Bureau
of The Intelligencer

TORONTO — Hockey fans here can be excused if they didn't pay much attention to Larry Mavety's arrival in town

It so happened that Mavety, whose off-season home is Belleville, was acquired from Chicago Cougars by Toronto Toros the same week that their talks with Mark Napier were being deliberated daily by local managers and the media.

There may have been a connection between the two transactions, however. When Napier signed a Toros contract for a reported $780,000 over three years, a couple of selections in future amateur drafts were suddenly expendable.

The high-scoring Junior became a high-priced investment for John F. Bassett and his reasonably silent partners who operate Toros A few days later, by offering second round picks in the next two amateur auctions conducted by the World Hockey Association, they landed an economical proven asset — Mavety.

Was Mavety pleased to leave Cougars, losers on the ice and at the box office, and join his fourth WHA team? "Definitely", he reported after a team scrimmage at Maple Leaf Gardens.

"I had an idea about it a while ago, but then it was getting pretty close to the trading deadline and nothing happened. A couple of times before, I'd talked to management about it since I didn't know what they were going to do next year", he said.

The 32-year-old defenceman conferred with a principal owner named Patrick James Stapleton who is more commonly known as "Whitey" and paired with Mavety on the blueline most of this season and last.

"Whitey asked me if I wanted to come here", Mavety pointed out, "Actually, Toronto was the only place I wanted to go since it was close to home."

Mavety contends the problems which former owners Jordan and Walter Kaiser endured in Chicago can be solved if, and only if, a first-rate arena is found in Chicago or elsewhere. Unfortunately, the rival Black Hawks are not about to rent them ice-time at Chicago Stadium.

One alternative — an 18,000-seat rink proposed on the city's outskirts — went down the pipe with the Kaisers who sold out to Stapleton, Dave Dryden and Ralph Backstrom. Temporary proposals such as finishing the current season in Hammond, Ind. have been rejected. The decrepit International Amphitheatre, which sits in a depressed part of Chicago, will remain home base for Cougars who seldom draw above 2,000 fans there.

"If they don't find some where else in Chicago, they're going to have to move", said Mavety.

"But if anyone can make a go of it, it's Whitey. He knows a lot of people there, all the right people for building a rink. He's got a few of his own going for him."

Mavety became Toros' seventh defenceman and was teamed with 19-year-old Jim Turkiewicz, a steady if unspectacular rookie. His arrival put to rest rumors that Carl Brewer would return to the team from the television booth.

"He's strong, he moves the puck well and he doesn't back down from anyone", coach Bob Leduc said of Mavety, who showed 10 goals and 24 assists for the season after last weekend.

"I know he'll inject a lot of strength into our team"

Mavety, a Los Angeles Shark then a Philadelphia Blazer in the league's first season, notices a variation in play between Toros and Cougars which he doesn't expect to continue for long.

"They're two very different types of hockey clubs. Toronto is mostly offensive with everyone concentrating on scoring. Chicago is more defensive', he said.

"But we're getting close to the playoffs where you have to play playoff hockey — closer checking and more cautious — if you're going to get anywhere. You're not going to beat clubs 9-5 and 9-6 like we're doing now."

It was Cougars, the records show, who knocked Toronto out of contention in the semi-finals a year ago. Toros won by wide-open scores of 6-4, 7-6 and 5-3 but were flattened in the final two games by 9-2 and 5-2 margins. Chicago advanced to the WHA finals but lost to Houston Aeros in four swift games.

"If we go on a winning streak", Mavety says, "we could conceivably end up in first place. Then it's all up for grabs. Houston, Quebec and New England — they're all top clubs and the ones we'll have to beat."

Come April or May, depending on Toros' post - season performance Mavety will rejoin his wife and family who have remained in Belleville through the winter.

There has been talk that he may join Belleville's new entry in the Ontario Fastball League. But Mavety reports, "Right now, it's very doubtful. "I do enough travelling in the winter. I've got to spend some time wih the family."

Bobby Orr's HOCKEY TIPS

By BOBBY ORR

Copyright 1975, Toronto Sun Syndicate

A WISE SUGGESTION: BE CERTAIN TO BE FULLY EQUIPPED

Of all the tips youngsters should pay particular attention to, using full equipment is No. 1 on the list.

Actually, it doesn't matter what league one plays in because dressing with partial equipment only creates a possibility of injuries. At this stage of the season, think back to the injuries you might have sustained and ask yourself: could they have been prevented with proper equipment?

This is especially true with children where a sudden fall to the ice or into the boards, or a collision with another player occurs more frequently than later on when skills become advanced.

Let's start with the recommended list. If you don't wear underwear, a protective cup, garter belts, suspenders, shin pads, stockings, a good pair of pants, proper fitting skates, ankle guards (for defencemen), elbow pads, shoulder pads and helmets you're in a position of getting injured.

When you select a stick, do not get one which is too long. The general tip here is to use a stick which doesn't exceed your chin in length. Skates are the most important items to consider because skating is the vital part of hockey. Do not wear skates several sizes too big. This is one case where planning ahead is not wise because loose fitting skates will hinder the development of your skating.

Check your equipment tonight. Is it the proper size and comfortable? If not, better start thinking of new equipment. And this doesn't mean to make Mom or Dad pay for it. It might be an idea to start saving some of your money for chores just to make sure hockey will be a safe and enjoyable sport for you.

Ali-Bugner Rematch Planned for June 8

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali will defend his title against England's Joe Bugner in Chicago on June 8 if Ali defeats underdog Chuck Wepner, The Associated Press learned today.

A source told The Associated Press that contracts have been signed for an outdoor fight between Ali and Bugner, the European champion, at Chicago's Soldier Field.

Ali fights Wepner in Cleveland on March 24 and is an overwhelming favorite to defend successfully the crown he won by knocking out George Foreman last October.

Agreement on the contract was reached in London, the source said.

There was no immediate confirmation from the camps of either Ali or Bugner.

Tom Pryce Fastest

BRANDS HATCH, England (AP) — Tom Pryce, a newcomer to Grand Prix driving, covered the rainswept Brands Hatch circuit in an American Shadow Ford Formula 1 car Friday at 100.53 miles an hour to set the fastest time in practice for Sunday's Race of Champions.

Pryce, a Welshman, set a lap time of one minute, 34.9 seconds and was a second ahead of his closest challener, Jgody Scheckter of South Africa, who won his country's Grand Prix in a Tyrrell Ford 10 days ago.

Third fastest were another U.S. Shadow driven by Jean-Pierre Jarier of France and Belgium's Jacky Ickx in a John Player Lotus, both in 1:37.3.

Sunday's race is Europe's first Formula 1 event of the year, and though it is not a world - championship event, many of the top teams are using it to try out their latest machinery.

Gowsell Wins Schoolboy Title

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta captured its second Canadian schoolboy curling championship in a row Friday as the Paul Gowsell rink of Calgary defeated two tough rivals in a row to avert a possible playoff.

Gowsell defeated Manitoba's Jim Quinn rink of Flin Flon 2-1 in the morning round and completed his victory march by downing Northern Ontario's Dale Leskinen rink of Red Rock 6-3 in a game that turned out to be meaningless.

Nova Scotia's Scott Saunders foursome from Lunenberg, which burst into contention by winning three games in a row in a 14-hour Thursday marathon, had a chance to force a deadlock in the final round but bowed 10-4 to Manitoba in a game that finished while Alberta and Northern Ontario were still in tight quarters.

"That Nova Scotia loss took the pressure off," said Gowsell, aware a Nova Scotia win and an Alberta loss would force a playoff.

"But we didn't want to back into the title," said the 17-year-old shotmaking wizard, who received support from third Neil Houston, second Glen Jackson and lead Keily Steerne.

Gowsell said Alberta took Nova Scotia too lightly in its only loss Thursday night. "It's a good thing we didn't take Manitoba too lightly."

In the 2-1 extra-end victory, the two teams set a national schoolboy record for extra ends—eight in a row from the second end through the ninth.

It also set a record for the lowest score in a national playoff. Alberta prevailed 3-1 over Quebec's Barry Ness rink from Ormstown in an earlier test.

Manitoba, Nova Scotia and the British Columbia rink directed by Dave Johnston of Prince George posted identical records of eight wins and three losses to tie for second place behind Alberta's 10-1 mark.

Alone in fifth place was Saskatchewan's Earl Garratt rink of Regina with seven wins and four losses.

Northern Ontario was joined at 5-6 by Ontario's Dave Velanoff of London and the Prince Edward Island crew skipped by Bill Jenkins of Charlottetown. At 4-7 was Quebec, trailed by New Brunswick skip Blake Gilks of Fredericton at 3-8, Newfoundland's Jeff Thomas of St. John's at 2-9 and the Territories entry skipped by Jim Ramsden of Whitehorse, Y.T., at 1-10.

B.C. bowed 9-2 to Quebec in the 11th round Friday morning but followed with an 8-2 win over New Brunswick. As B.C. faded out of contention, Nova Scotia stayed alive by defeating Ontario 6-3.

In other morning games, New Brunswick downed Prince Edward Island 7-6 in an extra end, the Territories edged Newfoundland 8-7 and Saskatchewan outlasted Northern Ontario 6-5.

Prince Edward Island needed an extra end to down Newfoundland 7-6 in the final round while Quebec whipped the Territories 10-3 and Saskatchewan bounced Ontario 7-5.

Gowsell caused problems for himself in the 10th round, missing a free draw for a pair in the opening end, settling for a single when almost certainly he could have forced Manitoba to open up. Quinn made several outstanding shots to keep the hammer until he was forced to draw for one in the 10th end.

Alberta curled the extra end perfectly. Facing an empty house, Quinn threw his last rock to the buttom but Gowsell promptly removed it and stayed for the winner.

The Alberta rink, all members of the senior football team at their school will represent Canada in the 1976 world junior curling championship in Perth, Scotland.

Shouldn't Be One Stroke Out

MIAMI (AP) — Jack Nicklaus was just one shot out of the lead going into today's third round of the $150,000 Doral open golf tournament. But Jack says he doesn't deserve to be in that position.

"I should be either 10 strokes in front or 10 behind. I'm not sure which."

Nicklaus had an unusual mixture of good and bad shots in compiling a 139 total, five under par and one back of the surprise co-leaders, Gary McCord and Wally Armstrong.

JACK NICKLAUS

McCord and Armstrong, a pair of non-winning tour sophomores, shared the first-round lead and remained tied Friday with matching 70s that gave them 138 totals halfway through this chase for a $30,000 first prize.

But their work is cut out for them on the 7,028-yard Blue Monster course at Doral Country Club. Not only are they unfamiliar with the top spot, but their challengers include three of the most feared competitors in the game—Nicklaus, Johnny Miller and Lee Trevino.

Miller and Trevino were tied at 141—just three back of the leaders and two behind Nicklaus.

Mike Hill, a former Doral champion, made par from five bunkers on his way to a 71 that put him alone in fourth at 140. Tied with Miller and Trevino were former Masters champion Charles Coody, Jim Dent, Forrest Fezler and Butch Baird.

Ben Kern of Toronto shot a 71 for a 145 total and qualified for the final two rounds. Missing the cut were Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg with a 75-154 and George Knudson of Toronto with an 81 for 157.

Nicklaus had an erratic 70 Friday that included four bogeys, four birdies and an eagle. Over one stretch of five holes he went eagle-bogey-birdie-bogey-bogey.

Woodall Signed

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Jets announced Friday they have signed reserve quarterback Al Woodall for the 1975 National Football League season. The contract also covers the 1974 season, when Woodall was playing out his option under a previous pact.

For Seventh Time in Eight Years St. Louis in Playoffs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Louis Blues, for the seventh time in their eight-year existence, qualified for the Stanley Cup playoffs Friday night and then turned their attention to another task.

"Now we're in the playoffs, our next goal is first place,' said defenceman Bob Plager after the Blues beat Kansas City Scouts 6-1.

The win ensured the Blues of a playoff spot while Minnesota North Stars and Kansas City Scouts will not qualify from the Smythe Division.

In other National Hockey League games Friday, Vancouver Canucks beat Buffalo Sabres 5-1, Atlanta Flames beat Minnesota 1-0 and California Seals defeated Detroit Red Wings 4-2.

The results left Vancouver atop the Smythe Division with 73 points, just two ahead of St. Louis and Chicago Black Hawks. Chicago has a chance to move back on top with a game today at Minnesota and Sunday at home to Vancouver while St. Louis has one game this weekend—at Boston on Sunday.

"When we started to win about 10 games ago, I guess it was in Montreal. we just said to ourselves we can beat anybody,' said Blues foward Pierre Plante who led the victory over Kansas City with three goals.

"We've been doing it ever since. Except for a few minutes in the middle period, when we let down, I thought we were flying tonight."

Since being beaten 4-2 by Philadelphia Flyers on March 2, the Blues have won five games and are undefeated in six.

Plante's three goals put his season total at 29, within range of the target he set for himself last fall.

"I said to myself I was looking for 30-35 goals," he recalled. "Now, with 11 games left in the season, I've still got a good shot at it."

At Vancouver, the Canucks scored four unanswered goals in the second period and goalie Gary Smith held the Sabres off the scoreboard until 18:02 of the final period when rookie Danny Gare collected his 25th goal of the season.

Bob Dailey, Dennis Ververgaert, Don Lever, Greg Boddy and John Gould scored the Vancouver goals.

Rookie Dave Hrechkosy set a California team record for game-winning goals in one season with his sixth in the win over Detroit.

Hrechkosy's 28th goal of the season put the Seals ahead 3-1 early in the second period and the teams exchanged single goals in the third period.

Goalie Phyl Myre, who had not won a game in his last 12 starts and had lost four in a row before Friday, stopped 30 Rangers shots to record his third shutout of the season for Atlanta.

Barry Gibbs scored the lone goal for the Flames at 6:58 of the third period

Cheevers Hopes Crusaders Keep New Look for Playoffs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cleveland coach Jack Vivian said his Crusaders looked like a different team in shutting out Edmonton Oilers 3-0 Friday night.

"That's not the same hockey club that played here the other night," Vivian said, referring to the Crusaders' performance Wednesday night in Cleveland when they lost 2-0 to Baltimore Blades.

And goalie Gerry Cheevers, who earned his fourth shutout against Edmonton, hopes the Crusaders can keep the new look against Houston on Sunday night.

"It sure would be a good indication of how good we can be if we beat Houston," Cheevers said, adding that "it looks as though we'll be playing Houston in the playoffs."

In other WHA games, San Diego Mariners defeated Toronto Toros 6-4, Houston Aeros beat Chicago Cougars 5-4 and Winnipeg Jets edged Quebec Nordiques 4-3.

Vivian said the Crusaders got the Oilers "frustrated at the blue line."

"They were trying to bust (Bobby) Sheehan through a few times," he said. Sheehan got through once, but Cheevers came up with a fine stick save.

Cheevers said checking by Cleveland's skaters played a big part in the victory. "If they can get it in their minds to check like that, they can win a lot of games," he said.

Cleveland won it on goals by Skip Krake, Paul Shmyr and Richie Leduc.

At Toronto, Wayne Rivers' 49th goal of the season at 14:14 of the third period broke a 4-4 tie and Bob Falkenberg added an insurance score to carry the Mariners past the Toros.

GERRY CHEEVERS

Gene Peacosh helped the Mariners with his 34th and 35th goals in a free-wheeling contest that saw only one minor penalty called in the whole game while Toronto outshot San Diego 59-48.

Tom Simpson had two goals for the Toros, his 43rd and 44th of the season.

Bobby Hull's 63rd goal of the season on a power play midway through the final period at Winnipeg broke a 3-3 tie and gave the Jets the victory over Quebec.

Losing goalie Richard Brodeur turned in a spectacular performance, making 47 saves for the Nordiques who had only 26 shots at Winnipeg goalie Joe Daley.

Houston scored its 13th consecutive win over Chicago with Andre Hinse's 37th season goal breaking a 4-4 tie with less than two minutes remaining in the game.

The first of Ralph Backstrom's two goals gave the Cougars a 3-2 lead going into the second period and his second goal tied the score 4-4 the end of the second.

Gordie Howe scored his 28th goal of the season for Houston and added an assist.

Kirouac Goes From 29th to First

MANSONVILLE, Que. (CP) — Near-perfect course conditions enabled 15-year-old Michel Kirouac of Quebec City to come up from his 29th start position and capture the men's giant slalom at the Canadian juvenile championships Friday.

On a 45-gate, two-run course that provided equal conditions for skiers regardless of seedings, Kirouac won the gold medal with a combined time of 194.78 seconds.

David Roth, 14, of Kitchener, Ont., and Lori Dirk 15, of Jasper, Alta. supplied further proof of the excellence of the Eastern Townships' hill.

Roth won the giant slalom silver medal in 196.03 seconds from his 22nd start position. Miss Dirk came up from starting position 19 to take the silver medal in the single-run women's grand slalom in 100.36 seconds.

Todd Brooker 15, of Waterloo, Ont., finished third in Friday's giant slalom after winning the downhill Thursday and will wrap up the combined Canadian Juvenile men's title if he finishes in the top three in today's slalom.

Loni Kettl, 15, of Jasper, women's giant slalom winner last year and currently leading in combined points, repeated her gold medal performance in Friday's giant slalom with a time of 95.45 seconds.

Miss Kettl, almost a full five seconds ahead of Miss Dirk, led an Alberta team which swept the first four places in women's giant slalom. Diane Lehodey, 15, of Calgary won the bronze in 100.36 seconds and Karen Ogilvy, 14, of Jasper was fourth.

Lori Graham of Toronto, fifth in women's giant slalom Friday, is in third place in the combined standings and Miss Lehodey is second.

Sixty-five boys and 42 girls from across Canada are competing in the championship.

BETTERS DISCUS RECORD

STELLENBOSCH, South Africa (Reuter) — John Van Reeven of South Africa set a world record for the men's discus with a throw of 224 feet eight inches during a meet Friday. The previous official record was 224-5, set by American Jay Silvester in 1968 and equalled by Ricky Bruch of Sweden in 1972.

TRY THIS NEW PIPE FOR 30 DAYS.

So different that it's patented by the CANADIAN GOVERNMENT patent number 800357
"MAGIC INCH"

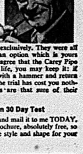
This top grade Mediterranean briar incorporates a sensational invention that contradicts every idea you've ever had about pipe smoking. It completely eliminates breaking-in. Tars, sludge, bite, and bitterness never reach your mouth. You get cleaner, cooler, tastier, moisture-free thoroughly enjoyable smoking.

E. A. Carey

It's the first pipe in the world that's guaranteed to give unadulterated pleasure to smokers. You get the best smoke of your life or it won't cost you a cent.

Give it 30 days—

No cigarette, no cigar, nor any other pipe can give you the full rich flavor, aroma, deep down satisfaction, enjoyment, and peace of mind that you get from a Carey Pipe.



You may be a pipe smoker with a rack full of pipes and still searching for the ideal smoke, or perhaps you would like to switch to a pipe to cut down on cigarettes or expensive cigars.

The Carey Pipe may look like any ordinary pipe, but it's a lot different! In fact, there's nothing like it in the whole world. The Carey Pipe is made of the finest aged mediterranean briar—but, its big secret lies in the exclusive patented "MAGIC INCH," cleverly concealed in a bite proof nylon stem.

Not My Magic But Nature's Own Magic

There are no gadgets, no traps, no coils, no filters, no baffles, no tricks, no moving parts YET: the "Magic Inch" harnesses four of natures laws. It creates a VACUUM which draws in and mixes with the smoke a metered quantity of cool oxygen. It causes CONDENSATION which squeezes out excess moisture, and DRIES the smoke before it reaches the mouth. It employs CAPILLARY ATTRACTION to absorb precipitated moisture and prevent formation of sludge and goo. It promotes EVAPORATION to further cool the smoke and throw off into the air the moisture that otherwise would form sludge. In addition it eliminates "BREAKING IN". From the very first pipeful down to the last puff, the smoke is mellow and sweet with all bitterness and bite removed. No "breaking in" is needed with a Carey Pipe.

Today, over two hundred thousand pipe smokers smoke Carey Pipes almost exclusively. They were all granted the same option, an option which is yours also. After 30 days, if you agree that the Carey Pipe is the best smoke of your life, you may keep it: if you don't agree, whack it with a hammer and return the broken pieces to me. The trial has cost you nothing! How many businesses are that sure of their product?

Make Your Own 30 Day Test

Fill in the coupon below and mail it to me TODAY. I'll send you a full color brochure, absolutely free, so you can select your favorite style and shape for your 30 day trial.

E. A. Carey Dept. 442C, 26 Duncan Street, Toronto, Ont., M5V 2B9

Allen Wants To Play for Sox

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Who's on first? Dick Allen. Well, if you see him there, don't be surprised.

The controversial slugger has reversed his field and wants to get back into baseball with Chicago White Sox, says a close friend, but the situation is just as confusing as the old Abbott and Costello routine.

DICK ALLEN

Clem Capozzoli, an associate of Allen's since he played with Philadelphia Phillies in the early 1960s, said Friday that Allen is ready to honor his "contract" with the White Sox.

Of course there may be a problem there. The White Sox don't have his contract anymore. They sold it to Atlanta Braves when Allen announced his retirement from baseball at the end of last season.

He flatly refused the Braves' offer to join them, announcing that he was forever through with baseball. Meanwhile, there was a movement afoot by Philadelphia Phillie players to bring him back to his old team.

All through the winter, Allen played the role of the shrinking violet. Until Friday, that is, when his apparent feelings were revealed by Capozzoli.

"Richie signed that multi-year pact (with the White Sox) in good faith and he thinks they're obliged to honor it," said Capozzoli. "If they don't, he'll probably wait 30 days or so and file a suit. He's being denied a chance to earn a living. Richie hasn't been paying much attention to all that talk about coming back to the Phillies. He feels the White Sox have a moral obligation to him."

While Allen was reported to be trying a comeback, 10 games were played in spring training Friday.

Texas Rangers beat Kansas City Royals 7-2, Montreal Expos beat Minnesota Twins 4-1, Detroit Tigers blanked the Phillies 2-0, Boston Red Sox defeated Chunichi Dragons 6-3, Tokyo Giants defeated Houston Astros 5-3, Los Angeles Dodgers beat New York Yankees 8-7, Cincinnati Reds outscored the White Sox 9-7, California Angels routed San Diego Padres 7-1 and Baltimore Orioles nipped Atlanta Braves 7-6.

Jabbar Wants Trade

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar says he feels culturally deprived and has asked Milwaukee Bucks to trade him, but emphasized Friday night he intends to honor the remaining two years of his contract.

"I don't have any family or friends here," Jabbar said.

"The things I relate to don't happen to be in this city to any meaningful degree," said the 7-foot-2 Abdul-Jabbar, the National Basketball Association's Most Valuable Player three of his five seasons in the league.

An orthodox Moslem since much, off-season time working with others of his faith in the East. He is known to have become increasingly unhappy with his surroundings here since he and his wife separated about a year ago.

Canadians Nip West Germans By Two Points in Track Meet

MONTREAL (CP) — The tone of Canada's narrow 107-105 point victory over West Germany in an international indoor track meet Friday night may have been set before the action began.

Prior to the meet, high jumper Claude Ferragne of Montreal said he was in good enough to get him to the seven-foot, five-inch level. At the same time pole vaulter Bruce Simpson, another Montreal native, expressed confidence because of the fact he had cleared 17 feet, six inches earlier in th week.

However, neither man reached his target, but their ultimate achievements played a key role in the Canadian victory before a record crowd of 14,109.

Ferragne was forced to settle fora a bit less than his pre-meet objective, but the seven feet 2½ inches he did jump was good enough to earn him the gold medal and give Canada sufficient points for the win. He was ably assisted by young Robert Forget of suburban Laval whose seven-foot mark earned him the bronze medal behind Udo Haffer of West Germany.

Simpson, meanwhile, had tucked away a gold medal by setting a Canadian native pole vault record of 17 feet, 4¾ inches to beat his own previous native mark by three-quarters of an inch. Simpson's performance was good enough to earn him the player's trophy as the most valuable athlete of the meet.

And the jumpers continued their dominance of the trophy awards, as Debbie Brill of Victoria won the La Presse trophy as the outstanding female performer.

Miss Brill and 14-year-old Julie White of Brampton, Ont., ran one-two in the women's high jump, with the Victoria jumper setting a Canadian native record of six feet, 1¾ to beat the previous 6-1 mark she set indoors in 1971.

The Canadian women's team outpointed the Germans 50-45, with Yvonne Saunders of Guelph, Ont., winning a pair of golds. She normally runs at the 400-metre distance, but switched to the 800-metre to win in a slow time of 2:07.32 for the added distance. Her other gold came when she anchored the Canadian team in the 10-lap relay.

Highlight of the night for the visitors came in the men's long jump where Hans-Jurgen Berger set a Canadian open record with a jump of 25 feet, four inches for the gold. His nearest competitor was Jim Buchanan of Ottawa who won the siler, almost two inches short of the winning mark.

The Germans scored a double victory in the women's 1,500 metres with Ellen Wellman getting the gold medal and Brigitte Kraus the silver.

Peter Weight, the European champion in the men's 3,000 metres, combined with teammate Ingo Sensburg to force favored Grant McLaren into third spot in the race.

Cnaadian men had better success in the 1,500 metres where Joe Sax of Toronto outdistanced Canadian champion Peter Richardson of Fredericton for the gold. Sax finished in 3:56.93.

Liz amman of Kitchener Ont., a last-minute substitute for Diane Jones of Saskatoon in the women's 50-yard hurdles, set a Canadian native record of 6.52 seconds as she finished second to Silvia Kempin of the German team.

Miss Kempin was 4-100ths of a second faster.

There's a great deal to Britain.

A great deal to do and see.

Britain isn't just London—It's all of England, Scotland and Wales. Britain isn't just Buckingham Palace or No. 10—it's high tea in the Highlands, a pint at the Cat and Fiddle, Caernarvon Castle and the country lanes of Cornwall. It's village greens and wayside inns that provide good cheer and hospitality at half the price you might expect.

And there are as many ways to see Britain as there are things to do. By British Rail or rental car. By bus or coach, by camper or by air with us.

Add to all this the fact that you can fly to Britain for less than to almost anywhere else on the Continent . . . that sterling exchange rates stretch your dollar a long, long way . . . that a language is spoken that you understand . . . and you've Europe's best bargain. Great Britain? Great deal!

And a great deal on airfares.

Yes, you can still get a great deal on airfares to Britain. For example, starting April 1st, our 22-45 day Economy Excursion fare from Montreal to London or Manchester return is only $340. And less to Glasgow. Even better, you can take advantage of our new, low Apex fare and save $35 on your transatlantic ticket to London if you can make your booking up to 60 days prior to your departure date and make full payment at the time your booking is confirmed.

Most important, you can fly with us any day of the week and enjoy the kind of service and attention that has made British Airways the largest international airline in the world.

A great deal when you get there.

Travel experts, who know every nook and cranny of Britain, have planned a tremendous variety of Personalized Holidays which you can enjoy upon arrival. There are two basic types of holidays.

With the first all you do is purchase your air ticket and reserve and pay for whatever land arrangements you require before departure. For instance, you can rent a car in advance for as little as $72 a week with unlimited mileage or, a completely equipped motor camper at a price you can afford.

And comfortable hotels throughout Britain are available. For example the Fabulous London package gives you a hotel for a week, plus continental breakfasts and two theatre tickets for as little as $93.

Or you can buy a delightful holiday which allows you to ramble through Wales in a horse-drawn caravan . . . cruise the River Wey in your own houseboat . . . even go brass rubbing in ancient Cotswold churches. The second way to enjoy Britain is to purchase an all-inclusive holiday for two weeks or more, such as our famous London Super Show Tour which gives you hotel, theatre tickets, a car for two days, and a great deal more for as little as $498, including your return airfare from Montreal.

Discover Britain by rail or car with a Britannia Holiday. This provides a touch of London, rental car with unlimited mileage or unlimited rail travel, plus accommodation in a country guest house for as little as $466 for two weeks including return airfare from Montreal.

Your travel agent has all the details of these and many more exciting Personalized Holidays.

A great deal to the rest of Europe, too.

We're not only the world's largest international airline—we're Europe's largest, too. From London, we fly daily to over 80 different destinations; too many, in fact, to mention here. Almost anywhere in Europe we can have an hotel room and car waiting for your arrival. Or through our Personalized Holidays '75 the whole of Europe can be yours in your own car or motor camper, on a guided coach tour or perhaps with P&O on a Mediterranean cruise.

And, should you wish a special treat, our Enterprise Holidays from London to sunny Spain cost as little as $186 a week. And that includes return airfare from London, resort hotel and three appetizing meals a day. Holidays are also available to Portugal, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Tunisia, and Greece.

And there's a great deal your travel agent can do for you.

Any authorized British Airways travel agent can give you complete tour details, answer questions on airfares, and arrange your entire vacation. Just ask your agent to show you our Personalized Holiday pack or write to us and we'll send you one free. British Airways Holiday Dept., 1 Place Ville Marie, Montreal, H3B 2B8. And, remember, we're the start of any great deal to Britain. But we're by no means the end of it.

British airways

The British have a way.

Prices are subject to change and airfares to Government approval. We have a range of holidays starting at a low $186 to as much as $2,150. There are seasonal variations and single supplements for every holiday.

IN MEMORIAM

POWER — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Randall Leo Power, who passed away March 16th, 1974.
Fondly missed and deeply mourned,
Heart of my heart I miss you so,
Often, my darling, my tears will flow,
Dimming your picture before my eyes.
But never the one in my heart that lies.
The stars seem dim as I whisper low,
My own darling husband I miss you so.
—In loving memory by wife Lucille and children.

FOBERT — In loving memory of a dear mother Leona Helen who passed away March 16, 1973.
Gather her to your heart,
O Lord wherever she may be,
She was so tired for she gave herself unsparingly.
Dry her tears too, with your sweet hands, her trespasses forgive, and find some little house in Heaven, where she may live.
—Always remembered by Gerry, Dick and Jane, Bill and Joyce and grandson Brian.

ELLIS — In loving memory of Richard (Dick) who passed away March 16, 1970.
Life will only work one way — the way the Master taught,
Follow this as best you can — in word and deed and thought,
You'll find that everything will work out for the good,
The laws of life brings happiness if rightly understood,
Life will yield its best if lived according to God's plan,
The law of love has never changed since first the world began.
In yourself you have the power to make life beautiful,
You can make the pattern — you can work the miracle,
You were given freedom to create or destroy,
His blessings to reject or to accept and to enjoy.
—Ever loved by wife Rose, daughter Doreen and family.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crain, are pleased to announce the engagement of their eldest daughter Cheryl Eleanor Lorraine, to Mr. Eric Tugnette, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tugnette, the wedding will take place April 5, 1975, at 4 p.m. at St. Mark's United Church, Cannifton, Ont.

Ministerial Inquiry Into the Dump Truck Industry

ONTARIO

A Commission has been appointed to inquire into the for-hire dump truck industry in the Province of Ontario.

The Commission is authorized :

To inquire into all matters relating to the use of for-hire vehicles in Ontario which have, or to which is attached, carrying devices of the so-called "dump" variety used for the transportation inter alia of sand, gravel, earth, crushed or uncut rock or stone, landfill, aggregates, salt, or other road construction and maintenance materials ; and without limiting the generality of the foregoing to inquire into and report on :

(a) The availability of dump trucks and trailers in relation to the demand for their services on both a provincial and a regional basis ;

(b) The involvement of dump trucks registered outside the Province in the for-hire trucking business within Ontario ;

(c) The trucking rates at present in effect ;

(d) The nature and scale of vehicle ownership within the for-hire dump truck industry including financing arrangements for purchases of new and used dump trucks ;

(e) The existing situation in respect to the contractual relationships between the quarry or pit operator, the road construction contractor and the dump truck operator ;

(f) The existing situation in respect to the safety of dump trucks including overloading practices and their potential effect on mechanical fitness ;

(g) The criteria for the establishment of economic rates or charges ;

(h) The advantages and disadvantages of control of entry into the industry, including methods by which such entry might be controlled if deemed advisable ;

Persons or organizations wishing to make submissions to the Commission should do so in writing and mail or deliver five (5) copies to :

The Secretary, Ministerial Inquiry into the Dump Truck Industry, Room 385, 3rd Floor,
Hepburn Block, Queen's Park,
TORONTO, Ontario M7A 1Z9.

It is requested that briefs be submitted on or before April 10th. After reading the submissions the Commission will determine where public hearings will be held and the time and place of such hearings will be advertised in due course.

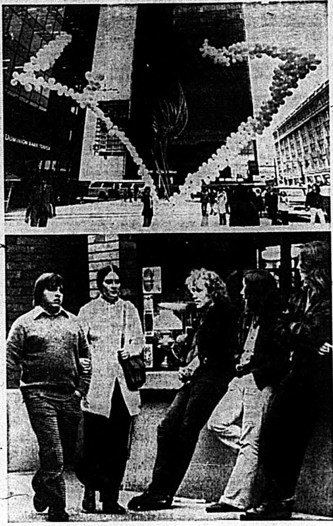
The New York City Opera announced that John Miner, 17, is the third winner of the Julius Rudel award, providing for a young conductor to work at the opera in an intensive artistic and administrative internship.



People Place

Vancouver's Granville Mall (top photo) was planned, designers said, as a "people place." There is still some debate about whether that objective was achieved as passers-by (lower photo) sometimes feel they're running a gauntlet as they file past groups of loungers and leaners. (CP Photo)

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Hal Holbrook lost his new home in the Pacific Palisades to fire early Wednesday.

Holbrook, who now lives on New York's Long Island, was planning to move into his new home with his family later this month.

The house was not occupied and no injuries were reported.

VIENNA (Reuter) — Soviet violinist Georgi Ermolenko is heading back to Australia after seeking asylum there last year and then changing his mind.

Ermolenko, 18, returned to the Soviet Union in August because he wanted his parents to emigrate with him. He was accompanied by both mother and father, also violinists, when he left for Australia by airplane from Vienna Wednesday.

The Australian Embassy said the young violinist has been offered a position at Sydney University's cultural centre.

NICE, France (AP) — Charles Spaak, 71, a Belgian-born screenwriter and brother of former Belgian premier Paul Henri Spaak, died of a circulatory ailment in hospital here Tuesday, the family announced Wednesday.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stripteaser Fanne Foxe left Wednesday for her native Argentina to follow up on a reported $200,000 movie offer.

Before boarding a flight to Buenos Aires, Miss Foxe said that in addition to the movie offer, she would also discuss a national theatre circuit tour in Argentina.

Meanwhile, the stripper remained coy about her future relationship with Wilbur Mills, the former chairman of the House of Representatives ways and means committee, whose friendship has benefitted her career.

Asked if she and Mills might find romance in the future, Miss Foxe replied: "I wouldn't say yes and I wouldnt say no. There is a possibility."

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Flip Wilson, who for nearly four seasons had his own hit variety series on NBC-TV, has signed an exclusive CBS contract for four specials during the 1976-76 season, CBS said Tuesday.

HOLLYWOOD (Reuter) — Bob Hope and Carol Burnett were named the favorite entertainers in the United States Tuesday night, a poll by A. C. Nielsen Co. shows.

The pair received awards, known as the People's Choice Awards, on a nationally televised show Tuesday night.

Australian singer Olivia Newton-John was named favorite female singer along with Barbra Streisand. Miss Streisand also was voted favorite motion picture actress.

Other favorites: John Wayne, motion picture actor; The Sting, motion picture of 1974; Chicago and Osmond Brothers, musical groups; Hank Aaron and Joe Namath, athletes; Mac Davis, male singer; Mary Tyler Moore, television actress; Alan Alda and Telly Savalas, television actors.

The Strange Dr. Barry

Copyright 1975, Toronto Sun Syndicate

There have been people in history who seemed hardly unusual at all while they lived, but after their death — well, then it became a different story.

One such person was Dr. James Barry.

He was English and made an enviable record in his undergraduate studies at Oxford University. He entered the University of Edinburgh and graduated in medicine in 1815.

James Barry entered the British army as a surgeon and was posted to a garrison in Cape Town. He was generally well liked by his military comrades in spite of a nasty temper that sometimes got him into hot water.

Once, he was obliged to fight a pistol duel with a certain Sir Josiah Colete of Cape Town. Both men emerged from the contest unscathed. Barry acquired a reputation as a headstrong, aggressive individual who wouldn't back down from anyone or anything.

On another occasion, when he was stationed in Quebec, a fellow officer in the mess made the mistake of remarking sarcastically on Barry's rather high-pitched voice. The surgeon turned on the man and knocked him cold with one punch.

Eventually Dr. James Barry's medical skill and devotion to duty won him many official commendations. But there were a few eccentricities he had.

For one, he was abnormally shy about sharing his quarters with anyone else, even in an emergency. On the other hand, he was known by his fellow officers as quite a lady-killer.

For more than 50 years Barry discharged his duties as an army medic in many parts of the world. Stationed for varying periods of tropical climes he became something of an authority on leprosy.

When on July 15, 1865 Dr. James Barry died, he was widely mourned.

Then came the bombshell. James Barry, reported the mortician, wasn't a man at all but a woman. Moreover, a post mortem revealed that Barry had borne at least one child.

What was James Barry's real name? When had she borne her child? And what drove her to disguise herself as a man and live like one for more than 50 years?

Simply, we don't know...

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

SUNDAY, MARCH 16

ARIES (March 21-Apr. 19) Don't jump to derogatory conclusions over a money matter you're discussing with a friend. Sleep on it to gain perspective.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20) The temptation will be great to place your self-interests above those of others. Sober reflection will prove your motives are far too selfish.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll feel that someone is placing too great a load on your shoulders. Time will prove that his prodding was for your mutual benefit.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today you'll cross paths with one for whom you have perceptible ill feeling. Your coolness will chill your companions as well

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You are ambitious, but your zeal will be disastrous if you use poor timing and turn people off whose assistance you need.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An old friend's urgent request will take you away from what you'd like to do. You'll help, but he'll never know of your sacrifice.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Avoid taking a flyer with an individual you know has a poor track record. The pitch may be new, but the results will be similar.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) Harmony in a close personal relationship is important to you today. It can only be attained if you make the major concessions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21: This is not a good day to overtax yourself physically. Your best work will be done with your brains.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 19) You're too loose with your "bread" today. Beware—your mate is about to declare a moratorium on your spending.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 19) It's necessary that you do certain chores around home today. No use complaining—they won't get done otherwise.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your tendency today is to blurt out the first thing that comes to your mind. This may not be complimentary. Be careful.

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Monday, March 17

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — You'll profit today from something unusual that happens behind the scenes. News of the occurrence will later come to you accidentally.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)— A friend you have not known too long will prove a valuable ally in helping you further an aim that's presently important to you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)— You're going to come up with a new approach on how to attain a goal that's eluded you. The method you'll employ will be unorthodox.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — There is a pleasant surprise in store for you socially. Someone you'll meet by chance will prove to be a stimulating companion.

LEO (July 23-Aug p2)—You'll conduct yourself in a manner today that will gain others' respect, though your deeds won't be done to win applause.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)— Valuable knowledge will be acquired now if you do more listening than talking to a pal who has a wealth of know-how.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)— You're sharp in business matters today if you follow your hunches. Don't let others influence you against your better judgment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)— You grasp the essence of situations very quickly. You'll be able to make snap decisions. They'll surprise your associates.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)—A problem that has you temporarily stymied can be overcome if you try new methods. Use imagination. Try a totally different approach.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)—Be extra-attentive and friendly to new contacts you make socially at this time. They'll fit into your plans later.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)—A good tip that can help will come from a family source. Keep your ears open.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)— News from a distance provides a favorable climate for an activity you've planned. It will cause you to alter your course of action.

Collagen Holds Body Together

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you answer some questions about collagen disease? Is there more than one kind? Is there a rheumatoid collagen disease? Is collagen disease fatal? Is cortisone used for treating it?—J. H.

Collagen is the fibrous tissue that quite literally holds the body together It is a fascinating material about which we know all too little, even less about what to do when something goes wrong with it. The name comes from the Greek words, "kolla" (glue) and "gennan" (to produce). About 40 per cent of the body's protein is contained in this tissue.

A disorder in the material, which extends throughout the body and its organs, is called a collagen disease, or, more descriptively, a "connective tissue disease."

There are several forms. Rheumatoid arthritis is one, in which the joint tissues are involved. Other types involve the skin, the muscles, and the organs, even the cornea of the eyes. It can be fatal if the kidney, the heart, or any other vital organ is involved.

Since there is no specific treatment for any of the collagen diseases, treatment is limited to alleviating the symptoms. Cortisone is used to treat the inflammatory aspects, and quite effectively, too.

Much research continues into collagen this biological glue that holds us together but also nags us with so many medical problems.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been advised to have partial removal of my parathyroid gland because my calcium level reads "12." My doctor feels this is the correct surgery to lower high blood pressure and prevent kidney and bone problems

I am in good health, but I am skeptical about such an operation. I've had verious tests and everything comes out "normal," so I feel the surgery is unnecessary. Should I listen to my doctor?—C. V. I.

You cannot say everything is "normal" with a calcium-level eading of 12.

The parathyroid glands control the calcium level in the blood at about 10 milligrams per 100 cubic millimetres. The variance of even a few milligrams either way can be quite significant. A proper calcium level is important, for example, in maintaining membrane permeability High levels can lead to a host of problems, among them the kidneys (stones), bone disorders, ulcers (peptic), muscle weakness and fatigue.

You require close observation to see if the high reading you report persists. If it does, you should certainly listen to your doctor. Surgery is the only answer to hyperpraathyroidism, which, since it indirectly affects the organs, could indeed, have an effect on your blood pressure.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a woman 58 years old. I would like to know what makes the end of my tongue burn all the time. I was told it was because of a lack of hormones. But I take a hormone tablet daily.—Mrs. L. I W.

The burning tongue is a common complaint among women after menopause. But the deficiency is more likely in vitamin B than in hormones. It can be a sign of pernicious anemia, but it can also be caused by something as simple as a habit of rubbing the tongue against the teeth, your toothpaste, or irritation from a food (nuts is an example). You should have a blood test to see if you are anemic.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When an eye specialist uses an instrument called an ophthalmoscope to look into the eye to see the retina, can it injure the nerve that goes from the eye to the brain?—B. H.

No. This viewing instrument will damage neither the optic nerve nor the retina. The specialist may use eyedrops to temporarily dilate the pupil so he can get a better view of the retina, but this wears off shortly

The procedure is an essential part of any thorough eye examination.

Opening lead—5♣

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

If you can keep from looking at the South and East hands, you can enjoy an interesting defensive problem. It is simple enough, so we feel certain that anyone of the 50 best players in the world will be able to easily solve it provided they are playing with an equally expert partner.

You open the five of clubs. Your partner wins with the ace. South plays the jack and your partner shifts to the king of diamonds. South drops the six and you play the seven. Your partner leads the five of diamonds to your ace while South follows with the eight.

A review of the bidding shows that South munt hold three spades and six hearts. He has played three minor suit cards and his unknown card will be either a low club or the four of diamonds.

You are slightly annoyed when you note that North really should have bid four spades, which would have left the South hand exposed. Then you make the right play. What was it?

You lead the deuce of diamonds, because you know your fine partner would have led the queen of diamonds, if he held five cards in that suit so as to hold the lead and play a club himself.

What do you do now?

A — You like spades, but with your minimum balanced hand two spades is your correct call.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid two spades and your partner bids three clubs. What do you do now?

How Do You Know Other Rustproofers Won't Run Out Before Their Guarantee Does?

YOU DON'T

Someone who's been in the rustproofing business for two years might give you a lifetime guarantee. But his guarantee might last a lot longer than he will. Ziebart has been in the rustprofing business 18 years. We pioneered rustproofing. And we've inspired a lot of imitators.

In the first place, our speical compound is patented. Secondly, it's not only what we use, but how we use it. Ziebart coats every critical area of your car. So there's no possibility for rust.

Finally, our process is so effective we guarantee it. If you have your car Ziebarted before it's been driven 3000 miles, we'll guarantee it won't rust through for ten years. No matter how many miles you drive it. We put it in writing.

And if that's not enough to convince you, just ask someone who's had it.

Because hes got a rustproof car. And our long guarantee. Which is our guarantee we'll be around for a long, long time.

CP News Roundup

Two Slain At London

LONDON, Ont (CP) — Police said Norine Browning, about 31, and Maurice Pauley, about 39, both of London ,were shot and killed Friday at a repair shop by a shotgun-wielding man.

Police said that about four hours later Roderick Sinclair Browning, 39, of nearby Komoka was charged with murder punishable by life imprisonment in the death of his wife, Mrs. Browning.

Police said Browning was arrested by the first policemen at the scene and is scheduled to appear today before a justice of the peace.

Housing Planned

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario has signed a series of agreements with municipalities and developers to accelerate housing production Housing Minister Donald Irvine said Friday.

He said the first agreement is with the city of Brampton covering production of 15,000 new houses within the next three years.

"Development will be directed toward moderate incomes according to established Ontario Housing Action Program (OHAP) guidelines," Mr. Irvine said.

Drop Snowmobiles

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Outboard Marine Corp. (OMC) says it is going out of the snowmobile business, and will discontinue production of the Johnson and Evinrude machines at the end of the 1976-model production year this September.

Snowmobile production space at its Peterborough plant, where all OMC snowmobiles are made will be used to expand production of chain-saws but there is expected to be a loss of 200 jobs by the time the switch is completed.

Tokens Scarce

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Transit Commission (TTC) has stationed extra workers to sell tickets and collect fares at some subway stations because it no longer has enough tokens to supply the station collectors, a TTC official said Friday.

Gordon Hurlburt, TTC chairman, said in a news release that "stockpiling by some customers in advance of the fare increase has created the shortage."

Inquest Ordered

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — An inquest has been called into the Tuesday death of Robert O'Neil, 22, a Trent University student from nearby Bridgenorth, who was found unconscious Sunday in a university sauna bath.

Coroner Robert MacMillan said Friday: "It appears that this death is due to an illicit drug, phencyclidine, which produced a fatal chemical reaction."

Mr. O'Neil had played soccer at the university before taking the sauna.

Fog Returns

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Residents of nearby Copper Cliff say a fog produced by a combination of frigid air and a creek that rarely freezes has returned to haunt the community.

The fog sometimes covers the community and often is most intense along a one-mile stretch of Highway 17 west of Sudbury, where the Copper Cliff creek is parallel to the road.

Given 10 Years

TORONTO (CP) — The son of a prominent Washington, D.C., family was sentenced Thursday to 10 years and five months in jail for the attempted murder last Aug. 2 of a Toronto policeman.

Eric Scott Nielsen, 23, of Toronto was found guilty by a Supreme Court of Ontario jury following testimony by Constable Dennis Violot.

Many Dropouts

TORONTO (CP) — Students in Toronto's secondary schools are dropping out at the average rate of 24 per cent each year, a study released Friday reveals.

The study by board of education researchers shows that 40 per cent of the students entering Grade 9 graduate from Grade 12 and only 20 per cent get a Grade 13 diploma.

Beer Price to Rise As Bottles Bring More

TORONTO (CP) — The deposit on empty beer bottles and cans in Ontario will increase to five cents each on Monday, Brewers' Retail announced Friday.

Persons who purchased beer at the old rate of two cents a bottle and 15 cents a dozen for cans will receive the new refund when returning empties.

Because of the increase in the refund price, the price of a 24-bottle case of beer will increase to $7 from $6.30 and 12 cans will cost $4.35, up from $3.90 .

The two-cent deposit on bottles has been in effect since 1959. Before that it was 60 cents for two dozen bottles.

Large 22-ounce bottles, sold primarily in eastern Ontario, will carry a deposit of 10 cents a bottle.

C. D. Muir, president of Brewers' Retail, said in a statement Friday that the higher deposit is "a positive step to encourage consumers to return empties for cash refunds."

He said about 67.9 million bottles are not returned annually out of about 1 7 billion bottles sold.

"This is an average of 1.3 million bottles per week which are lost and end up as litter or garbage," he said.

May Change Holiday

OTTAWA (CP) — A Commons committee will study the possibility of changing Dominion Day, the July 1 national holiday, to Canada Day.

A motion authorizing the study was approved Friday despite strong objection from several Conservative MPs.

Goyer Denies He Saw Letter

OTTAWA (CP) — Supply Minister Jean-Pierre Goyer was the centre of the opposition's attention on the Hamilton harbor scandal Friday as a letter on the matter which went through his office when he was solicitor-general in 1972 was made public.

Mr. Goyer denied in the Commons he knew of the scandal and said he had never received correspondence from Hamilton Controller James Campbell.

Mr. Campbell in an August, 1972 letter, made allegations involving a government-appointed harbor commissioner who was said to have been taking bribes. Dredging contracts were not mentioned.

Copies of a reply to Mr. Campbell's letter, written by a member of Mr. Goyers staff, were made available to the press later Friday by the current solicitor-general, Warren Allmand.

The letter, dated Sept. 12, 1972, was from John R. Cameron, an assistant to Mr. Goyer. It said the matter was being turned over to the transport department, which has responsibility for harbor commissions.

In an interview from Ottawa, John Gray of the Canadian transport commission said he remembers studying documents about alleged crookedness at the harbor, but did not "recollect exactly when it was." Mr. Gray was legal adviser to former transport minister Don Jamieson.

Mr. Cameron said the original letter from Mr. Campbell might have been addressed to Mr. Goyer but that neither the minister nor his deputy minister knew of it.

He said the letter "would have been channelled through me."

"I exercised my best judgment at the time," he added.

Mr. Campbell, in an interview from his Florida residence, said Friday he had been assured by the deputy solicitor-general in the summer of 1972 that Mr. Goyer had started an investigation into the scandal.

Some PCs Uneasy About Dredging

OTTAWA (CP) — While the Conservatives appear to be pulling out all stops as they go after the government for possible political interference in the dredging affair, there are some party members who are decidedly uneasy about issue.

For several weeks now, opposition MPs have been demanding a public inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the awarding of harbor-dredging contracts.

Under the pressure of the demands, Labor Minister John Munro went to hospital late last month suffering from fatigue. There had been repeated references to the fact that the Hamilton cabinet minister was mentioned in a police transcript of a telephone conversation entered as evidence in a preliminary hearing last year.

Because the transcripts cannot be made public under law, there has been no detailed information, other than the fact Mr. Munro's name was mentioned.

Some Conservatives who have seen the transcripts are highly uncomfortable about bringing the minister's name into the issue. "Unless we get some new information about so-called political interference, we can't keep this up," said one Conservative MP.

Talks Still On

PSAC Plans New Proposals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Talks resumed in Ottawa today in the federal blue-collar workers dispute with reports that new proposals are planned in an attempt to settle the retroactive pay ussue, the last main obstacle to an agreement.

A union official said that union negotiators are considering recommending an $800 lump sum payment for the months December, 1974, through to March. This would include reduced amounts for February and March because of the month-long strike.

Selective strikes by the 18,600 workers are continuing across the country.

The official said the union plans to suggest that if the treasury board raises its wage proposal for the second year of the contract, the union will water down its retroactive pay demands.

The workers, the general labor and trades group represented by the Public Service Alliance of Canada, have been on strike since Feb. 17 and have affected mail, air and grain traffic with a series of selective strikes.

The mandate for mediator Tom O'Connor of Toronto ran out Sunday morning, at which time he was to report to Jacob Finkelman, chairman of the Public Service Staff Relations board.

But as the two sides had reduced their salary differences to within two percentage points of each other in a 16-hour bargaining session Saturday, Mr. O'Connor agreed to continue as mediator in an informal role today.

Details of the new counterproposals were not made public, but Friday it was reported that the union was asking a 30-per-cent increase over 18 months and the treasury board was offering 26 per cent over two years.

Although he acknowledged that more had been accomplished Saturday than in any day since negotiations started, a new hitch also developed to keep the parties apart.

Although the contract under discussion would be retroactive to Nov. 25, and although the union had been under the impression that any worker who reported to work 10 days or more during February and March would be eligible for retroactive pay, the treasury board Saturday said they would not.

The treasury board said it was excluding all strikers from retroactive pay and this created a new stalemate in negotiations.

U.S. Can't Quit World Says Ford

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Urging rejection of the "new isolationism," President Ford expressed confidence today that Americans know they cannot "resign from the world."

Ford argued for continued United States involvement in world affairs—and particularly for foreign aid programs—in a speech prepared for a special convocation at the nearby University of Notre Dame campus.

While Ford's text placed heavy emphasis on foreign aid, mainly economic assistance, he made no mention of his controversial requests for more military aid for Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Good Luck, Andrew

Four long-time customers of the Paragon Cafe wish good luck to co-owner Andrew Chow early Sunday morning as the restaurant closed operations at 195 Front Street to make way for the new Century Place development. From left, members of the group handshake are Mr. Chow, John and Leona McMurter of 84 McFarland Dr. and John and Heather French of 10 Herman Street. They have been regular customers for almost 10 years.

New Location Being Sought

Popular Paragon Cafe Closes After 40 Years Serving City

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

A restaurant which has been in existence for almost 40 years attracts many regular customers.

And a feeling of disappointment probably registered with most of those when the Paragon Cafe at 195 Front St. closed its doors for the final time at that location Sunday at 1:30 a.m.

However, those customers can take heart. The four Paragon co-owners plan to reopen the cafe in the near future at a new site.

Co-owner Andrew Chow, who has served as manager since he and his partners purchased the business 10 year ago, said in a weekend interview the Paragon will open again as soon as possible.

He said after Tuesday's auction sale of all equipment and wares, which begins at noon Tuesday, the owners will sit down and decide on the future.

First and foremost is the problem of a new location, preferably in the Front St. area, said Mr. Chow.

Three of the owners, including Mr. Chow, are Belleville residents. He lives at 271 Haig Rd. The other two are Peter Chong of 227 Haig Rd. and Man But Tam of 227 Coleman St. The fourth owner is Sam Chong of Toronto.

Mr. Chow said some of his nine employees have indicated they will wait for the business to re-open. One of those is waitress Marie Keegan of 184 Foster Ave., an employee of one year and three days. "If I have to go to work, I will, but I'll come back," she remarked.

Mr. Chow explained the auction is necessary due to storage expense. "There is no place to store it (equipment) because that costs a lot of money — and you don't know when you're going to come back," he said.

The Paragon Closed to make way for the new Century Place development at the corner of Front and East Bridge Streets. The lease is up at the end of March but noise from current demolition work forced an early closing, Mr. Chow said.

Mr. Chow, a native of Trinidad, emigrated to Canada over 10 years ago. He previously worked in the restaurant business in Montreal.

While in Trinidad, he worked at his father-in-law's hotel motel dining lounge operation on the shore of the Caribbean Sea. He and his wife, Linda, have three girls and two boys.

Consumer Affairs to Give $12,000 to Citizens Bureau

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — The federal ministry of consumer and corporate affairs has taken over funding of the Citizens Bureau, at least for the time being, it was learned Sunday.

Bureau board chiarman Al Baldwin was notified by telegram this weekend that the federal department would be contributing $12,000 to bureau coffers before the week is out.

Since its inception in 1972, funding has been a continuing problem for the bureau. Originally funded by a Local Initiatives Project grant of $9,000, the bureau was set up to help "the little guy," handle governmental red tape, said William Hockley, a principal of the bureau.

Since then the bureau has received five grants to continue operation and during lean months has operated on a volunteer basis. Since 1972, the bureau has received about $50,000 in federal government grants.

The last grant given to the bureau was $3,000 coming from the secretary of state's department. The bureau has been without funds since early January.

Mr. Baldwin said the latest $12,000 was an "outright grant," and that it would not hinder the bureau's operations and dealings with the government.

In the past bureau staff have expressed reluctance about local funding, claiming it could jeopardize their position and open the way to difficulties if a sponsor also became a client.

Mr Baldwin said the bureau and the federal department would work together and "learn from each other" but no federally-imposed restrictions came with the grant

He said there was no time limit attached to the funds as to how quickly or how slowly they are spent

The board — after hearing of the grant — met in closed chambers to study a possible budget Mr Baldwin said it was likely the two-man staff would remain unaltered

In the meantime, Mr Baldwin said, "other funds are coming (before the $12,000 runs out) but I can't say where they'll come from" They'll not likely come from the government.

He did say the bureau will attempt to sponsor an Opportunities for Youth project this summer, which would inject more funds into bureau operation.

"We want to involve the young people," he said "They could work effectively in the bureau under supervision".

With the grant comes the possibility the bureau might return to Belleville, said Mr. Baldwin.

While the bureau was founded in Belleville, it subsequently moved to Trenton when it received provincial grants under the Prince Edward Hastings LIP zone.

"We have a committee working on the question of location and a decision from that committee is expected some time this week," he said.

"We're thinking of operating in both centres but one (either Trenton or Belleville) would be a branch bureau working one or two days a week," said Mr. Baldwin.

B.C. Strike Settled

VANCOUVER (CP) — Shipping traffic from 11 British Columbia ports may resume by the end of the week following the announcement Sunday of a tentative contract agreement between 4,000 striking longshoremen and their employers.

The strike, which began March 1, shut off all exports of raw materials through B.C., from Western Canada, all imports of goods and the movement of domestic supplies up and down the West Coast.

But while 35 ships are waiting today in port resumption of grain exports hinges on the progress of talks in Ottawa between the federal government and its striking blue-collar workers, members of the Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC).

Grain exports through B.C. ports were shut down Feb. 17 by a strike of federal government grain weighers, members of the PSAC.

Relief Agencies In Cambodia Told to Leave

PHNOM PENH (AP) — The United States embassy in this Cambodian capital has begun burning documents and has asked volunteer U.S. relief agencies to reduce their staffs to essential personnel, American sources reported today.

Ambassador John Dean asked Catholic Relief Services, World Vision and C.A.R.E. to send nonessential personnel to Bangkok or Saigon until after the U.S. Congress votes on President Ford's request for supplemental military aid for Cambodia, employees of some of the agencies said

Embassy officials believe Congress will reject the request and some fear anti-U.S. demonstration or general chaos in Phnom Penh. But it is apparent that the embassy also fears the collapse of President Lon Nol's government and foresees the possibility of the fall of Phnom Penh to the Communist-led insurgents.

Plots KGB and CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet intelligence officer who defected to the United States has told the CIA that Soviet secret police had a contingency plan to kill Richard Nixon if he had been elected president in 1960, columnist Jack Anderson says.

Anderson says in a story the plot was described to the CIA by former KGB major Anatol Golytsyn, who defected from his post in Helsinki in the 1960s.

WASHINGTON (AP) — CIA Director William Colby has acknowledged there were discussions in the agency about assassinating foreign leaders, but he denied that any such actions ever were carried out, says Senator Stuart Symington (Dem. Mo.).

Portuguese Reds To Get Bigger Role

LISBON (AP) — Sweeping changes in the Portuguese cabinet to increase Communist participation are expected this week despite a government denial of a report that the cabinet has resigned to clear the way for the shakeup.

Two government ministers said all cabinet members tendered their resignations Saturday, and Premier Vasco Goncalves was deciding what changes to make. They said the new cabinet, like the outgoing one, would be predominantly military but would include more Communists as well as the Democratic Movement.

Easter Killing Is Said Planned

By DENNIS REDMONT

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Exiled Portuguese officers said they tried to topple Portugal's leftist government last week because they learned of Communist-instigated plans to slaughter 1,500 civilians and military men in an operation code-named "Big Easter Killing."

A statement by a spokesman for the 15 officers who flew into exile with Gen. Antonio de Spinola, a former Portuguese president was handed to this reporter on board a plane between Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires. It was done with the approval of Spinola, 64, before he made his pledge to refrain from political activities to Brazilian authorities who granted him political asylum.

The statement, for which there was no independent confirmation, was the only explanation given by Spinola and his officers regarding the March 11 revolt, which fizzled for lack of support.

Kissinger Takes Sinai Proposals to Egypt

JERUSALEM (AP) — U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger flew to Egypt today with new word from Israel about the proposed Sinai withdrawal agreement out apparently without any major concessions.

After a four-hour negotiating session Sunday Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said he, Premier Yitzhak Rabin and Defence minister Shinon Peres had given Kissinger "proposals," but the U.S. diplomat called them "ideas."

However, the Israeli cabinet met earlier and authorized its negotiators to continue the talks on the basis of guidelines set earlier by the cabinet.

This indicated that a pullback to 20 to 30 miles in the Sinai desert was still the maximum Israeli offer and that Egypt had not yet offered sufficient inducement for them to give up the Abu Rudeis oilfields and the strategic Mitla and Gidi passes.

In Cairo, meanwhile, a government spokesman said the Egyptian proposals Kissinger took to Israel last week "constitute a firm Egyptian position which is not subject to manoeuvres or outbidding."

Farmers Using Warning Signs

PICTON — Farmers are being "very co-operative" regarding the usage of slow moving vehicle signs on their farm machinery says Constable Don Watt of the Picton OPP.

The legislation requiring such signs came in the mid 1960s as a result of a serious automobile-tractor accident near Ottawa. Since then it has become mandatory to place warning signs on slow moving farm machinery travelling on public roads.

Mr. Watt said the biggest problem appears to be that many farmers fail to realize that the sign must be placed on the rear most vehicle and not on the tractor hauling the implement. One farm machinery distributer said that most manufacturers are installing brackets on all pieces of machinery and tractors to accommodate the signs.

Hastings Rejects Government Study

Restructuring of local government now comes under study in two counties which are municipal next-door neighbors of Hastings County.

Similar reviews are under way or planned in about 15 of Ontario's 26 counties.

In Hastings, there are no plans "in the immediate future" to participate in such a study, William McCrea, county warden and Hungerford Township reeve said recently.

Last September, county council's municipal reform committee recommended no action after Belleville and Trenton asked Hastings to apply for such a review.

The situation has not changed since that time, said Warden McCrea.

Councils in Northumberland and Lennox and Addington counties recently approved restructuring studies — finances 50 per cent by the provincial government — and formally appointed experts to head up the reviews.

Donald L. King, a Toronto consultant, will conduct the study in Northumberland — Hastings' western neighbor. To the east, C. R. Tindal, local government teacher at Kingston's St. Lawrence College, will administer the Lennox and Addington study.

MORE

Mr. Tindal said he expected the study, to start in April or May, will take about a year.

In Northumberland, the restructuring review is to be completed by the end of the year. Its early phase includes meetings with the 15 municipal councils involved, expected to be staged over the next fiveweeks. During the summer public meetings will be held.

In 1976, discussions will start between municipal officials and Ontario treasury, economics and intergovernmental affairs staff. These will determine areas of consensus and need for action.

The review program was announced by the ministry last year.

Truckers Picket for Higher Wages

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

BLOOMFIELD — The Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority (PERCA) site at the mill pond here is being picketed today by 15 members of the Greater Ottawa Trucking Association, Belleville branch, in what they term is their first stand in the Belleville area.

Four local truckers have been employed for the last three weeks moving earth dredged from the pond.

The truckers are picketing for an increase in the hourly rate paid in the dump truck industry.

Association spokesman Gordon Cole, of Belleville said PERCA is paying $12.50 an hour for removal of the earth dredged from the millpond.

The ministry of transportations and communication's rate for dump trucks is $16 per hour minimum. "We want to get the rate up on this job,", said Mr. Cole.

He added effective May 1, 1975 the Greater Ottawa Trucking Association, Belleville branch, will seek $17 an hour for tandem trucks and $12.50 for single axle vehicles.

Another picketer said the men will remain at the Bloomfield millpond side "as long as it takes."

Dale Cockins, a Belleville area trucker in the picket line, said the protest of hourly rates has been " in the air" for over a year. The Belleville branch of the association was formed in July, 1974.

"We hope to keep it on a non-violent basis," said Mr. Cockins, referring to the picket line.

Picton OPP officers were on the scene early today but demonstration was quiet and orderly.

Mr. Cole observed "this is one of the lowest paid trucking areas".

"There are eight districts in the province and we are the lowest on the list", added Mr. Cockins.

He also said truckers have picketed Queen's Park for over a year and the government has taken no action.

He noted, however, a government inquiry has been initiated recently.

Helen Duggan, secretary for PERCA said the job at the Bloomfield site was not tendered and that tenders would go out today.

The truckers on the job had approached the conservation authority and asked for the work, said Mrs. Duggan.

Board Wants More Capital Funding

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

County education officials are upset about the lack of provincial funds for capital forecast expenditures.

To the point where the Hastings County Board of Education has decided to send an official delegation to the ministry of education to protest these lack of funds.

Mr. Hawley, Bancroft trustee expressed concern recently over the board's inability to finance growth due to a lack of provincial funds. The capital forecasts refer to planned renovations, additions or new facilities.

He cited the planned additions to North Hastings Secondary School as example where the plans have been approved but the ministry cannot find the funds.

Mr. Hawley and Belleville trustee Robert Ord both said schools in the Toronto area receive more funds than other parts of the province.

However, the ministry does not publish approved capital forecast budgets. Much of the information is based on hearsay.

A ministry spokesman in Kingston said last week the Toronto area is not favored with provincial funds. However, he did admit Toronto's population draws large sums of money for renovations and new facilities.

The spokesman also said for 1975 Ontario's boards of education are asking for $374 million for projects. He said about $120 million will be approved.

He could not say what proportion of these funds would be allocated to eastern Ontario. In 1974 the ministry approved $92 million for capital projects.

Mr. Ord said he wonders whether education across the province is as good as the ministry claims it to be. He said eastern Ontario seems to be receiving less funds for new projects.

Renfrew Team Wins Rifle Shoot

Marksmen from Renfrew emerged as top shooters in the day-long cadet rifle competition at the armory Sunday.

Top over-all team and winners of the ANAF Duke of Edinburgh Unit 201, Belleville, Trophy was the army cadet team from Renfrew. Top individual shooter was cadet Hale from Renfrew, who shot 98 out of a possible 100.

Thirty teams of five cadets each shot on the 20-yard range, using army issue rifles with a .22 calibre.

Second over-all marksman was cadet Narezny, also from Renfrew, winner, of the Quinte Artillery Association Trophy.

Top sea cadet team was RCSCC Quinte, Belleville Top individual sea cadet was cadet MacDonald, Ottawa.

Leading the army cadets was the Renfrew team with cadet Hale taking individual honors.

The team from Baden-Sollingen, West Germany, led the air cadets with Port Hope cadet Meadows leading individual shooters.

The meet, for teams from eastern Ontario — which includes West Germany — was organized by RCSCC Trent, Trenton with Lt. Cliff Loucks in charge.

Beer Store Target Of Thieves –Again

City police were summoned to the Brewers Retail warehouse early Sunday morning to investigate the second occurrence in less than a week involving break, enter and theft at the beverage outlet.

A police spokesman said today, a passerby called police to report a broken window at the warehouse on Station St. on the west side of the building. Investigation revealed two sets of footprints outside the window.

An inventory was conducted by the staff Sunday afternoon which determined two 24-pint cases of beer were missing.

Four Belleville youths were charged with break, enter and theft last week in connection with the theft of 10 24-pint cases and one 12-pint case of beer from the warehouse early Thursday morning.

In another weekend incident, Ron Archer of 24 Auburn St. reported to police one tape deck and three tapes were taken from his car parked in the vicinity of 11 Prince of Wales Dr. during the weekend.

Sugar Bushes Open to Public

With the sugaring off season approaching, two local maple bushes in the area will welcome visitors apart from the Moira River Conservation Authority's annual open house at the Charles Irvine operation at Fuller.

In the immediate Belleville area, sugaring off operations can be seen and maple products will be available at the bushes of Burton Hubble, RR 5 Belleville and the Harders, RR 5 Trenton.

Driver Faces Two Charges

STIRLING — A 53-year-old Stirling woman has been charged with failing to report an accident and careless driving in connection with a car accident involving a parked vehicle in Stirling early Sunday.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville identified the woman as Isabel Annie Hutcheon of 199 William St.

A police spokesman said a 1965 Chevrolet, southbound on Baker St. at 2.17 a.m., was in collision with a parked 1968 Oldsmobile owned by Douglas Wannamaker of 720 Adelaide St. Oshawa.

The parked car was struck at the left rear and the impact drove it into a tree, he said. Damage was estimated at $500 to each car.

Country's Biggest Work Force Can Make Government Feel A Bit Stingy

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Remember, how less than three months ago, Prime Minister Trudeau, in one of his increasingly rare press conferences, spoke of using his next four years of power to "change society a little?"

He seemed confident that he could succeed.

For he said that "at the end of four years, I'll see if I've got any exciting ideas for the next four — and if I have, which is very possible, I'll try again."

This is the way Trudeau talks when he is busy with his great thoughts about what he has called the values and directions of society.

So how do you like the way the Prime Minister's changing it — or sitting back and allowing it to change — for nowhere has it been changing so fast as in the federal public service?

The question — and a good one, as one striking federal agency after another holds the taxpayer to ransom — comes from two-term Conservative MP from the West Coast riding of Burnaby-Richmond-Delta.

He is one of the few Conservatives who, each time some segment of the public service blackmails the taxpayers, does not try pressuring the government into quick and easy surrender.

Conventional Conservative thinking seems to be that since Canada is supposed to be the world's finest public service — a boast originated by career public servant, former Liberal Prime Minister Lester Pearson — nothing is too good for it.

To deny any of its continuing demands, argue the socialist "Red Tories," as they call themselves, is to be niggardly.

So they pressure the all-too-ready-to-oblige Trudeau regime to cave in.

The demand — by both the already well-paid public service and the "Red Tories" — always is that the Government do the decent thing.

It is always the "Government," never the taxpayers, that is made to feel ashamed over being stingy with this best of all possible public/services.

But not John Reynolds.

He keeps a cool eye on what he sees as the focus of the problem — Trudeau's declared intention to "change society," with the change most noticeable in the federal public service, the country's biggest work force, where the Prime Minister is in a position to either push the process along or let it gather its own momentum.

The way John Reynolds sizes it up, while the Prime Minister thinks his great thoughts about changing society, his swelling bureaucracy engineers change.

By its sheer enormity it chokes itself and strangles the taxpayer.

So the Prime Minister, says John Reynolds, overlays another level of bureaucracy on the already enormous apparatus, creating a high command of super bureaucrats in his own office and the Privy Council.

The result is over-regulation in a jungle of federal agencies, none of which is in control of itself or co-ordinated with the others.

The Ministry of Transport employs more than 20000.

And it oversees associate commissions, boards, crown corporations, and assorted agencies employing another 120,000.

But, says John Reynolds, while Trudeau is busy thinking about how to change society, nobody, not the Prime Minister in ultimate charge, nor Jean Marchand his designated lieutenant in Transport, seems able to change the "mess" the Minister himself concedes the department is in.

Nor, while all the great thinking is going on in the Prime Minister's office, is anything changing in the "mess" that Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde admits is costing uncounted millions in wasteful overlapping and duplication of services.

There is the "mess," too, in Manpower and Immigration where Minister Robert Andras is trying to sort out Unemployment Insurance ripoffs, and massive abuses of regulations by thousands of illegal immigrants from the Caribbean and the Far East.

John Reynolds suggests that the Prime Minister had better stop dreaming about "changing society" to whatever ideal he visions, and attend to managing the society that his "change" is quickly crippling.

Helping the Crippled

Grant Young is a Prince Edward County native who has worked among the Cree Indians up north. He once was an Ontario Society for Crippled Children representative in Timmins and three years ago he returned to home country in Belleville.

Mr. Young is one of those rare enough individuals — a male nurse, and he has charge of the Crippled Children's territory in Hastings-Prince Edward-Lennox and Addington.

There are about 300 families in the region who come under Mr. Young's jurisdiction and in recent days he told of their increasing needs and of those for whom the Society provides throughout the province, with the support of more than 200 service clubs.

Mr. Young has a quiet but persuasive way of explaining the needs of the province's crippled children. A recent address to Rotarians was typical and Enos David expressed it for all when he described Mr. Young as one who always went the extra mile.

In outlining the Society's requirements, Mr. Young made it plain it shares a problem common to every individual and group nowadays — that of inflation, from the cost of artifical limbs to the running of a variety of services.

An interesting rider to Belleville Rotary's current Easter Seals Drive is provided by President Bob Graham. He has just received from Rotary International Headquarters in Evanston, Illinois, clippings from The Ontario Intelligencer of November 16, 1935 which were part of a special Rotary supplement of that time.

Included was a letter from a former club president, Charles Dolan, referring to a young woman who through the work of the Society had grown from a handicapped state as a child to one who was able to dance and lead a normal life.

A story in fact very similar to that of this year's "Tammy," Sherry Akey, who demonstrated for Rotarians recently how well she can walk with an artifical limb.

Sherry is further evidence of this indispensable work.

About Those Percentages!

Canada Manpower instructor Grant Armstrong has some interesting things to say about job-hunting.

Mr. Armstrong, who conducts a "Creative Job Search Technique" course for Belleville's Manpower office, advises job applicants to describe as much pertinent information about themselves as possible since "the employer today, for the most part, is looking at the whole person."

But we question Mr. Armstrong's estimate that employers look for 90 per cent skill and 10 per cent personal qualifications in a prospective production employee, and 70 per cent personal qualifications and 30 per cent skill for someone applying to fill a management position.

How can someone who is 30 per cent efficient himself get 90 per cent efficiency out of someone he directs?

Then again, Mr. Armstrong's theory might hold water when one considers certain politicians "managing" the country.

Cheap, Even if Bumpy

An unfortunate thing happens when the price of everything keeps rising. Statistics Canada tells us that the cost of living is escalating at a rate of about one per cent a month and everyone starts griping about how much they pay for everything from Pablum to Playboy.

There is such an animal as a justified price increase.

Belleville's Transit Commission wants to raise city bus fares (for all but the children's ten-cent tickets) by a nickel across the board.

Chairman Marylea Burtt is concerned that Belleville's share of the 1975 operating budget might run as high as $125,000.

Considering that more than 21.2 million fares were collected on city buses last year, a five-cent hike would halve the red ink on the transit commission books.

Another $2,000 will be saved, says Mrs. Burtt, since an "exact fare" system will eliminate the need for ticket printing.

The fare increase, which became plausible when a provincially-imposed freeze was lifted last week, is a step in the right direction.

Transit authorities should also confirm that Belleville needs 18 buses and that all seven city routes are economical.

In any event, 30 cents for transportation from one side of the city to the other is a bonus, no matter how bumpy the ride.

Some Can't Afford It

With students on the move in places as widely-dispersed as China and the Mediterranean, it is appropriate to dwell on the fact that many of our young people can barely afford a trip to the next town.

School trustee Robert Ord has said trips such as a recent one to Michigan places a strain on parents and children.

However, according to Hastings acting director of education L. F. Reid, funds are available to assist any needy student and money is also raised through school activities.

Probably a good deal more could be done in the line of self-help by students. The work ethic goes just so far in our schools today ... but does it go far enough, in addition to academic learning, to encourage more self-reliance and fund-raising capabilities that would assist students in situations such as this?

Canadians Have Lot to Learn From Swiss Business Expertise

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

The imminent start-up of direct service on Swissair between Toronto (which likes to think of itself as Canada's financial capital) and Zurich (which is certainly the financial capital of Europe) brings to mind a couple of questions:

—How did the Swiss ever become so astute at business and finance?

—And how could we in Canada acquire more of that expertise?

The answer to the second question is not at all clear—although Canada must have something to learn from a country whose work force is fully employed and whose currency 50 per cent against our dollar in less than three years.

But the answer to the first question is provided in a recently published book by a young Swiss economist, Carl M. Holliger.

His book, the German title of which translates as The Rich and the Super-Rich in Switzerland, sheds unaccustomed light on the super-secret affairs of the Swiss tycoons.

It would not be hard to compile a lengthy list of fundamental differences between Switzerland and Canada. An obvious one is geographical area; another is the fact that Switzerland is virtually land-locked (although its irregular frontiers do cut the waters of Lakes Constance and Lugano, for example).

Less often remembered, but more important, is age. Switzerland has been a republic since 1291, and over the centuries has built up two social classes possessing great economic strength and expertise—the patricians and the "grand bourgeois."

Throughout much of Swiss history, the patricians were amassing their wealth by recruiting armies of peasants to serve as mercenaries for the rulers of France, Spain, Italy and the Netherlands.

That wealth was invested in land, and later in industry—where it continues today to yield handsome returns.

In the nineteenth century, when Canada was struggling with inflation and railway-building, the grand bourgeois of Switzerland were capitalizing on the big advances in industrial machinery to establish some of the industries for which the country is still famous—textiles, shoes, food processing and others.

The third major category among Switzerland's top classes, as defined by Holliger, is the newly rich.

Just as the grand bourgeois of the nineteenth century exploited the cheap labor of peasants and children in their factories, the newly rich of our time—in some cases, at least—exploited the labor of the relatively few refugees from Nazism who managed to gain Swiss asylum in the Second World War (despite the obstacles that all governments, including Switzerland's, put in their way).

but serving voluntarily—is still providing the motive power for one of the most efficient economic machines in the world.

When Switzerland-for-the-Swiss zealots demanded last year that foreigners be expelled, a referendum of Swiss voters rejected the demand by a margin of two to one.

The pragmatic Swiss know that, although their banks may be bursting with the wealth of the Mafia and of third-world dictators, their industry rests on the strong backs and muscles of more than a million foreign workers.

Bad Times Can Boost Enrolments

The Christian Science Monitor

In higher education as in other fields, bad times can be the best times to invest.

Such reasoning might lie behind the increases in applications coming in to some universities at the same time the recession is deepening.

On balance, enrollment at America's colleges and universities still is weaker than campus administrations would like it to be. Cutbacks in federal and state support, lower returns on endowment portfolios, higher fuel bills, and inflation generally, have made even slight dips in student enrollment perilous for campus balance sheets.

Enrollment has sagged in recent years, particularly at private colleges, as family incomes were weakened by inflation. At the same time, gluts in the supply of professionals in fields like teaching, law, and journalism have made many youths question whether earning a degree would be followed by finding a job.

Nonetheless, education remains one of the most remunerative long-term investments that individuals or a society can make. It would be a loss hard to make up in the future for America's educational institutions to be emptied to anything like the degree which recession is emptying auto and other factories.

The Stamp Act, one of the major cause of the American Revolution, was repealed by the British Parliament 209 years ago today—in 1776. The act, designed to raise revenue in the American colonies, drew stiff opposition at once. It was so great that revenue amounted to less than the cost of collection.

..1776—British troops evacuated Boston.

1891—574 drowned after the ship Utopia collided off Gibraltar.

1897—Bob Fitzsimmons defeated James J. Corbett in 14 rounds at Carson City, Nev., for the world heavyweight boxing title.

1917—The Germans retired in France on a 100-mile front to the Hindenburg line in the First World War.

1943—The price of wheat reached $1 a bushel for the first time since 1933.

Selling Reactors Business Dilemma

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Moral judgments or business ones? This is the dilemma facing Canada's government in its major campaign to sell Canadian-designed nuclear reactors around the world.

And the chances are excellent we will not resolve it with a growing market developing for our reactors. Perhaps it was naive of us to think our client nations would buy nuclear reactors for peaceful purposes only since we did not include restrictions for these reasons in sales agreements.

But India broke the rules last May when she unexpectedly exploded her first nuclear device, developed in part by using an experimental reactor Canada gave to India in 1955 as part of her aid program under the Colombo Plan.

The Indian nuclear bomb explosion was seen as pure deceit by Canada's government because it was India and the late Indian atomic scientists Dr. Bahabah, first chairman of her atomic energy commission who preached neutralism and peaceful solutions to international crises in the 1950s.

Since then India has become increasingly warlike, has fought two wars against her Pakistani neighbor, a smaller one with Communist China, and has decided to perpetrate her battlefield victories by creating nuclear weapons.

In spite of India's perfidy, Canada has continued ot sell her nuclear reactors to critical nations like South Korea. It is ruled by a harsh military president with a ferovr to control Communist influences from North Korea and a big army to attempt it.

Another Canadian reactor has been sold to Argentina who soon announced a deal with India to share nuclear know-how, many have since speculated by planning to use their new Canadian reactor.

In the face of this, Canadian Energy Minister Donald Macdonald admits the safeguard system now written into Canadian reactor contracts isn't worth much of the buyers won't abide by it.

sales from Canada, is that if Canada doesn't sell her reactors abroad other competing countries will.

Add to this the fact all of Canada's nuclear reactor customers so far, Brazil, Roumania and South Africa, do not belong to the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty and refuse to do so.

But then, so do the major nuclear powers, France and China who explode nuclear devices in the atmosphere and Israel which might do so any day.

Planning Not Ideal Nationally

New York Times

Why is planning considered a good thing for individuals and businesses but bad for the national economy?

The traditional (and ideological) answer is that individuals and businesses should have long-range goals to which they can relate their day-to-day decisions, but at the national level planning is bound to be inefficient and an unwarranted interference with the freedom of individuals and businesses to make those decisions in accordance with their own best judgements.

Whatever validity that anti-government planning view may have had, it is becoming increasingly impractical and costly — as a growing number of businessmen, labor leaders, politicians, economists and scientists now recognize. Henry Ford 2nd, has said the auto industry and others need to learn to live with dwindling supplies of oil and other materials, and hence there is a concomitant need for national planning in order to match scarce resources with consumption in an equitable and efficient manner.

Said to be extremely rare in bovine circles, the birth of triplet calves, all heifers, is reported by Mr. James Bird, R.R. 2, rankford. Mr. Bird is a member of the Quinte District Cattle Breeders' Association and the Holstein cow which gave birth to the triplets was artificially inseminated.

On Wednesday March 16 a rink of curlers composed of Bill Gault and Jack McArthur, threw a scare into three good rinks at the Kingston Curling Club spiel. They won the first game against the Gananoque entry and were four up at the end of the seventh end against the Kingston rink — but eventually lost to them. It is to be hoped that Belleville will soon have a new and modern curling rink.

Woman Injured

MARYSVILLE — A 24-year-old Montreal woman was treated and released from Belleville General Hospital Saturday for minor cuts and bruises suffered in a one-car accident on Highway 401 two miles west of the Marysville Rd.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville said Ginette Raymond was westbound at 1:12 p.m. when she lost control of her car, which rolled over.

Constable Shane Halvorsen estimated damage at $1,500 to her 1973 Toyota. An unidentified passenger, address unknown, was also treated and released for minor injuries.

Two Hurt In Crash

TRENTON — A 26-year-old Toronto man has been charged with careless driving following a one-car accident Sunday on Highway 401 almost three miles west of Aiken's Rd.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville identified the man as (Francis) Ip Ho. Both he and a 32-year-old passenger, Heiwun Leung of Toronto, were taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital suffering lacerations, and bruises and are listed in fair condition.

Constable Fred Hamelink, the investigating officer, said a 1968 Acadian was westbound when it left the lane, entered the median, overturned twice and came to rest facing east. He listed the car as a write-off. The mishap occured at 7:30 p.m.

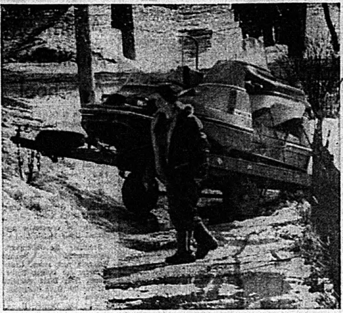
Youth Injured, Driver Charged

TRENTON — Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville have charged a 37-year-old Belleville resident with impaired driving in connection with an accident on Highway 2 near here Saturday which sent a 15-year-od Trenton youth to hospital.

A police spokesman identified the man as Charles Higgins of 19 Benjamin St.

A spokesman at Trenton Memorial Hospital said Stephen Foster of 237 Sidney St. is in fair condition with scalp lacerations and other injuries which were not released.

Police said the mishap occured about 12:25 p.m. just east of the Canadian Forces Base when a car and a bicycle, the latter ridden by Foster, collided.



Wild Trailer

This trailer loaded with two snowmobiles detached from the truck towing it when the driver carried out evasive action to avoid a car. The trailer shot over Durham St. in Madoc on Saturday afternoon, and another car was damaged when the driver swerved to miss the moving trailer as it passed in front of him. The trailer crashed into an ornamental metal fence, after travelling over the sidewalk.

Three Hurt in 401 Mishap

TRENTON — Three people are in Trenton hospital today in satisfactory condition following a two-car rear-end collision on Highway 401 just west of here early today

A Trenton Memorial Hospital spokesman said all were admitted early today with lacerations and abrasions.

In hospital are Stephen Robinson, 17, of RR 3, Tweed and Hung-yun Lee, 28, of 90 Darcy St in Toronto In the intensive care unit is Paula Bennett, 18, of RR 3, Trenton, a passenger in the vehicle driven by Robinson

Provincial police in Brighton said today details of the collision are sketchy

Driver Charged

LAKE-on-The-MOUNTAIN — A 38-year-old RR 8, Picton man has been charged with careless driving following a single car accident at 7.30 p.m. Saturday night. A vehicle driven by Clare Dingman left the Lake-on-the-Mountain Road, colliding with a hydro pole. The car received $1,000 damage. There were no injuries.

Bell Taxes Raised

MARMORA — Marmora Village Council has decided to bill Bell Canada for $7,255.40 in property taxes this year, an increase of $849.95 over last year. The amount is based on five per cent of the company's gross profit from Marmora operations.

Council Seeks Water Lines

MARMORA — Marmora Village Council will request Ontario Municipal Board permission to extend water lines to some undeveloped properties on Crawford Dr. as sewage mains are installed by Clairson Construction Co. If the OMB denies the $15,000 extension request, an alternate proposal has been made by one of the landowners that the developers pay the cost, recovering it later when they sell the properties.

Sprinklers Quash Fire

TRENTON — Automatic spinkler equipment at the Bata Engineering plant here on Sidney St. quickly extinguised a fire Saturday.

Trenton firemen said a flash fire in the paint booth on the premises, formerly occupied by Canadian Flight Equipment, was quickly put out by the sprinkler equipment.

A fire last Thursday at the home of Harold Wood, 25 Bocage St., caused little damage. The fire was confined to the hallway and there was some smoke damage.

Mock Disaster to Test Stirling EMO System

STIRLING — Fifteen dead, 60 injured, 100 homeless. That will be the mock situation Tuesday in Stirling when the peacetime disaster plan is tried out.

Fire chief Graham Mouck outlined the exercise to the Stirling Volunteer Fire Brigade at a recent meeting. "People will think we are putting on a big show, but this is serious business," chief Mouk told his men.

Quinte Area Emergency Measures co-ordinator Angus Duffy drafted the disaster practice. Chief Mouck explained that a gasoline tank truck and trailer heading south will go out of control at the junction of North and Front streets, crashing into a creamery. The trailer will overturn and leak gas, and the creamery will be on fire.

People will be ordered to be evactuated from the area, and the tanker will exploded, resulting in fires and heavy damage to various buildings in Stirling. Hydro, water, and telephone services will be knocked out.

"We had a truck where the brake line broke and it wound up on the sidewalk right in front of the creamery," the fire chief noted. This occurred several years ago. It was a trailer truck carrying part of a carnival.

"The aim is to develop a capability of dealing with a peacetime disaster," chief Mouck said. "During the Cuban Missile crisis we had 24 come out to a meeting, and the next week there were 124 out."

Incidents involving cars carrying explosive chemicals on the railroads were also discussed.

"Trains go through Stirling all the time, and there is stuff in tank cars we don't know anything about," chief Mouck noted.

It was pointed out that if there ever was a war, Trenton would be a prime target. "If a bomb hit Trenton, you, as firemen, would be called out. We are sitting in the middle, like it or not."

District at a Glance

Early Bird Reported

SOPHIASBURG — while most birds migrate south in the winter, it seems there is at least one which got its directions mixed. A Carolina wren inexplicably turned up at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Gribble, RR 2, Picton last week.

Largest of the wren family and near the size of a sparrow, the species has been expanding its range in recent years and has nested in Prince Edward County on one occasion.

Milk Producers Gather

PICTON — Milk producers will be meeting at the Parish Hall here Tuesday night to discuss the Milk Quality Payment Program.

Guest speaker will be John Krauter, Director of the Milk Industry Branch. Other speakers include Ontario Milk Marketing Board representative, Allen Ketcheson and Herbert Crown, director ARDA branch, Ontario ministry of agriculture and food, Toronto.

Safety Key Topic

TRENTON — CPR police investigator Arthur Banks, of Smith Falls, spoke to more than 1,850 students at the Trenton and Middleton Park elementary schools last Thursday and Friday He warned them of the dangers of playing with flares used as safety devices by railroaders.

Firemen Consider Offer

MARMORA — Marmora Village-Marmora and Lake Townships volunteer firemen are considering an offer of $25 in standby pay per year and $3 an hour for firefighting from the joint municipal councils. They had initially requested an increase in standby pay to $35 per year and a raise to $4 an hour while fighting fires.

Radio Equipment Requested

MARMORA — Hastings and Prince Edward Mutual Aid Association has suggested Marmora Volunteer Fire Department be radio-equipped so all association units will be part of a network. The request was relayed to Marmora Village Council by Bert Gray, chairman of the fire, water and sewage committee, who also recommended the village firemen should have their own type of walkie-talkie system.

Coyotes Reported on Big Island

BIG ISLAND — An increase in the number of coyotes has one Big Island resident concerned. Jack Stewart, of the ministry of natural resources, Napanee, said Friday a complaint from a Big Island resident had been registered with the ministry concerning the situation, and that the Napanee office had "looked into the matter."

Other residents, however, feel that the situation does not warrant concern. One Big Island farmer, who asked to remain anonymous, said too much attention is being given the coyote "who has done nothing so far but be seen and heard while packs of dogs continue to harass livestock and trample hay and grain crops and new seedling."

"The Dog Licensing and Livestock and Poultry Protection Act clearly indicates that dogs must be kept under proper control at all times," he emphasized.

Another Big Island farmer, Maurice Rich, said that he would like to raise sheep on his farm but can't because "there are too many dogs running at large" He made no mention of coyotes

Hectic Weekend For Madoc OPP

MADOC — A series of minor accidents, mainly caused by icy road conditions, kept Madoc OPP officers busy this weekend

One incident involved a snowmobile trailer than broke loose, causing damage to the car of Creighton Harrop, 24 St Peter St, Madoc, when he swerved to avoid it and struck a large pothole

Police said icy road conditions caused a car-truck collision late Sunday morning on a Hungerford Township road two miles east of Highway 37 A truck operated by Partrick Hunt, RR 2 Tweed, skidded into a car driven by Susan Preston of Scarborough, causing $300 damage to the car The truck was undamaged

On Saturday, a car driver by George Young, RR 3 Tweed struck an icy patch on the Old Sulphid Road and collided with a car driven by Violet Dojlide, RR 3 Tweed Total damage was $550

Barn Burns

MARMORA — Sunday's mid-afternoon peace was broken in Marmora when the fire siren anounced an emergency. Firemen within minutes were putting the ladder back on their truck to return to home after dousing a barn fire just north of the village on the Cordova Rd.

Back a fighter.

Date of Birth: April 23, 1963

Parents: Bob and Barb

Karen is another one of the children in this area who is affected with Cerebral Palsy. This affects her co-ordination, muscle strength and the way she walks. Progress has been slow but steady for the last 11 years. Karen has had to have surgery, therapy and bracing. She is now able to get around on her own with short leg braces and a cane. Something that all of us take for granted, one of Karen's great goals in life is to be able to walk independently. Easter Seals have been used to provide therapy and equipment for children like Karen.

Tuna Casserole

one can mushroom soup
½ cup water
two cans solid tuna
¼ lb. cashew nuts
one cup chopped celery
¼ cup minced onion
one four-ounce tin chow mein noodles one tin mushroom stems and pieces with juice salt, pepper to taste

Mix all ingredients together (reserving ½ cup noodles) in large bowl; place in greased casserole. Bake 15 minutes at 375 degrees uncovered. Sprinkle with reserved noodles and bake 10 more minutes.

St. Patrick's Theme At Teen-agers' Tea

Green shamrocks and green paper hats decorated the hall in Bridge Street United Church Saturday.

The occasion was a St. Patrick's Day Tea held during the afternoon.

Under the direction of Deaconess May Sanders, 10 members of the intermediate Sunday School class organized the tea as a money-making venture.

"The whole thing has been entirely their idea," said Miss Sanders. "They've already started painting an empty room in the church for a youth centre, but they need funds to buy furniture and a fan for the window.

Dorothy Milliken, Gwen and Heather Sherman, Elizabeth McCurdy, Lee Thompson, Andrea Ward, Sean DeTracey and Laurie Harris raised $50 by their efforts.

New Screening Program Will Begin in Schools

An early childhood screening program in Hastings and Prince Edward counties elementary schools should begin in October, says Olga Wallace, director of nursing for the health unit.

She told health unit board members this week school principals are enthusiastic about the proposed program.

Screenings will occur in school facilities and involve physical, mental and development checks including urine sampling and discussions with parents, explained Miss Wallace.

Each child's parents will be present when the screenings are conducted by a public health nurse, she pointed out.

Miss Wallace said the screenings will mean public health nurses will have a history of each child beginning at the kindergarten age.

Ann Landers

VD - You Can Get It By Kissing

Dear Ann Landers: Are you big enough to rectify your answer to Question No. 1 on the quiz you printed recently? It was a multiple choice test that had appeared in the Washington high school paper in Kansas City to help students recognize the symptoms of VD, learn how it is contracted and what to do if they think they have it.

It was terrific of that school to print the quiz and you were rgeat to run it in your column so millions of young people all over the North American continent could learn from it.

The answer that needs straightening out was to the first question: "VD is transmitted by (a) sexual relations with an infected person, (b) toilet seats, (c) kissing."

The answer given in the paper was "a." It should have been "a plus c."

So many people depend on you, Ann. Will you please set the record straihgt?—H.A.

Dear H.A.: Thank you for giving me the opportunity to rectify not only an answer that was only half right, but to ease my conscience. I knew at the time that your answer was more correct but I felt an obligation to reprint the quiz exactly as it had appeared in the high school paper. I realize now I should have altered the reply when I ran the column.

Syphilis can indeed be contracted from kissing a person who has the disease if it is in the infectious stage and there is a sore on the lip or in the mouth (which is a sign of the disease). If the person being kissed has a bruised area on the lips or in the mouth which would allow entrance of the syphilis micro-oranism,g he may become infected.

A rather bizarre example of how this works occurred several years ago in the Veteran's Hospital in Washington, D.C. A surgeon who was performing an autopsy on a syphilitic cadaver cut his hand slightly through a rubber glove. He learned several weeks later that he had gotten syphilis.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a guy who can't believe I am writing to Ann Landers, but I've got a problem. It's this fellow I work with. He bums cigarettes from everybody. If there is a pack on a person's desk, he'll help himself.

He's not sneaky or anything, he always asks. Nobody says no.

What gripes me is the way he'll come over to talk. All of a sudden he'll reach into my shirt pocket without saying a word and help himself to a cigarette.

Don't tell me to quit smoking. Just tell me what to do about this cheapie who bums at least six cigarettes a day and never once has offered to pay anybody back—Suffolk County Sap

Dear Sap: Keep your cigarets off your desk, out of your shirt pocket and when he asks for a cigarette tell him it's time he brought a carton to the office for his fellow employees, to make up for all the mooching.

Doris Clark

More Women Smoking, But Men Smoke More

According to the most recent statistics, more women are smoking than previously and fewer men. Those men who do smoke, however, appear to be smoking more cigarettes per day.

The conclusion of statistics released on January 2 by National Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde, reads:

"The increase of the number of cigarettes smoked every day by regular smokers and the fact that few smokers are able to stay in the category of occasional smokers indicate the strong dependency produced by nicotine."

Who said cigarettes were not an addiction? — And a self-indulgence which not a single one of us can afford, health-wise.

Dear Doris: I'm 24 and I find that sex is the main entertainment in today's generation. I am a virgin and feeling miserable. Don't get me wrong: I have done petting and minor things like that but never all the way.

Most of my romances were disastrous. I have been lied to cheated on, told to get off my high horse and give in, and a lot of other comments that left a scar on my heart.

Mr. Right hasn't shown up yet and when he does I want to marry him, and give him something special and that's me.

Patchquilt Heart.

Dear Heart: Make sure that those "minor things like petting" have not been sufficiently major that you have allowed your boy friends to get physically worked up. This is not fair to you — nor to him.

Mr. Right will come along, and if you have maintained your self respect and possess your own body, he will adore you the more for it. Just don't toy with a man's physical urges and consider that the whole of virginity.

Dear Doris: I am a victim of foot trouble. My ankles and arches ache. I have had enough trouble with my feet to know a little about the way every nerve and organ reacts to painful feet.

Foot Troubles.

Dear Foot Troubles: Since foot troubles affect head troubles and heart troubles, you seem to be getting into my field too.

I would not be surprised if there are divorces that have been touched off by bad feet; from the desperate aching of bunions, corns and callouses and from fallen arches!

I am told that modern foot gear is the culprit. A sign in a shoe store window reads: "What's the good of money if your feet hurt?" Something to ponder! Yet that same store sells foot-deforming, narrow-toed, high-heeled shoes.

But we can repair damage. The common painful corn can be relieved by trimming by an expert. Ingrown toenails, which result from wearing narrow shoes, can practically all be cleared up by pressing the cuticle away from the nail itself and wearing wider shoes.

Arch troubles happen when the toes are squeezed. Shoes have to be broad enough to let the toes move; and flat heels allow proper weight distribution. Tight stretch sox and narrow shoes are something to avoid like the plague.

Let your doctor be your guide.

Alcohol Problem Only a Symptom Of Northern Industrial Activity

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — George Dawson is an old Indian trapper who thinks the problem of alcohol among his people here is beyond solution.

"It is too late now, they have gone too far," he said. "They come out of school and they don't know anything.

"They can't make a living so they just sit and drink."

He said schools teach native students the white way of life but white people generally get the edge when it comes to landing jobs.

"You can make a good living trapping. But the young people don't know how. Those schools don't teach them how to do it."

Health Minister Marc Lalonde said he believes the soaring alcohol abuse and high incidence of venereal disease are an inevitable result of increased industrial activity in the North.

"You try to plan, but it's a very difficult problem," Mr. Lalonde said in an interview during a recent inspection tour of medical facilities in the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

"How do you control the behavior of people? Prohibitions are not going to be the solution."

George Erasmus, a director of the Northwest Territories Indian and Metis Brotherhood, said bluntly in a Yellowknife interview: "If they are concerned about alcoholism, they shouldn't be building that Mackenzie Valley pipeline."

Mr. Lalonde was told by health officials throughout his whirlwind tour that alcohol abuse is the worst medical problem among adults in the North.

"The chief medical problem here is alcohol violence—shootings and whatnot," said Dr. M. E. Myers of Whitehorse.

Dr. Frank Timmermans, director of the health department's Baffin zone in the Eastern Arctic, said the problem is alcohol rather than alcoholism.

"Some of the settlements go on big binges when the booze comes in."

Heavy drinking isn't restricted to the native population, Dr. Timmermans said. "White people also drink more than the white people in the south."

One reason northerners tend to drink heavily is because "there is nothing else to do."

"Many of the people are on welfare and that sort of thing," he said. "There is no recreation and they get drunk because alcohol provides the only entertainment."

The intrusion of white society has created "the same cultural problems suffered by the Indian and Metis people in the south."

"They are really in the process of losing their identity and this results in a lot of hangups and insecurities," Dr. Timmermans said.

"If you add the experience of alcohol, it makes it much worse."

Violence, crime, child neglect, poor nourishment and unstable employment all arise from the alcohol problem.

The Northwest Territories Hospital Association said in a recent newsletter that statistics show injury and accidents are the cause of 30 per cent of all deaths and 50 per cent of all accidents are alcohol-related."

The association said that schizophrenia is the most common diagnosis of mental illness, a strong hint of cultural distress.

The only psychiatrist in the whole Yukon and Northwest Territories is stationed here. The federal health department has tried unsuccessfully for two years to find a psychiatrist for Yellowknife.

In Inuvik, N.W.T., the Committee for Original Peoples' Entitlement requested a $250,000 federal grant for the establishment and staffing of a halfway house "designed to provide help to those who are suffering from the effects of the excessive use of alcohol."

In a brief presented to Mr. Lalonde, the organization said a study released last year by the Northwest Territories Indian Brotherhood "emphasizes the need for native people to solve their own problems in their own way and recommends the setting up of a native-oriented rehabilitation centre and the funding of community-run alcohol programs."

Mr. Lalonde said the federal government plans to spend more money fighting people but it has not yet been decided how the money will be spent.

Designing Classic Girls' Wear A Henderson Family Business

TORONTO (CP) — Elen Henderson's mother, a daughter and a grandson help to keep her fashion-designing business in the family.

Her mother, Esther Ingham, still mans a sewing machine in the smallish factory in suburban Don Mills. Her daughter Shirley joined the firm about 15 years ago to look after the business end and Shirley's son, David Cheatley, is learning the business two days a week while studying at the University of Toronto.

Mrs. Henderson has established a reputation as Canada's leading designer of small girls' wear. Her designs have a custom-made look and are of high-quality fabrics, making them more expensive than the average children's clothes. Her party dresses are as much a status symbol with the young set as are Paris labels with their mothers.

At Christmas time, Holt Renfrew in Toronto regularly displays her red velveteen party dresses. Their mink-tail trim has become almost a trade mark. And her granny flannelette nightgowns are a traditional Christmas gift.

Recently, Simpsons' wedding windows in Toronto included several of Mrs. Henderson's popular flower-girl gowns.

While a number of children's wear firms have been forced to close, Mrs. Henderson said her spring orders are good.

"It's an odd reflection on our values," she said. "Cadillacs have been selling while there has been a slump in lower-priced cars and our clothes could be classed as the Cadillacs of children's wear."

But the business has its frustrations, she said. She has difficulties getting the exclusive fabrics she needs. To keep her clothes distinctive, she cannot repeat a design or fabric too often and it is not easy to get the smaller yardages she requires for each style

Getting experienced help is a problem but eight of the 12 workers in the plant and 15 home workers have been with the firm 15 to 25 years.

"Children's wear is even more frustrating when you realize our Size 14 fits a petite adult," she said. "Many of them buy our clothes at $35 when they would pay $100 for a similar garment from a women's dress firm. But we couldn't charge $100 for a young girl's dress and get any business."

The odd spelling of her first name resulted from her mother shifting the letter H from her own name of Ester Helen to Hester Elen for her daughter, who has always been called Elen.

Workers, Day Care Needs Surveyed by Government

OTTAWA (CP) — A survey of day-care needs for 67,000 federal employees in Ottawa and vicinity may lead to a conflict involving the treasury board, the Public Service Commission and the federal advisory council on the status of women.

The main question is whether the federal government should provide or subsidize day-care facilities for the children of its employees.

The PSC has distributed questionnaires to 8,000 federal public servants asking for their opinions on day care and whether they need day-care services now or in the future.

After survey findings are reviewed a report will be sent with recommendations to the treasury board, which controls federal government financing.

The board is preparing a policy on day-care services for federal public servants, but its current position is that day care is a social service and therefore the responsibility of the provinces.

If the treasury board does not change its position it may find itself in conflict with recommendations of the PSC survey, especially if this indicates a substantial need for day-care facilities among federal public servants.

A spokesman for the federal advisory council on the status of women said the government should set an example for the rest of the country by making better day-care facilities available for its employees.

She saw no difficulty in the federal government providing day-care facilities in many of its installations in Ottawa and neighboring Hull, Que.

Nola Landucci, head of the equal opportunities for women program at the Public Service Commission, said the PSC has no mandate to provide day-care services.

She said the role of the PSC is to advise the treasury board and facilitate possible federal action.

Wyeth at Home

CHADDS FORD, Pa. (AP) — Carolyn Wyeth is the one Wyeth artist who stayed home. She loves the old memories.

In the bright, curtainless living room of the 50-year-old house where she was born, she is surrounded by a bust of Beethoven, done by her father, N. C. Wyeth, and a portrait of her mother, painted by brother Andrew, one of the foremost artists in the United States.

"Pa bought the acreage because of the chestnut trees," she said. "And the illustrations for Treasure Island (the book by Robert Louis Stevenson) paid for it.

"The chestnuts died of the blight. Then Pa planted elms, and they died of the blight. But the apple orchard is still there."

Inside, everything is as it was. "If I move one thing, somebody will come in and say, 'Where is it?' So it all stays the same as when Ma and Pa were living."

Carolyn is older than Andrew, 57, and younger than sister Henriette Hurd, who is 67 and a well-known portrait artist.

"Pa was a perfectionist. He made us draw and draw and draw." She began 19 years of study with her father when she was 12.

"He wouldn't let me do anything but drawing, black and white, for six years. Andy was fast, like Pa. He got out of black and white in a year and a half."

Carolyn Wyeth never thought of herself as an artist until 12 years ago. Surrounded by a family of painters, including her brother-in-law and nephew, she studied and worked on, but without the focus, the ego and the drive an artist must possess. And she still doesn't like exhibitions and shows.

"I paint for myself," she said. "And I don't like publicity.

"Three paintings a year. I'm slow. I try to do a summer and winter landscape and one portrait a year. And about every two years a watercolor."

One of her chief delights is animals. She was an ardent horsewoman and rode in the local hunt for years. But when painting became important to her, she stopped riding.

Two Bodies Are Found In Lake

TORONTO (CP) — The bodies of a man and a woman were found in Lake Ontario on Sunday morning in separate places near the Toronto shoreline.

No names have been released.

the body of the woman was described as badly decomposed.

Nine Trampled

JAKARTA (Reuter) — Nine persons were trampled to death when thousands of pilgrims stampeded while trying to reach a traditional pilgrimage site on a hilltop in central Java, the Indonesian armed forces bulletin reported Sunday. The pilgrims were trying to get to the grave of the Javanese Moslem leader, Maulana Mahribi, last Wednesday.

Equality Urged

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Sam Gindin of Toronto, research director for the United Auto Workers, said Sunday that strikes in the public sector can be ended by giving the workers wages equal to those received by their counterparts in the private sector.

Arms Sale Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. Senate foreign relations subcommittee plans an in-depth study of United States arms sales to foreign countries. The policy inquiry will be headed by Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem. Minn.), who said Sunday the inquiry would include extensive hearings and perhaps a staff study. In the fiscal year ended last June 30, he said, $8.3 billion in U.S. military equipment was sold to 69 countries.

Plan Merit System

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — An official of the Unemployment Insurance Commission (UIC) says he expects a merit rating system will be introduced later this year in which temporary employees will have to pay a higher premium than steady workers.

Perle Mesta Dies

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Perle Mesta, longtime Washington hostess, died Sunday night at Baptist Medical Centre, a spokesman said.

Mrs. Mesta was one of Washington's top hostesses when the late president Harry S. Truman appointed her ambassador to Luxembourg in 1949.

Five-year Jog Ends

HIRADO Japan (AP) — After jogging about five days each month for five years, a 67-year-old grandmother has finally reached her marathon goal 1 000 miles from her Tokyo starting point.

Mrs. Aya Hatano was cheered Saturday by a large crowd as she reached her birthplace destination here in

Attacks System

TORONTO (CP) — Jeb Magruder says he learned a great deal about the penal system during his seven-month prison term for his part in the Watergate cover-up conspiracy.

"The system is absolutely disastrous for anybody, mind-boggling in its inefficiency," he told a news conference Saturday at Global television during a speaking tour of Canada and the United States.

"There's a tremendous lack of caring on the part of the institutional structure," he said. "There's a lack of interest in helping the lower third of society get out of the cycle."

Rustproofing Claims Are Termed Misleading

TORONTO (CP) — R. G. MacCormac, registrar of the Ontario Motor Vehicles Act, says there is a widespread tendency among vehicle rustproofing firms to puff up their advertising claims.

Mr. MacCormac, an official of the provincial ministry of consumer and commercial relations, said in an interview that rustproofers tend to "use loosely such terms as lifetime guarantee and 10-year warranty."

"In fact, there are no lifetime guarantees—no guarantee for the life of the product," he said. "It is misleading. The 10-year warranty is the same. Both merely cover the original owner."

Thimble Champs

CHESTERFIELD, England (Reuter) — Twelve young people, collecting money for a charity Sunday, emptied 162 gallons of water from a pond in 12 hours, using only a thimble.

They said they beat the previous world record for emptying water with a thimble—145 gallons set last year by a British youth club.

South Vietnamese Student Deported from Canada

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A south Vietnamese student at the University of Western Ontario has been deported to Saigon where, a friend says, he fears a jail sentence as a draft evader.

Robert Soper of the London department of manpower and immigration said Sunday that Mann Ngyuen 30, was deported Friday under an order issued here in agreement with a hearing board in Toronto.

His friend, Tien Ba Duong, a Vietnamese graduate student at the university, said in an interview that the Vietnamese government had sent a draft notice to Mr. Ngyuen's home in Vietnam before the government requested his return two years ago.

Mr. Ngyuen came to Canada nine years ago on a visa granted him under the Colombo Plan on the understanding that he would return to Vietnam when his program of studies is completed.

Mr. Duong said it was possible the military in Vietnam did not know that Mr. Ngyuen was still studying for his doctorate in economics.

The request for Mr. Ngyuen's return came after he had completed his undergraduate studies and achieved a master's degree in engineering.

"It was one of the saddest cases I ever had to deal with," said J. C. Leith, head of Western's economics department.

Competition Barred

TORONTO (CP) — James Monaco, public relations agent for Lighthouse, a Toronto rock group, says the group has been awarded an injunction to stop the sale in Canada of Lighthouse albums produced in the United States.

Mr. Monaco said Saturday that Lighthouse recently launched legal action against Record Wherehouse of Toronto, a company that imported unsold Lighthouse albums from the U.S. and sold them to Canadian distributors at a price lower than that charged by the Canadian manufacturer.

Mr. Justice John Mahoney of Ottawa announced his decision in favor of the Canadian manufacturer, GRT Records of Toronto, on Friday.

Paul Hoffret, a Lighthouse manager, said GRT has the exclusive right, by contract, to sell the Lighthouse product in Canada.

Technical Problems Studied

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — The Berger inquiry turns its attention to river crossings, slope stability and other geotechnical problems of an Arctic pipeline Monday as it begins its third week.

The agreement seems to be that Mr. Justice Thomas Berger will adjourn the inquiry Friday for the Easter break until the first week of April

When the inquiry re-opens in April, it will do so in Aklavik in the Mackenzie delta, one of the more than 20 northern communities most directly affected by the 2,600-mile natural gas pipeline proposed by Canadian Arctic Gas Pipeline Ltd.

The Berger inquiry is breaking new ground in its plans for the settlement visits. Mr. Justice Berger will go into the communities but will set no firm times for his meeting, nor the duration of his stay.

Quinte Fastball League Back for Another Season

The Quinte Fastball League is back for another season. Sunday at a do-or-die meeting, the league elected its executive and accepted application fees from six teams.

George Rutledge, though reluctant to do so, returned as president of the league for the 1975 season. Rutledge has been the head of the organization for many years now, and had planned on giving up the position. This year, however, with the problems that the league has had getting started, many felt his experience and knowledge would be vital in keeping things running smoothly and effectively.

His executive consists of Harold Bawden, vice-president, Vern Whalen, secretary, and Bill Shaw, treasurer. The four give the QFL one of the more experienced executives the league has ever had.

The meeting Sunday was one where the QFL could have died. If an executive hadn't been elected and six teams hadn't agreed to play, organizers would have stopped trying to get things going.

GEORGE RUTLEDGE

As it stands, the league will consist of Devolin Motors, Howard and Robert Printing, the Ellis Juniors and Trenton Auger's (all four are back from last season) an entry from Picton (basically comprised of last season's Bardon Supplies team) and a brand new entry from Wellington.

The league announced that the position of announcer-statistician is open for application. Anyone interested in the position should contact a member of the executive.

A meeting for all team representatives is being held at the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club on the corner of Dufferin and Queen Streets, Thursday at 7 p.m. There, the teams will discuss amendments to the constitution and the scheduling of games. All team reps are asked to be present.

A & J's, Milers In Final

The Belleville Broomball League finalists were decided Sunday night as Golden Mile shutout Art's Esso 2-0 and A and J's Drive-In Restaurant, Trenton, blanked Northern, the defending league-champs, 7-0.

Both series were two-out-of-three and both were decided in the first two games. Friday, Golden Mile nipped Art's 4-3 and A and J's shutout Northern 4-0.

Golden Mile took an early 2-0 lead in their contest and battled the rest of the way. Despite the desperate efforts of Art's in the late going, the lead stood up.

Jack Walsh and Kevin Kirby were the marksmen for the Milers.

Friday, Golden Mile jumped into a 4-0 lead and saw it diminish in the second half to 4-3 as Art's applied the pressure. The single goal margin was enough to win the contest.

Eric Johnston, Joe Iasenza, Keving Kirby and John Paul each scored once for the Milers and Dave Fox with two and Calvin Acorn replied for Art's.

Kevin Allen, Ron Cannons, Larry Wannamaker and Mike Paquette scored one goals apiece to hand A and J's the victory Friday night. Sunday, Ron Cannons fired three goals, Don Lane added a pair and Gilles Paradis and Yvon Lamer got one each as A and J's rolled to their win.

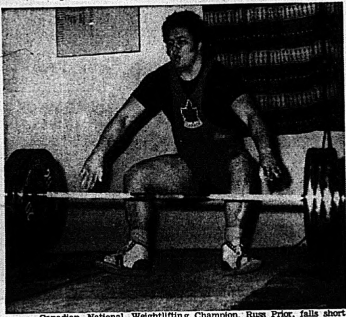
Golden Mile and A and J's now meet in the league championship and Northern and Art's playoff for the consolation championship. Both series are best-of-three and both begin Friday.

Rebels Take Championship

The Rebels took the Northern Electric Hockey League Championship Sunday with a 6-1 win over the Bear Cats.

Tom McDonald led the Rebels attack with a pair of goals while Bruce Pascoe, Rick Rosebush Joe Scanlon and Doug McCrory added singles.

Grant Sage scored the only goal of the game for the Bear Cats.



Canadian National Weightlifting Champion, Russ Prior, falls short of his mark on this lift. Prior holds the senior Commonwealth records in the snatch, clean and jerk and total. Saturday, at the Apollo Barbell Club, he attempted to break his records. Here, he missed his attempted 358 pound snatch, which would have established a new mark in that category for the Commonwealth. Prior did finish first in his weightclass with a 738 pound total.

Ling, Carleton Add Scoring Strength to McDonald's

The Belleville McDonald's brought the Ontario Fastball League club's number of signed players to six on the weekend when they picked up Steve Ling and Glen Carleton.

Ling, a former Belleville player, has taken up residence in Brockville. Now 25-years-old he has been playing in two different leagues for the past two seasons.

Carleton played last year with Rollins Construction of the Quinte Fastball League. Even though it was only his second year or organized softball, he adapted to the game very quickly and made his mark in the sport.

"Ling's a heck of a base runner," said the McDonald's general manager, Doug Adams, "he can really crack a ball too."

While playing for the Dombille Aces, in the Dundas Senior loop, Ling batted .340 and stole 20 bases. While in the Brockville City League the shortstop-outfielder carried a .375 average and stole 35 bases last year.

At 195 pounds, Ling adds some beef to the local Ontario Fastball League entry. For the past six weeks he's been working out in Brockville and will join the McDonald's training sessions this week.

STEVE LING

GLEN CARLETON

Carleton too is known for his batting ability. Last season, in the Quinte Fastball League, he batted over .400.

"He's young," said Adams, "but he's already proven he has outstanding ability and his versatility will come in handy."

Carleton, six-foot-one, not only filled in as catcher for Rollins, he played centre field, second base and first. As an outfielder and catcher he gained the respect of base runners throughout the league for his tremendous arm. At second and first, he proved he knew how to handle a glove

The 22-year-old, 175 pound youngster passed up a chance to join a semi-pro baseball team a few years ago.

Apollos and Trojans Break Even

The Apollo Barbell Club of Belleville hosted the Ottawa Trojans Saturday in a challenge weightlifting match and the two clubs battled to a tie with 80 points each.

The point system was the same as that used in international competition with 12 for first, nine for second, eight for third and seven for fourth.

The highlight of the afternoon included the establishment of three new Canadian Teenage records and the near establishment of three new Commonwealth records.

Ottawa's Mark Cardinal broke his own Canadian records in the snatch and the clean and jerk setting a new Teenage total.

The Trojan snatched 259, clean and jerked 319 and totalled 578. His teammate, Russ Prior, came within pounds of smashing his own Commonwealth records in all three categories. He attempted a 358 snatch and 446 clean and jerk, but missed on both of them. Combined they would have given a new total record as well.

Prior had to settle for winning his own weightclass (242) with a 336 snatch and a 402 clean and jerk for a 738 total. He finished almost 100 points ahead of Apollo's Bob Walt who checked in with a 639 total. Gary Walt finished third in 242 with a total lift of 623. Fourth went to Ottawa's Bob Davidson with a 578 total.

Cardinal won the superheavy weight with his 578 total.

The 198 class went to Gary Mathews of Ottawa. He lifted 556. Belleilvle's Manley Bly came second with a 418.

Paul Barrett, of the Apollo Club, walked away with the 181 class. He snatched 237 and clean and jerked 342 for a total of 579. Joel Carr-Braint, also of Belleville, came second with a 402 total.

Dan Robitaille, of Ottawa, was tops in 165 with a 545 total.

The Heayes brothers, Ron and Roger, were what the local club needed in the 132 and 148 class. Roger took 132 with a 358 total and Ron won 148 with a 474 total. Belleville's Terry Murphy was second in 148 with a 385 total.

SETS RECORD

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Yevgeni Kulikov of the Soviet Union broke the world 500-metres speed-skating record Sunday for the second time in two days. He was clocked in 37.97 seconds Sunday, breaking the mark of 37.99 he set on Saturday.

Dixie Lee on Win Streak

It was a rocky weekend for Belleville teams in Ontario Minor Hockey Association exhibition matches, unless you were a member of the Dixie Lee Minor Peewees.

Dixie Lee picked up the only win of seven game played by three Belleville teams and it was the eighth exhibition victory in a row for the Peewee Minor squad.

Four goals by Neil McKeown sparked Dixie Lee past Brockville 6-3. Stu Emerson and Steve Molaski each counted once. David Ashton, Rory MacLeod and Rich Manderville each picked up two assists Hugh Murray, Jim McKenna and Ernie Wolters had the Brockville goals.

Belleville Kinsmen Major Bantams played host to Toronto Royal York Rangers for a weekend twin bill, coming out on the short end Saturday, 8-4, and dropping a 6-2 decision, Sunday.

Nelson Frederick had two Kinsmen goals, Saturday while Danny Vance and Gary Clapp chalked up singles. Ward Morison and Vance were the Belleville marksmen, Sunday.

Belleville McInroy-Maines Minor Bantams had to settle for an 8-8 tie for their efforts in three weekend games.

Saturday in Kingston, Clarence Broekema fired four goals with one each for Mark Crawford, Billy Rowe, Steve Molina and Shawn Mulroney as McInroy-Maines earned the draw.

Stepping off at Napanee on the return trip, McInroy-Maines came out on the short end of a 9-4 score. Broekema score a pair with singles for Jeff Simpson and Mulroney.

Sunday, in a return match with Kingston, the Belleville team fell 10-5. Kent Peirson sparked the visitors with three goals. McInroy marksmen were Crawford with a pair, Mulroney, Greg Sprout and Simpson.

Belleville Rollins Peewee Majors suffered an 8-3 reversal at the hands of Kingston Township at Centre 70, Sunday.

3 Stirling Teams In Semi-finals

STIRLING — Three of this community's Ontario Minor Hockey Association DD representatives have advanced to provincial semi-final series.

Bird's IGA Juveniles became the third Stirling team to make it when they scored a 6-4 home ice win Sunday night over Beaverton to take the quarter-final set 3-2 in games. Beaverton had forced a fifth game with a convincing 12-2 win, Saturday.

Rob DeJong's two goals sparked the IGA squad Sunday. Pat Long, Cliff Reid, Wally Blakeley and Jeff Farrell scored the others as the team qualified to meet Elmvale in the next round. Stirling marksmen in Beaverton, Saturday, were Terry Bailey and Dave Jeffs.

No dates for the Elmvale-Stirling series have been announced.

Saturday, Sitrling Legion Peewees advanced to the semi-finals by downing Pickering 5-3 in the fifth and deciding game of their set. Brian Doxtator had two Legion goals with singles for Brian Wood, Ron Sills and Ferdinand Klompmaker.

The Legion team opens a best of five set in Stroud, Tuesday night.

Stirling Riverside Structures Bantams will open semi-final playoff action tonight (Monday) in Maple. The teams hook up in Stirling in Game 2, Friday, at 9 p.m.

The IOOF Midgets bowed out of OMHA play, Friday, losing 6-3 to Beaverton.

Birt's Takes Series Opener

TRENTON — Bruce Leedham and Rick Matheson each hit the 100-point plateau for the season here Sunday night as Birt's Handy Stand whipped Richmond Hill Rams 10-5 in the opener of a best of seven Ontario Minor Hockey Association Juvenile AA semi-final series.

Leedham and Matheson each socred twice for Birt's. It was Matheson's 49th goal of the season Brian MacKintosh and Bob Thompson were other two-goal shooters for the winners. Thompson also added five assists for a productive night.

Harold Roberts and Scott Poole took care of the other Trenton goals

Dave Berseth and Tony Robinson looked after the Richmond Hill scoring. The Rams got three goals from Berseth and a pair by Robinson

Birt's coach Roger Drake and his Richmond Hill counterpart will not be around when the teams hook up in Game 2 in Richmond Hill, Tuesday at 8 p.m. Both coaches will sit out a game since their teams surpassed the 36-minute limits for penalties. Trenton drew 65 minutes and the Rams, 53.

Third game in the series is scheduled for the Community Gardens here, Thursday night at 8 p.m. with the teams meeting in Richmond Hill, Sunday, March 23 at 2.30 p.m. in Game 4.

Jets In Final

HALIBURTON — The Bancroft Junior 'D' Jets moved in to the finals of the Eastern Ontario Hockey Association championship on Saturday night with a tremendous come-from-behind 8-6 victory over the Haliburton Huskies.

In a game which had the first four goals scored by Haliburton, the Bancroft players showed that teamwork can change the outcome.

An overtime period was required to break the six-all tie, however the winning Bancroft goal, scored by Earl Robbins and the insurance marker landed by Rick Dubreauil gave the game securely to Bancroft.

Several hundred Bancroft fans who made the trip to Haliburton for the fourth game in the semi-final series watched Jet's player, Dana Neuman end the Huskies first period scoring streak with a well placed goal.

In the second period, the Jets picked up steam as Jimmy Goodwin and Neuman both put the puck in.

Teammate, Murray Wilson mended the third period with three goals, all scored in a five minutes span, to tie the score.

The Bancroft team will now meet the Lakefield Lumber Kings for a seven game final.

The first game will be played in Lakefield this week.

Backing from Yardmen A Boost for Shells

RENFREW — Whenever they get some backing from Belleville's Yardmen's Benefit Fund, the Belleville Shell Juveniles always seem to pick up some silverware.

Belleville's Juvenile all-stars won the January Yardmen-sponsored tournament.

They weren't as fortunate Saturday, dropping 2-1 and 5-2 decisions to be eliminated from the Renfrew Juvenile Tourney, but centre Rick Growden did pick up a most valuable player trophy for the trip sponsored by the Yardmen.

Linemate Ross MacLeod accounted for the only Shell goal in their opening game loss to Ottawa Uplands, while other wingers Martin Thistel and MacLeod connected against Kingston in a losing cause.

Lions Nosed Out

CORNWALL (Special) — The Belleville Lion's Midgets were beaten out in the semi-final of the consolation championship here on the weekend, losing 4-3 to Prescott.

In the Belleville team's opener, they dropped a 4-3 score to Beaconsfield in overtime. Pat McGinn, Randy Ferrar and Sandy Waterson did the scoring for the locals.

The Lions bounced right back with a 7-4 victory over Potsdam, New York. Paul Hayman tallied a pair with singles going to Calvin Pope, Marty Lowry, Waterson, Tony Bennett and Rob Chase.

In the Prescott game, Bennett, Hayman and Waterson did the scoring.

AUSTRA RALLES

LUXEMBOURG (Reuter) — Austria came from behind to beat Luxembourg 2-1 in their Group II European championship soccer qualifying match Sunday. Austria and Wales now lead the Group standings with four points each.

Mayor Robin Jeffery was on hand Saturday to present the Belleville Dixie Lee novices with their division's pennant trophy. Team captain, Brian Clarey and alternate captain Jeff Brown accepted the award. Robbie Bromley (left) is the Dixie Lee's assistant coach and Lou Burley (back-right) is the coach. Don Rose back-left) is the club's sponsor. The novices finished the regular season in the Belleville Minor Hockey Association with 14 wins, one loss and three ties to capture first place.

Canucks Nip Hawks

Busy Setting Records, Penguins Eye Rangers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pittsburgh Penguins spent the weekend fattening up against the National Hockey League's two expansion teams and rewriting an assortment of club records.

But after the Penguins beat Kansas City Scouts 6-3 Sunday and Washington Capitals 12-1 the night before, coach Marc Boileau wasn't interested in looking back.

"We now are leading the Rangers in total points," he said, looking ahead to the Stanley Cup playoffs, where first-round home-ice advantage is determined by total points for all but division leaders.

"But we'll need every point we can get the rest of the way. They have a game in hand."

In other Sunday games, Vancouver Canucks took over first in the Smythe Division with a 4-3 win over Chicago Black Hawks, Philadelphia Flyers defeated Los Angeles Kings 3-0, Minnesota North Stars edged Detroit Red Wings 4-3, Boston Bruins beat St. Louis Blues 7-2 and Buffalo Sabres whipped Toronto Maple Leafs 11-3.

Saturday, Chicago beat Minnesota 5-2, Montreal blanked Los Angeles 3-0, New York Islanders beat Boston 3-1 and Toronto tied Philadelphia 4-4.

The two weekend games before sellout crowds gave Pittsburgh four team records. Sunday's victory, the 33rd of the season, was a new high. Saturday's 12 goals and 65 shots on goal were both records, as was the two-game total of 18 goals.

Ab MacDonald and Rick Kehoe each scored twice in the win over the Scouts.

Coach Phil Maloney called Vancouver's win over Chicago a team effort. "Everyone was up for the game because they knew what it meant," he said.

Maloney had special praise for Gerry O'Flaherty, who had two goals, and rookie goalie Ken Lockett.

"I got a super effort from Gerry O'Flahery, who was all over the ice. I guess I'd have to say that goalie Ken Lockett played the best game of his career."

Lockett replaced Gary Smith, who suffered a mild concussion in the second period when Phil Russell scored for Chicago to tie the game at 1-1.

Chicago coach Billy Reay wasn't so proud of his team's effort.

"The two teams we had to beat this week, St. Louis on Wednesday and Vancouver tonight, really put it to us," he said.

The Canucks thus grabbed a two-point lead over the Hawks and four points over St. Louis.

Goalie Bernie Parent, who suffered a badly-bruised shoulder in Saturday's game at Toronto, was a surprise starter in the Philadelphia nets Sunday where he made 26 saves to record his 11th shutout of the season.

The win, on goals by Tom Bladon, Andre Dupont and Ross Lonsberry, increased Philadelphia's Patrick Division lead to 15 points over second-place New York Rangers.

Centre Gil Perreault and linemate Rick Martin each scored three goals and Rick dudley had two in Buffalo's romp over the Leafs whose unbeaten streak ended at nine games. The streak had started last month following a 4-1 loss to Buffalo.

Perreault, who added three assists, pushed his goal total to 35, while Martin, with two assists, now has 47 goals this season. Both have lost time due to injuries and Martin could be out of action again after he suffered a thumb injury in a fight with Leafs' Lanny McDonald in the third period.

McGraw, Scarce Have Clubs Upset

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was a bad day for Mac Scarce, who New York Mets hope will do for their bullpen whhat Tug McGraw didn't. It was a worse day for Tu MgcGraw, who Philadelphia Phillies hope will do for their ubllpen what Mac Scarce didn't.

While Scarce was giving a textbook demonstration of how not to pitch, McGraw was flying from the Phillies' training camp to Philadelphia, where he likely will undergo midweek surgery to remove a walnut-sized lump on his bark.

Dr. Phillip Marone, the team physician, said a biopsy will be taken, but added: "It is my opinion he does not have cancer."

He described the surgery as "not major," adding: "One small muscle will have to be cut to get to the trouble spot, but there should be no major muscle involvement in the operation."

The Phils did receive some good pitching news Sunday when Steve Carlton, Dick Ruthven and Joe Hoerner stifled St. Louis Cardinals 1-0 on eight hits.

Scarce, 3-8 with a 5.01 ERA for the '74 Phillies before being traded for McGraw, didn't do much to ease the Mets' bullpen woes. In 1 2-3 innings he issued six walks, wild-pitched two runs home and served up a two-run homer to Buddy Bradford that helped Chicao Wghite Sox beat the Mets 6-1.

Sam McDowell, a non-roster pitcher trying to make a comeback with Pittsburgh, fired three shutout innings but the Pirates bowed 12-3 to New York Yankees, who released the 32-gmal 1974 campaign. Alex Johnson homered for the Yanks.

Elsewhere, the red-hot Montreal Expos rallied for three runs in the eighth inning and defeated a split Houston squad 3-2 for their seventh consecutive triumph. Montreal's Dave McNally made his spring debut and pitched three innings, allowing one unearned run.

In other Sunday games, Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Astros' other squad 7-3, Baltimore Orioles beat Atlanta Braves 8-5, Kansas City Royals beat Texas Rangers 7-5, Cincinnati Reds edged Detroit Tigers 6-5, Minnesota Twins defeated Boston Red Sox 5-1, a split California squad defeated Milwaukee Brewers 4-2, Oakland A's beat the rest of the Angels 13-4, San Diego Padres defeated Cleveland Indians 4-2 and San Francisco Giants beat Chicago Cubs 6-1.

In Saturday's action, Texas beat Kansas City 1-0, Philadelphia edged a split Minnesota team 2-1, Chicago White Sox beat New York Mets 10-4, Montreal edged the other Minnesota squad 1-0, Atlanta edged Baltimore 5-4, St. Louis edged Detroit 5-4, Cincinnati defeated Boston 5-2, one California squad edged Milwaukee 3-2, the other California team beat Oakland 5-3, Cleveland whipped San Diego 9-1, San Francisco beat Chicago Cubs 3-1, Los Angeles defeated Houston 4-1 and New York Yankees edged Pittsburgh 3-2.

Barrie Midgets Close with Win

MOSCOW (CP) — The Canadian national midget hockey champions from Barrie, Ont., scored an 8-1 victory Sunday over the Wings of the Soviet.

A capacity crowd of just over 3,600 watched at the Central Red Army arena as the Canadians closed out their five-game exhibition series in Moscow by recording their first victory.

In four previous contests the Canadians had two ties against two losses.

The Canadians led 2-0 at the end of the first period and 5-1 after 40 minutes of play.

Centre Robert Carner and winger Robert Coulson each had two goals. Single scores came from Shane Ptarsall, Jim Angus, Peter Trzecak and Bradley Tamblyn.

Wings' Vladimir Gladishev tipped in Vladimir Jezov's goalmouth pass to ruin Canadian goaltender Doug Kean's shutout bid at the 17:29 mark of the second period.

For the first time, the Canadians outshot their opposition 25-20 over 60 minutes of play.

Keans was particularly sharp, especially in the opening minutes of play, when the Soviets mounted their biggest scoring threat.

"I guess you could say the game was a little bit easier for me to play tonight,' said Keans. "But things started off just as bad as they did in the other four games. We were a little disorganized at first.

"Then we settled down and played our game. After we scored our first goal things got a bit easier.'

The Canadians have been carrying and dressing three netminders for each game. All three saw action Sunday. Mike Park replaced Keans with 10 minutes left to play and the score 8-1, and John Collins replaced Park for the final five minutes of play.

One of the initially-scheduled six games had to be cancelled. A win in that contest, against the Spartak team, would had given the Canadians six points and drawn them equal with the Russians in over-all competition.

Friday's game against Spartak had been slated for the Palace Sports at Sokolniki Park, but it was closed by municipal officials pendings results of an investigation of an accident there following the second Canadian-Soviet game last Monday night, in which an undetermined number of Soviet fans were killed and injured.

Apparently the crowd rushed out of the arena after the game ended (a 3-3 tie with the Soviet national team), and a young woman tripped going down a steep flight of exterior concrete steps. Fans rushing down after her tripped and fell on top of one another, causing a human pile-up.

Although Soviet officials failed to give exact numbers, it is believed five people were killed and another 18 seriously injured.

"I believe we could have gone out of here with a tie, if we had been able to play Spartak in that sixth game," said Canadian coach Lloyd Pearsall.

Bears Too Good For Blues

EDMONTON (CP) — A decade of playoff domination by University of Toronto Varsity Blues over University of Alberta Golden Bears ended Sunday.

The Bears beat the Blues 5-2 to win the hockey championship of the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union.

The victory was particularly sweet for Clare Drake, Alberta's coach for the last 17 seasons. His team had never defeated Tom Watt's Toronto crew in playoffs during the last decade.

"It really felt good beating Toronto," said Drake.

The Bears won the University Cup in 1964 and in 1968, but never against the Blues. Toronto won the title in seven of the previous nine seasons.

Face Tough Schedule

Inept Toros Cause Coach Leduc Concern

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Toros' coach Bob Leduc is a little concerned and you can hardly blame him.

With the Toros scheduled to play first-place teams four times in their next eight games, he's wondering if they can hold off Edmonton in the battle for a playoff berth in the World Hockey Association's Canadian Division.

The Toros hold a nine-point advantage but the Oilers have five games in hand. And that's one reason Sunday night's 7-5 loss to New England Whalers was a big disappointment.

"I'll tell you, I'm worried,' Leduc said. "We score five goals tonight and we end up losing. Our defence and goaltending haven't been that good lately and unless it straightens out, we're going to be on the outside looking in."

The Whalers are in substantially better shape. They clinched at least a tie for the East Division crown Sunday night when second-place Cleveland Crusaders lost to Houston Aeros 2-1. New England is 38-24-5 for 81 points and Cleveland is 29-36-3 for 61 points.

In other Sunday games, Chicago Cougars beat San Diego Mariners 4-2, Vancouver Blazers beat Quebec Nordiques 4-2 and Winnipeg Jets defeated Edmonton 10-1.

Saturday, New England beat Edmonton 6-2, Indianapolis Racers whipped Baltimore Blades 7-3 and Vancouver defeated Quebec 7-4.

The Toros are 37-31-2 for 76 points and face West Division leader Houston tonight.

Mike Byers led the Whalers offence with two goals.

Francois Rochon scored three goals in the Cougars' win over San Diego.

Rochon and linemates Gary MacGregor and Mark Lomenda accounted for all their team's goals. MacGregor got the other score, his 36th of the season.

"We just shook a slump, that's all," said Rochon who increased his season's total to 25 goals. "Six games without a point was really bugging us. Our line was just trying to do our share."

Rochon scored his first goal midway through the first period to tie the game at 1-1. He put Chicago ahead for good in the second period with two more goals.

"We were sluggish in the first period until Rochon scored his first goal," said Cougars' player-coach Pat Stapleton. "It hit someone's stick and went into the net. That was the spark we needed.

"I thought this was our best game in the last three weeks."

Rob Walton, Ron Chipperfield and Hugh Harris scored to put Vancouver on top 3-0 and Quebec never recovered. Duane Rupp picked up the final Blazers' goal and Serge Bernier scored twice for Quebec.

Bobby Hull scored three goals, giving him 66 for the year, for Winnipeg. The Jets broke it open with four goals in the first period, including a pair by Veli-Pekka Ketola just 32 seconds apart.

Marty Howe's goal at 4:34 of the middle period gave Houston its winning margin. Frank Hughes got the first Houston goal while Skip Krake scored for Cleveland.

Whitby Takes Opener

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Whitby McDonald's defeated Brantford Foresters 4-1 Saturday in the opening game of their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Senior A semi-final playoff series.

The second game will be played Wednesday in Whitby.

Bob Munro scored three goals for Whitby and assisted on the other. His first two goals, 38 seconds apart in the second period, wiped out the lead given to Brantford by Tom Polonic.

Munro set up Doug Tate to make it 3-1 by the end of the second period, then scored the final goal early in the third period.

Whitby outshot Brantford 36-31 before a crowd of 411.

Doug Woodcock – Second Run Does It

A First for Oshawa Skier

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo. (CP) — Doug Toodcock of Oshawa, Ont., scored his first professional ski victory Sunday, beating Jean-Noel Augert of France in the dual slalom final.

Woodcock, also the first Canadian to win on the pro tour in four years, picked up $8,000 for the win.

Roger Rossal-Mignod of France finished third.

Augert beat Woodcock by .124 seconds in the first run but Woodcock came back to beat the Frenchman by .413 in the second run.

Other Canadians lost out in the early rounds. Damien Lee of Toronto defeated Henri Bachleda of Austria in preliminaries and then lost to Scott Pyles of the U.S. while Bob Ewan of Old Chelsea, Que., got by Frenchman Pierre Poutle-Nobel and then lost to Joseph Odermatt of Switzerland.

Paul Carson of Toronto lost in the first round to Werner Bliener of Austria.

Rangers Lead Celtic by 8 Points

LONDON (CP) — Rangers moved closer to the First Division title in the Scottish League and Everton got a little breathing room in the English League's race following a heavy schedule of soccer games Saturday.

Rangers stretched their first-place lead over Celtic to eight points with six games left for both clubs with a 2-1 triumph over Dundee. Celtic—champions for the last 11 years—lost 1-0 at home to Dundee United when Andy Gray scored in 32 minutes.

Everton, meanwhile, went to Leeds and wound up with a 0-0 tie while second-place Burnley lost 2-1 to West Ham United. Eerton now havs 43 points, three more than Burnley and four ahead of Stoke.

Ipswich, Liverpool and Derby have 38 points each, one ahead of Leeds, Middlesbrough and Sheffield United.

Rangers made it 22 wins against two defeats and four draws with their win oer Dundee. Derek Parlane scored the winning goal for Rangers, who played with only 10 men when Colin Stein was ordered off after 37 minutes.

In another Scottish ame, Ian Munro scored three goals to lead Hibernian to a 5-1 triumph over Dunfermline. Rangers now have 48 points, Celtic 40 and Hibernian 39.

At Leeds, Duncan Mackenzie missed a good opportunity for Leeds within the first minute when he headed the ball over the bar from five yards out. He had two other fine chances but couldn't connect.

Other First Division scores were: Stoke 2 Derby 1; Wolverhampton 7 Chelsea 1; Ipswich 5 Newcastle 4; Arsenal 1, Birmingham 1; Luton 1, Carlisle 1; Coventry 2 Leicester 2; Liverpool 0 Sheffield United 0; Middlesbrough 3 Tottenham 0 and Queen's Park Rangers 2 Manchester City 0.

Stoke City trailed 1-0 after Kevin Hector scored for Derby in the 49th minute. Jimmy Greenhoff got the tying goal, then added the winner a minute later.

West Ham pleased a home crowd of 28,830 by coming from behind to beat Burnley. Alan Taylor got the winning goal in the 76th minute after taking a pass from Keith Robson.

Wolverhampton came alive in style against Chelsea, scoring four goals in the second half for their biggest home win in 10 years. John Richards had two goals and Willie Carr, recently acquired from Coventry, scored one.

Middlesbrough went ahead against Tottenham when John Hicton scored in the fourth minute. Graham Souness completed the scoring with a goal in the 44th minute and one in the 81st minute.

Frank Worthington and Bob Lee scored for Leicester in its tie with Coventry. Alan Green and Mike Ferguson, who connected late in the game, replied for Coventry.

Don Rogers scored both goals for Queen's Park Rangers in their win over Manchester City.

In the English Second Division, Manchester United remained five points ahead of its closest rival with a 1-1 draw at home against Norwich. Aston Villa took over second from Sunderland on goal average by blanking Southampton 3-0. Sunderland and Nottingham Forest tied 0-0.

Frustration Wiped Out

54th Title for Nicklaus

MIAMI (AP) — There have been 53 other American golf victories for Jack Nicklaus, along with assorted foreign triumphs in the British Open, the Australian Open and the World Cup.

But his 54th win, which tied him for fourth place on the all-time winning list, was particularly pleasing.

The triumph in the Doral open golf tournament Sunday wiped out the memory of a collapse that cost him the title in the Jackie Gleason tournament two weeks ago.

It wrote an end to a series of frustrations that have plagued the Golden Bear since last fall. And it came with Johnny Miller in the field.

"I read the papers like everybody else," Nicklaus said when asked his reaction to Miller's challenge to Jack's position as the game's premier performer.

"He's won a lot of tournaments the past year or so. And he'll win a lot more. It's good for me and good for the game to have someone playing very well."

But Nicklaus, who had a final-round 68 and won by three strokes with a 276 total, isn't ready to change his schedule or shift his priorities to meet the challenge.

"My schedule is the same as it's been for five or six years," Nicklaus said. "I played three in the west, I've played two in Florida. I'll play one more and go to Augusta with six tournaments.

"That hasn't varied by more than one tournament in several years."

The Masters in Augusta, Ga., is scheduled for April 10-13.

Bert Yancey and Forrest Fezler, playing Sunday behind Nicklaus, had closed to within a single stroke of Jack as he stood on the tee on the 18th hole, a water-guarded layout that's probably the toughest on the 7,028-yard, par-72 Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club.

Jack needed to make par four to retain his advantage. He made three.

Ashe Tops Borg

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Top-seeded Arthur Ashe of the United States beat second-seeded Swede Bjorn Borg 6-4, 7-6 Sunday to win the men's singles final in the $60,000 World Championship Tennis Green Group tournament. Ash won $12,000.

As expected, South Africans Bo Hbewitt and Frew MacMillan easily beat Italians Corrado Barazzutti and Antonio Zugarelli 6-4, 6-3 to win the men's doubles title.

HAMPTON, Va. (AP) — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors of the United States rallied strongly in the final two sets Sunday to win the local Independent Players Association tennis tournament with a 3-6, 6-3, 6-0 victory over Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia. Connors won $10,000 and Kodes earned $4,000.

Monumental Odds

Gary Davis, 25, is overcoming monumental odds in his quest to become a free-lance computer operator. Mr. Davis is paralysed from the shoulders down as a result of a spinal tumor and has been a patient at Kingston General Hospital since 1966. Now by means of a communication device developed at Queen's University, he spends two to four hours a day doing computer programming. Gary operates a computer terminal fitted with special display and selection units by blowing into a mouth-piece. (CP Photo)

FATHERS GET ATTENION

WELLAND, Ont. (CP) — Equal rights seem to be spreading and in this case to the male portion of the population. The board of directors of Family and Children's Services of the Niagara egion passed a motion to give more attention to the single fathers in the unmarried parent helpline.

Kingston Cripple Operates Computer

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Gary Davis, 25, is overcoming monumental odds in his quest to become a free-lance computer programmer.

Mr. Davis, paralysed from the shoulders down as a result of a spinal tumor, has been a patient at Kingston General Hospital since 1966.

The North Augusta, Ga., native studied under tutors for two years after going to the hospital and later took several computer programming courses at Queen's University.

Now, by means of an unusual communication aid developed by the biomedical engineering department at Queen's, he spends two to four hours a day doing computer programming.

A computer terminal set up in the hospital basement is hooked up to Queen's computer by a telephone line. It is fitted with special display and selection units which enable Mr. Davis to operate it by blowing into a mouthpiece.

The message is sent through to the computer at Queen's and comes back within minutes—a vast improvement over the method he used previously.

Before the terminal was installed he typed out his programs, initially with a mouth stick and later with a pneumatic device. Then they had to be taken to the university and fed into the computer.

"That took too long," he said. "By the time the message came back I had forgotten what I sent."

In the room with the terminal is a special table that rotates on a television antenna motor. Books on computer programming, leisure reading and a typewriter are all within reach.

Jiri Vasa, an electronics engineer, and Denis Lywood, a physicist, have developed a device allowing Mr. Davis more independence in his hospital room. He can turn on and off his table lamp, television, fan and the lights on his aquarium simply by puffing and sucking on a mouthpiece.

The device consists of a control box to which the electrical appliances are wired. By puffing on the mouthpiece, attached to the head of his bed, the patient can move the button on the control box to the correct position for the particular appliance he wants to operate, and then by sucking on the mouthpiece he can turn the appliance on.

"This device makes it possible for severely disabled people to have a great deal of control over their environment," said Dr. D. C. Symington, head of the department of rehabilitation at Queen's and at the hospital.

"A lot of people who are severely disabled feel imprisoned, unable to get out and do things for themselves," Dr. Symington said. "They feel because they have a disability they need to be handicapped.

"This is not so."

Dr. Symington said the device can be used by people with arthritis, multiple sclerosis, muscular dystrophy and a variety of other disabilities.

A lot of popular flowers and vegetables take longer to mature and bear fruit or flower than our climate provides. This means they have to be given a head start by planting them indoors in March or April, then transplanting the seedlings outdoors in May or June. This applies to tomatoes, peppers, cauliflower, onions, petunias, snaps, begonias etc.

Now is the time. Start them in our peat pots, potting soil, trays etc. We even have those intriguing new fluorescent growth chambers.

Buffalo Is Better Than Beef

HANEY, B.C. (CP) — Wayne Cruikshank has long admired the huge and shaggy buffalo.

Last May he got his own, a bull purchased from a Vancouver game farm.

"I often stand and gaze at my bull and reflect what a magnificent and beautiful animal he is," said Mr. Cruikshank, owner of the Horseshoe Stables near Haney, about 40 miles east of Vancouver.

Mr. Cruikshank is a member of the American National Buffalo Association.

"Not everybody thinks a buffalo is beautiful," he said. "But there are a lot of people who do and lots of people who want to own one."

He said that while about 99 per cent of Canada's buffalo are found in government-protected parks, in the United States about 99 per cent are on private ranches.

Mr. Cruikshank said there were about 35,000 head of buffalo in North America last year and the number is increasing by about 5,000 annually.

During a three-year period he plans to raise buffalo for breeding and then he will introduce buffalo steaks.

He explained that buffalo are cheaper to raise than cattle and buffalo meat is higher in protein and has less cholesterol.

"When you consider that beef cattle have about seven to nine per cent protein value and buffalo have 19 to 21 per cent and yet require less feed to get there you can see what value buffalo could be to the consumer."

The Haney rancher said the average buffalo calf sells for about $575 and in the eastern provinces the price may be as much as $1,000.

Mr. Cruikshank recently bought 15 buffalo calves from a rancher in southeastern Oregon and said he has already sold 13. He has ordered seven more.

Mr. Cruikshank said buffalo have an independent temperament and are not as shy as most cattle.

"I'm not saying the buffalo is dangerous, as you would regard a bull in a field as dangerous. It's just that the buffalo is a big animal—they can stand six feet at the shoulder and weigh an average of 2,000 pounds—and has a lively curiosity.

"And when you get an animal that big curious about you, it's a good idea to watch your step."

National Trust, a corporation formed 80 years ago to preserve lands of natural beauty and sites and houses of historic interest, today protects more than 1,050 properties in England. The gilt decorated drawing room at Polesden Lacey, Surrey, was restored by the private charity. (CP Photo)

Britons Preserve Historic Sites

LONDON (CP) — Eighty years ago, when industrial expansion was beginning to scar the landscape, a group of far-sighted Britons began worrying about the fate of the countryside and of historic buildings.

The result was the birth of the National Trust, a body which today protects more than 1,050 properties covering a total of more than 400,000 acres. It is a private charity, depending on nearly 500,000 members and other public-spirited citizens for its income.

The notice convening the trust's organization meeting called for creation of a responsible body "to act as a corporation for the holding of the lands of natural beauty and sites and houses of historic interest, to be preserved intact for the nation's use and enjoyment."

It was signed by Sir Robert Hunter, a prominent solicitor who became the trust's first chairman; Octavia Hill, who had been active in housing reform, and Canon Hardwicke Rawnsley, vicar of Crosthwaite in the Lake District and the trust's honorary secretary for 25 years until his death.

Its first acquisitions were modest, a few acres of cliffland on Cardigan Bay in Wales, donated by a friend of Rawnsley, and a 14th century thatched house in Sussex, bought for &10.

By 1914, the trust owned 82 properties and in 1923 the number had jumped to 102.

As its responsibilities grew, the trust became more selective, taking into its safekeeping only land of the highest quality. In the 1920s and 1930s it acquired such great buildings as Bodiam Castle, Tattersall Castle and Montacute.

Meanwhile, far-sighted owners were becoming increasingly concerned about the effect of mounting taxation on the future of country houses.

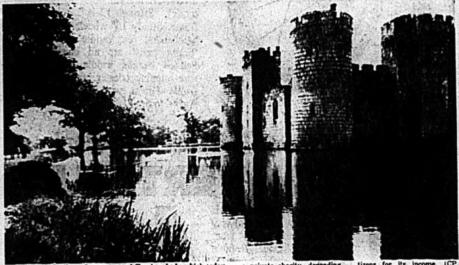
The problem eventually was eased by the Country House Scheme, permitting an owner to endow and hand over a historic country house to the trust, together with contents that gave it its special character. The donor and his successors were allowed to continue living there on condition that public access was permitted on specified days.

In the last 25 years the trust has taken over some of Britain's finest country houses.

It has also launched Enterprise Neptune, a project to save the best of the British coastline. It has spent £2½ million to acquire nearly 400 miles of cliffs, shores and dunes including part of the White Cliffs of Dover.

But its resources continue to be taxed by the increasing threat posed by inflation on many surviving country estates. The trust is determined to maintain its independent role as a safety net in such circumstances, said the Earl of Antrim, its current chairman.

He said another growing problem is the wish to give maximum access to trust properties while avoiding damage and high repair costs caused by visitors.



Bodiam Castle, Sussex, England, was built in 1386 and is owned by the National Trust, a body which today protects more than 1,050 properties in England. It is a private charity, depending on nearly 500,000 members and other public spirited citizens for its income. (CP Photo)

$500.00 Federal Grant Available Now For First-time Home Buyers — Start Building Tomorrow With THE SELF-HELP HOME PLAN
Low Cost - NO DOWN PAYMENT Housing FROM ROLLINS LUMBER
"SHOULD I BUILD NOW WHEN PRICES ARE HIGH?"
It may surprise some people that this same question has been asked continually for years and years. It seems that everything is relative. While building materials were cheaper ten years ago, your paycheck was a lot smaller as well. There is no sense kidding ourselves, quality materials cost money, but when assembled properly into the form of a house — their value doubles. You can own that house for far less than you think with the Self-Help Home Plan.
Rollins Lumber once again suggests that you make your move now. Here's why: (a) It seems obvious that prices are not going to go down. (b) Interest rates are as low as they'll ever be. (c) Mortgage money is presently available. (d) We have approved building lots available, but they are getting scarce. (e) If you build before October 31, 1975, first-time home buyers may be eligible for the $500.00 government grant.
We have ready-to-build plans available and we will assist you in arranging the proper mortgage. Basically what Rollins Lumber has done is lowered the cost of home ownership and eliminated a lot of the red tape to make it easier for you. You don't even need a Down Payment. Call today — there's nothing to stop you now!
Contact GEORGE MILLS or DAVE MARVIN for the details

BIRTHS

SPENCER — Ralph and Susan (nee Lazier) wish to announce the arrival of Laura Marie, weighing 9 lbs. 7 ozs. on Friday, March 14, 1975. First grandchild for Mr. and Mrs. Mac Lazier. First great grandchild for Mrs. G. Lazier. Eighth grandchild for Mr. and Mrs J. Winstanley. Special thanks to Dr. Seward, Dr. Fry and nurses of 5th level.

CLEMENTS — Andrew is pleased to announce the arrival of his baby sister Lisa Jane who was born on Thursday, March 13, 1975, weighing 8 lbs., 12 ozs. Proud parents are Dennis and Susan Clements (nee Sargent). Proud grandmothers are Mrs. R. Sargent and Mrs. L. Clements.

IN MEMORIAM

WETHERALL — In loving memory of a dear husband and father who left us three years ago today, March 17, 1972.

What would I give to clasp his hand,
His happy face to see,
To hear his voice, and see his smile,
That meant so much to me.
He bade no one a last farewell,
He said goodbye to none,
But gently closed his eyelids,
And His work was done.
So you who have a husband and father,
Treat him with care,
For you'll never know the heartache,
Till you see his empty chair.
—Lovingly remembered by wife Maud and family.

CALLAGHAN — In loving memory of a dear husband and father John P. Callaghan who passed away March 17, 1974.

Nothing can ever take away,
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Lovingly remembered by wife Dorothy and son's Mike and Tom.

CALLAGHAN — In loving memory of a dear father, John J. Callaghan who passed away March 17, 1974.

In our hearts your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true,
There's not a day, dear Father,
We do not think of you.
—Lovingly remembered by daughters Carol, Anne and son-in-law Doug, grandchildren Teresa, Derek and Bradley.

CALLAGHAN — In loving memory of a dear father, John P. Callaghan who passed away March 17, 1974.

Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all,
And though the years be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance of you.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Jackie and son-in-law David.

WICKENS — In loving memory of our dear aunt Ethel Wickens who passed away March 15, 1974.

Deep in our hearts you are fondly remembered,
Sweet happy memories cling to your name,
True hearts that loved you with deepest affection,
Always will love you in death just the same.
—Always remembered by Nellie and George Prest.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank my relatives and friends who so kindly remembered me through visits and cards when I was a patient in the Belleville General Hospital. A special thanks to Dr. Monaghan and Dr. Beatty and the nursing staff on the fifth floor for the wonderful care which I received.

BACK ON THE MARKET WITH 10% MORTGAGE

This attractive east end home is back on the market because the purchaser couldn't close. Not only will you get a 10% mortgage but you will get last year's price. The kitchen will be a joy for the lady of the house. It has a large eating area. There is an L-shaped dining-living room as well. There are three bedrooms, with access to bathroom from the master bedroom. Basemnt well suited for future rec room.

DON'T BE DISAPPOINTED

Our condominiums are selling rapidly! At $600. down this is most understandable. If you are in a lower salary bracket, you could save as much as $70.00 a month on payments. You can't afford to overlook this chance to own your own home. Belleville and Trenton locations.

PLAN NOW

Now is the time to make all the preliminary plans for your new home. We are at your disposal to assist in plans and financing.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT!

The Quinte Canada Farm Labour Pool would like to assist you, the Dairy Farmers, in solving your summertime labor problems. In order to have a general idea of how many farmers need summer help, we prepared a questionnaire andm ailed approximately 1600 of these to dairy farmers in the district. Of the 1600 questionnaire, 30 were returned.

Is this any indication of the need of a Farm Labor Pool%

CONSIDER BAN

TORONTO (CP) — The Metropolitan Toronto Borough of York has decided to consider a ban on trapping muskrats in the municipality. After council heard reports that a trapper had caught six muskrats in a creek last year, it was told by the medical officer of health that the animals help keep down the household rat population.

Clubfoot Always Prenatal Defect

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you tell me a little about clubfoot? Is it hereditary? Can it be inherited from a member of the family who has bunions? Will an infant who is corrected with a cast always have to wear corrective shoes? And after the feet are corrected will there be normal growth?—L.M.

Clubfoot is a deformity in which the foot is turned inward and downward. In other forms, the foot may be turned upward and inward or in other combinations of deformity. Common to all forms is an inability to place the sole of the foot squarely on the ground.

Clubfoot is always congenital (present at birth) and it may also be hereditary, although not necessarily. But it has no connection whatever with bunions. It occurs in about one in 1,000 births, and in about half of the cases both feet are involved. In some instances the fetal foot becomes trapped in an abnormal position in the womb. Sometimes a defect in cartilage development is the primary cause. And, as I indicated above, in some cases heredity is the sole factor.

Earliest possible detection, and by this I mean at birth, is essential in order to get the maximum results from treatment, which should begin in the first month of life. Usually a cast is applied and used until the child begins to walk. The cast is changed periodically to adjust for any correction made. If the cast is discontinued prematurely, the foot may revert to the deformed state.

After the cast period, corrective shoes are usually required, often until bone growth has ceased. If treatment has been successful up to this point, normal development can be expected. However, at any time during treatment the bone specialist may decide that surgery is necessary. This is done often to correct a defective heel cord.

Clubfoot will not affect a child's general physical development.

Incidentally, during the corrective period, it is best for the child to sleep squarely on its back to counter the natural tendency of the foot to turn in an abnormal direction.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I got a letter through the mail about acupuncture without needles. You do it with your fingers. It says you have pressure points you apply with your fingers. It also says you must see your doctor about this.

I would like you to tell me what you think—M.M.

Acupuncture without needles? By all means, ask your doctor, who will probobly take a dim view of the thing same as I do.

You might be referring to a new vogue of clamping a staple surgically onto the ear lobe. The idea is that you press on the staple when you get the urge to eat, which reminds you not to eat, and you thus lose weight.

I take an equally skeptical view of this.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My hands are always cold except in very warm weather. It is very embarrassing when you shake hands with someone and they say, "Oh, your hands are so cold!" I am 78, and I have always been in good health. What is wrong with me?—A.M.C.

It is probably a matter of circulation in the tiny capillaries of the extremities. What about your feet? Low thyroid can be the cause. Nerves also can be a factor.

Some folks have cool and clammy hands, and they are usually the nervous types. In most cases there is little to be done about it.

Just smile graciously and give your friends the old saw about cold hands and a warm heart.

Jim: "Deception at the bridge table is perfectly all right, provided you deceive by the actual card you play and not by the manner in which you play it."

Oswald: "You are even privileged to act fast, when you have a problem. You just aren't supposed to look like you have a problem, when you don't have one."

Jim: "West started out with three high hearts. East discarded the deuce of clubs on the third lead and South ruffed. South had already seen that he would have no problems unless trumps broke 4-1. If they did break 4-1, he would only come to nine tricks. So South led the three of diamonds at trick three. West thought a while before playing the six spot. Dummy's jack won. South proceeded to draw trumps; cash the four clubs and chalk up game and rubber."

Oswald: "The play really shouldn't work. West should really be able to realize that South is trying to steal a diamond trick. If West rises with the ace of diamonds and leads a fourth heart, he will be establishing a trump trick for his partner."

Hormones May Help Arthritic

HALIFAX (CP) — Experiments being carried out by a Dalhousie University biologist may have future applications in the treatment of bone cancer, orthopedic disabilities, paralysis and arthritis.

Dr. Brian Hall, an Australian-born scientist, is investigating how the skeleton develops and functions, and how hormones regulate and co-ordinate embryonic development.

The 34-year-old researcher works with chicken embryos but data from the experiments can be applied to mammals and man.

The recipient of substantial grants from the National Research Council since he came to Dalhousie in 1968, Dr. Hall is currently investigating the origin and interaction of the various cell types which make up the skeleton.

At the centre of the study is the way in which hormones, which stimulate cell function, and drugs, which slow down cell function, control or disrupt normal development and function of the skeleton.

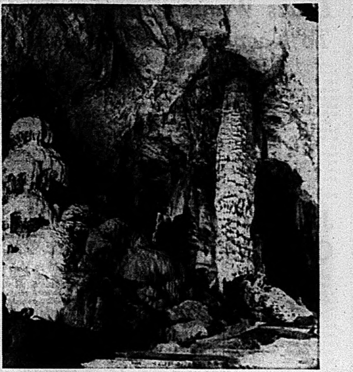
He has done this by inducing dwarfisms in chick embryos similar to some which arise in mammals due to genetic defects.

By treating the embryos with hormonal replacement therapy, Dr. Hall, the 1974 winner of the Young Scientist Award from the Atlantic Provinces Inter-University Committee on the Sciences, is trying to determine which hormones are important for normal bone development.

He said some of the degeneration which occurs in the skeleton of man with advancing age results from abnormalities in hormones.

USE CREDIT CARDS

TORONTO (CP) — Police said here that most of the goods they recover from pawn-shops and second-hand stores consists of articles bought with stolen credit cards. Police said that in 1974 such articles accounted for a third of the $300,000 worth of goods recovered.



The Watchtower

Natural Bridge Caverns, limestone caves discovered 15 years ago on a cattle ranch in Texas, are open all year and are conveniently located between San Antonio and New Braunfels. The tallest formation in the caves is the 50-foot Watchtower located in a cavern called "The Bomb Blast." (CP Photo)

Underwater Theatre Features Springs

By MARGARET NESS

NATURAL BRIDGE CAVERNS, Tex. (CP) — Two year-round tourist attractions within an easy drive of San Antonio are the interesting and beautiful Natural Bridge Caverns and Aquarena Springs, with an underwater theatre and other activities.

The caverns are named for the huge natural stone bridge at their entrance. Between San Antonio and New Braunfels, the limestone caves were discovered 15 years ago on a 200-acre cattle ranch in this rugged hill country by four college students who had asked permission to "poke around."

The students found an 11-inch crawlway and squeezed down some 60 feet to a large cavern.

The ranch owners, Clara Heidemann and her family, undertook the staggering task of developing the site themselves.

First they had to blast 150 feet through solid rock and haul away the debris. They moved ahead only four to eight feet a day, using small quantities of dynamite to avoid damaging the rooms below.

Finally they reached the first cavern the students had entered, which they named Pluto's Anteroom. The switchback trail then leads to Sherwood Forest, where stalactites from the ceiling fuse with stalagmites rising from the floor.

Gradual slopes and rock-cut stairs lead to other caverns. Purgatory Creek, where an underground river once flowed, is approached by way of a 152-foot-long bridge that is constructed along the sheer cliff for a look down to the bed. The cavern contains a 50-foot tower called The Bomb Blast.

The huge Hall of the Mountain Kings, 300 feet long, 100 feet wide and more than 100 feet high, contains "fried eggs," flat stalagmite tops with a yellow circle in the centre.

In the Chapel Hall a formation at the rear looks like a statue of the Madonna. Another cavern contains the bones of a grizzly bear estimated to be 8,000 years old.

There is also an ornate "king's throne" with a nearby "chandelier" dripping water.

The 75-minute tours leave every half-hour until 6 p.m. in the summer months and 4 p.m. in the winter. The property contains a camp ground and a snack bar.

Further northwest from New Braunfels and only 45 miles from San Antonio is the underwater theatre at Aquarena Springs, built in 1972, where the audience sinks down like a submarine to view the show.

Children enjoy watching Glurpo, the underwater witch doctor, blowing huge air rings to the surface while mermaids eat celery and consume soft drinks under water. Ralph, a young pig, takes a running dive and swims across the pool. And, of course, there is a water ballet.

Aquarena Springs has more than the submarine theatre. There are half-hour tours in a glass-bottom boat to view the fish and some of the 200 springs that produce 200 million gallons of water daily.

There's also a Texana Village, an authentic reproduction of a town in the Old West including a saloon, general store, barber shop and smithy.

Also around the lake are the pirates' cove, hanging gardens, a Mexican market, a tree-house, and a pleasant inn.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
Tuesday, March 18

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your tendency is to say more than you should about a confidential matter entrusted to you. Even an unintentional leak could fall on the wrong ears.

TAURUS (May 21-June 20) Keep your conversation in harmony with those whose company you share today. Don't talk about things you alone are interested in.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Too much time wil be wasted today worrying about things pertaining to the future. Make better progress by living in the "now."

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll see a way that you can gain but it means taking advantage of another. Pass up such selfish interests.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Spet. 22) This could be a financially rewarding day for you. If you don't pay too much attention to petty side issues.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Coworkers are careless today. Their mistakes could have a bad effect upon you. Supervise their work carefully to avoid trouble.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't gamble where business is concerned. It's best today to deal with reliable and trusted firms and people.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Three heads are better than two in your decision-making today. Consult with others affected before resolving a family matter.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Doubts you have about your career will be swiftly dissipated once you swing into action. Keep your eyes solely on the target.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You tend to buy on impulse today. Decide first if you really need the item, then shop around.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Tie a string around your finger to remind you to fulfill a promise to the family. Your mind will be elsewhere. You're apt to forget.

Lewis Wants Board Named To Keep Workers on Jobs

TORONTO (CP) — Stephen Lewis, Ontario NDP leader, says Ontario should have a government-appointed board to recommend terms of settlement in labor disputes involving public workers in essential services.

Mr Lewis made the proposal Saturday at the first conference of the Public Sector Coalition, an organization formed last November which involves teachers' federations, the Civil Service Association of Ontario and other public employees.

An essential services settlement board, Mr. Lewis said, should be independent, report directly to the legislature, should be heavily funded and should include renowned long-term appointees from labor, management, government and the academic world.

The board would gather information on wages, fringe benefits and working conditions, and make recommendations for a settlement before a strike.

"The research would be of such quality that neither side could easily improve upon it,' said Mr. Lewis.

The boards recommendations would not be binding, he said.

Ontario Liberal leader Robert Nixon told the 160 delegates, representing about 250,000 public servants across the province, that teachers should have the right to bargain over working conditions, such as, the pupil-teacher ratio.

The imposition of spending restrictions on school boards by the government has made it impossible for trustees to negotiate teacher wages in any meaningful way, Mr. Nixon said.

Premier William Davis had been invited to the conference but said it would be "inappropriate" to discuss public sector bargaining while legislation on teacher negotiations is pending.

Mr. Lewis and Mr. Nixon endorsed a list of nine "rights"—with the exception of the right to strike in essential services—which the coalition endorsed.

Jackie Is Left Only $120 Million

PARIS (AP) — Aristotle Onassis left about $120 million to his widow, Jacqueline, trust funds of $15 million each to her two children by assassinated U.S. President John F. Kennedy and the bulk of his fortune to his only surviving child, Christina, sources in Athens report.

The fortune, estimated at about $600 million, is not expected to be diminished appreciably by inheritance taxes. The shipping magnate's numerous holdings are mostly are domiciled in tax shelters.

Onassis only son, Alexander, died in a plane crash in 1973, at the age of 24.

Christina, Onassis' daughter by his first wife and a divorcee before she was 21, was with him when he died Saturday at the age of 69.

Onassis was married to the former Mrs. Kennedy for 6½ years. She had brought him from Athens to the American Hospital in Paris early in February after he became ill but was in New York when he died. She returned to Paris early Sunday and spent 15 minutes alone with her husband's body in the hospital chapel Sunday night.

Her two children, Caroline and John Kennedy, left the family's New York apartment Sunday night and were believed flying to Paris. They also inherited multi-million-dollar trust funds from their father.

A source in Athens said Onassis would be buried Tuesday on Scorpios, his private island in the Ionian Sea, where he and Mrs Kennedy were married and where his son is buried.

The source in Athens said the body would be flown Monday night from Paris to Actium, on the west coast of Greece, and Onassis' palatial yacht Christina would take it from there to Scorpios.

He added that the funeral would be attended only by the family.

Onassis' empire, a spider's web of international corporations, is expected to remain intact and continue flourishing.

Although Onassis made the key decisions, he had some of the world's most talented businessmen advising him in the accumulation and control of an empire estimated at more than $1 billion.

His advisers sit in London, Monte Carlo and New York, the control points for worldwide interests in shipping, real estate, mining and a variety of other fields.

Christina inherits the bulk of his estate and is reported to have a good mind for business.

Mariner Passes Mercury

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Mariner 10 spacecraft successfully completed its four-hour fly-by of Mercury on Sunday, sending back hundreds of pictures of the sun-scorched planet.

"We expect Mariner to die now," a spokesman at Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) said, explaining that the craft's altitude control fuel has been used up and the craft will go into a permanent orbit around the sun.

Dr James Dunn, Mariner project manager, said the craft gathered data while passing through Mercury's [illegible], the previously-unknown force field that surrounds the suns closest neighbor.

"We are getting real close-ups now, the closest pictures we've ever had. We should be able to see anything about the size of a football field," the spokesman said.

McGrath Expects More Port Scandals

OTTAWA (CP) — Scandals similar to that of the Hamilton Harbor will be uncovered in every port across Canada, James McGrath (PC—St. John's East) says.

In an interview taped for the CTV network program Question Period for broadcast Sunday, Mr. McGrath said he thinks investigation of dredging contracts across Canada will uncover evidence of similar situations.

He said some aspects of the Hamilton Harbor scandal are beyond the scope of a criminal investigation. "These are the political implications," he said.

Mr. McGrath said evidence now "suggests that the investigation was deliberately suppressed in an effort to contain it because there was an election campaign in progress."

A federal election was held on Oct. 30, 1972, and Solicitor General Warren Allmand said Thursday the first official record of the affair was recorded Sept. 18, 1972.

At that time, he said, the transport ministry called the RCMP to ask whether it was investigating allegations of corruption in Hamilton.

The investigation began Feb. 23, 1973, a delay Mr. Allmand said was caused by jurisdictional problems.

Mr McGrath said he found it difficult to believe that the solicitor general, faced with allegations of wrongdoings by a federal agency—the Hamilton Harbor Commission—"would stop for a moment to question whether or not he had jurisdiction."

Jean-Pierre Goyer, then solicitor-general, denied Friday in the Commons he knew of the scandal or he had received correspondence from Hamilton Controller James Campbell.

Mr. Campbell, in a letter written in August, 1972, made allegations involving a government-appointed harbor commissioner who was said to have been taking bribes. Dredging contracts were not mentioned.

Toronto Taximan Is Slain

TORONTO (CP) — Police are investigating the shooting death early Sunday of a 40-year-old Toronto taxi driver.

Gordon Douglas Stoddart was shot in the back of the neck, apparently after picking up a fare in the borough of Scarborough, police said.

Mr Stoddart, a postal carrier, drove a taxi in his spare time.

Police have not determined a motive for the shooting. No suspects are in custody.

Commons Will Debate Metric System Change

OTTAWA (CP) — A full-fledged Commons debate is planned today on the metric system, scheduled to take full effect by 1980.

The debate will focus on a motion asking parliamentary approval of the long-term metric conversion program launched by the government in 1972.

The government's Commons majority virtually assures approval of the motion, but it will give MPs a chance to argue the pros and cons of the new system over the Imperial measurement system it will replace.

S. M. Gossage, chairman of the federal metric commission established in 1972 to supervise the program, said conversion already is well under way.

Some manufacturers are changing labels and package sizes from ounces and pounds to milligrams and grams. Sample highway signs in metres and kilometres are up in most provinces and the official switch in federally - issued temperature readings—from Fahrenheit to celsius—will be made April 1.

Starting that date, weather stations will report all temperatures in celsius without comparative fahrenheit readings. Freezing is zero degrees and boiling 100 degrees celsius compared with 32 degrees and 212 degrees fahrenheit.

Trudeau Home with Pledges Of Support for Link to ECC

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau returned home Saturday laden with support in principle for closer Canadian-European ties, but admitting that the content of any eventual link is nowhere near defined.

His concept of a "contractual link" between Canada and the European Economic Community (EEC) became the key expression of the prime minister's 16-day tour of five European capitals.

While there was no doubt of genuine European interest in the concept, the expression itself was dealt with gingerly by Mr. Trudeau's hosts. The prime minister appeared frustrated at several news conference as he was forced to repeat that the substance of any link remains obscure.

As he moved through The Hague, Bonn, Rome, London and Dublin, the prime minister increasingly stressed that his link would involve specific recognition of Canada's distinct identity and might be similar to a treaty for technical, scientific and economic co-operation.

A senior British cabinet minister told a reporter that Canada likely would be successful in getting "a protocol of consultation" with the EEC, but if it tried for a specific treaty it likely would be disappointed when time came for a ratification by the Common Market's council of ministers.

In The Hague, Prime Minister Joop Den Uyl would not be pinned down on how he saw a contractual link, saying only that a "special relationship" would not be possible because it would discriminate against third parties.

A government spokesman in Bonn said that "in my view, . . . we all should avoid clinging only to this contractual link." Increased co-operation is the aim and this does not have to be built on a formal agreement, he told reporters after indicating that Germany's eventual support might depend on foreign investment breaks for the EEC in Canada.

Any report from the EEC commission on the basis for negotiations would require unanimous consent from the council of ministers, with a final agreement also requiring unanimous ratification by that body.

Reserves Questioned

Bancroft Mine Deal in Doubt

By RENNIE MacKENZIE
of The Intelligencer
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Government concern about available ore at the Faraday mine in Bancroft has cast doubts on whether Madawaska Mines will be issued a federal export permit to sell uranium to Italy.

Industry, trade and commerce minister Alastair Gillespie and energy minister Donald MacDonald both confirmed Monday that the government is taking a close look at the mine's ability to meet the contract terms and still keep in reserve, for possible later domestic use, sufficient ore to meet Atomic Energy Control Board requirements.

Mr. Gillespie refused to say anything more than the fact he expects the government to be making an announcement in the next couple of days, but Mr. MacDonald did admit that some doubts have been expressed on the question of reserves.

Both ministers were contacted outside the House of Commons Tuesday after rumors began circulating in Bancroft and Ottawa that the deal between the Federal Resources Corporation of Utah, its subsidiary, Canadian Consolidated Faraday, and the Italian State Energy Supply Agency (AGIP) was about to fall through.

Some doubts about the deal originated when the Atomic Energy Control Board took longer than expected to consider the contract proposals. The AECB has issued its report to both federal departments with recommendations.

Board recommendations are not usually made public.

Monday, the Ottawa Bureau of The Intelligencer, which had been told the situation was not as serious as rumors would have it, was referred directly to Mr. Gillespie when inquiries were made on the status of export permit for Madawaska Mines.

Mr. MacDonald's department had given preliminary approval to the multi-million dollar agreement more than a month ago and passed it along to AECB for detailed consideration.

Mr. Gillespie's department which must approve the export permit reportedly questioned a reserve clause in the contract agreed to last September by the Federal Resources Corporation.

Jack Ellis (PC—Hastings who was in Bancroft this morning, said he has been told the contract calls for more uranium than would remain after the reserve clause was applied.

In fact, he was told that a federal advisory group contends that the Madawaska Mine may be down to its last five years of productive life.

The contract with the Italians calls for a six-year supply with an option for another six years, guarantying delivery of one million pounds of uranium annually.

From Bancroft this morning, Mr. Ellis said: "It's a very small mine. If all the production were sold to Italy — as the contract says — there would be no domestic reserves.

"Now the reserves must be determined for the Madawaska Mine. Ontario Hydro has said it's not interested in the Madawaska reserves, but there are still two other energy boards who have to be checked, in New Brunswick and Quebec.

"But there is no question it will go ahead. We hope the licence will be through in a matter of days or weeks — not months."

Gasoline may be continually increasing in cost, but prices on this sign, outside an East Dundas Street station, had motorists doing a double-take before it was returned to normal. Reason for the seemingly sudden soar in prices was that pranksters — for a gas — had upended numerals, making six look like nine.

Mackasey Probes Sidney St. Mail

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Postal authorities are scrutinizing temporary cancellation of mail deliveries on a stretch of Sidney St. deemed dangerous by local post office authorities.

An official complaint was sent Postmaster General Bryce Mackasey by Mayor Robin Jeffrey earlier this month.

Delivery was stopped in February to 34 homes between Cascade Blvd. and Parkdale Baptist church, until the city builds sidewalks in the area.

The mayor's letter has been referred to postmaster general's officials who are investigating the matter and Mr. Mackasey will himself reply when their report is made, city council learned Monday night in a letter from Matthew Graham, special ministerial assistant.

Council also learned the issue has been raised with Mr. Mackasey by Jack Ellis, MP, Hastings.

Mr. Ellis complained that Belleville area postmaster Roy Wainwright not only refused to speak to the MP's secretary but, Mr. Ellis claimed, he personally had been "repeatedly" unsuccessful in trying to contact the local postal official.

Mr. Ellis said walking conditions similar to those in the trouble zone exist in many cities of similar size.

"I have already had one industry within the city . . . indicate to me that they are considering leaving because of the poor quality of mail service," wrote Mr. Ellis.

Gasoline Hard to Find On Sundays

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Mayor Robin Jeffrey Monday night raised the issue of gas station operations in Belleville on Sundays.

Her comment was a sequel to a complaint on an open-line radio show when a woman told her she could find no service stations open on Sunday.

"Apparently it's very difficult for tourists and our own citizens to get gas on Sundays."

The city's bylaw on gas station hours, first passed in 1959, does not specify which outlets shall open Sundays, city clerk Earl Dafoe explained after the meeting.

However, he said operators themselves prepare a schedule allocating Sunday openings among themselves and this schedule is sent out through his office.

Meantime, city council found out it can not legislate the number of self-serve gas bars in the city.

Last February it ordered Mr. Purcell to pursue procedures necessary to limit the number of such outlets.

He obtained the legal opinion of lawyer Tom Lally who noted the Municipal Act does not distinguish behind types of gas station operations Therefore any regulation would have to apply equally to service stations and self-serve outlets, cautioned Mr. Lally.

Harborgate Issue

No Sign Found Probe Delayed

OTTAWA (CP) — A special session of the Commons jutsice committee ended early today with members unable, in more than four hours of questioning, to unearth any evidence of political delay of an investigation of corruption in Hamilton harbor.

Solicitor-General Warren Allmand, in shirt-sleeves after two days of digging in department files, told the committee dredging charges placed last week were not even the subject of allegations made in 1972.

He and his predecessor as solicitor-general, Supply Minister Jean Pierre Goyer, each gave statements to the committee.

Mr. Coyer denied having seen Hamilton controller James Campbell when he came to Ottawa Sept. 11, 1972, after mailing a letter to Mr. Goyer Aug. 30.

The Campbell letter came with a document alleging conflict of interest, misuse of property, theft of property and other wrongs in Hamilton harbor.

Mr. Goyer said he neither saw the letter, the document nor Mr. Campbell, who spoke to Col. J. C. Cameron, an administrative assistant, while in Ottawa.

Mr. Cameron the next day forwarded the Campbell letter to Transport Minister Don Jamieson's special assistant for harbor commissions and boards

"My own memory, my personal notes, the solicitor-general's inquiry, the departmental assistant's notes, the RCMP files all show that I was never made aware of this matter while I was solicitor-general," Mr. Goyer said

Mr. Allmand said "there is no evidence whatsoever that there was any deliberate or negligent delay in this investigation by any federal minister or official." RCMP Commissioner Maurice Nadon supported this statement

Mr. Allmand said preliminary questions between September, 1972, and February, 1973, had to be dealt with before any formal investigation. They involved police jurisdiction mainly.

Among those at the committee was Ken Barfknecht, Hamilton salvage dealer who Mr. Allmand said had contacted the RCMP detachment in July, 1972, with allegations of extortion, smuggling, drug trafficking, conflict of interest and other crimes in Hamilton harbor.

The RCMP investigated the narcotics and smuggling allegations and seized goods from former Hamilton harbor commissioner Kenneth Elliott as a result.

These were the only charges arising out of the allegations by Mr. Barfknecht or Mr. Campbell. However, their allegations and others by Ellen Reinke, widow of a former member of Parliament, and Herman Turkstra, chairman of the Hamilton city council's harbor committee, instigated an RCMP investigation that later exploded into last week's charges of bid-rigging on dredging contracts by 13 companies and 11 of their executives.

Consultant Was Fired

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal government consultant was fired following a police investigation into allegations of attempts in 1971 to rig bids on a federal salvage contract, Transport Minister Jean Marchand said Mooday

But the year-long inquiry by the RCMP did not turn up enough evidence to support charges against any of the seven companies bidding on the contract, the minister said in an interview.

The case involved calling tenders on salvaging an oil barge that sank in September, 1970, off the north coast of Prince Edward Island. No contract was ever awarded.

Mr. Marchand said although no charges were laid, a consultant to the federal transport department was fired because "we felt he was too close to the circle of companies." He did not name the man involved.

The council is "determined to cleanse excessive party enthusiasm" he said, referring to such ultra-radical parties as the Maoist MRPP.

IRA Foiled In Attempt To Open Prison

DUBLIN (AP) — The Irish Republican Army (IRA) marked St. Patrick's Day with an unsuccessful attempt to break open a top security prison. One prisoner was killed and two were wounded, police said.

The attempt occurred at Portlaoise Prison, 40 miles southwest of Dublin, where 140 IRA guerrillas are held. Police said no one escaped, and two men from outside were arrested.

Witnesses said two shots were heard outside the jail, apparently as a signal to men inside the walls

Two explosions followed, one ripping down the door of a recreation block. As prisoners streamed out, army guards shot and killed one of them.

At the same time a reinforced truck outside the walls rammed into one of the gates of the prison. Two men were captured as they ran from the truck.

Photos Not of Oswald

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Review of Books has made public two photographs of a man alleged to have identified himself as Lee Harvey Oswald in contacting the Soviet Embassy in Mexico City in 1963. The man in the photographs is not Lee Harvey Oswald. The Review of Books concludes that "if someone were trying to impersonate Oswald eight weeks before the assassination of President John Kennedy, the Warren commission's theory of a lone assassin, unconnected with any conspiracy, is seriously undermined and the case should be reopened."

Blue-collar Talks Resume

Retroactive Pay Solved, Wages Now Only Issue

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Negotiators were to take another crack today at bridging a chasm on pay issues in efforts to settle the month-long federal blue-collar workers strike.

Talks were adjourned late Monday night with both the Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC) and the treasury board somewhere between 1.5 per cent and three per cent apart in proposals for wage increases over a two-year contract.

Union and government negotiators reached agreement in principle Monday on a method of [illegible] the retroactive pay issue which led to a temporary breakdown in mediation talks during the weekend.

Bill Doherty, PSAC first vice-president indicated he still is hopeful a settlement can be reached.

Hanging over the discussions is the possibility of Parliament legislating a return to work. The Progressive Conservatives have said they will demand such legislation if the current negotiations don't produce a settlement.

Selective strikes by the 18,600 federal labor and trades workers have disrupted postal and air service and helped tie up West Coast grain shipments.

Council Delays Action on Family Services Funding

Acceptance of increased spending estimates by Hastings County Family and Childrens's Services (FCS) has been deferred at city hall until council gets some questions answered.

Sourceof most of the questions when the estimates — Belleville's share of $123,130 is up 34 per cent over 1974 — was Ald. Joe Cox.

The service's total budget of $765,000 — the bulk paid by the province — came under the councillor's scrutiny.

Among other things Ald Cox wanted to know why estimates for:

— Social workers' salaries were $65,668, compared to an actual $43,107 last year.

— Why the cost of publicity and the annual general meeting is set at $1,500 when the total was $266 in 1974.

— What was meant by listing $31,186 under "sundry" — the total was $12,189 in 1974.

One reason why the city's share is so much higher than the county ($72,800), and Trenton (40,400), is the "unusually high number of children from Belleville" being placed in the agency's protection, wrote FCS director Bruce Kerr.

Some 79 Bellevillians were ordered into care by the courts — nearly double the total for the county and Trenton.

Also, the city paid $8,800 less than it cost to care for the youngsters in 1974, but under Ontario law, the bill is still recoverable this year.

Over-all, wrote Mr. Kerr, the agency's expenditures will be up an expected 14.4 per cent in 1974.

City manager Wilbur Purcell said he had been informed the province might raise its share of all such expenditures to 80 per cent, so the final 1975 costs could be less than now estimated.

Ald. Cox also asked why the city should pay the care costs for a youngster who may have come from another community, but been committed by the courts in Belleville.

"I don't feel we should be liable . . . (if) they come from another municipality to use Belleville as a refuge," he said.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey said the provincial government already has been asked by the Association of Ontario Municipalities, to assess costs in such cases against the community where the youngster was born and raised.

Council tabled action on the FCS budget estimates for two weeks while Ald Brian Knudsen, a city hall appointee to the agency board, makes the requested inquiries.

Tuesday, March 18, 4.52 a.m. — smoke investigation at 73 E. Moira St., no damage.

Township Bid for Aid Rejected by Province

The provincial government for the time being has turned down a Sidney Township request to have Belleville and the surrounding townships designated as a "housing action area."

Upon the request of Quinte Home Builder Association president Bob Marcotte, the township made the request to the provincial ministry of housing several weeks ago.

In the housing program — the province funnels aid to particular, designated areas in the province to stimulate housing construction.

A spokesman for the program contacted council this week saying the province had already reached its ceiling for the program. He said further, that because a number of communities had inquired about the program, the ministry is considering enacting a second phase.

"Belleville will receive due consideration" said the spokesman in a letter to council.

100-year-old Tweed Resident Dies

TWEED — The funeral will be held here Wednesday for one of Hastings County's oldest women.

Alice Slush, 100-year-old resident of this village died in her sleep Sunday.

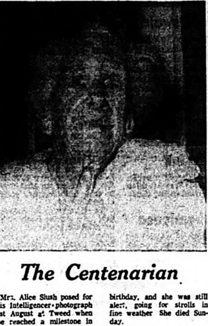
Bright and alert on her last birthday party in August last year, she was a lifetime resident of the district.

Born on a Hungerford township homestead, cleared by her Irish parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Adams, she and her husband went farming near Campbellford some years after their marriage in 1894. When they retired they returned here, an event marred by sudden tragedy. A few months later, Mr. Slush drowned.

They had two daughters — Mrs. Gladys Bateman, with whom the centenarian lived here — and Mrs. Florence Reynolds, of Scarborough. On her 100th birthday, she counted nine grandchildren, 35 great-grandchildren and 13 great; great-grandchildren in her family.

While her eyesight had been failing in recent years, at her last birthday she still had no serious illness, and went for walks in fine weather.

The funeral is to be held at the McConnell Funeral Home, here, directed by Rev. I. E. Munro with burial in St. James Cemetery.



The Centenarian

Mrs. Alice Slush posed for this Intelligencer photograph last August at Tweed when she reached a milestone in her life. It was her 100th birthday, and she was still alert, going for strolls in fine weather She died Sunday.

Mayor Backs Bushland Project

Mayor Robin Jeffrey want city hall to give its backing to a big bushland recreation project being proposed by two area tourist organizations.

The scheme calls for setting aside 200,000 acres straddling the border townships in central Hastings and Lennox and Addington counties.

The project was first presented at last month's meeting of Ontario resources cabinet ministers in Belleville.

It is being backed by the Highlands of Hastings and neighboring Land O' Lakes tourist organizations.

Mayor Jeffrey told council she will introduce a motion two weeks from now calling for official city support for the plan.

Tenders Being Sought After Trucker Boycott

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

BLOOMFIELD — About 15 members of the Greater Ottawa Trucking Association, Belleville and Kingston branches, returned to the Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority site here today to continue demonstrating for higher wages.

Gordon Cole, president of the Greater Ottawa Trucking Association, Belleville Branch, said demonstrators returned because one truck today started work for $16 an hour but no attempt was made to rehire two other truckers who joined Monday's work stoppage.

The truckers had been employed by the Conservation Authority to move earth at the Bloomfield fill pond and were receiving $12.50 an hour.

Monday's demonstration was against the $12.50 hourly rate being paid by the Authority.

The demonstrators dispersed Monday after they were told the Conservation Authority planned to tender the job. The work had not been tendered originally.

Mr. Cole said that the Conservation Authority spokesman invited all members of the trucking association to tender for the work except for two of the truckers who had worked originally on the job.

Mr. Cole said one truck started work today at the increased rate of $16 an hour but Conservation Authority officials soon arrived on the scene and ordered the job shut down, saying it was too wet.

"We are leaving but will be back if other trucks come in," said Mr. Cole.

He added when Conservation Authority officials arrived at the fill pond demonstrators attempted to talk with them.

"But they will tell us nothing, except bluntly that we are being shut down," said Mr. Cole.

Mr. Cole emphasized there is no strike in progress just a work stoppage. Members of the trucking association are not picketing but demonstrating.

Province Says Traffic Lights Not Needed

MARMORA — The provincial ministry of transportation and communications office in Kingston says traffic control signals for this village at the corner of Forsyth St. (Highway 14) and Matthew St. (Highway 7) are not warranted.

That recommendation was determined following a two-year study of collision data (1972-74) supplied by Ontario Provincial Police and manual and traffic counts at the intersection conducted by the ministry during two eight-hour periods on July 8-9 last years.

In a letter to Marmora Village Council, the ministry pointed out if signals are installed, motorists will be caused more delay, during the fixed-time operation, than they are currently experiencing.

In other words, comments the ministry, a motorist approaching Matthew St. just as the signal turns red must wait 40 second for a green light.

District at a Glance

Registry Office Moving

PICTON — It's moving day this Saturday for the staff of the Prince Edward County Registry Office.

When the old office on Main Street closes this Friday it will be for the last time.

Next Monday morning business will resume in modern office quarters constructed adjacent to the old Prince Edward County jail and court house.

The present cramped offices have served the county since 1872.

School Open to Public

BRIGHTON — An open house tonight at 8 p.m. at East Northumberland Secondary School here will offer not only coffee and donuts, but judo and yoga demonstrations, a fashion show, and various musical presentations by guitariests and choral groups.

Library Budget Approved

MARMORA — The Marmora - eloro - Marmora and Lake Union Library budget has been approved by Marmora Village Council. It includes a $200 reduction from last year in the village's levy which has been added to the townships' portion. Marmora Village will now pay $1,400, Deloro Village $400 and Marmora and Lake Townships $700 towards the operation of the two libraries, one in Marmora and the other in Deloro.

Madoc OPP Busy

MADOC — The February monthly report of Ontario Provincial Police at Madoc includes the following occurances recorded for the Marmora area: four disturbances, two assaults, two dog complaints, two snowmoible complaints, one lost wallet, one complaint re-non-payment, one wilful damage, one report of theft, five persons charged with having liquor in a place other than their residence, two harassing telephone calls and one complaint of underage babysitters.

Warrick Explains Program

MARMORA — Dr. Dennis A. Warrick, director of dental services for the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit, will explain the benefits of fluoridation to Marmora Village Council April 7. Coun. Gordon Bennett has suggested council investigate the possibility of adding fluoride to the municipal water system.

Signal Lights To Mesh

TRENTON — The town will shortly apply to the Canadian Transport Commission for funds to tie in the railway signals at Dundas and Division, and King and Division Sts. to traffic lights at the two intersections.

The application for an estimated $11,200 will cover the cost of connecting the flashing CNR crossing warning lights to traffic signals. Such a move, according to town works commissioner Arie Hoornweg, is geared to safeguard the public.

Once connected, red traffic lights will automatically come on when a train approaches either crossing. Traffic flow over the crossings would thus be stopped.

Vandals Sought

SALMON POINT — Vandalism in cottages and trailers owned by Stanley Rankin of Salmon Point, is under investigation today by the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

A police spokesman said two cottages and five trailers in a vacation park operated by Mr. Rankin had been damaged extensively.

The vandalism was reported early Monday night. Constable Tom Stanford of Picton OPP is investigating.

Teachers Suggest New Music Course for PECI

BLOOMFIELD — The Prince Edward County board of education has received a proposal from Keith Barnett, principal of Snider elementary school and Harvey Tremmer, a music teacheer at the school, regarding introduction of Instrumental Music as a credit course in secondary schools. The suggestion was supported by Paul Burd, principal of Prince Edward Collegiate Institute.

Because there is no music instruction at PECI, this year three pupils from the high school are attending senior band practices in Wellington.

In his porposal to trustees, Mr. Barnett noted about 10 elementary students with more than one year of instrumental music will attend PECI next fall. These pupils now are grade eight band members at Snider elementary school.

He described continuation of their program as "urgent" and suggested Mr. Tremeer, a qualified music teacher for Kindergarten to grade 13, instruct a credit course for secondary school students in Wellington. Time of the classes would be from 8:30 to 9:15 a.m.

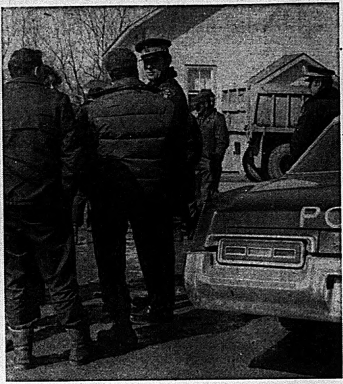
The PECI students participating in the program could stay at the Snider elementary school after regular bus arrivals, take the music class and then be bused to high school by mini-bus at 9:20 a.m.

The new program has been proposed for introduction in September, 1975.

Trustees discussed the teachers' suggested program during a recent board meeting.

Hillier trustee Clare McFaul noted before the program can be approved the schedule of the board's mini-bus must be investigated as well as cost of operating the music program and other details involved.

Trustee for Ameliasburg, George Cunningham, commented pupils must have a decision from the board soon to permit timetabling for the fall term.



Truckers Argue Pay

About 15 members of the Greater Ottawa Trucking Association threw up picket lines in Bloomfield Monday, claiming local pay scales are the lowest in the province. The demonstration was orderly and continued today.

OMB Approves Stirling Sewage Works Project

STIRLING — The Ontario Municipal Board has formally approved a Stirling sewage works project for $591,070, council learned Monday The catch is that if the cost exceeds this amount, another hearing may have to be held.

Reeve Ray Shortt has maintained the project cannot be done for this sum, and the actual amount will soon be known when tenders are called.

In other business, council acknowledged a grant of $4,000 from Rawdon Township towards the $29,000 cost of a new ice plant for the arena.

A delegation from the Stirling Women's Institute appeared before council and complained about the condition of the community hall. Council said it is advising the Stirling Teen Recreation Club that it is terminating the agreement for members to use the community hall.

Council left the door open for a new agreement, but parents would have to be signed up, and nights agreed to and specified when they would be on hand to supervise.

It was also pointed out that it is costing Stirling over $500 a month to heat the community hall, and the club pays no rent. Reeve Ray Short said he hated to see the young people evicted.

Council also received a letter from Campbellford stating it was terminating its agreement with Stirling regarding a dog pound in Stirling. Clerk Robert Hulin said he could not find any agreement on record.

In other business, the Lower Trent Conservation Authority advised council that Stirling's levy this year was $1,423. "That is double last year," Reeve Short noted, and I recommend we do not pay until we start collecting taxes." Council agreed.

Town Foreman Doug Bolte told council he wants a new garbage bylaw. He said 15 years ago, the truck made two trips to the dump a week. Now, anywhere from seven to 12 loads a week are picked up, he said. "People throw out everything. The number of man hours are quite expensive," Mr. Bolte stated.

In other business, A new dog control bylaw was passed onto the solicitor for comment. Reeve Shortt said the fee for bitches should be $10, not $7, and $12 for each additional bitch. Spayed animals are considerable less. "That would cut down the population," one member of council said.

Burning Rectal Itch Relieved In Minutes

One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "Itching Piles." It is most embarrassing for the sufferer during the day and especially aggravating at night.

If you want satisfactory relief—here's good news. A renowned research laboratory has found a unique healing substance with the ability to promptly relieve the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids. This substance has been shown to produce a most effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported. This improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions.

All this was accomplished by a healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—developed by a world-renowned research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

A Short-lived Freedom; Exile for de Spinola; Unrest in Colonies

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Thomson News Service

The change in Portugal's 40-year-old dictatorship of the right brought about by Gen. Antonio de Spinola last April has had all the end-results anticipated by those commentators who saw only the rise of another left-wing and potentially just as totalitarian a regime.

Today, the general who was also briefly president after his coup is in exile in Spain, the Portuguese army which looked so conclusively like the liberating agent, if indeed an unfamiliar one, apparently split internally between right and left factions.

Gen. Spinola was, and is, the creme de la creme of African colonial soldiers and administrators. For years, he fought the guerrilla movements in Portugal's sprawling African empire, usually beating them, receiving the highest decorations and promotions from the right-wing dictator Antonio Salazar, now dead.

Then suddenly he changed, wrote a book proposing gradual Portuguese withdrawal from Africa through a British Commonwealth kind of arrangement between outgoing Portugal and emerging Portuguese - speaking African states.

It all looked very good, almost a defiance of the formula that leftists and Communists, long held down and imprisoned, would overthrow Fascist rulers. This time it was to be a general, the pride and joy of the old order who did it.

But others cautioned from the start he wouldn't survive. The flood gates he opened to let in, for example, the head of Portugal's Communist party after 40 years in exile, would bring an ideological tide the army could not control.

And the slow, restricted easing out of Africa would end up in sudden and precipitous withdrawal which would bring competing guerrilla outfits into open conflict and inflame the not inconsequential white population of administrators, planters and businessmen.

Well, that has happened too and Portugal's three big African colonies show most of the signs of initial disorganization and one-party government which has plagued most emerging African nations of the 60s and 70s.

One might ask how different that is all going to be from what went before, except the new authoritarianism will be indigenous based in the local African capitals Luanda in Angola, Lourenco Marques in Mozambique, instead of distant and imperial Lisbon.

As for Lisbon, it too is going through classic coups and crises of a new centralized rule. Elections have been postponed from the promised date in 1976. Government - supported threats against the "reactionary classes" private businessmen, Portugal's few foreign-owned corporations are published and disseminated.

It's all part of a familiar and distressingly unworkable routine. The army, whose officer corps was once considered totally devoted to fighting to maintain Portugal Ultramar "Portugal Overseas," the euphemism meaning that African possessions were really part of the European homeland, is sharply divided.

Little is known about last week's coup, except that moderate officers who supported Gen. Spinola felt matters after all had gone too far. In the context of a leftward-leaning process, the Spinola army men no longer looked like "liberators," but were oppressors again.

There is nothing new in what is happening in Portugal, only new to the Portuguese who had less than a year of freedom of sorts before being tossed to the wolves again.

Attendance at Church

More people attend church — no less than fifteen times as many — in the United States in 1973 as went to all professional or college sporting events.

That's the evidence of statistics quoted in a letter on this page today from the Rev. J. Leslie Dean, minister of Tabernacle United Church. It is very encouraging since nothing else could counter more effectively the often-heard suggestion that church attendance is declining and the "God-is-dead" philosophy.

The figures Mr. Dean quotes refer to the United States and it is significant that the CBC recently presented a program purporting to show that attendance is down in Canada.

Did the CBC, whose left-wing philosophies often show through, have ulterior motives in implying a trend away from the established church in Canada?

An ironical touch here is that the established church itself (of whatever denomination) — through the statements of its leaders, and reflected by the views expressed in such publications as The United Church Observer and The Canadian Churchman — betrays a line of thinking these days that is sympathetic with left wing political causes.

An example is support (through the World Council of Churches) for so-called "liberation" movements in southern Africa that in turn are backed with money and armaments by the Soviet Union and China. It is this which has been instilling grave doubts in the minds of many churchgoers, to the point that some have left the fold.

Some members of the clergy too may be having doubts. There was a curious report in The Brockville Recorder of Times recently which read: "After touching briefly on the changing world today and the position of the church in it, the Rev. George Slater, minister of Wall Street United Church, announced his resignation during the annual meeting of the church recently."

The report said the meeting ended abruptly, to be resumed a week later when Mr. Slater "took a few moments to clarify and expand on the reasons for his resignation."

But that was all. No hard facts as to why the minister was leaving — just a hint about a "changing world" and the position of the church therein.

One thing is certain, today's world requires much closer scrutiny and challenging of its politics by everyone — from clergy and politicians to the public at large. And as ever, the price of liberty is eternal vigilance.

Hero's Death

Thirteen-year-old Gordon Lapointe of Sudbury died recently when on school safety patrol he pushed a four-year-old out of the path of a van whose driver had suffered a seizure.

There were more than 700 people at the funeral of the youth who was also an air cadet and a carrier boy. Representatives from CFB Trenton were among those present.

Gordon Lapointe died a hero. Another teenager who jumped into the moving vehicle and managed to bring it to a halt is in the same tradition. They showed that, when the moment of truth presents itself, our young people are not found wanting.

Kissinger in Wales

It doesn't matter where you turn these days, but the policy of confrontation and agitation by the Communists or assorted other dissident groups is being played out.

Cardiff in Wales is the latest scenario for this often comic (if it were not in the long run so deadly serious) political spectacle. It was there that U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger ran into a motley bunch of anti-American demonstrators.

In contrast to these political zealots, there is word that a former prominent Black Panther, still wanted in the U.S. on a charge stemming from an Oakland, Calif., shootout, is disenchanted with Communism and wants to return to his homeland.

He is Eldridge Cleaver who reportedly has moderated his views considerably, even to the point of noting that the Soviet Union "would really prefer that the U.S. cease to exist," and that the U.S. in consequence needs a strong defence.

Cleaver, now in Paris, began his exile in Algeria, but found a "cultural chasm" separating him from the people there.

What has happened to Cleaver at the ideological level is akin somewhat to the experience of the FLQ terrorists when exiled to Cuba. They suffer the normal human reaction of alienation from the world they once knew, compounded by the whole process beginning anew in another strange land. Then they discover that Communism is not what it is cracked up to be in some circles. The rest is a chronicle of despair and disillusionment.

No Let Up

In an era that sees too much taking and too little giving, of squandering what bounty we may have on material things, of overindulgence in food and alcohol, the pictures from overseas of starving humanity act as a reproach.

At the same time when workers are downing tools and shuffling along picket lines, it is good to pnow there are some organizations in the hmanitarian field whom we can always count on — and in "All the World." That is the name of a Salvation Army's periodical which tells of its work in so many fields of endeavor.

The cover of the latest issue focuses on the plight of people of Bangladesh, but where there is any kind of humanitarian need the Salvation Army is usually there.

Is Nixon Still the Weak Link?

TORONTO — One man who will definitely be under the gun at this session will be Opposition Leader Robert Nixon.

With his Liberal party leading the polls Mr. Nixon is riding high these days.

But polls don't by any means assure that he will win an election and just how he makes out could depend a great deal on how he carries through this session.

First of all, though his party is leading the surveys, there unquestionably is some doubt in a lot of the public mind about Nixon himself.

A good many people still just can't see him as a leader.

Then nobody knows what he and his party really stand for.

He has kept his ideas about a party platform very closely to himself and observers will be looking to leads as to just what he might have in mind.

On the leadership aspect he has much more chance of winning than losing.

The legislature gives ample opportunity for a man's leadership weaknesses to show through.

But there is little occasion when he can get his strengths, such as good debating power and leadership quality generally across to the public.

These are characteristics that really have to be seen and heard and very few spectators watch and listen in the legislature.

On the question of platform maybe the real Bob Nixon will begin to stand up.

As of now there really has been no positive Bob Nixon.

We know that he would give more authority to municipalities. But just how and where—and why!

He told us just a few days ago that he would favor seeing teachers have their own self-regulating profession.

But, again, just how and why and how far would he go?

Where does he stand on labor? Lord only knows.

Where does he stand on agriculture? Why for the farmer, of course!

Where does he stand on consumerism? Why, for the consumer, of course!

Personally I believe he may be in for a rough row. Because the government, and the NDP, recognize the leader as the weak link in the Liberals and they will be shooting for inconsistencies.

Rich Know Their Way Through the Tax Laws

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

One thing that helps to distinguish the super-rich from the rest of us is their creative use of the tax laws.

And perhaps their most creative use of those tax laws is to be found in the charitable organizations that often bear their names.

Canadian law rewards those who give to charity by exempting donations from tax.

The super-rich often maximize those rewards by setting up their own private philanthropies, rather than by donating to the well-known public charitable organizations.

Published estimates of the number of such philanthropic foundations in Canada range from 1,400 to 2,000—but only about one per cent of them are known by name to the public.

The rest are known mainly to the super-rich themselves, the tax specialists who handle their affairs, and the uncommunicative civil servants of the department of national revenue.

An article in the Canadian Tax Journal (published by the Canadian Tax Foundation) for November-December, however, sheds some new light on the workings of the charitable foundations.

"Private charitable organizations are, by and large, planning tools for taxpayers with substantial income and substantial assets," the authors—Sheldon Silver and Stanley Taube—point out.

The cost of organizing, registering and administering such a foundation would normally be too high if your taxable income were less than $60,000 a year, your top marginal tax rate less than 61 per cent, and your assets less than $300,000 to $400,000 in value.

Under existing law, the authors say, "the use of a charitable organization may be of advantage even to a taxpayer whose primary motivation is not to benefit the community at large."

Typically, this is how it works: J. P. Moneybags first creates a private company, Moneybags Investments Ltd., to hold his assets, while he holds all the shares of the company.

Then he has his lawyer incorporate the Moneybags Foundation as a non-profit corporation, registering it under the Income Tax Act as a Canadian charitable organization.

From then on, it's easy. Moneybags donates money to the foundation, it issues him a receipt for the tax-exempt donation, then it lends the money to Moneybags Investments Ltd.

The variations on the theme are almost endless. Moneybags might, for example, donate some or all of the shares in his investment company to the foundation, and thus—if the legal details were handled the right way—keep control of the investment company's assets within the foundation (directors of which would no doubt include his wife and children) in the event of his death.

Or if the Moneybags family owned valuable art, ownership if it could be transferred to the foundation. There would be a worth-while tax saving through the "donation to charity," while the family could continue to enjoy its contemplation of the objects of art.

"It is safe to assume that if the general intent of the existing legislation is abused, Revenue Canada will attack the transactions," say Messrs. Silver and Taube.

However, they conclude, "because of the flexibility and lack of restrictions, particularly with regard to the investment policy of a charitable organization, the charitable organization can be one of the estate planner's important tools—particularly now, while the legislation is rather lenient in approach."

Church Remains Strong

For some reason there seems to be less news of Church activities published in the newspaper these days. I haven't noticed any accounts of Annual Meetings of Church Congregations, though I know some have been sent in for publication.

I suppose an Editor must decide on what is news. Sports activities are usually covered at quite some length, yet far more people are involved in Church activity than in sports activities. Last year in the United States fifteen times as many people went to Churches or Synagogues as went to all professional or college sporting events. In a year's time 44,000,000 people attend professional football and baseball games. On one Sunday many more than that number go to worship. Contributions to Churches and Synagogues totalled 11 billion dollars, compared to gate receipts for professional baseball and football and basket-ball of 221 million.

So, why don't we have better coverage of Church activities? According to the figures this is where the action is.

Another Hydro Hike Due

Editor
The Intelligencer:

On March 5, 1975, an article appeared in your paper telling us that we are again going to be subjected to an increase in Hydro rates.

In explaining the reason for this proposed raise, Hydro Chairman Robert Taylor attributed it partially to the increasing costs "because of the construction of new generating stations to meet increasing energy demands."

This may be partly the reason but surely Mr. Taylor does not think the public is so gullible as to believe that this is where the entire money is going to be spent!

It's ironic that on March 4, 1975, in the Intelligencer, a picture with accompanying explanation showed clearly where 44 million is to be spent — on new Ontario Hydro headquarters! How many of US work in such palatial surroundings?

Maybe some of the Hydro board members should look at their own reflections in the mirror-like exterior and ponder how they could have used our $44 million to save the consumer money rather than add to our financial burdens in these days of inflation.

If Adults Find Things Hectic, Kids Help in Matters Metric

OTTAWA (CP) — Going metric will mean trying times for some adults, said Dan McKenzie (PC—Winnipeg South Centre).

About 75 per cent of middle-aged Canadians will be educated in the new system by their children, predicted Charles-Arthur Gauthier (SC—Roberval).

"What the hell is celsus?" asked Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming).

The comments were all part of the Commons debate Monday on plans for total conversion to the metric system by 1980.

All three opposition members endorsed the principle of conversion, despite the anticipated headaches, but said not enough is being done to prepare Canadians for the change.

The opposition parties and Liberal Herb Gray, Former consumer affairs minister, called for legislation to give metric measurements legal force and to protect consumers.

Mr. Peters and the rest of the country will get a crash course in Celsius April 1, the date of the official switch in federally-issued temperature readings from fahrenheit to celsius. Weather stations will report all temperatures in celsius without comparative fahrenheit readings.

Freezing is zero degrees and boiling 100 degrees celsius compared with 32 degrees and 212 degrees fahrenheit.

Trade Minister Alastair Gillespie said preparatory work for conversion is well under way.

Many elementary schools were using the metric system; some companies were making packages in grams and kilograms and sample highway signs, giving distances and speeds in kilometers instead of miles, were up in most provinces.

Sept. 1, 1977 has been set as the target for switching the grain trade to metric and all sectors of the education system are expected to change by 1978. The slowest changes are expected in industry where it is complicated and costly to make the switch.

Mr. Peters said the mathematical calculations involved in switching to metric measurements from imperial "are beyond the abilities of many Canadians."

"Without safeguards Canadians will not know if they are being cheated," he said.

"I have often seen women in grocery stores trying to figure if a can or package labelled in metric units is smaller or larger than an apparently similar sized can or package labelled in today's standard units of measurement."

Mr. Gray, dropped from the cabinet last summer, called for metric conversion legislation with consumer protection provisions.

Without such provisions "some unscrupulous elements in the business world will use the changeover to the metric system to unjustly increase profits at the expense of consumers." Prices might be maintained on items which contain less in metric than imperial.

Mr. Gillespie announced a new loans program to help small businessmen convert operations to the metric system.

He did not indicate how much money will be available, but said the government will make and guarantee loans for small enterprises that cannot get financing elsewhere. The farming and fishing industries would benefit most from the plan, to be called the small business metric conversion program.

He said there are justified concerns about the costs of switching to the metric system, "but the costs of conversion are one-time cost while the benefit of converion are continuing."

Conversion "will assure that Canada keeps pace with an already largely-metric world," Mr. Gillespie said.

Hees Questions Trudeau About Link with ECC

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau, back in the Commons Monday after a 2½-week European tour, faced questions on pressing domestic issues, such the dredging scandal and strikes. There was only passing mention of his journey to five countries.

In a break with the usual pattern, the prime minister did not bother to give a report to the Commons on his trip.

George Hees sought some answers about the contractual link with the European Common Market that Canada is seeking.

The Conservative member from Prince Edward Hastings got no satisfaction and he asked if the prime minister could take the country into his confidence and "tell us how was the skiing?"

Mr. Trudeau had visited the Netherlands, West Germany, Italy, Britain and Ireland and he reiterated to Mr. Hees that he had received support from all countries for a contractual link with the ECC.

Mr. Hees asked if the prime minister can say whether he is confident of an early link with the European community.

Mr. Trudeau said talks have been held with community officials in Ottawa and two further meetings were scheduled.

Mr. Hees asked how the link with the community will work. He was ruled out of order. Then he asked about the skiing.

Mr. Trudeau has yet to give an indication of how a link would work.

Mr. Hees said outside the House that Mr. Trudeau's failure to report to the Commons on his trip indicates "that it was a complete failure."

"He came back with nothing."

Munro to Return To Work This Week

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister John Munro, off work almost three weeks, likely will be back in his office and the Commons this week.

A spokesman for Prime Minister Trudeau said Mr. Munro and the prime minister talked Monday "and the understanding is that he'll be back in the House and his office later this week.

Mr. Munro spent much of the three weeks in hospital recovering from exhaustion, said to be connected to worry over the Hamilton harbor dredging scandal.

The labor minister's name has been mentioned in the scandal—Hamilton East is his riding—and he had considered resigning to clear his name. The word that he will be back to work this week indicates that he probably has decided to stay on.

Recently there have been calls for Mr. Munro, 43, to get back on the job in the midst of labor strife that has been hurting large parts of the economy.

In the Commons Monday, John Fraser (PC—Vancouver South said the country deserves a full-time labor minister. He suggested that if Mr. Munro does not return to work soon, the minister should be replaced.

Turner Says Economy Gets Daily Review

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner said Monday the government is reviewing the domestic and international economic situation daily.

But he would not say whether he is considering a new budget because of changes since his last budget Nov. 18.

Sinclair Stevens (PC—York-Simcoe) said the government should have contingency plans because of worsening economic conditions.

He asked for a Commons statement from Mr. Turner before the minister leaves next week for a Middle East tour.

Mr Turner said he cannot promise to deliver such a statement.

Flora MacDonald Objects To Personal Questions

PEMBROKE, Ont. (CP) — Flora MacDonald (PC—Kingston and the Islands) says there are more important questions for reporters to ask than why she's not married and whether she has had many affairs with men.

"I come to press conferences prepared to discuss national problems," she said, "and yet these are the kinds of questions I face from the national media."

Miss MacDonald, speaking during a weekend seminar on International Women's Year, said she was asked this type of question during a recent CBC interview.

"I suppose there is a place for such questions but, my gosh, they must rate very low on any Canadian's scale of priorities. I came to discuss inflation, unemployment, the tremendous problems of urban affairs and I thought the questions were a bit silly."

College Teachers Get Pay Increase

TORONTO (CP) — Arbitrators have awarded Ontario's 5,990 community college teachers, members of the Civil Service Association of Ontario, a 26.3-per-cent salary increase over two years.

In a unanimous 113-page decision reached Monday, the three-man board of arbitration also called for a significant reduction in the workload of the teachers.

The salary increase, in three stages means the teachers will be paid between about $8,200 and $21,300 this academic year.

The arbitration board handed specific details on the workload reduction back to the teachers and colleges for compromise agreement within four weeks.

The salary award covers two years retroactive to Sept. 1, 1973, and expires this Aug. 31.

REAL ESTATE:

DEBT-FREE HOUSE

Ed. McKinney
J. E. McKinney
Realty Ltd.

Mr. Homeowner, does it make sense to strive for a paid-up mortgage as soon as possible? The so-called experts are divided down the middle on this question. So we'll cover the paid-up mortgage advocates today.

One of the prime motivations for buying homes is the view toward retirement. During that period, retirement pension money can, at best, act only as a supplement to living expenses. It may not pay for mortgage payments also. A paid-up mortgage in the latter, less affluent years of life can give a family a great sense of security and well being.

On the strictly financial side, the larger the down payment, the more you will save on interest costs and the lower your monthly mortgage payment will be, leaving more cash for savings and other living expenses. Also, the more you have invested in your house, the more you can take out when you eventually sell. You can't go wrong if you borrow no more than you actually need and pay it back as quickly and as reasonably as possible.

Read your Tax Guide. It will tell you what's new.

This year the Federal Government has included many new tax benefits that are important to you because they could save you money.

Your federal income Tax Guide explains them thoroughly.

It's a good idea, by the way, to read your Tax Guide carefully a day or two before tackling your income tax form. That way you familiarize yourself with the Guide and you'll have a better understanding of how it relates to your tax form.

Let's take the Interest Income Deduction as an example. This year for the first time, if you received and have reported on your income tax form interest income from many legitimate Canadian sources, including bank deposits, bonds, mortgages and notes, you are allowed to claim as a deduction the total of the amounts up to $1,000.

It's as simple as that. Your Tax Guide explains it in detail. Check Item 35.

Increased Personal Exemptions is another item changed from last year. All it means is that the Federal Government has increased your personal exemptions to coincide with the rise in the Consumer Price Index. The new personal exemptions are printed on your income tax form. Guide Item 41 tells you more about it.

Remember to check the other items listed in the Tax Guide which may entitle you to claim deductions, such as Child Care Expenses. Guide Item 33 tells you all about that one. And you may be entitled to deduct your Moving Expenses if you moved during 1974 to earn income in a new location in Canada. Check Item 34B carefully for the details.

Two other deductions, Tuition Fees, which can only be claimed by the student, and the Education Deduction are fully explained in Guide Items 32 and 47B.

Well, those are just some of the areas where it pays to follow your Tax Guide and, of course, there are others. The Federal Political Contribution Tax Credit is new as well. Guide Item 52H will tell you all about that one. This year, Family Allowance Payments are income and have to be declared as such. Check Item 7.

And don't forget, it you have contributed to a Registered Retirement Savings Plan, be sure to include your receipt and deduct the allowable amount. Guide Item 29 explains it in detail.

Use your Tax Guide and fill in your tax form carefully, step by step. You'll find it's not as difficult as you think.

If you should have difficulties, however, District Taxation Office addresses and telephone numbers are listed on the back page of your Guide. There you will find the help you need.

Ann Landers

Column Packed Gynecologist's Office

Dear Ann Landers: I am a practising gynecologist in the Midwest who reads your column daily. You are performing a useful service, and I admire your ability to cut through the palaver and get to the heart of a problem.

At the moment, however, I could cheerfully wring your pretty neck. Recently, a woman wrote to say she had been married several years and everything was lovely—except her sex life. Her husband was unable to satisfy her. In order not to damage his ego, she had been faking excitement and completion, and in her words "deserves an Academy Award for outstanding performance."

Then a friend told her that she had solved the identical problem by having a "dorsal clip." The unsatisfied lady immediately requested the same simple surgery (which was done in the doctor's office). It changed her whole life. "No more pretending," she wrote. "I enjoy sex now as I never dreamed possible."

Well, Ann, the day that column appeared, even though you told her that very few women need a dorsal clip and the benefits might have been psychological, I received eight requests from patients who wanted it done immediately.

The following day five more women called. I've had at least one request every day since.

A dorsal clip, as you know, is for the woman who has a hooded clitoris. This is a somewhat rare occurrence. But because of your column I have been forced to do some insignificant "snipping" to satisfy these women on the chance that the psychological effects might be helpful. Be careful what you print, Ann Landers. Your word means a lot.—Busy Enough, Thank You

Dear Busy Enough: Sorry if I jammed up your book, Doc, but unfortunately, so many women are sexually unfulfilled they clutch at straws.

I hope you gynecologists out there will take the time to help these patients by answering a few simple questions, making practical suggestions, and recommending some good literature.

As for "some insignificant clipping" it might help in the way you described. And who knows, one day you just might actually run into a hooded clitoris.

Dear Ann Landers: I read with interest the letter from a waitress who complained about customers who lingered after finishing a meal. Some took work from briefcases and talked business for an hour, others just visited over a third or fourth cup of coffee—"as if they had no homes." You seemed to think it was OK.

Well, it's obvious you have never been a waitress. I have, so maybe I can tell the great Ann Landers something for a change.

A restaurant is a place to eat. Unless entertainment is provided, the customers should do just that and leave. It is not a place to do work, hold business meetings, or sit and talk for an hour after the food has been cleared away. Furthermore, someone else may be waiting for the table.—On The Scene In Atlanta.

Dear On: Perhaps I should have made the distinction between a hash joint and a good restaurant.

A place where people go strictly to get fed (like slopping the hogs) lacks the atmosphere that lends itself to sitting around and visiting or talking business. But when people spend their money to dine in a first-class restaurant, they should not be hustled out if they wish to sit around and visit or talk business—unless, of course, others are waiting to be seated.

Going Back to School Tougher than You Realize

JANESVILLE, Wis. (AP) — Thinking of going back to school after a few years away from the ivy-covered halls?

Think twice, says a University of Wisconsin counsellor who specializes in the problems of adults who want to go back to college.

Carla Heimerl, who conducts seminars for adult would-be students, returned to school in 1967 after 18 years as a full-time housewife and mother of five and found that going back may be fashionable but it isn't easy.

"It is rather common for the returning adult not to know what he wants to do. Picking a major may seem difficult."

However, Mrs. Heimerl said an even bigger hurdle is the uncertainty and out-of-place feeling of returning adults when they suddenly find themselves in a youth-dominated environment that scarcely resembles college as they remember it.

"The fear of failure may be threatening," she said. "For years the returning adult students have been in another role. They have been on the line at General Motors or taking care of home and family.

Sometimes they may feel uneasy when asked why they are coming back. Perhaps they are afraid of making a commitment, not knowing if they can compete, or afraid of failing, losing face."

Mrs. Heimerl urged adults thinking about going back to school to set attainable goals for themselves before they set foot on campus.

There can also be problems with the reaction of children when Mom or Dad goes back to school, she said. But most families can work things out by talking together about their school work and perhaps even helping one another with homework.

She said friends sometimes resent the adult who returns to school and insist on manufacturing their own reasons for the return.

"They say: 'Aren't you satisfied at home? Aren't you and your husband getting along?' Even if it is only for enrichment older students should feel free to go back to school."

After all, the initial problems and frustrations of returning to school are worth it, Mrs. Heimerl maintained. "Once you're over the hurdle of the adjustments and conflicts, there is such joy and excitement in going back."

Gesture of a Great Man

This is a story about Franz Liszt, famous musician.

A young lady of his time, a pianist, was finding it difficult to make ends meet and realized that she would have to have some more income. She determined to put on a recital.

So she made up a small printed announcement about the recital, giving date and time. Under her name, as a drawing card, she put the words "Pupil of the famous musician, Fanz Liszt."

She had never seen Franz Liszt in her life.

The day before the recital, she learned that in the course of his travels, he was now visiting in her town. She was horrified and frightened. Then she took courage and went to see him.

She confessed what she had done and asked his forgiveness. He readily forgave her, and suggested that she play something for him.

Trembling, her fingers touched the piano keys, stumbling at first, then gaining more confidence as she felt his gentle sympathy.

When she was finished he commended her on her playing. He then said he would like to show her a few ways to improve the playing of certain parts of her piece; certain emphasis she could give, and expression.

Then he said, "There now. You have become a pupil of the Master Liszt. You will put on your recital tomorrow, and the Marter will play the last piece."

Gesture of the truly great!

Dear Doris: I have a sister who does much social work through the church. She runs into many single parents, mainly women left to cope with children, fears, loneliness, etc.

She wrote to me that she would like to get something organized — something like Al-Anon, but dealing with the single parent or single person (divorced, separated or widowed).

I thought perhaps you would know of such clubs, and could give her tips on organization, etc.

Here's Hoping.

Dear Hoping: There are social clubs and there are introduction services. But I think your sister has a noble idea in wanting to organize a club for single people. She could link up with an international one which has brought good friends to many lonely single parents.

It is called Parents Without Partners; there are now chapters in many Canadian cities. Write for information about starting a chapter to Mrs. June Martin, Suite 109, 370 Dixon Rd., Weston, M9R 1T2, Ont.

Confidential to Family Tree: Doing the kind of research that brings to light your ancestors is not easy — but it's fun. Try first through the Ontario Genealogical Society Box 66, Station Q, Toronto 7, Ontario.

Then write to the municipal offices at your old home town in Ontario and ask for information about births, deaths, marriages, etc. If there is a local historical society, older members may have information for you, and even a genealogical secretary who will take great pains to track down all the facts she can about the people with your name or who seem to be related in some way.

Shop Teacher's Job Breaks Down Barriers

TORONTO (CP) — Merle Hudson has broken into a traditionally male bastion, the industrial arts shop at Jesse Ketchum Public School in mid-town Toronto.

Miss Hudson took over teaching the Grade 7 and 8 students in industrial arts when the job became vacant last September. In preparation, she enrolled in a shop course at a secondary school last summer.

A native of Wellington, N.Z., she had her first opportunity to work with her hands when she helped her family build a house there.

Only one student as complained that he should have a male teacher in the course and Miss Hudson attributed his attitude to frustration over lack of accomplishment.

She said she is surprised at the lack of knowledge boys have about tools, paints and woods.

Her classes of boys and girls are learning to use hand and power tools and turn out bowls, boxes, cages, carvings and plastic key tags.

In her working dress of blue jeans striped T-shirt and sandals, Miss Hudson said she believes it is good for youngster to see her in the job because it helps break down sex stereotyping.

PRICE FIXED

PARIS (AP) — The cost of abortions, legalized in France after a tough parliamentary fight earlier this year, will be fixed at $145 in both public and private hospitals, the ministry of health said.

GIRLS JOIN MILITIA

BELGRADE (CP) — For the first time Yugoslav girls now will be able to join militia ranks, notably as traffic policemen. The first six graduated militiawomen have been put to directing traffic in Ljubljana, capital of Slovenia.

Top Marks at Trucking School Go to Diesel-driving Women

MONTREAL (CP) — This might come as a shock to male chauvinists, but three Montreal housewives have just graduated as qualified diesel truck drivers.

Judy O'Connell, Anne Papineau and Margaret Kellins learned how to handle everything from little pickups to double-clutch, five-four transmission; two-stick tractor-trailer models at a six-week drivers' course at the Ecole des Routiers Professionels in Montreal North.

They suffered through some good-natured teasing at first, but after scoring top marks in theory and practical examinations they were accepted by the men in the course.

An instructor, Adolph Legace, said they know their theory better than the men—and that leaves tire marks all over the old husbands' tale about females not being mechanically-minded.

The women were briefed in everything from heavy loads to traffic accidents in the $1,305 course. The manpower department paid tuition fees for Mrs. O'Connell and Mrs. Papineau.

"I got tired of doing boring women's jobs with no money," said Mrs. O'Connell 28, a mother of one child, who has also worked as a medical secretary, legal secretary and coffee-truck driver. With the school's certificate she hopes to earn $15,000 a year.

Although her family thought it was strange at first, they have adjusted and now a lot of her friends are jealous, she said.

Mrs. Papineau, 29, said she wrote to several trucking companies enquiring about getting a driving job and was referred to the school.

"Husbands come around in the end," she said of her spouse's early objections.

Mrs. Kellins, mother of four grown children, likes driving trucks so much she paid for the course herself and left her job as a psychiatric nurse.

The course has been open to women since the school's inception nine years ago.

All three expect some difficulty landing their first jobs. They said employers are likely to think it's "weird," mainly because it's new in Quebec.

"But the fact that we've gone through the school shows we're serious," said Mrs. Kellins.

Raising Rabbits for Food and Fur

By NAN WHITLAW

BANCROFT — Does your family ever moan, "Oh, no, not rabbit again!" when you set their supper on the table?

Then you probably need Allan Jones' booklet — 1,000 ways to serve a (properly dressed) rabbit.

Of course, chances are you've never cooked or eaten rabbit at all. But Mr. Jones is ready to remedy that oversight.

He is enthusiastic about using rabbits for food. It's economical, he says, and tasty as well.

A retraining course at George Brown College gave Mr. Jones skills in both gourmet cooking and fur technology. For the past six years, he's been trying to make a living out of that knowledge. He left his cab-driving job in Toronto and moved to Hastings county.

This winter, he's been teaching an extension course for Loyalist College in rabbitry — ways to use both the meat and the fur.

Mr. Jones says that there are five cuts of meat that come from a rabbit. The front legs are similar to chicken wings and can be breaded and fried. The back legs are "terrific for casseroles, either as is, or boned."

The most delicate rabbit meat is the tenderloin section which comes from just beside the back bone, he says.

"It takes eight rabbits to make one pound of tenderloin steak," says Mr. Jones, "but that's the part I like to use for sweet and sour bun with pineapple."

The rest of the meat from the four-pound animal is used for ground meat. By using the heart, liver and kidneys, Mr. Jones says that he increases nutritional value of the rabbit.

"There's no fat with rabbit meat so you don't have any waste," says Mr. Jones.

He doesn't even waste the carcass, and uses the bones to make stock. He uses this stock in many recipes where water or other liquid is called for. In the making of spaghetti noodles, for example, he sues yeast, flour and rabbit stock.

Growing, raising and making his own food is a way of life for Allan Jones. He, his wife Marie and their six children live on a 100-acre farm north-east of Coe Hill, with a menagerie of 20 rabbits, 30 goats, six horses, four doberman pinschers and a flock of chickens.

The family tries as much as possible to be self-sufficient. They use goats' milk and cheese as well as plenty of fresh eggs. Rabbit meat is a staple food in their diet.

"Our kids are very used to rabbit," says Mr. Jones. "They went on a school trip once and stopped at a hamburger stand. They could hardly eat."

Even Mrs. Jones admits that she has a problem getting through a traditional steak dinner now.

At the moment, the Jones family raises only enough rabbits to supply their own table. Since they are not a government — inspected meat cutting concern, the only way they can sell rabbit is "on the hoof."

Mr. Jones plans a new course in rabbitry to be held in Hermon, with another in Gilmour in the future. He hopes to eventually teach the course in Belleville or Picton.

At the moment he's ready to entertain visitors to his farm, and sell them his rabbit recipe booklet for $1.

Recipes for 'Bunny Lunch'

Here are three of Allan Jones' recipes for a meal he calls Bunny Brunch.

BUNNY FRIED RICE

Prepare the amount of rice that you usually serve your family. Drain well.

While the rice is cooking, melt butter in a frying pan, and add an egg. Fry the egg, scrambling it a little as it fries.

Add pre-cooked ground rabbit meat, chopped onions and mushrooms in any proportion that suits you. Add soy sauce and the cooked rice, and fry over moderate heat. A few minutes before serving, add a handful or two of frozen peas for extra taste and color.

BUNNY CHOP SUEY

Mix one tbsp. of cornstarch with cooled rabbit stock, sugar, salt and soya sauce in a bowl. Set this mixture aside.

In a hot skillet, melt butter and add uncooked rabbit meat. Keep turning the meat as it browns. Add soya sauce and salt.

Remove the meat from the pan, and add chopped onion, celery, bean sprouts. When these are hot, add the meat, stir, and then add the cornstarch mixture. Stir well until the chop suey is perfectly heated.

SWEET AND SOUR BUN BUN WITH PINEAPPLE

In a pot, measure two parts sugar to one part vinegar in whatever amounts your family will need. Color it with ketchup and thicken with cornstarch.

Coat rabbit tenderloin in a batter of flour, eggs and milk. Place in a deep frier of hot fat long enough to set the coating, and then cook more slowly for about ten minutes.

Add pineapple tidbits to the sauce, and heat it over moderate heat. Serve the tenderloin covered with the sweet and sour pineapple sauce.

PHIL

When you're 10 and you don't know what is ahead in your life, you dream and you hope — and you worry too.

That's how it is with Phil who has just had his 10th birthday. He very much wants to belong to a family and is anxious to meet possible parents — but he can't help wondering when and if and how it will work out.

Phil, a delightful boy of Danish background, will be a son to be proud of.

Handsome as the picture tells you, he has black hair, dark eyes and a winning smile. He is slightly built and in good health.

Phil is a bright lad, capable of doing well in school. He is in Grade four where his best subjects are social studies and science. He has some difficulties with math but has a good command of English and expresses himself well.

Phil's memory is excellent. He can recount television programs just about as accurately as if he'd written the script. He knows many Bible verses. He enjoys Sunday School and values the friendship of a former Sunday School teacher who is a kind of Big Brother to him.

Phil has never lived in the country but has been to camp, where he developed a taste for outdoor activities. He likes swimming and his favorite city outing is going to a park.

Phil is popular with other youngsters and likes to organize activites for a group. He's also fairly expert at leading others into mischief while he appears innocent!

Phil needs a family where the atmosphere is warm and loving and where children know what their parents expect of them. He should be in the middle of a family or perhaps the youngest in the household.

To inquire about adopting Phil, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2.

Beta Sigma Phi Buys Recorder For Library Use

A $50 gift from Belleville's Beta Sigma Phi sorority will enable the Corby Library to purchase its first cassette tape recorder this spring.

The recorder will be used by blind and elderly people who are served by the library's shut-in service. Cassettes of spoken fiction and poetry will now be available to those who cannot read.

"We need more than one tape recorder," said Chief Librarian Olive Delaney on Monday, "and we're hoping that other organizations will help us in this way."

At present, the library has only a few commercially prepared cassettes. Miss Delaney said she would be happy to hear from any individuals or groups who might be interested in reading material to increase the supply of cassettes.

Rest Home Residents Serving Life Sentences

VANCOUVER (CP) — Impersonal rooms and corridors, help from the hands of strangers and institutional food are the lot of residents of rest homes and private hospitals.

For most residents it is a life sentence. The settings can be luxurious or spartan, depending on the pocketbook of the patient.

Most private hospital patients are elderly women. Some are senile but many are just incapable of running their own households. There are also younger patients suffering from incurable diseases or severe injuries.

The provincial government only picks up the charge for a private hospital patient whose savings are gone. There is insurance for pneumonia and for industrial accidents but not for the long, slow deterioration that sometimes accompanies old age.

The situation is slowly improving. The British Columbia government has stepped in to demand standards of care. It is no longer profitable, hospital operators say, to scrimp on food, accommodation and staff.

Most accommodation is bleak. Lifelong possessions are replaced by standardized beds, dressers and chairs. Privacy and independence may be stripped away, sometimes forever.

Arbutus Private Hospital in Vancouver tries to be an exception. No welfare patients are accepted. Patients with private and semi-private rooms bring rugs and furniture and are encouraged to add personal touches to their quarters. Residents can sit on a sunny balcony with a view of the distant Vancouver International Airport.

Herman Nemetz, who operates the Arbutus, said "there used to be some ghouls in the old days" who would rent or buy an old house and pack it full of sick, elderly people, then provide substandard food and clothing.

The ghouls and many legitimate operators have been driven out of the business by rising costs, he said.

Private hospitals fill a gap between the role of the family and that of government, he said, but if the B.C. government builds enough extendetcar beds, private hospitals will be forced out of business and "there would be no thanks for the job they have done."

Mr. Nemetz said he doubts this will happen because the elderly population is increasing faster than hospitals can be built.

Human Resources Minister Norm Levi said that in September, 1972—a month after the New Democratic Party took power—there were 208,000 residents over the age of 65 in the province. In the fall of 1974, there were 230,000—about eight per cent of whom were in private or public institutions.

Arbutus rates start at $21 a day in a four-bed ward. Many patients have private rooms. The hospital has 77 beds for patients who need medical supervision and 10 for boarding-home use.

Southpines Private Hospital is a smaller, more spartan operation. Many of the patients are Workers' Compensation Board cases suffering from severe brain damage or crippled in industrial accidents.

Head nurse Anne Johnson, a small woman in her late 50s, has been at the 38-bed hospital since it opened in 1956. She is a registered nurse.

At least two unions have their sights on the low-paid staffs of private hospitals but so far Southpines and Arbutus staffs are non-union. They usually start at the B.C. minimum wage of $2.50 an hour.

Most hospitals hire inexperienced help and train them as nurses' aides. They also employ registered nurses.

Sharon Yandle, a spokesman for the B.C. Hospital Employees Union, said the 60-odd private hospitals are generally understaffed and the workers are underpaid because the institutions are trying to keep profits up.

Both Arbutus and Southpines hospitals face stiff competition for staff from public hospitals which offer higher salaries. Nurses' aides often take a job at the public hospitals after being trained in private hospitals.

Mr. Nemetz said his 75-member staff had a turnover of 200 last year. Mrs. Johnson's staff of 38 had a turnover of 26. She said that figure included employees who were let go after a two-or three-day trial.

Many nurses' aides are immigrants who are saving to bring their families to Canada or support them when they get here.

Russell Shepherd, president of the B.C. Association of Private Hospitals, is a supporter of a government takeover of private hospitals if the present owners are paid a fair price.

Scot Operates Adventure School

INVERNESS, Scotland (CP) — John Ridgway says he rowed across the North Atlantic because "I wanted to test myself."

For the last six years, hundreds of men, women and children have been able to test themselves under less hazardous conditions at the John Ridgway School of Adventure in the Scottish Highlands.

At Ardmore, on the shore of Loch Laxford 100 miles north of Inverness, the school offers courses lasting one or two weeks for adventurous students aged 11 to 70. Children's courses vary according to the age group and special courses are held for women.

On average, some 250 students attend every summer and one in 10 is from outside Britain.

They are accommodated in a Norwegian-style timber bunkhouse with three separate dormitories, dining - recreation room, hot showers and a drying room. Meals are eaten outdoors, weather permitting. There are no newspapers, television or radio.

Fees for the courses range from £44 to £55 ($100 to $125).

While no one is forced to do anything, activities include sailing, canoeing, hill-walking, camping, map-reading, rock-climbing and fishing.

"The object is not to exhaust people but to allow them to expand against this unique background," says Ridgway. "Safety is never ignored, with an instructor-pupil ratio of one to six or better. The main experience is a direct contact between the individual and the real world which he lives in, yet seldom sees."

Ridgway, 35, was a member of the Parachute Regiment when he and a fellow-paratrooper rowed from the United States to Ireland in 1966.

Most Provinces Augment Federal Income for Old

By TED WELCH
The Canadian Press

A Maritime pensioner shuffled into a bookstore with a shopping bag full of used books, which the store buys for 10 cents each.

"I'm living, if you call it that, on very little," he said. "It's not enough. But you won't hear me begging for more."

"I don't eat too much and I watch a lot of television," said a Halifax widow. "When my husband was alive it was a little more difficult, with two mouths to feed. Still, it's not much of a life."

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press showed that financial assistance available to the elderly varies from province to province.

All Canadians over the age of 65 are entitled to the basic old-age security pension which was set at $120.06 a month last January and is adjusted every quarter to reflect increases in the cost of living.

In addition, the federal government provides a guaranteed supplement for those in need, giving them a total monthly income of $204.27 a month.

Ten years ago the old-age pension was $75 a month with no supplement.

The Canada Pension Plan, in effect since 1966, was revised earlier this year to a maximum monthly payment of $122.50. By December, 1975, it will increase to $134.97.

Amendments which went into effect Jan. 1, 1975, permit eligible pensioners to start collecting benefits at 65 or to defer their pension and continue working and contributing to the plan, building up larger benefits.

Previously, pensions were reduced if earnings were above a limit that varied from year to year.

Health Minister Marc Lalonde said the amendments brought increases to 5,000 persons receiving retirement pensions and entitled an additional 30,000 to receive a pension for the first time.

The old-age security pension and guaranteed income supplement are complemented by additional payments in all provinces except Saskatchewan, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island.

Payments vary, depending on a recipient's federal pension earnings, with the top guaranteed minimum of $234.13 a month being provided by British Columbia's Mincome plan, which went into effect in 1972.

Alberta, which began provincial old-age payments in October, 1973, has announced a plan to bring the guaranteed minimum to $235 but its implementation was delayed until after the March 26 provincial election.

Albertans who are permanent residents and receive the federal guaranteed income supplement currently get an additional $10 a month from the province.

The government estimated that about 73,000 Albertans, two-thirds of all pensioners in the province, will benefit from the new program.

Ontario guarantees a minimum monthly income of $230.50 to pensioners who have lived in the province for a year and in Canada for five years. The program has been in effect since July 1, 1974.

In Quebec, which operates its own pension plan, the province augments the federal old-age security pension and guaranteed income supplement with additional benefits for those who have contributed to the Quebec Pension Plan.

Pensioners share in medical-care insurance benefits available to all Canadians, with most provincial governments looking after premium payments. They receive free drugs in most provinces, although Saskatchewan charges a $1.50 dispensing fee and payments in Manitoba are limited to 80 per cent of the cost.

Additional benefits include subsidies for nursing-home care and free home care for patients awaiting admission to nursing homes in Ontario and Manitoba. Manitoba also offers a wheelchair subsidy.

Alberta provides pensioners with free dental care, hearing aids and ambulance service and most of the cost of eyeglasses.

Jet Age Brings New Ills Here

TORONTO (CP) — The incidence of tropical and subtropical diseases is increasing in Canada and Dr. Michael Lenczner of Toronto General Hospital has been waging a campaign against them for seven years.

Until recently, the diseases were rare in Canada and they still are unknown to many Canadian doctors.

The jet age brought them here and the number of cases in Toronto increases every year. Last year, the university clinic for tropical and parasitic diseases, which Dr. Lenczner heads, saw more tha 2,400 patients travellers, immigrants, missionaries and workers in overseas agencies—six times as many as in 1967.

The clinic has a backlog of three to four months, but will take emergency cases, said Dr. Lenczner.

He said one important question doctors must ask their patients is "Where have you been?"

If the patient has travelled to, or is an immigrant from an area of the world where the risk of tropical or parasitic deseases is high, it may give the doctor a clue to a patient's ailment.

Tropical diseases are often difficult to diagnose, Dr. Lenczner said. Some patients have no symptoms; some have only vague complaints. Sometimes the symptoms don't show up for weeks.

Tropical diseases may show up as respiratory complaints, swelling of glands, digestive upsets rashes or urinary problems.

In many cases, they can be diagnosed only by a full physical examination as is provided by the Toronto General clinic. The only other such clinic in Ontario is in Ottawa.

Dr. Lenczner, said, however, that a growing number of doctors in other communities are developing greater expertise in tropical diseases.

Critics said last year that health ministries were failing to protect the public against imported diseases because of lax immigration laws and failure to provide funds to encourage the training of experts in tropical diseases.

Dr. Lenczner said the federal and provincial governments are becoming more aware of the problem.

Contagious diseases are a particular worry if they show up in food-handlers, Dr. Lenczner said. Several months ago he told family doctors that several cases of dysentery found in Toronto were traced to an undiagnosed infection suffered by assistant cooks in a restaurant.

Parasitic diseases such as roundworm, tapeworm or trichinosis (from undercooked pork) can produce crippling effects in young people, he said.

Engineers Recruited in U.K.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A severe shortage of engineers in several provincial departments has sent Newfoundland government agents on a recruiting drive in the United Kingdom.

The departments of municipal affairs, provincial affairs and transportation and communications have searched for engineers and economists in Canada for almost a year without success and have turned their attention to Europe.

A spokesman for the public works and services department says significant pay increases for government-employed people in these fields appear to have had no effect in alleviating the shortage in the two professional categories.

"Advertisements have been placed in English newspapers and it is hoped that at least 14 engineers and a couple of economists can be found," the spokesman said.

This situation appears contradictory to the growth of engineering in the province.

Work has almost been completed at Memorial University of Newfoundland, the province's only degree-granting institution, on an $8-million school of engineering.

The building, one of the many expensive institutions created here since 1949, will accommodate 800 students but won't be ready for use until mid-summer this year.

Engineering studies were introduced in 1930 as a three-year diploma program in affiliation with the Nova Scotia Technical College where students could finish their work on a bachelor's degree in engineering.

In 1067, Memorial introduced an engineering degree program and the first bachelor's degrees were awarded last year.

The degree course is a co-operative program during which full-time academic study is alternated with equal periods of full-time work in business and industry.

During these work periods, the students are brought into direct contact with the engineering profession, exposed to practical problems and expected to assume ever-increasing responsibilities.

They are, in fact, brought into contact with engineering projects far beyond the scope of any that could be provided by the university.

The engineering program is made up of eight academic semesters with the first four having the same curriculum or core. Students have four academic terms and three working periods before selecting fields of specialization.

The fifth academic term is a transition from the core program to three terms of specialization.

Dr. Robert Dempster, dean of the faculty of engineering and applied science, says that in the academic program "we try and put into perspective the engineer's role in society.

"Our society is becoming more and more dependent on technology and it is most important that the professional engineer is able to appreciate the effects on society and be prepared to responsibility in his work, as well as being capable of implementing the technological changes."

From the start, the engineering faculty has tried to prepare students to meet the needs of the province and emphasis has been placed on programs related to the island's location in a cold-water environment, work on sea-bed engineering and investigation of iceberg movements.

Most of the programs have been promoted in co-operation with both federal and provincial agencies and with industry."

However, says a provincial government spokesman, "a lot of people just don't like the government service and professionals are mostly going into the private sector."

Lifejacket Protects From Cold

VICTORIA (CP) — One result of a cold-water research study carried out recently at University of Victoria has been manufacture of what researchers call the world's best life-preserver.

Dr. John Hayward, an associate professor of biology and one of the jacket's designers, said it differs from prior models because it provides protection from the cold as well as from drowning. He said severe cooling of the body is the major cause of death in frigid Canadian waters.

"This is the first time scientists have understood human cooling and deliberately designed a jacket to offset the effects," said Dr. Hayward.

Other members of the research team are Dr. Martin Collins and Dr. John Eckerson, associate professors of physical education.

Dr. Hayward said the new jacket, manufactured by Ancient Mariner Industries Ltd. of Vancouver, will be stylish enough to wear anywhere — "even at work". It is similar in appearance to the popular floater jacket.

The jacket is lined with a quarter-inch of closed-cell noprene ,the same material used in the construction of wetsuits.

Concealed for on-the-street-wear are two innovations which make the jacket even more efficient.

The first is a covering of the stretchy wetsuit material that extends down to the thighs. The second is the hood, which may be hidden under the collar when not in use.

An important feature of the hood is its blaze-red covering of tape which reflects light brightly, even at night, to help rescuers spot the wearer.

Dr. Hayward said that while lifejackets now approved by the ministry of transport give the person wearing them three or four hours of expected survival time in cold water, the new jacket increases the time to nine or 10 hours.

About 500 jackets are being sold initially for about $70 each.

The three professors have also designed two optional survival items which fit into the pockets of the life jacket and will appear on the market shortly.

The first is a miniraft, which will cost about $5.

"It's designed to keep most of the body out of the water except when there are huge seas," said Dr. Hayward. He said the raft increases life expectancy to about 20 hours.

The other item is a small launcher that shoots flares 300 feet into the air, each flare burning for about 10 seconds.

Initially, said Dr. Hayward, the jackets will be sold in Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo, B.C., but there are plans for Canada-wide distribution and sales will probably extend to the United States and Europe.

During its research, the team also discovered that a drown - proofing technique taught by the Red Cross and other water-safety groups chills the body quickly.

Dr. Hayward said people using the method cool 82 per cent faster than if they remained motionless in the water, because using the technique, the head, which is a high heat-loss area, is immersed.

Dr. Hayward said the body cools about 35 per cent faster treading water or swimming. If the temperature of the core area—the heart, lungs, and brain—decreases below 85 degrees, death may occur.

Remaining motionless in a fetal position, the warm blood remains in the core even though the limbs may become cold. With movment, warm blood is sent into the limbs thereby increasing the cooling rate.

Dr. Hayward said his group found that the sides of the chest and the groin are the highest heat-loss areas in the body.

He says rescuers should apply heat to these areas of the body and added it sometimes may be an advantage to let the limbs stay cool so the victim will continue to shiver and generate more heat in this manner. He says the best treatment still is to immerse the body in warm water.

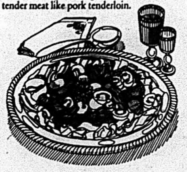
How Ontario Pork can add a delicious new dimension to these famous dishes, as well as your own.

The fact is, because of the subtle, rich taste of Ontario Pork, you can substitute it in almost any meat recipe and the result will be a delectable change. The dishes below are succulent examples of that, since each of these international favourites has taken on a delicious new dimension just by adding pork instead of the meat that is normally used. It only goes to show that with a little imagination and Ontario Pork, today you can enhance your favourite recipe and tomorrow the world.

Pork Stroganoff

1½ pounds pork tenderloin
salt and pepper
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons butter
2 medium onions, chopped
½ pound mushrooms, sliced
1 can (10-ounce) condensed consommé
1 cup dairy sour cream

Cut pork tenderloin into thin strips, 1½ inches long, ½ inch wide. Season with salt and pepper and dredge in flour. Melt butter in a hot frypan and sear meat until it is no longer pink. Put meat to one side of pan. Sauté onion and mushrooms for about 4 minutes. Stir in consommé; simmer 15 minutes. Mixture will thicken slightly. Add sour cream; stir until smooth. Serve immediately over fluffy rice, buttered noodles or mashed potatoes. Makes 6 servings. The secret of great stroganoff is to use very tender meat like pork tenderloin.



Pork Cacciatora

¼ cup olive oil
1½ pounds lean pork cubes
2 medium onions, sliced
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
1 small green pepper, chopped
1 can (28-ounce) Italian tomatoes
1 can (7½-ounce) tomato sauce
1 chicken bouillon cube
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground thyme
¼ teaspoon ground oregano
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 bay leaf
¼ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced in half

Heat oil in large frypan. Brown pork cubes on all sides. Remove pork and keep hot. Cook onions and garlic until tender. Add remaining ingredients and stir to blend. Cook 5 minutes. Return pork cubes to frypan. Cover and simmer slowly for 40 minutes until sauce seems well blended. Remove bay leaf. Add mushroom halves. Simmer, stirring occasionally for 15 minutes more until mushrooms are tender. Serve very hot with well-buttered spaghetti. Makes 6 servings.

The Star-Spangled Porkburger

1½ pounds lean ground pork
1 medium onion, finely chopped
½ teaspoon celery salt
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons oil or bacon drippings

Combine ground pork, onion and seasonings. Shape into 6 patties, ½–1 inch thick. Heat oil or bacon drippings in heavy frypan. Cook patties for about 6 minutes on each side until golden brown and meat is done showing no trace of pink. Makes 6 servings. For flavour variations: use ½ teaspoon dry mustard; or ½ teaspoon garlic powder; or ½ teaspoon each of oregano and savory instead of the celery salt.

Serve porkburgers in heated crusty rolls with mustard relish or apple sauce or chili sauce and crisp lettuce. For a change try serving your porkburgers topless on a toasted bun half with apple-horseradish sauce (made by blending together equal parts apple sauce and sour cream and sharpening with horseradish to taste); or top pattie with hot pork and beans, mustard, Waldorf salad, sauerkraut or dill pickle. There simply is no end to the flavour combinations that go with pork.

Home Show Attracts Over 30 Exhibitions

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

More than 30 area home builders and merchants will participate in the fourth Quinte Home Show, to be held in Ben Bleecker auditorium April 17, 18 and 19.

Don Keller, first vice-president of the Quinte Home Builders' Association — show sponsor — said "a lot of enthusiasm is being generated for this year's show."

Mr. Keller said there will be sufficient exhibits by association members that every phase of home construction will be displayed.

Exhibits — already arranged — range from shingles to furniture with special interest booths provided by Ontario Hydro and Loyalist College. Heating, air conditioning and leisure equipment will also be shown during the three-day show.

This marks the fourth show of its kind and has drawn steadily larger crowds.

Mr. Keller said Thursday evening is the best time to come and look around. "Traffic is heavy Friday night and Saturday leaving little time for exhibitors to talk over individual problems with home owners."

Doors will open from noon until 10 p.m. Thursday and Friday and from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Saturday. There is no admission charge.

As an added highlight this year, the show will include some outside exhibits including a mobile home and concrete steps and patio designs.

"What we are trying to do is bring all aspects of home construction under one roof," said Mr. Keller. "There will be all kinds of options and experts to explain the benefits of each."

This compact design shows the "contemporary colonial" exterior treatment that has maintained its appeal for many years and thereby assurers good resale value. The efficent design, with the main two-storey portion almost an exact cube, also assures maximum living space for the original building dollar.

Upstairs are three good-sized bedrooms all with dual closets, a powder room ensuite with the master bedroom and an amount of extra closet space that would be unusual in many larger homes.

Downstairs, the exphasis is on the modern idea of the "family kitchen" but this home goes further in adding a generous breakfast nook area. Separate living and dining rooms are spacious and away from the main traffic area. The powder room is well located to serve the whole downstairs.

Plans for Design T3-1071 cost $35 for the first set, $11 each additional set and are supplied by return mail. Order book from Home Planning, 40 Jarvis St, Toronto, Ontario

Eat up less electricity

Check the door seal. Close the door on a piece of paper. If you can pull it out easily, the gasket needs to be replaced.

Keep your pots and pans bright and shiny. They'll cook faster.

In the oven, use glass or ceramic utensils. This will allow you to reduce the oven temperature by as much as 25°.

Use your toaster, and other small appliances, whenever possible. They use less electricity than your oven or range.

When you put food in the refrigerator, place it so that air will circulate freely.

Avoid opening the oven door while food is cooking. Each time you do, you lose about 20% of the heat.

Choose cooking utensils that fit the elements properly. Pots and pans with straight sides, flat bottoms, and tightly fitting lids make best use of heat.

These are a few ways you can save electricity in your kitchen. Small ways...but they add up. If we each save a little, we'll all save a lot!

TIPS ON HOW YOU CAN STRETCH CANADA'S ENERGY RESOURCES AND PUT MONEY IN YOUR POCKET
Energy, Mines and Resources Canada
Énergie, Mines et Ressources Canada

Actual size

WE'RE ALL AWARE of the energy situation, and it's easy to say, "Well there's nothing I can do about it."

Wrong. There's plenty that each one of us can do in our homes and apartments to help Canada—and save as much as $100 a year. When we save energy, we also save money.

This new book is full of ideas you can apply to heating, cooking, air conditioning, lighting, water heating. And it's written simply, with diagrams and full instructions on how to fix tap washers, dirty furnace filters, gaps around windows and so on.

Almost everything that has been written on home conservation is packed into this book. And it's yours free.

Here are a few of the ideas:

Don't drown the beans

WHEN you're cooking vegetables, use little water and cook only until they're tender. You'll save vitamins and flavour. Well-designed cookware, used on the proper settings, will also conserve energy. Try cooking the entire meal in the oven, or on one or two burners.

If you're lucky enough to have a dishwasher, don't use it until you have a full load. Do the same with your clothes dryer—and be sure to clean the lint filter after each load.

Saving energy is often a game of pennies, but they all add up—and so do the savings for Canada.

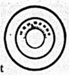
Do you really need a crushed-ice dispenser?

A FROST-FREE refrigerator uses 50% more energy than a standard model. A crushed-ice dispenser is a big energy drain. And a self-cleaning oven uses 20% more energy than a standard model. Ask yourself how many of these extras you really need.

When you go shopping for a new appliance—refrigerator, dishwasher, range, dryer, washing machine—look beyond the price tag. What's the energy cost of running it? Often the better-built, more expensive model is also more energy-efficient. A better buy in the long-run.

Eive ways to save on home heating

HEATING is the biggest item in a family's home energy budget. Here are a few simple ways to save:



Lower the thermostat.
Each degree over 68 adds about 2½% to your heating bill. By dropping the setting from 72 to 70 you can save 5%. Dropping it from 72 to 68 will save 10%—about $30 a year.

It helps to lower the temperature further at night, and when you're going to be away from home for a few days.

Check your furnace filter.
A dusty, clogged filter forces the system to work harder, and wastes energy. Inspect it every 30 days. (The book shows you how.) An annual or semi-annual furnace cleaning can save you another 10%.

How's your insulation?
Many Canadian homes have inadequate insulation. Ceilings should have 6" or more of mineral wool or glass fibre insulation. Wall cavities should be completely filled. Basement walls should also be protected to 2 feet below grade level. To avoid fire hazards, don't use foamed plastic insulation in exposed applications.

Use storms and weather-stripping.
Storm windows and doors will reduce heat loss in winter by up to 15%.

Weather-stripping is a must. A tiny gap of ¼" along the bottom of a door is the same as having a 9 square-inch hole in your living-room wall. 100 ways to save energy and money in the home explains how to weather-strip joints and caulk the frames of windows and doors.

Let the sunshine in.
Energy from the sun is free, so it makes sense to use as much of it as we can. In the winter, open curtains and drapes during the bright part of the day and close them at night, for their insulating value. In summer, do the opposite.

Drip, drip, drip, drip

ONE DRIP per second from a leaky hot water faucet or shower-head sends about 175 gallons a month down the drain. That's money down the drain. You can probably fix it yourself with a new washer and a few minutes work.

Be sure the size of your water heater matches your needs. Don't set it for more than 140 degrees, and turn it off when you go on vacation.

Have you tried a cold-water wash for clothes? It usually works just as well. Remember, too, that your average shower bath uses only 5 gallons of hot water, while a tub bath takes almost 10 gallons.

Could you use an extra $100 a year?

These are just a few of the many, many ways to save energy and money in the home.

It's well worth doing. By making modest energy savings now, we can improve our environment and way of life far into the future.

Send in the coupon for your free copy of "100 ways to save energy and money in the home."

City Passes Five-cent Transit Fare Hike with No Debate

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Belleville's public transit system is estimating its 1975 deficit at $242,000 city council learned Monday night as it approved a five-cent increase in single fares.

The soaring deficit—likely $70,000 above 1974 losses — spurred one councillor to warning words.

The request for the hike, from the Belleville Transit Commission, went through council automatically. There was no debate.

Later Mayor Robin Jeffrey said the issue had not been raised in the caucus session that precedes each council meeting. She presumed council already was well acquainted with the issue through recent news stories

However, when a standard resolution asking for provincial government subsidies on the expected 1975 deficit came up, Ald. Joe Cox came to his feet.

"If this (loss) continues to escalate at the rate it's going — it should be council's concern to known where this figure is going (to end)," he said.

He said he wanted to know how much the higher fares would help offset operating losses.

The new fares range from 30 cents for adults, 20 cents for students, senior citizens and 10 cents for youngsters.

Frank Morrell, city treasurer, said he could not readily estimate what the financial results would be but said the increases might mean another $20,000 on fares.

But the BTC already is locked in contract negotiations with most of employees and a settlement could cost $60,000-$70,000.

"The increase in fares will in no way cover the increased wages," predicted Mr. Morrell.

On its 1974 operations the BTC expects to lose about $170,000, chairman Marylea Burtt has said. The Ontario government pays 50 per cent of deficits and last week exempted Belleville from a provincial fares freeze because of the mounting costs.

After the meeting, Ald. Cox said the fare increases is higher than it sounds. When it becomes effective in April the BTC will go to an exact-fares system-replacing tickets.

But, passengers who regularly ride the buses usually buy tickets. Under the present system this gives one free ticket. For instance, an adult buys five tickets for $1 or pays a signle fare of 25 cents.

For ticket buyers the increase to 30 cents is therfore a 50 per cent hike, said Ald. Cox.

Trenton Council Okays Revised Works Budget

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — In special session Monday, town council made no further cuts in its capital budget and approved by a 4-2 vote a $1,263,935 works program for 1975.

The approval means Trenton taxpayers will likely see in 1976 a 6.4-mill increase on top of the 23 mills now applied to retire the town's growing capital debt.

The 6.4 mills represents only a small part of what some councillors fear will be a larger tax bill this year over 1974. Councillor Ron Price said he anticipates a 14 to 20-mill increase in the current budget.

Capital works projects represent about 20 per cent of the overall town budget, which was set at $4.8-million in 1974. Council has yet to strike the full 1975 budget.

Council's move Monday came in the face of a push by councillor Peter De Groot and Mr. Price to throw out a total $515,000 expenditure for reconstruction of Water St. and the CPR subway on Sidney St.

The two men succeeded last week in forestalling a council decision on the budget.

In an unprecedented move, council threw out a $1,463,935 total in favor of another look at possible cuts.

Only the town utilities commission cut its debenture requirements — by $200,000, thereby bringing its request down to $325,000. The PUC's action dropped the total budget figure to $1,253,935, of which $933,935 is slated for town expenditures.

As originally presented by treasurer Brian Fagan, the town's portion stood at $1,006,100, but $67,000 was cut by elimination of a grant to Trenton Memorial Hospital and $54,540 for the parks and recreation department.

Monday, Mayor Bob Patrick led arguments against further cuts, and emphasized, the need for both the projects opposed by Price and De Groot.

Mayor Patrick said that even if council receives Ontario Municipal Board (OMB) approval for the Sidney St. subway, it "does not mean that we will debenture it this year."

The subway, what Mayor Patrick termed the key issue during the budget talks, will not likely be approved for debenturing by council in 1975. Therefore, it will not mean a 6.4 mill increase in the capital budget rate for 1976, when any first payment would come due.

(If the 6.4 stands, a homeowner assessed at $3,500 will pay an additional $22.40 into town coffers in 1976. This does not include any further mill rate increases. A single mill is 1-1000 of the total assessment on a home.)

In opposition, Mr. Price said that he did not want to face the public with what he anticipated will be an approximate 30 mill increase in 1975. Councillor De Groot stood firm in his position that the rate to defray capital debt costs should not go over 25 mills.

The two councillors lost their resolution to oust Water St. and the Sidney subway from the budget.

Budget Architect

Trenton treasurer Brian Fagan stopped briefly outside council chambers Monday before town council passed his $1.26 million capital works budget for the community. The budget was cut by $67,000 before it received a four - two acceptance vote by council's six members.

Sewer Cost Reduced

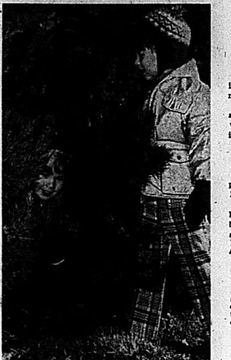
City council has accepted a compromise solution to a contested — and costly — sanitary sewer installation on Maple Dr.

Objections came to council in January when it was found circumstances singular to the situation meant the installation would cost householders way above the normal charges.

Among reasons were the extra depth of the sewer and the cost of land easements to run the sewer link through.

City engineer Joe Angelo was asked to investigate and came up with a detailed report that offered not one, but five alternatives.

The one the city selected included easement costs and expenses for running the sewer through the acquired property be absorbed by city hall — but to be charged back once the property is developed. This — and installing the sewer higher — would lower the frontage costs to $24.90 a foot and private drain connections to $771.



Spring Sports

While Mom negotiated a baby buggy across Bridge Street, Danny (hiding) and Flip (Phillip) Thompson got into some spring antics, playing hide and seek in nearby bushes. Temperatures reached the 40s today as spring weather continues to blanket the city.

Sidney to Hire First Fire Chief

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Sidney Township should have a full time fire chief by next week — the first full time firefighter ever employed by the municipality.

Since 1969, the township's fire brigade has been steadily increasing its scope.

Initially the department consisted of one pumper engine stationed at Batawa. Due to the stretching geography of the township — with dense populations near Highway 2 but larger populations spread throughout the township's central and north central areas — a second fire hall was constructed beside the municipal offices.

Now the final phase has come to light with plans on the drawing board for a third station in Bayside — expected to locate close to the secondary school.

"We will need a full time man to co-ordinate the effort . . . a job that already is too much for volunteer co-ordinators in terms of time," Reeve Gord Wilman told council Monday.

The township offices have been receiving sealed applications in recent days and all will be opened at next Monday's council meeting.

Reeve Wilman said new chief will be required to manage the 45-man, volunteer force along with the paper operations of a three-division fire department.

Convict Sought

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville advise Quinte area residents to be on the lookout for an escaped convict who is described as "extremely dangerous and will kill if necessary."

Police said Peter William Harrison, 35, escaped from the Canadian Forces Base Kingston hospital today at 5 a.m. and due to an incomplete operation, has a hole in his stomach, requires stitches and may seek medical attention.

He was serving 17 years, five months and one day for armed robbery at Millhaven Institution and has a record of psychiatric treatment at Penetang.

Council Briefs

Hillcrest to Get Water Main

Hillcrest can get ready for installation of its last water main.

City council Monday passed a bylaw for construction of a watermain on University Ave. in Hillcrest — an area without either sewers or water some years ago.

"This brings to a conclusion the installation of watermains in Hillcrest," said Mayor Robin Jeffrey.

Grant Cuts Property Cost

A $76,300 riverside greenbelt property acquisition has cost Belleville only $21,000.

The property on the Moira River in north Belleville was bought from Dr. F. R. Ross and Michael Tom, by the Moira River Conservation Authority (MRCA).

This meant a provincial government grant of nearly $56,000 to the MRCA.

The city then picked up 99 per cent of balance needed — $20,919, payment of which was approved by city council Monday night.

Corke Praises Detectives

City detectives who smashed a wide-ranging shoplifting operation with the arrest of three women recently, won commendation in city council onday night.

Ald. Ben Corke said the officers who arrested the trio from Ohio — now sentenced to jail — "in effect broke up a shop-lifting ring" that operated over a wide area.

Park Now Approved

A formality Monday night eased the financing of developing East Zwick's Park.

City council declared it an approved park — one eligible for assistance from the provincial natural resources ministry.

he parks board hopes that $100,000 approved for creating the Bay of Quinte shoreline park — on Highway 14 and complementing West Zwick's Centennial Park — will be eligible for grants of up to 50 per cent of total development.

Fire Committee Established

A city hall—fire department committee will bring in recommendations on the manpower economics of the city's fire service.

City council Monday named a committee to investigate and recommend on the "economical manning" of the department.

On the committee: City manager Wilbur Purcell, city councillors Stu Meeks — who made the recommendation two weeks ago — and Wally Dever; Mayor Robin Jeffrey; Fire Chief Leo Culhane and Bill Williams, local Firefighters Association president.

Money Rolling In

Provincial government funds, aimed at easing local taxes, are arriving faster this year.

The payments, known as tax stabilization grants — and received last August and November totalled about $1,100,000, said city treasurer Frank Morrell.

But Monday night he reported to council the government has speeded up the process. Early this month he received the first stabilization grant — for $115,000 — he told council. The balance will follow in October.

Seminars Open to Public

The first in a three-day film and discussion series titled "Women today—challenge for change" begins tonight at 8 p.m. in the art gallery of Corby Library. The program is free, and open to all persons interested in the dilemmas faced by contemporary women.

Speakers for the National Film Board, the provincial ministry of community and social services, and Hastings County Children's Aid Society will comment on the various films about women's place in the working world and the home.

Colton Re-elected

James Colton, of Royal Canadian Legion Branch 509, Consecon, was re-elected commander of the Legion's Zone F3 at the zone s annual rally held at Stirling Branch 228 Sunday. His term is two years. Deputy Zone Commander is Al Fraser, Branch 280, Deseronto. Zone F3 covers Legion branches in Belleville, Picton, Consecon, Deseronto, Tweed, Madoc, Marmora, Stirling and Wellington.

Quartet Busy

Members of the Eastern Ontario Violin Quartet experienced a busy day Sunday. During the afternoon, they gave a concert at Hastings County Museum in conjunction with the opening of a new Instruments and Music Display. And in the evening, they joined the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra for a performance in Brighton. Quartet members are Marion Stratton, Stephen Choma and Joachim Reiman of Belleville and William Grant of Stirling.

YMCA Seeks More Funds

A request from Belleville Family YMCA that city council almost double its municipal grant to the community organizations will be considered when the city budget is being drafted.

Council decided Monday night to take no action till that time on the request, which also sought a tax exemption.

Ray Tripp, YMCA treasurer, wrote council that the organization now has more than 100 volunteers assisting with its community programs in various city areas. Last year it gave free memberships to 76 "needy" persons and its east end swimming pool will be open more to the public this year.

Cost of programs and services this year is estimated at $109,800 — compared to $91,600 last year. In 1974 and 1973 the city gave grants of $8,500.

New Teachers' Pact Retroactive to 1973

All that remains to settle a new contract between the provincial government and Ontario's 5,990 community college teachers is a workload provision which when finalized, will go into effect Aug. 31.

Paul Wall, spokesman for Loyalist College teachers, said today the workload provision is "a bigger hangup than salary provisions."

Those salary provisions were announced Monday, following a Feb. 27 draft award handed down by Justice Willard Estey of the Ontario Court of Appeals and six meetings since of the arbitration board.

Mr. Wall said they are part of a two-year contract which will expire Aug. 31. He noted the colleges of applied arts and technology (CAAT) academic division of the Civil Service Association of Ontario (CSO) has not had a contract since the last one expired Aug. 31, 1973

Under the salary provisions, eight per cent is retroactive to Sept. 1, 1973, 13½ per cent is retroactive to Sept. 1, 1974 and three per cent is retroactive to last March 1.

Mr. Wall said the CSAO negotiating team and the government will sit down to work out details of the workload provisions and must settle them by April 15.

If they are unable to agree, Justice Estey will make the decision, he said.

The workload portion, included in "several statements of principle" from Justice Estey, outlines the maximum number of contact hours per week, contact days per year and contact hours per year, said Mr Wall.

Two Youths Injured In Car-Motorcycle Crash

Two Quinte area youths are in Belleville General Hospital today in fair condition with injuries suffered in a car-motorcycle accident in the city late Monday.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said a motorcycle driven by Peter Lantz, 18, of RR 2, Trenton and ridden by a passenger, Elaine Evans, 18, 122 E. Moira St. in Belleville, was in collision with a car operated by Joan Low, 49, of 220 Farley Ave.

Both motorcycle riders suffered fractures to their left legs, said a hospital spokesman.

Chief Crosbie said the accident occurred on Victoria Ave. as one vehicle was attempting to turn onto Rollins Dr. He said Low has been charged under the Highway Traffic Act.

Constable Garnet Goodwin estimated damage at $800 to the motorcycle and $200 to the car in the 8.05 p.m. mishap.

Province Tells Yardmen To Tighten Ticket Sales

The Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund, distributors of 200,000 monthly one-dollar lottery tickets under a provincial licence, has been warned to keep a close eye on where its tickets are sold.

A delegation from the fund, including president Ted Branton, secretary Ernie Belanger and members Jack Lundberg and Lorne Foley, travelled to Toronto Monday to seek routine approval of their April ticket sales and draw.

There they l learned that a complaint had been received by the licensing commission from Peterborough, one of 12 communities in the province that has not approved sale of yardmen tickets withint its boundaries.

With a warning to maintain tight control over ticket sales, permission was granted by the provincial licensing commission to proceed with the April draw.

After the Toronto meeting the Yardmen delegation proceeded to Peterborough for the city's Monday night council meeting. "We were received very cordially," said yardmen director Lorne Foley. "They appreciated the difficulty we have in keeping tickets out of their city when they can be sold in nearby communities."

The Yardmen again applied to Peterborough council for permission to sell tickets in the city. Council refused comment on the issue since, they said, it is under review.

Rape Suspect Held

A charge of rape has been laid against Stanley Osborne Maracle, 33, of North Gower, near Ottawa, following an attack on a 13-year-old Kingston girl on a county road 10 miles west of Kingston Saturday morning.

Maracle was arrested in Deseronto. Police report the girl had accepted a ride with a man.

Teachers Investigate Education Alternatives

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

A community committee, investigating alternatives in education, has decided to talk to those people who need its services the most — students who have difficulty learning.

The ad hoc committee, composed mainly of Hastings county educators, met Monday night at the Ann St. Education Centre, to iron out plans for the implementation of several alternate proposals.

The group, including a provincial judge, representatives from Loyalist College and the United Counties, as well as teachers and principals, decided to hear first hand from those students who for one reason or another can't learn in the existing system.

Group members expressed concern over asking these students to a committee meeting due to the risk they may not talk freely.

Several members suggested the group go to meet these students in their own environment.

The committee, which began last October, heard concrete proposals from three sub-committee leaders.

All three sub-committee leaders were reluctant to publicly discuss their proposals at this time. They cited executive privilege as the reason.

One proposed alternative would utilize a mobile resource centre for in-service reading training for teachers throughout the county.

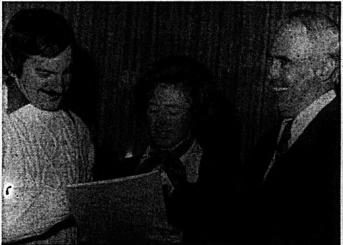
Another proposal dealt with an out of school environment which would utilize some location in the community as a classroom environment.

A third alternative deals with a school within a school composed of a separate staff to help the students with learning and social problems. To prevent them from dropping out of school.

This group of educators and community resource people believe that children learn in different ways and that some can't cope with the present system.

They are not primarily concerned about developing futuristic models or schemes for education but rather they are interested in why some students can learn to read well and why some can't.

Much of Monday's discussion was centred around the ability of students to read. Most agreed the present system does not have an adequate means of measurement.



Discussing Alternatives

The community committee, investigating alternatives in education, met Monday night at the Ann Street Education Centre. From left to right, members are chairman Lyle Sutherland, an education assistant with Hastings, Marnie Tufts, a Bayside Secondary School teacher and Gord Mullin, executive director of the United Counties Services, discuss a brochure prepared on alternatives in education.

Co-operation the Key For Fastball Success

With the Quinte Fastball League (QFL) in operation and the Belleville McDonald's, of the Ontario Fastball League (OFL), playing as well Doug Adams, general manager of the OFL team felt it necessary to set up some kind of working agreement between the two.

The Mcdonald's team will be comprised of players from different clubs in the QFL. Adams was present at Sunday's QFL formation meeting and requested the matter be brought up for discussion at the league's next session.

George Rutledge, re-elected as president of the QFL, was most aware of the possible conflicts between the two and assured Adams it would be given priority.

"We'll have to amend certain part of our constitution," said Rutledge, "to adjust for the existence of this new team."

Adams, not wishing to step on anyone's toes in the Quinte League quickly stated he would be happy to abide by any working agreement the QFL wished to make up.

The OFL McDonald's don't have to set their team until August 15. The Quinte Fastball League signing date is July 15 (the same as the Ontario Amateur Softball Association).

Adams plans to work with 15 players through the regular season, but doesn't intend to restrict himself to the same 15 all year.

If players aren't up to OFL standards he intends to drop them and replace them. He naturally wants to go to the QFL to find adequate replacements.

However, he doesn't want to raid teams in mid-season. He would rather have a player sign with his team with approval from that player's QFL team.

Once a player signs with the McDcDonald's he can't play in any other league, therefore he would be lost to his QFL team.

Adams and Rutledge both feel it is necessary for the two leagues to work together from the start, rather than against each other for the entire season.

SLICES — The QFL is looking for an announcer-statistician. The person accepting the position would be responsible for keeping individual batting and pitching records for every player and announcing at each league game at the Alemite.

The person awarded the job has something special in store for him this year. The city is constructing an elevated announcer's booth at the Alemite Park. It will offer protection from the win, the sun and the rain, and maybe even the mosquitos and irate fans. In any event it will make the job a little easier.

If you want a crack at the job, contact George Rutledge, Bill Shaw, Vern Whalen or Harold Bawden.

With the Belleville McDonald's, the Belleville and District Ladies Softball League, the Quinte Fastball League, the Industrial Softball League and Ontario Amateur Softball Association (OASA) teams all booked at the Alemite Park, there was bound to be a conflict of playing times somewhere in the schedules.

It seems that despite the fact the McDonald's are an added burden to the field, there are only a few nights that need some changing.

The Industrial League plays every Friday night, the Quinte League is in every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, the Ladies have the field booked for Wednesdays and OASA teams and the McDonald's are on Saturdays and Sundays.

However, the McDonald's needed a couple of Wednesday nights in July to complete their home commitments. So the Ladies league gave them the necessary nights and took a pair of Tuesday nights from the Quinte League. Since the McDonald's were playing Wednesday of those two weeks, the Quinte League took their Sunday night bookings.

If the QFL and the McDonald's work that smoothly together it could be an interesting, but confusing season.

Two More Sign Cards With City OFL Team

Doug Adams, general manager of the Belleville McDonald's of the Ontario Fastball League, recently announced the signing of 26-year-old Wayne McTaggart and 39-year-old Marv Stacey.

Stacey and McTaggart join Glen Carleton, Steve Ling, Ted Waite, Bob Ethier, Dale Duvall and Paul Goodfellow to bring the number of McDonalds signings to eight.

McTaggart is ranked among the best third basemen in the province. His quick glove and rifle arm have earned recognition across Ontario. Last season the 200 pound infielder batted close to .400.

"He's really going to help us," said Adams, "he hits the ball well and you never have to worry about the left side of the infield with him on third."

At six-foot-one, McTaggart will make a good third or fifth batter in the McDonald line up. He is noted for cranking extra base hits.

"Stacey's the kind of hitter that we can put in at clean up," said Adams, "he has a natural ability at the plate."

Stacey played most of his Quinte Fastball League games with Devolin Motors. As a catcher he earned the respect of his teammates for his knowledge of batters.

"He'll be a real good field general," said Adams.

Three years ago Stacey won the batting championship of the Quinte League and was given the Most Valuable Player of the league award.

A resident of Napanee, he wasn't actively involved with a team last season, playing for Rollins Construction in tournaments and during Ontario playdowns.

He spends most of his summer time coaching his home town's junior softball team.

Gas House Playoffs

Chuckwagon Erupts

The Gas House Hockey League semi-finals got under way Monday night and Stanley Structures, as anticipated, defeated Rollins Lumber 3-0, but Chuckwagon Foods upended Belleville Generals 9-3.

Stanley, the league pennant winners with only one loss in 24 games, got singles from Rob Harrington, Russ Harrington and Ron Fuller. Vern Whalen recorded the shutout.

Chuckwagon Foods took advantage of Generals' errors and pressed them into even more mistakes with strong forechecking to earn the overwhelming victory.

Grant Sage and Steve Moore picked up a goal and two assists each. Al Walker had a single goal and three assists and Mark Aquafreddo, Terry Casselman and Gary Sero added a goal each. Wayne Brown drew three helpers. generals got one each by Bob Dolan, Bill Van Soelen and Steve Truelove.

Playoff action continues Wednesday night when Chuckwagon plays the Generals at 8:30 p.m. and Stanley takes on Rollins at 9:30 p.m. Both games are at the Memorial Arena.

In Major Atom playoff openers, Bob Kanary paced Eastern Business Equipment to a close 3-2 win oevr Dairy Queen; Hawkins Chips nipped Quinte Home Builders 2-1; Kirk Malisch had two goals in Belleville Firefighters' 6-1 defeat of Fry Ford; Chris Foster hit for four goals in Clayton's TVs 6-5 squeaker over Red Barn and Don Vokey closed the door on Bowes and Cocks in Ellis Printing's 2-0 win.

At the Minor Atom level, Brock Barager potted a pair as Wm. Belch and Sons topped Quinte Rentals 8-1; Maher Shoes got two goals each from Glen Graham and Michael Allen in the team's 6-3 win over Belleville Yardmen, and John Blackwell recorded the shutout as Cherney's Furniture blanked A and D Esso 4-0.

King Penguins scored a convincing 7-1 win over Police Association in Peewee Minor action. Signs Unlimited nipped Cole's Jewellers 5-4; Canadian Legion outscored Bob's Body Shop 5-2; Reid's Plumbing shaded Dairy Queen 3-2 and Y's Men's Club tripped Bellewood Lumber 7-3.

Circle TV took the measure of Belleville Truck Centre in Peewee Major, chalking up a 7-2 win. In other games, Motorland Chrysler stopped Duby's 10-1; Richard Ellis beat Kings 7-2; Ideal Venders got by Belleville Conductors 4-1, and Elliott Motors slipped past Trumpour and Sons 3-2.

Belleville Toyota was up for its game with Belle Cleaners, hanging a 7-2 defeat on the first place team which has lost only twice this season. Randy Donaan and Bvob Reeve each scored twice and goalie Brian Cook picked up an assist.

Tim Coates clicked for three goals in J. F. Nelles Real Estate's 9-3 win over Allied Chemicals and Dennis Joyce had a pair as Avis Rent-A-Car topped Sidney Inn 4-2.

ANAF Dukes, in ninth place in the 12-team Midget grouping, knocked off first place SACO 5-2 as the regular schedule was completed. Dukes got three goals from Chris Rutledge.

Duncan Boyce supplied shutout goaltending for Stirling Sheet Metal in a 2-0 win over Tim Horton Donuts; Uptown Billiards defeated Ross Royals 5-3; Red Shark slipped past Belleville Yardmen 2-1; Sun Luck Gardens got a two-goal effort from Brian Masterson on the way to a 5-2 defeat of Canadian Legion while Demark Construction and Juby Electric played to a 2-2 draw. Demark's goalie Ted Coates finished up with the best goals against average in the league, a sparkling 2.37 mark.

The Juvenile section closed out its regular season with first place Lou Williams topping Warwick and Weeks 8-2 as Lee Williams and Rod Dafoe each scored twice.

Arthur Sills got two goals from Steve Kirby in a 3-2 shading of Harvey's Drive-In, and Sir James Whitney won a 5-4 squeaker from Belleville Plaza as Allan Mott hit for a pair of counters for the winners.

Injuries Mar Championships

PICTON — Play in the Provincial Women's Hockey Championships held here on the weekend was marred by a rash of injuries.

Convener of the event, Linda Wiggens, confirmed that more than the usual number of injuries were reported and added that many of them were "serious".

Maryanne Chrysdale of Hamilton suffered the most serious injury. She is in Belleville General Hospital recovering from an injury to her left eye. A report from the hospital this morning says the injured girl is "improving".

"Two girls suffered broken nosed and another had a finger broken," said the tournament convener.

Twenty-two teams took part in the eighth annual championships.

Kingston, with Stirling's Sue Wright earning selection as outstanding player, captured the A title, downing Burlington 4-1 in the final.

The B series was won by Oro Jets, 3-2 winner over Downsview. Saltfleet Sabres took C honors, edging Ottawa 2-1, while the D title went to Brampton in a 4-3 squeaker over Oro Flyerettes.

S. AFRICA INVITED

PRETORIA (Reuter) — South Africa has been invited to send a team to a pre-Olympic track and field meet at Montreal in July, it was announced Monday. The invitation is the first South Africa has received for several years.

Habs Have Bowman Singing Their Praises

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Scotty Bowman was almost chortling Monday night and he had good cause to be after his Montreal Canadiens opened a 10-point lead atop the National Hockey League's Norris Division.

"Just like the last game (against Los Angeles), we got good disciplined hockey and good goaltending," Bowman said after the Canadiens beat Atlanta Flames 5-1 in the only scheduled NHL game Monday. "We played good defensive hockey."

The win gave Montreal 101 points in 70 games this season, tops in the league. Buffalo Sabres also have 101 points but have played one more game.

It also put the Canadiens 10 points ahead of Los Angeles Kings who had led the Norris Division for most of the season.

SCOTTY BOWMAN

Jacques Richard scored for the Flames who trail New York Islanders by six points in the fight for the third and final playoff spot in the Patrick Division.

The Canadiens knocked the Flames off stride when Tremblay scored after only 10 seconds of play. Atlanta goalie Dan Bouchard called it "a bad goal." Tremblay's high drive bounced out of the goalie's glove and into the net.

Lafleur made the score 2-0 less than four minutes later and then assisted on goals by Lapointe and Gainey to take the Canadiens' club scoring lead with 107 points.

Richard's shot late in the second period was the only one of 27 in the game to get by Montreal goalie Michel Larocque.

NHL action tonight has Vancouver Canucks, looking to improve their Smythe Division lead, visiting the Islanders while Philadelphia is at Washington, Pittsburgh at St. Louis and Los Angeles at Minnesota.

Billy Smith, Glenn Resch Are Tops in Second Half

MONTREAL (CP) — While Philadelphia Flyers and Los Angeles Kings today wage a hot battle for the National Hockey League's over-all goaltending prize—the Vezina Trophy - neither club has the best goals-against average in the second half of the season.

That honor belongs to New York Islanders, a team that has allowed only 79 goals in 30 second-half games for a 2.63 goals-against average.

In 1972-73, their first season in the league, the Islanders had a record of 347 goals scored against them in 78 games, an average of 4.45 and the second-worst average in NHL history. Another New York club, the Rangers of 1943-44, had a worse goals-against mark as they allowed 310 goals in the then 50-game season, a 6.20 average.

So far this season the Islanders have a respectable 2.74 goals-against average, third-best in the league. The Kings average is 2.23, while the Flyers are at 2.37.

During their first two seasons in the league, the Islanders did not record a shutout. This season they have six.

Rookie Glenn Resch has a 2.25 average and three shutouts, while Billy Smith has the same number of shutouts as his teammate and a 2.83 goals-against average.

They have provided the Islanders with solid goaltending all season and if they can maintain their lead for the last 10 games of the regular schedule they will share the award money of $250 as second-half leaders among goaltenders.

Meanwhile, Bernie Parent and Bobby Taylor of the Flyers last week reduced the Kings lead in the goaltending race to three goals. Rogatien Vachon and Gary Edwards of the Kings have allowed 163 goals, while the Flyers have had 166 goals scored against them.

In the individual scoring race, Bobby Orr of Boston Bruins increased his point total to 124, including a record 39 goals by a defenceman. Orr, who is the only defenceman ever to win the NHL scoring championship, has a chance to break his record 139 points which he set ond 1970-71, when he finished second to team-mate Phil Esposito.

Orr won the title in 1969-70 with 120 points. Today centre Esposito is running second to Orr with a league-leading 58 goals and an over-all total of 120 points.

Bobby Hull Has Good Shot At 2 Major League Marks

LOS ANGELES (CP) — A six-goal splurge during the past week has put Bobby Hull of Winnipeg Jets within reach of two important major league records for goal production.

Hull brought his season's total of 66 goals in 66 games with the Jets.

If he can match that pace for the rest of Winnipeg's schedule, he'll finish with 78 goals in 78 games, topping the 76 goals Phil Esposito scored in 78 games for Boston Bruins in the 1970-71 season.

He also would become the first major league player to average a goal a game or better in a schedule of more than 50 games. In 1944-45, Maurice (Rocket) Richard scored 50 goals in 50 games for Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

Esposito's all-time points record of 152 in the 1970-71 season appears safe. Hull's 120 lead the WHA scoring race.

The Jets, who will be fighting for a playoff berth at the same time, completed their schedule with seven road games and five at home.

They have two games each with New England Whalers, Vancouver Blazers, Chicago Cougars, Indianapolis Racers and once each with Houston Aeros, Toronto Toros, Quebec Nordiques and San Diego Mariners.

San Diego's Andre Lacroix, who extended his consecutive-game point streak to 31, is five points behind Hull.

Quebec's Serge Bernier ranks third with 104 points and Ulf Nilsson of Winnipeg is fourth with 100.

Houston's Ron Grahame remains the league's top goaltender with an average of 3.01, while Gerry Cheevers of Cleveland Crusaders has a 3.14 average.

Jim Turkiewicz Sticks And Gets the Winner

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Defenceman Jim Turkiewicz gave a good demonstration Monday night of how lack of confidence can lead to missed scoring chances.

Toronto Toros had lost the previous three World Hockey Association gaes and after Houston Aeros rallied to tie the Toros 4-4 in Monday's game, Turkiewicz didn't want to play much any more.

"I didn't want to play that much in the third period," said the rookie defender. "I've been playing poorly for the past few games and thought it would be best for the team if I didn't take a regular shift.

"I hinted this to the coach, too."

It's a good thing coach Bobby Leduc didn't pay attention to Turkiewicz and instead kept him on the ice where he knocked in the winning goal with a minute and two seconds remaining in the game.

The Toros' 5-4 victory at Toronto was one of two WHA games Monday. In the other contest at Chicago, the Cougars beat Cleveland Crusaders 3-2.

The winning goal was a matter of luck, said Turkiewicz. Goalie Wayne Rutledge blocked Wayne Dillon's shot but the puck bounced off Turkiewicz and into the net.

It hit my knee," said Turkiewicz. "I looked around and it was in the net."

Turkiewicz also assisted on one of Tom Simpson's two goals in the first period when the Toros jumped to a 4-1 lead.

But the Howes of Houston rallied the Aeros and tied the score midway in the third period to set the stage for Turkiewicz's winner.

Gordie Howe scored on a breakaway while the Aeros were shorthanded in the second period, son Marty Howe added another goal and Gordie scored his 30th of the season on a power play in the third period.

Howe's breakaway goal in the second period drew a standing ovation from the crowd of 15,517—a regular-season league attendance record.

At Chicago, the Cougars rallied from behind a 2-0 Cleveland lead to tie it on goals by Gary MacGregor and Rich Morris before Don Gordon scored the winner midway in the third period.

France in Upset Win Over Canada

PERTH, Scotland (CP) — France's Andre Tronc got his early confidence Monday night and went on to upset Bill Tetley of Canada in first-round action at the world curling championship.

The veteran French skip, representing his country for the third time, said the Canadian shooting seemed weak from the start, and the French rink gained confidence immediately, trying to mount points instead of shooting at the other stones.

The victors, who jumped into an early 3-0 lead, didn't put the game away, however, until they cracked three more in the eighth and carried off an 8-3 upset of Tetley's foursome from Thunder Bay, Northern Ontario's first national titleholder in 25 years.

The Canadians were expected to get by the first round easily. France hadn't come close to a victory over them since competing in the world championships for the first time in 1966.

But the road doesn't get any easier for the Tetley four today with two key games. They play the defending champion United States, skipped by Ed Risling, at 8 a.m. EST and host Alex Torrance's Scotland entry at 1 p.m.

In other second round games, Norway's Helmer Strombo takes on Otto Danieli of Switzerland, France meets Klaus Kanz's Germany four, John Ksaerulff of Denark meets Italy's Guiseppe Dal Molin and Scotland plays Sweden's Alex Kamp.

In addition to the Canada-Scotland matchup in the evening draw, Denmark meets France, Norway faces Italy, the U.S. plays Sweden and Switzerland meets Germany.

Tronc, who skipped the French entries at Garmisch-Partenkirchen in 1972 and the following year in Regina, earlier played second on Pierre Boan's champions. He was also called on last year at Bern, Switzerland, to help out when one of the French players was injured.

Tetley refused to make excuses for the loss, saying only that the Canadian rink would be a lot tougher in later games.

But third Rick Lang said a light factor on the Canadian sheet affected their play.

"It was so warm at the beginning of the game," said the 21-year-old student at Lakehead University.

"The lights seemed to be doing it. It (the ice) just didn't want to keep up at all at first.

"There was quite a bit of difference between the side ice and the centre ice. We had trouble adjusting to that."

Risling's Seattle rink, which went 11 games undefeated at the U.S. nationals in Detroit, looked impressive after yielding two in the first end of its game with the young German club.

Canadian-born Risling, who learned his early curling in Saskatchewan and later Edmonton before moving to Seattle 14 years ago, said he doesn't see any reason why his rink can't continue its string.

"We had a little problem with the weight at first, but once we settled down it was all right," said Risling.

"The ice is real good. If it stays this way, none of us will have a thing in the world to complain about."

Legion National Curling Has 3 Bunched at the Top

SUSSEX, N.B. (CP) — New Brunswick, Saskatchewan and British Columbia remained undefeated Monday after two rounds of the Royal Canadian Legion national curling championships.

Prince Edward Island and Alberta have one win and one loss each, while Manitoba and Ontario were 0-1 and Quebec and Nova Scotia were 0-2.

Ontario had a first-round bye and Manitoba drew the second-round bye. Newfoundland is not represented.

In the first round Saskatchewan's rink, skipped by Don Staples of Kindersley, won an extra-end match from Brock Stackhouse's Quebec rink by a 10-9 score. The only other extra-end contest came in the second round when Gerry Campbell of P.E.I., scored one in the eleventh end to win 9-8 over Nova Scotia, skipped by Tally Knock of Lunenburg.

Other first-round matches had Alberta, skipped by Elroy Easton of calgary, scoring an 11-2 victory over John McLean's foursome, representing Manitoba and Northern Ontario. New Brunswick scored a big four in the 10th end and defeated Nova Scotia 10-4. British Columbia, with Kelly Carin of Kamloops calling the shots, managed to steal three in the ninth end and two in the 10th to defeat P.E.I. 10-9.

British Columbia chalked up their second victory in second-round play Monday night when Carin skipped the rink to a 10-5 win over Ontario, skipped by Lou Dugre of Ottawa. PEI scored a 9-8 victory over Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan came through with two in the 10th end to win 8-6 over Alberta. New Brunswick, skipped by Dick Wedge of CFB Chatham, scored in the earlier ends to hold off Quebec's Stackhouse's rink that stole the ninth and 10th ends only to see New Brunswick win the game 7-6.

Super Bowl Bid From Montreal

HONOLULU (AP) — Montreal punctuates its determination to be successful with the 1976 Olympic Games by bidding for football's 1977 Super Bowl.

Jerry Snyder, the Olympic stadium co-ordinator, will make the city's bid to the National Football League's annual meeting today. It will be the only bid from an area that doesn't have an NFL team.

To reports that Montreal might be in trouble holding the Olympics, Snyder replied: "The talk began because we ran into labor troubles. We went through the labor problems last fall and that was when the rumors developed that we wouldn't be able to hold the Games or would have to tone down the facilities.

"However, all that has been resolved and the provincial parliamentary commission has given us its blessing to carry on."

Being built for the Olympics is a domed stadium to hold 73,000 people, so Montreal joins Los Angeles, Miami, New Orleans, Houston, Dallas and Pasadena, Calif. in bidding for the 1977 Super Bowl.

Although the Super Bowl has never been held in a city which does not have an NFL franchise, an official said that would not be detrimental to Montreal's bid.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the NFL did emphasize that the bid by Montreal for the Super Bowl must not be [illegible] any possibility of the league expanding to that [illegible]

Flyers Lead

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — Barrie Flyers, defending Allan Cup champions, took a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Senior A semi-final series Monday, defeating Orillia Terriers 4-2.

Grant Moore, a former Terrier, paced the winners with two goals and one assist. Paul Regan, and Bob Baird each scored once.

Expos Still Rolling

Angels' Ryan in Top Form

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nolan Ryan is already in late-season form, and where Ryan left off late last season was with a no-hitter.

Ryan pitched the third no-hitter of his career against Minnesota Twins in his final 1974 start.

Monday, the California fastballer made his 1975 debut despite the lingering effects of a slight muscle pull in his right calf and hurled three perfect innings, striking out three, as the Angels defeated Cleveland Indians 5-3 in an exhibition baseball game.

In Monday's other games, Montreal Expos blanked Detroit Tigers 3-0, Boston Red Sox stopped Houston Astros 4-2, Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Texas Rangers 3-1, Cincinnati Reds downed New York Mets 7-4, Chicago Cubs outslugged Oakland A's 12-9, New York Yankees nipped Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1 and San Diego Padres trounced Milwaukee Brewers 8-1.

Chicago White Sox edged a split squad of Minnesota Twins 2-1 while the rest of the Twins lost to the St. Louis Cardinals 7-6 in 10 innings.

The Expos rolled to their eighth consecutive success behind the six-hit pitching of Steve Rogers and Dennis Blair, lowering the the team's earned-run average to 1.88. The Astros suffered their sixth loss in a row as four pitchers held them to four hits.

Joe Ferguson doubled, singled and drove in two runs—including the tie-breaker in the sixth inning—as the Dodgers beat the Rangers. Tony Perez, Joe Morgan and Darrel Chaney homered in the Reds' victory over the Mets.

Catfish Hunter pitched six shutout innings and allowed three hits as the Yankees downed the Pirates in a San Juan, P.R., benefit game for Roberto Clemente's Sports City.

Bill Madlock and George Mitterwald hit three-run homers and Pete LaCock delivered a solo shot as the Cubs topped the A's. Willie McCovey's three-run homer propelled the Padres over the Brewers.

Bucky Bradford's second home run in two games helped the White Sox beat the Twins.

Description of Clancy: ‘Too Old for Girls; Too Young for WHA’

TORONTO (CP) — The [illegible] Toronto's sporting set was out in force on St. Patrick's [illegible] tribute to Frank (King) Clancy.

Ottawa sportsmen joined Monday night in saluting Clancy, who came to Toronto as a combative defenceman with the original Maple Leafs and went on to a National Hockey League career that included terms as a refereee, a coach and an administrator.

"King, at 72, has reached the awkward age," quipped comedian Johnny Wayne. "Too old for girls and too young for the World Hockey Association."

On hand for the evening was Conn Smythe, who won $35,000 on a horse race and used the money to buy Clancy from Ottawa Senators, then an NHL team, in 1931.

With Clancy in the lineup, Smythe's Maple Leafs won their first Stanley Cup the next spring.

That 1931-32 team was represented Monday night by Alex Levinsky, Fred Robertson, Frank Finnigan, Irvine (Ace) Bailey, Harold (Baldy) Cotton, Harold Darragh, Clarence (Hap) Day and Joe Primeau.

Columnist Ted Reeve of the Toronto Sun remembered that when Clancy joined the Leafs he asked him if he planned to [illegible] regularly.

"I guess so," was the reply. "Smythe's so poor, we only got six sticks."

The delegation from Ottawa, Mayor Laurie Greenberg, sportsman Samuel Koffman and Jacob Dunlop, a lawyer who served as master of ceremonies.

Before Smythe bought him, Clancy, who never weighed more than 150 pounds, spent eight years with the Senators and helped them win three years with the Leafs.

BIRTHS

BYRNE — Ken and Gail (nee McElroy) announce the birth of their son, Christopher Robert, March 13, 1975 at Belleville General Hospital. A brother for Paul, Joanne and David.

HAMILTON — Roger and Norma (nee Guudal) are pleased to announce the birth of their son, William Dean, on March 13, 1975. Weight 8 lbs., 8½ ozs. Thanks to Dr. Fry and staff on 5th level.

LOSHAW — Steve and Pat (nee Chorney) of R.R. 2, Trenton wish to announce the birth of their daughter Angela Marie, 9 lbs., 3 ozs. on Saturday, March 15th, 1975 at the Belleville General Hospital. First grandchild for Mr. and Mrs. John Loshaw. First great grandchild for Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Bartman.

BEARE — Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Beare (nee Henn) are pleased to announce the arrival of their daughter Rebecca Lynne on March 16, 1975. Special thanks to Drs. Allore and Peterkin and nurses on 5th floor.

JORDAN — Ronald and Dianne (nee Malhon) wish to announce the safe arrival of their daughter Sherri Lynn, 8 lbs., 3½ ozs. on March 16, 1975 at 2.30 a.m. First grandchild for Mr. and Mrs. James Malhon of Rossmore and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jordan of Belleville. Special thanks to Dr. Lisowski and nurses on 5th floor, Belleville General Hospital.

WHEATLEY — Peter and Joanne are grateful to God for their second son Thomas Matthew. A brother for Andrew, born Saturday, March 15, 1975 at Belleville General Hospital. Sincere thanks to Dr. Seward. Mother and baby are well.

IN MEMORIAM

WAY — In loving memory of a dear father John Way, who passed away March 18, 1971.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true,
There's not a day dear father,
We do not think of you.
—Ever remembered by sons, daughters, sons-in-law, daughters-in-law and grandchildren.

KELLER — In loving memory of a dear faher and grandfather Norman who passed away suddenly March 18, 1973.
Today recalls the memory,
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And those who think of him today,
Are those who loved him best.
The flowers we lay upon his grave,
May wither and decay,
But the love for him who lies beneath,
Will never fade away.
—Sadly missed by daughter Helen and family.

KELLER — In loving memory of a dear husband Norman who passed away suddenly March 18, 1973.
Since you've gone first and I remain,
One thing I'd have you do.
Walk slowly down the path of death,
For soon I'll follow you.
I want to know each step you take,
That I may walk the same,
Fr some day down that lonely road,
You'll hear me call your name.
—Lovingly remembered by wife Isabel.

KELLAR — In loving memory of a dear son and brother who passed away March 18, 1973.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they'll wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days,
Which we have spent together.
—Always loved and remembered by Mother, Bud and Edie.

BELLIS — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Frederick Bellis who passed away March 16, 1974.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear,
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him who once was here,
And who, though absent, is just as dear.
—Ever loved by wife Gwen and daughter Sherry-Lynn.

BELLIS — In loving memory of a dear father Frederick Bellis who passed away March 16, 1974.
I think of him in silence,
His name I oft recall,
There is nothing left to answer,
But his picture on the wall.
—Ever remembered by son Rick.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Pat Brennen wish to thank their many friends and relatives for their kind words of comfort, beautiful floral arrangements, Mass cards and donations to the Heart Fund. A special thank you to Monsignor Sullivan and Father John Grainger, also to Colin Tennent and Leonard Steele of O'Brien - Steele Funeral Home for their assistance. Our sincere appreciation.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks and sincere appreciation to our friends and relatives who so kindly remembered us with cards, letters, telegrams and flowers on the occasion of our 50th wedding anniversary on March 3rd, 1975. We would also like to thank the members of the Provincial and Federal Governments, the Governor-General of Canada and Limerick Municipal Council for congratulatory messages, as well as Premier William Davis and Prime Minister Trudeau for plaques commemorating the occasion.

Clarence and Gladys Thompson,
217 Bridge St. E.,

NOTICE

The Expropriations Act

Notice of Application for Approval to Expropriate Land

IN THE MATTER of an application by the Minister of Transportation and Communications for approval to expropriate lands being in the Township of Sidney, in the County of Hastings, in the Province of Ontario, for the purpose of improving the intersection where the Township Road Allowance intersects with the King's Highway 2.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that application has been made for approval to expropriate all right, title and interest in the following land:

> In the Township of Sidney, in the County of Hastings, in the Province of Ontario, being part of Lot 18, Broken Front Concession, designated as PART 1 on Ministry of Transportation and Communications Plan P-1561-146, deposited in the Land Registry Office for the Registry Division of Hastings as Plan 21 R-619.

Any owner of lands in respect of which notice is given who desires an inquiry into whether the taking of such lands is fair, sound and reasonablly necessary in the achievement of the objectives of the expropriating authority shall so notify the approving authority in writing.

(a) in the case of a registered owner, served personally or by registered mail within thirty days after he is served with the notice, or, when he is served by publication, within thirty days after the first publication of the notice;

(b) in the case of an owner who is not a registered owner, within thirty days after the first publication of the notice.

THE APPROVING AUTHORITY IS

Minister of Transportation and Communications Parliament Buildings Toronto, Ontario M7A 1Z8	Minister of Transportation and Communications A. F. Leach, Executive Director, Right-of-Way and Services Division.

NOTES:

1. The Expropriations Act provides that,
   (a) where an inquiry is requested, it shall be conducted by an inquiry officer appointed by the Minister of Justice and Attorney General;
   (b) the inquiry officer,
      (i) shall give every party to the inquiry an opportunity to present evidence and argument and to examine and cross-examine witnesses, either personally or by his counsel or agent, and
      (ii) may recommend to the approving authority that a party to the inquiry be paid a fixed amount for his costs of the inquiry not to exceed $200 and the approving authority may in its discretion order the expropriating authority to pay such costs forthwith.
2. "owner" and "registered owner" are defined in the Act as follows:
   "owner" includes a mortgagee, tenant, execution creditor, a person entitled to a limited estate or interest in land, a committee of the estate of a mentally incompetent person or of a person incapable of managing his affairs, and a guardian, executor, administrator or trustee in whom land is vested;
   "registered owner" means an owner of land whose interest in the land is defined and whose name is specified in an instrument in the proper Land Registry or Sheriff's office, and includes a person shown as a tenant of land on the last revised assessment roll;
3. The expropriating authority, each owner who notifies the approving authority that he desires a hearing in respect of the lands intended to be expropriated and any owner added as a party by the inquiry officer are parties to the inquiry.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Wednesday, March 19

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You've been using some rather flimsy excuses for not keeping in touch with a friend. Stop putting it off, or he'll drop you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 2;) A business matter needs your prompt attention. Do it now while fickle conditions still favor you.

GEMINI (AMay 21-June 20) If you expect others to back your ideas, take visible action that demonstrates you support them as well

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone who has been promising you a favor will renege. He'll call on another to help you but he'll expect the credit.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) A new project you're involved in will be held up if you choose a weak ally. Forget the faint hearts. Depend on bolder associates.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept. 23) You have some needless self-doubts about a career matter. Future developments will prove your concern unfounded.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your way of saying things today will lift the spirits of others and inspire them to action beneficial to all.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't leave important issues hanging fire today. Press to conclude matters with the type of results you've sought.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your mate's point of view is more incisive than yours today. Consider his judgment before making a final decision.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) One with whom you're involved has a way of making you feel guilty over a matter of no concern to her. Follow your practical instincts.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb. 19) A calculated risk may be necessary to resolve a situation today. Bold measures are called for. Once you commit yourself, go all the way.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You can solve a difficult situation today if you stick to your guns. Just when you feel all is lost the "cavalry" will come to the rescue.

Impetigo Vicious Skin Infection

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please write something about the skin disease called impetigo. What causes it?—Mrs. L.S.

This is a vicious skin infection caused either by the streptococcus or staphylococcus germ. I say vicious because it is so highly contagious. Untreated, it can cause kidney disease, the kidneys being especially susceptible to strep infection.

Impetigo can be contracted from persons having a boil, and those with breaks in the skin are particularly susceptible to it. It is a serious matter in infants, so those in homes where impetigo is present must be isolated. It can run wild in a nursery or in a school.

Little red bumps appear first—the scalp, head and neck being prime infection sites. The bumps fill with pus, and it is this pus that carries the germs. When the pus-filled bumps burst, they crust over, and then the crusts spread to keep up with the spreading infection.

Impetigo can be treated successfully in all cases. Crusts should be removed by washing the area with soap and water. An antibiotic cream is then applied If quicker results are desired, antibiotics can be administered by mouth.

The disease can follow chicken pox, so children recovering from that should be bathed carefully, have plenty of rest and a good diet. Liquid intake is usually increased as part of the treatment of impetigo..

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Why would my doctor tell me I have a mild case of sugar, then not prescribe any pills, no kind of medication, not even insulin? I am on a 1,200-calorie diet I am 42 and weigh 214 pounds.

Would you call my problem low blood sugar (hypoglycemia)?--Mrs. B.R.

What doctors mean when they say you have a "mild case of sugar" is that an above-normal sugar content is showing up in blood or urine tests. Your doctor is doing the correct thing in keeping you off medication and insisting on weight reduction. Even if you are above average in height, 214 pounds is too much for you to be carrying around.

A weight loss of from 30 to 50 pounds could work wonders for you. Your type of diabetes, incidentally, is known as the "maturity onset" type, usually related to excessive weight gain. It is corrected by weight loss, not by medication.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will you please write something about spastic colon and rectum? What teatment do you suggest?—G.F.

Spastic colon means the person has an irritable bowel associated with emotional stresses. It is an emotional disorder.

But, since the symptoms—abdominal pain, constipation or diarrhea—can be found in other colon problems, doctors are careful to rule them out before diagnosing spastic colon. Serious bowel disease can be quickly determined by appropriate proctoscopic examination and x-ray.

The spastic colon patient needs reassurance more than anything else. The problem is common, for example, in adolescents going through particularly stressful episodes at home or in school.

It is important to remove the person's bowel fixation. Sedatives and tranquillizers can help. Regularity of meals is essential. The bowel will usually take care of itself without resort to laxatives.

Bulk-producing colon medications may help along with a diet relatively low in coarse residue food Some raw fruits and vegetables in small amounts are acceptable, however.

If you have a spastic colon, the best advice I can give you is to let yourself relax and allow nature to take its course as far as your bowel is concerned.

Bus Drivers Are Fed Up With Critics

By STEPHEN FREED

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuter) — Bus drivers in Auckland are getting fed up with fighting passengers.

The drivers' union has launched a campaign against people who haarss its members. From now-on, those who antagonize bus drivers are likely to find themselves in court.

The battle, which consisted of no more than a few minor skirmishes until recently, began in earnest last November when a driver was fired after throwing a 10-year-old girl off his bus for swinging from the overhead handrail. His 800 colleagues went out on strike in sympathy and he was reinstated.

A victory for the drivers—but not for long A few days later the girl's father lodged a formal complaint with the police accusing the driver of assult.

Meanwhile, measures to tighten discipline on school buses were discussed between the drivers' employer—the and the Auckland branch of the Public Transport Union.

Two more drivers have been fired since for assaulting members of the public

In one case, a 15-year-old student refused to get off a bus when ordered to do so by the driver who told him to catch the following school bus. The driver threw the boy off the bus and kicked him, breaking a few teeth when he tried to get back on.

The driver was convicted of assault and sentenced to three months in jail. The magistrate considered that the force used to evict the boy was unwarrantged.

West opened the deuce of diamonds against South's four-heart contract. The trey was played from dummy. East studied a while and finally decided to go right up with his ace and give his partner a ruff. While East was thinking, West had time to prepare a nice little bit of deception.

He ruffed the diamond return with his jack of trumps! Then he led the king of spades.

South was in dummy. He decided that West had ruffed with the jack of hearts because that was the only heart he held. In that case East would be sitting with three trumps to the nine. It was up to him to take an immediate discard of his last spade on dummy's kin of diamonds. He did just that. West produced the eight of trumps for the third defensive trick and waited with his king of clubs to set the unfortunate declarer.

West falsecard with the jack of trumps was an expert's play, but South really shouldn't have fallen for it. If West held just one heart and one club he would have held 11 black cards. Not vulnerable he would probably have tried a sacrifice bid of four spades.

A — Your partner is now showing the ace of diamonds. He must be trying for a slam. You can afford to bid five hearts.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You do bid five hearts and your partner jumps to six spades. What do you do now?

Accept Credit Cards

EDMONTON (CP) — The use of credit cards to pay lawyers' bills has been approved by the benchers, the governing authority of the Alberta legal profession. W. B. Kelly, secretary of the Law Society of Alberta, said the only stipulation the benchers put on the cards was that they could not be used to put money into a trust account.

CP News Roundup

Milk Price Will Rise

TORONTO (CP) — Milk prices in Ontario will be increased by at least three cents a quart as a result of higher prices to be paid to producers effective April 1, the Ontario Milk Marketing Board (OMMB) announced Monday.

The OMMB said in a statement that dairy farmers who produce milk for table use will be given an additional $1.16 a hundredweight for their product.

The $1.16 increase means the farm price for raw milk in southern Ontario will be increased to $12.01 a hundredweight from $10.85 and, in Northern Ontario, to $12.58 a hundredweight from $11.42.

Nickels Returned

TORONTO (CP) — Environment Minister William Newman gave $250 worth of nickels back to the Garbage Coalition Monday and told it to use the money to continue to promote use of returnable soft-drink bottles.

The coalition, a group of 56 environmental organizations from across Ontario, presented Mr. Newman with 5,000 nickels as a protest against the continued sale of soft drinks in non-returnable containers.

Each nickel represented the price of a bottle deposit.

More Charged

OTTAWA (CP) — Three more persons have been charged in connection with a teen-age homosexual prostitution ring, bringing the total to 14, with further arrests expected by Ottawa police.

David Angus, 34, Warren Zufelt, 34, both of Ottawa, and WO George Falan, 50, of Canadian Forces Base Rockcliffe appeared in provincial court Monday charged with grsos indecency and were remanded to March 24, a court spokesman said.

Pick Candidates

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative riding associations in Ontario have been urged to conduct nomination meetings in the next couple of months in anticipation of a provincial election this year, says Industry Minister Claude Bennett.

The comment was made after a weekend regional caucus of Conservative MPPs and presidents of riding associations in eastern Ontario.

Land Fraud Charged

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Federal Trade Commission (FTC) accused two land developers Monday of misleading hundreds of thousands of people who purchased desert land, and said it hopes to get consumers their money back.

The two companies named in separate complaints were Horizon Corp. of Tucson, Ariz., and AMREP Corp. of New York City.

The charges include an accusation that AMREP painted grass and tied pine cones on trees to make the land look more desirable for promotional movies

Murder Charged

WELLAND, Ont. (CP) — Andre Gallant, 19, of Welland was committed to stand trial on a charge of murder punishable by life imprisonment after a preliminary hearing Monay.

Gallant, charged in connection with the June, 1973, death of his brother, Marcel, is free on bail.

Given Four Years

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Stephen McLaughlin, 20, of Kingston, who stabbed an elderly woman during a robbery which netted him $40, was sentenced Monday in provincial court to four years in prison for armed robbery.

On additional charges of theft of a shotgun and breaking and entering and theft, he was sentenced to a further 12 months—six months consecutive on each count.

The court was told that Bessie Harrison, 63, of Kingston was stabbed four times with a long pen-knife and required hospital treatment

Big Class

TORONTO (CP) — A record number of law students will be called o the bar Thursday and Friday, causing the Law Society of Upper Canada to split the ceremonies into two parts

The 820 students form the largest graduating class since the society was formed in 1797.

Expo Not Paid For

OTTAWA (CP) — The city of Montreal, scrambling for money to finance the 1976 Olympics, still owes Ottawa $3.8 million for Expo 67, it was disclosed Monday.

Information filed in the Commons said the debt, originally $14.4 million, is to be repaid in full, at an annual interest rate of 5.46 per cent, by April 1, 1977.

Need More Money

TORONTO (CP) — An additional $30-million in federal funds promised to Ontario for public housing "still falls far short of the funds required," Housing Minister Donald Irvine said in the legislature Monday.

Mr. Irvine said he has a verbal commitment from Barney Danson, minister of urban affairs, that the federal government will provide the additional funds.

Action Not Near

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario government action on recommendations to improve the province's legal aid system might not be forthcoming until late summer, Attorney-General John Clement said Monday.

He was replying in the legislature to Liberal justice critic Vernon Singer who asked why the government has not already acted on the November report of Mr. Justice John Osler.

Bid Was Lowest

TORONTO (CP) — A United States wrecking firm was chosen to demolish a Hamilton building because the firm was found to be in good standing and its contract bid would save Ontario taxpayers $58,000, James Snow, minister of government services, told the legislature Monday.

Doco Wrecking of Kawkawlin, Mich., was awarded a contract to demolish a building at Hamilton Psychiatric Hospital in February. It outbid eight Canadian companies with a tender quote of $161,400

Matter for Ottawa

TORONTO (CP) — Violence in Seafarers' International Union meeting halls is a subject for federal review, not a matter for the province to investigate, Attorney-General John Clement said in the legislature Monday.

"The position of the Ontario government remains unchanged" he said.

Morton Shulman (NDP-Toronto High Park) repeatedly has asked the attorney-general's department to investigate allegations of violence against dissident members of the union.

Fog Studied

TORONTO (CP) — A blinding fog which creates peril on a section of Highway 17 just west of downtown Sudbury is under study, Environment Minister William Newman said Monday.

"It's a strange phenomena," Mr. Newman remarked when asked by Elie Martel (NDP—Sudbury East) whether the environment ministry was taking action to resolve the problem. "We're looking into it."

Three Suffocate

HAWKESBURY, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario labor ministry is investigating the death of three workers Saturday at the Canadian International Paper Co.'s mill, 65 miles east of Ottawa.

The men apparently suffocated while they were repairing a bracket in one of the mill's digesters, used for "cooking" wood chips. The digester is a brick-lined vat about 60 feet deep and 14 feet wide.

The victims are Robert Denis, 36; Joseph Piche, 52, and Rheal Parent 42, all of Hawkesbury.

Record Trade Loss

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada had a record $1.88-billion loss on its international trade in goods and services during 1974, up nearly $1.5 billion from the 1973 loss of $425 million, Statistics Canada said Monday.

Figures are adjusted to allow for seasonal veriations.

The year's trade pattern showed strong growth in the first quarter, followed by two quarters of no growth and a record slump in the final three months. The final-quarter deficit was $1.09 billion, more than double the loss of the previous quarter.

The main reason for the sharply-higher loss was a drop of more than $1.2 billion in the surplus on merchandise trade to $1.02 billion.

Stratford Fencer Challenges Author

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — Patrick (Paddy) Crean of Stratford, fencing master at the Stratford Festival, has challenged William Hamilton, the British MP who recently wrote what Mr. Crean calls "the scurrilous book on the British Royal Family," to a duel.

Mr. Crean creator of The Sun Never Sets, a one-man show surveying the works of Rudyard Kipling, wrote the Boston Herald this week saying: "I have challenged the bounder to a duel." He said he mailed his challenge in care of British Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

Mr. Crean, on a trip to Victoria, B.C., could not be reached for comment on what kind of weapons he wanted to use.

When Mr Crean first arrived here in 1962 from his native England, Stratford came alive with sword play. That year, Mr. Crean honed the swords and knifes for MacBeth and Cyrano de Bergerac, two plays produced at the Stratford Festival theatre.

Originally a Shavian actor, Mr. Crean created his one-man show at theStratford Festival in 1970.

Tall and dashing in a scarlet mess jacket, Mr. Crean recited selections from both the romantic and satiric works of Kipling.

Among Mr. Crean's fencing pupils have been Errol Flynn, Laurence Olivier, Alec Guinness, John Gielgud and Paul Scofield.

Premier's Criticism Said Hasty

TORONTO (CP) — The president of the Ontario Public School Teachers' Federation says remarks by Premier William Davis that teacher salary demands are unrealistic and irresponsible are based on little evidence.

H. N. Davis said in a statement Monday that the premier could not possibly know the preliminary salary requests of his 14,000-member federation which negotiates with 83 different school boards.

"When you consider that, with the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario, these negotiations represent close to 51,000 elementary school teachers, omission of reference to our situation is a grave error,' the teachers' president said

He said teachers' salaries have declined rapidly in comparison with the cost of living.

Nixon Says People Are Tired of Davis

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader Robert Nixon predicted Monday that Premier William Davis would be personally defeated in the next provincial election.

Ending his reply to the speech from the throne, Mr. Nixon said Ontario voters are not so much fed up with 32 years of Progressive Conservative government as with four years of the Davis leadership.

He said a January survey published in the Brampton Times showed Liberals leading Conservatives in the premier's own area. Among committed voters, the Liberals showed 45.8-per cent support compared with 30.6 per cent for the Conservatives and 22.8 per cent for New Democratic Party.

"I am predicting that he is going to be personally defeated."

The premier was absent from the legislature.

Objections To Resort Too Late

TORONTO (CP) — Opposition to a 298-acre resort development in the Collingwood, Ont., area of the Niagara escarpment came too late to be of any consequence, Housing Minister Donald Irvine told the Legislature Monday

"The Niagara Escarpment Commission gave us in writing their approval of this particular development," he said. "At no time did we go against the wishes of the Niagara commission or the aims of the Niagara escarpment.' He said he has approved the development in principle.

Liberal Leader Robert Nixon asked if Mr. Irvine had consulted persons opposed to the development, saying the Federation of Ontario Naturalists opposed it and the federations president had commented that "a town of 7,500 is as compatible with that natural environment as a stockyard is with the centre of a residential area."

"They had ample time before to bring their objections before those people who are responsible for the agreement of this development proceeding at this particular time," Mr. Irvine said.

Sea Law Talks Open

GENEVA (CP) — Another session of the international Law of the Sea conference opened here Monday with a strong reminder to delegates that they share responsibility for the wealth and security of mankind.

United Nations Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, in a written message to the conference, said: "We must not replace old quarrels on land by new quarrels at sea.

"The potentialities for such conflicts are very considerable and, given the inevitable development of marine technology, are bound to increase unless we resolve to reach agreement while there is still time to do so."

Paul Lapointe, deputy head of the Canadian delegation, said he is encouraged by the mood of the meeting, attended by representatives of more than 140 countries.

MacDonald Thinks France May Get Enriched Uranium

DEP RIVER, Ont. (CP) — Flora MacDonald, Progressive Conservative Member of Parliament for Kingston and the Islands, says the federal Liberals may be considering approval of a plan to sell enriched uranium to France as a way of bailing out Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa.

Miss MacDonald told a weekend meeting of the Science Association that the enriched uranium plan was linked to Quebec's James Bay hydroelectric development.

"Quebec is in trouble over this project," she said.

Barbra Questions Queen

LONDON (AP) — Barbra Streisand put the question to Queen Elizabeth:

"Why do women have to wear gloves and not the men?"

The Queen looked puzzled. Then it clicked. Palace protocol demands that women being presented to the monarch must wear gloves.

The Queen shook gloved hands with the movie star—pink silk for the Queen, white leather for Barbra—and delivered a diplomatic answer on the question of equality for women.

"I'll have to think about that one," she said. "I suppose it's tradition."

Sometime early in April we'll be opening our new Garden Centre Annex. This will be a new venture for us in some respects since we will be expanding our selection of living plants as well as extending hours of business.

Among the new items will be a complete selection of nursery stock including evergreens, shade trees, fruit stock, etc., all grown in pots by Quinte Nurseries of Trenton. We will also have a much wider range of vegetables, annual and perennial flowers and specialty items.

Located on the north side of our present parking lot, the Annex is so named because it will be open evenings and weekend for cash-and-carry shopping while the main store will adhere to our regular schedule.

Advance orders are welcome and we have prepared a rather complete price list of the living plants we will have in stock. A basic inventory of lawn & garden fertiliers, peat moss, packaged seeds, shelf goods and lawn seed will also be available..

See you when your green thumb starts to itch again.

Public Service Talks Appear at Dead End

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mediation talks aimed at ending the month-long strikes by federal laborers and tradesmen recessed late Tuesday night and were to resume this morning with both sides dug in and showing no signs of movement.

Gordon Kritsch, chief negotiator for the Public Service Alliance which represents the 18,600 workers involved in the dispute, said both union and government negotiators were "spinning wheels" while mediator Tom O'Connor tried to find a solution to the dispute.

The walkouts have halted grain shipments and hampered mail service and air travel.

The recess in talks came after a failure in negotiations earlier in the day to bring any change from either side in contract proposals. Nevertheless, the two sides were still closer than they have been before.

The union wants a first-year pay raise of 18 per cent and a second-year increase of 11.25 per cent for the employees, as well as a $770 lump-sum retroactive payment to cover the period between November—when the last contract ended—and March.

Treasury board, the government's negotiating arm, has proposed a first-year raise of 15.5 per cent with a second-year increase of 11.25 per cent and a $500 lump-sum payment.

Average hourly pay for the workers, who include such groups as grain weighers and samplers, postal maintenance workers, airport runway cleaners and other tradesmen and laborers, is $4.42.

The deadlock Tuesday led Bill Doherty, alliance vice-president, to charge that treasury board was carrying out a charade and a hoax by trying to make the public believe there was progress in talks.

But the government had moved less than one per cent while the union had moved three per cent in this set of mediation talks, he said.

"They are now attempting to provoke us into breaking off talks to permit them to recommend to Parliament that we be legislated back to work," he said in a statement to reporters.

But he added that the union negotiators would be willing to continue participation in mediation efforts.

W. A. Church, chief negotiator for the government, called Mr. Doherty's allegation nonsense and said the treasury board was waiting for a response from the union to its latest offer

In the Commons Tuesday, Prime Minister Trudeau told opposition questioners that the time had not yet come for intervention by Parliament in the dispute.

The public interest was not yet hurt enough by the strikes to warrant a government-legislated end to the dispute, he said.

Submarine Raised

Hughes and CIA Get Soviet Secrets

NEW YORK (CP) — The Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and industrialist Howard Hughes co-operated in an effort to raise a sunken Soviet submarine from the Pacific Ocean, three newspapers report.

They say:

—About one-third of the submarine was lifted to the surface, a section containing the bodies of more than 70 Soviet officers and seamen who died in the 1968 sinking. The bodies were buried a sea in military ceremonies filmed by the CIA.

—No missiles or codes were recovered, but another U.S. effort will be made this summer to raise the remainder of the submarine.

—From the parts of the sub recovered, U.S. security analysts discovered that the Soviets were arming conventional submarines with Polaris-type nuclear missiles and nuclear-tipped torpedoes.

The Los Angeles Times says the recovered portion of the Soviet sub yielded "secrets with profound national security implications."

The stories were published after columnist Jack Anderson reported on the Mutual Broadcasting System Tuesday night a similar version of the attempt to retrieve the Russian sub intact. It sank after a series of explosions.

The CIA made efforts to have accounts of the operaton withheld.

There was no immediate Soviet reaction to the stories, and it was not known what impact the operation might have on Washington-Moscow relations.

Dispute Settled

TORONTO (CP) — A year-long dispute between the province and civil servants over mileage rates for using personal vehicles on government business has been resolved, the Civil Service Association of Ontario said Tuesday.

Civil servants in southern Ontario will receive 16 cents a mile for the first 5,000 miles, 13 cents for the next 10,000 miles and 11 cents a mile for anything beyond 15,000 miles. Each rate is one-cent-a-mile higher in Northern Ontario.

After August 1, the rate for the first 5,000 miles will be 18 cents a mile in southern Ontario and 19 cents a mile in Northern Ontario.

Teachers Want Core Of Compulsory Studies

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — An interim report by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (OSSTF) will recommend to OSSTF meetings later this week that the federation set a policy establishing a minimum core of compulsory subjects and regional exams.

The annual assembly of the 34,000-member federation will be held in Toronto starting Friday.

The report, initiated at last year's assembly, says there is a concern across the province about the standard of education.

It says that an examination of present courses offered in provincial secondary schools revealed "a great discrepancy in standards within courses, course offerings . . . and student opportunities."

The report will be presented to the assembly for consideration.

Cambodia Students Want End to Aid

PHNOM PENH (AP) — A thousand university students held a rally on their campus today to urge the United States Congress to halt aid to Cambodia and to call on President Lon Nol's regime to step down.

Police blocked an anti-Lon Nol student demonstration Tuesday by sealing off the site for which it was planned. But there was no interference with the meeting today.

"We support the U.S. Congress' movement for the aid cutoff," said a student leader. "In five years of war, the government is now on the point of collapse. Any more aid will not lead to a peaceful settlement but will only prolong the war."

He said that U.S. aid to Cambodia in recent years "did not get into the hands of the poor people but went only to the high-ranking officers and officials."

The students said President Lon Nols government lacks popular support and said they would back "any government—Communist or not—as long as it brings peace."

That Spring Feeling

Tuesday was just the day to prompt thoughts of spring . . . and spring cleanup. Which was exactly what tug boat operator Fred Dokis was doing with his workboat outside Belleville's water filtration plant . . . before the weather changed today. When the Bay of Quinte thaws, Fred will tow barges and equipment into place to restart work on extension of new water-intake pipeline project, begun last fall.

Pension Boost Offset

OTTAWA (CP) — A bill to prevent insurance companies from taking cost-of-living benefits in policies that combine private and Canada Pension Plan payments was introduced in the Commons Tuesday. Sponsor John Reid, parliamentary secretary to Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp, tabled the bill to give MPs a chance to consider the problem which arose when CPP benefits were indexed to the cost of living Jan. 1. Many insurance companies offer policies combining CPP and private benefits, agreeing to pay an over-all monthly total. In some cases, Mr. Reid said, the companies have lowered their own contribution by the amount CPP benefits have risen through indexing.

Increase Opposed

OTTAWA (CP) — A government plan to increase admission fees to national parks was called repulsive by Stan Schellenberger, PC MP for Wetaskwin, speaking Tuesday to the Commons Indian affairs committee.

Police Charged in Brawl

TORONTO (CP) — Two off-duty Metropolitan Toronto policemen were arrested Tuesday morning after a man was hit with a chair and a gun was pointed at a doorman of a local tavern. Police report that the arrests followed a high-speed car chase after a brawl at the tavern. Constable Cameron Lee Gates, 25, has been charged with wounding and pointing a firearm. Constable Roy Tracey, 30, has been charged with impaired driving.

Inquiry Launched

TORONTO (CP) — Abitibi Paper Co. Ltd. said Tuesday a federal inquiry has been launched into the activities of a number of Canadian pulp and paper companies related to the recent takeover of the Price Co. Ltd. of Quebec City.

Wants Canadians Favored

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government should make sure that at least 90 per cent of students entering medical schools in the province are Canadians, Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP-High Park) told the legislature Tuesday.

Parties Banned

LISBON (AP) — Portugal's leftist military regime has banned the country's major centre-right party and two disident left-wing groups, increasing the Communist party's chances in next month's national election. The crackdown came a day after President Francisco da Costa e Gomes said the parties who do not follow the regime's leftist line will be curbed.

BELFAST (AP) — IRA bombers Dolours and Marion Price have won their fight for transfer to a prison in Northern Ireland. The air force took the sisters secretly from Durham jail, in northern England, to Armagh jail.

Offer Won't Be Changed

City Bus Drivers Told $5.20 Hourly Near Tops

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Transit commission chairman Marylea Burtt says she is prepared for a strike of city bus drivers and does not intend softening her stand on the commission's wage offer.

Mrs. Burtt told The Intelligencer Tuesday, "we're not going to budge from our last offer of $5.20 an hour." Employees currently earn approximately $4.25 an hour.

The commission employs 20 drivers and three mechanics in its 6-day-a-week operation providing bus service to the city. Since last December, the commission has been negotiating with union members.

The talks broke off Jan. 27 and since then conciliation talks with a provincial mediator have proved fruitless. Mrs. Burt said money has been a "central issue", with the union asking for about $1.46 an hour, nearly twice the 75-cent raise offered by the commission.

In a letter to all commission employees mailed Tuesday, Mrs. Burtt outlined the commission's proposal and showed statistics of other public transit commissions.

Of 10 commissions listed, (including Kingston, Niagara Falls, London and Cornwall) only the Niagara Falls rate of $5.38 an hour exceeded the Belleville offer.

"I can't justify another raise," said Mrs. Burtt.

Mrs. Burtt felt she was obliged to write a letter to commission staff, not to sway them into accepting the offer but to ensure that all employees were familiar with the commission's position.

Her letter states,". . . the commission is not prepared to offer more wages".

"Financially the commission stands to make a profit of approximately $1,000 a week while the strike is being held," the result of employees losing their wages during the strike, if called, she said.

Mrs. Burtt said Belleville is a small city and residents who would ordinarily ride the bus system "are just going to have to find other ways of getting around" in the event of a strike.

A strike cannot be held legally until a week after receipt of the conciliators report. This report is not expected for the next three weeks.

Fourth Province Is Abandoned

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam is abandoning a fourth province, Quang Tri, to the fast encroaching North Vietnamese and is considering giving up Thua Thien, which includes the old imperial capital of Hue, government officials disclosed today.

Indira Gandhi Cross-examined

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India stepped down from the witness stand today after two days of cross examination on charges of political campaign violations in 1971.

Maintaining her innocence through nearly seven hours of testimony in Allahabad, her home city, India's 57-year-old political leader said her campaign for her seat in Parliament had been in accordance with the law.

Under questioning today, Mrs. Gandhi also defended herself against accusations that the government showed favoritism to her youngest son by granting him permission to manufacture cars in India.

There was no indication when Judge J.M.L. Sinha would deliver his verdict. The case has been dragging on for four years, and Mrs. Gandhi was the 97th witness.

Truancy Bothers School Board

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

The Hastings—Prince Edward separate school board has expressed dissatisfaction with the Family and Children's Services Agency in regard to its ability to cope with truancy.

Father L. P. Casartelli, Maynooth trustee, raised the issue Tuesday night when he cited the example of a student who has only attended 11 days of school since Christmas.

Father Casartelli said this is a "dereliction of duty" on the part of the agency in not tending to this student or seeking the reasons why he was not attending school.

Education director Ed Neville said the matter had been brought to his attention earlier this week and he was taking steps to rectify the probem.

Father Casartelli asked if the board was getting its dollar value out of the agency. The board now pays $3,400 a year for the truancy service.

Last week the Hastings County Board of Education voted to hire its own attendance officer and terminate its existing relationship with the Family and Children's Services.

Belleville trustee Paul Wall said the agency is subjected to a budget which may put some limitations on its work.

Mr. Neville explained to the board that in the past the board could ask for family allowance withdrawals to force parents to keep their children in schools. He said this practice has ceased.

Mr. Neville also said the fines for keeping children out of school had been increased. Habitual truants can also be sent to training school.

After lengthy discussion the board voted to refer the matter to the policy committee for further study. It was suggested the board may consider hiring a full-time truant officer.

Driver Charged

TRENTON — A 24-year-old Trenton resident has been charged with failure to yield in connection with a car-motorcycle accident Tuesday in which a 38-year-old Trenton man suffered minor injuries.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville today identified the person charged as Ann O'Connor of 28 Bayview Trailer Park.

Reg Gilbert of 33 Alfred St. was treated and released for lacerations at Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Constable Dan Garlick estimated damage to the Harley-Davidson motorcycle at $900 and to the car at $450 in the 4 p.m. mishap which occurred on Highway 2 near Bayside.

Kiwanis Head Defends Need for Group's Service

By JIM SMELLE
Staff Reporter

Have service clubs had their day? Not as long as there are immediate needs in the community that can be done by those in business and the professions, says Charles Forsyth, Kiwanis Governor of Eastern Canada and the Caribbean.

Mr. Forsyth was speaking to a meeting Tuesday evening at the Four Seasons Hotel of about 150 members from the two Belleville Kiwanis clubs, as well as those from Kingston, Madoc, Trenton and Picton.

"When no one cares about the needs of those less fortunate in the community than I say there is no need for a service club. Today there are many needs that can be looked after by business and professional people and service clubs such as Kiwanis should be responding to those needs.

Mr. Forsyth, from Toronto, pointed out areas that the Kiwanis club has become involved in, helping young people, especially those with learning difficulties and those with drug problems and also in the area of assisting senior citizens.

Power from Sea Old Proposal

HALIFAX (CP) — A project to produce electric power from the waves of the ocean that has won British government support stirred interest here because it was first experimented with by Osborne Havelock Parsons, a Halifax resident, in the 1920s.

Powergram, an in-company publication of Nova Scotia Power Corp., said Mr. Parsons set up a demonstration wave power plant that was fully operative by 1925.

His invention consisted of pontoons fixed so they could only move up and down with the action of the surface of the sea.

The up-and-down action created electricity but had some drawbacks was not considered commercially feasible and there was no effective method of storing the power.

The latter remains the chief problem facing British scientists.

Province Approves Trenton Request for Home Grants

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Trenton will get up to $800,000 in Neighborhood Improvement Program (NIP) money to upgrade homes and town services in several still undesignated residential areas in the town.

Approval of Trenton's application for money was confirmed by a provincial housing ministry official in Toronto Tuesday.

John Brown, director of the community renewal branch, said Trenton's application is "okay, they're in". He did not reveal if the full $800,000 requested will be allotted to the town.

Trenton has been waiting since early February to know the fate of its request for funds to upgrade conditions in older, deteriorating and predominantly residential areas. Five areas in Trenton have been selected as potentially suitable areas for an influx of dollars.

Mr. Brown did not say whether the town received its entire request.

Trenton is among some dozen municipalities that applied for NIP funds for the first time this year. A total of about 55 submitted requests for money prior to the Dec. 1, 1974 deadline.

Mr. Brown said 12 were rejected outright as not fitting the program's criteria, another 12 received money previously set aside, and the remaining 33, Trenton among them, got the funds allocated for 1975.

In total, $15-million has been set aside by Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. for NIP projects in 1975.

CMHC funds will only be released when the corporation and the provincial government sign a master agreement that has been up for revision in Ottawa. Delays experienced in refining the agreement in Ottawa has meant the money was effectively frozen.

The housing ministry director said two weeks ago he expected the agreement "almost daily" with an accompanying announcement of successful applicants to follow close on its heels.

The situation still remains the same: "It's just a matter of getting the stuff from CMHC,' he said Tuesday. "It still has to be bounced off the Provincial - Municipal Liaison Committee," but "that won't delay anything."

He said he expected an official announcement from Queen's Park, which provides another $7.5-million in NIP funds, shortly.

King Stresses Support For Economic System

PICTON — Canada's free enterprise system is not healthy in the one area that could cause its downfall — public opinion — says Picton mayor Donald King.

"The myths of high profits, inefficiency, poor wages are being heard and listened to — the exact myths that could cause the greatest lowering of the public's standard of living through 'the so-called answers' of some — subsidies he noted.

Mayor King, addressing Picton Rotarians Tuesday, said subsidies, government ownership, controls, increasingly high taxes and excessive welfare programs all are part answers some people are needed to solves the country's economic condition.

"I believe the average member of parliament, federal, provincial or municipal, reflects the opinions of the average person in his constituency. If the voice of government both elected and civil servant is anti-business, then I accept the fact that it is business's fault and that it is our social responsibility to educate Canadians young and old to the advantages of our system," he observed.

"We know that despite its faults the free enterprise system is the best in the world," he commented.

Mayor King said the competitive enterprise system to almost all segments of our society — agriculture, consumers, labor and even education.

The mayor said there will always be specific areas where the market system could improve.

Government intervention in these areas well may be desirable and legitimate. But such intervention should not be casual or automatic. Wherever possible it should be done in a way that enhances, not destroys the ability of the marketplace to accomplish the things society wants.

"So, it is the challenge to the system, not just to business that I am concerned with."

Mayor King said the onus is upon Rotarians and other community businessmen to speak out in support of a system that, "despite its fauls", has given us one of he highest standards of living in the world.

He was introduced by Rotarian John Cole and thanked by Rotary Club member William Cooke.

STIRLING — The regular meeting of the Hastings County Milk Producers, originally scheduled for March 6, will be held in the board room of the county office of the provincial ministry of agriculture and food here Thursday night, beginning at 8 p.m.

Thompson Life Member

PICTON —A Picton woman, Mrs. Margery Thompson, has been voted the first honorary life member of the Prince Edward County museum by Prince Edward County councillors.

Mrs. Thompson, a school teacher in Picton for many years, was described as ope of the museum's chief supporters. She has supplied expertise, labor and material donations.

Council Gets Thanks

CAMPBELLFORD — Cathy Redden has written Belleville city council her personal thanks for its donation of the $100 award she won at the recent Rotary Music Festival. The festival, she wrote, is important to all the communities it involved.

Fund Drive Under Way

AMELIASBURG — The Prince Edward unit of the Canadian Cancer Society will hold a fund drive kickoff dinner in the township hall here tonight. Time of the event is 7 p.m.

Pancakes Festival Fare

EAST LAKE — The National Farmers Union, local 333, will sponsor a pancake and maple syrup festival at the East Lake farms of Ken Marisett Sunday, March 23.

The special event will begin at noon Sunday and continue until 5 p.m. with the highlight of the day a hay ride to the sap bush for all visitors.

McLennan Takes Seat

MARMORA — Coun. David McLennan, still recovering from injuries he suffered in a December car accident, took his seat on Marmora Village Council for the first time recently since his acclamation in the December municipal election. Walking with the aid of crutches, Mr. McLennan was acclaimed with Coun. Gordon Bennett to fill the two vacancies.

Blood Clinic March 26

PICTON — Prince Edward's first blood donor clinic of 1975 will be held March 26 at Picton United Church Centennial Hall.

Clinic hours are from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The clinic is sponsored by the Prince Edward Women's Hospital Auxiliary Association.

Organizers are concerned for the success of this clinic as it will take place during the March break at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute Students, who in recent years have donated generously, may be unable to participate as many of them will be absent on vacations.

In 1974 a total of 653 units of blood was collected in Picton, an increase of 40 units from 1973.

Stirling Disaster

Tuesday evening an exercise was carried out in Stirling to see how the response would be if a disaster occurred in the community. Here, a group of civilian mobile radio operators are briefed in the fire hall.

Fairgrounds Again Suggested as Pool Site

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Prince Edward County's proposed community swimming pool will be located at the present site of the ball diamond in the Picton fairgrounds if the Price Edward Agricultural Society supports the plan and there is no conflict through the property lease between the fair and the county.

In a recorded voted Tuesday, councillors agreed to suggest this area of the fairgrounds as a tentative site, barring objections from the fair board. Only one councillor, Athol deputy-reeve Harold Sills opposed the motion.

It was decided council would meet with members of the agricultural society at the fairgrounds Saturday to study and discuss the proposed site.

Pool committee members also will be included.

Council's decision followed a controversial meeting attended by about 50 supporters and organizers of the pool project.

Spokesman for a group of concerned citizens, Roy Wight of Glenora said the pool project is slowing down in the public's mind, primarily because county council has taken no action.

When Wellington arena burned there was immediate response from council in the form of a $154,000 grant.

Mr. Wight said the pool is even more important to the community.

He added his group seeks three things from council — a pool site, finds to assist in construction and a yearly maintenance grant.

The Prince Edward Agricultural Society at its annual meeting in January voted against location of a pool on the fairgrounds saying they did not consider the site suitable for a pool.

When Mr. Wight was reminded of this by Athol deputy-reeve Harold Sills he suggested there is no reason to back away from possible conflict with the fairboard.

"We'll replace the agricultural society if we have to," asserted Mr. Wight.

Later this year, the fairboard did agree to location of a pool at the rear of the grandstand but a group of concerned area residents petitioned town council opposing this site.

Communication Key To Disaster Plan

By CHRIS ALMEY
Staff Reporter

STIRLING — People think that the federal and provincial governments will take care of them after a disaster, Col. Angus Duffy, Emergency Measures co-ordinator, told a small army of civilians, firemen and police assembled at the Stirling fire hall Tuesday evening. "They will, but it will be too damned late," he pointed out. "The first response must come from us."

Stirling's peacetime emergency plan was tested Tuesday. The situation was that a gasoline truck had overturned and exploded. A wide section of the community was demolished.

"Three buildings on fire is not a disaster for our purposes," Col. Duffy said. "A disaster is anything which requires a controlled or co-ordinated effort beyond the scope of the community. We will test and update the plan tonight."

The EMO co-ordinator said that some things the emergency plan must provide for is authority, a control headquarters, plus a rapid assembly and expansion of emergency services.

"The control group stays at headquarters. They make decisions. They do not go out and win medals," the large assembly was told.

Quinte area communications officer John Kaine pointed out the valuable resource that exists in the area . . . the GRS radio (citizens band) operators.

"When Brighton was struck by the windstorm two years ago, 20 minutes afterwards we had seven communications centres set up," Mr. Kaine said. "There are GRS operators all over the area. At one exercise we had 87 operators.

The radioman added that they had been able to pass unannounced before hand, a message from Toronto to Ottawa along Highway 7 in 20 minutes. They also have liaison with a motorcycle club for message carrying.

Col. Duffy told emergency personnel that they should make certain people at their place of work and home understand their involvement and any messages that could be directed at them. "If the telephone fan-out system of alerting people doesn't work, then we don't have a system," he said. "The first few minutes are very important."

The Corporate Scene

Annual Reports of Past Year Reflect Realism That Was Missing Before

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

That familiar harbinger of spring, the shiny new corporate annual report, is beginning to brighten doorsteps and letter-boxes of investors everywhere.

It could be argued that annual reports represent a major segment of Canadian literature. There are more annual reports than new novels each year, and the total person-hours spent in creating one are as great as in the other.

(But then a similar claim could be made for telephone directories, which are published in even greater numbers).

Whether literature or not, annual reports have been changing with the times—as can be verified by a glance back at the typical annual report of the late 1960s.

Reflecting that period's general mood of rising expectations, the typical report was a paean in praise of a growth-filled future.

The typical 1974 report, in contrast, seems much more realistic and sombre. Corporate problems are faced openly, rather than being ignored or buried in euphemisms.

But one thing still missing from most annual reports, however, is some form of accounting for inflation and its significant impact on earnings and on the value of the company's assets.

The recently published 1974 annual report of the Toronto-based multi-national enterprise, Massey-Ferguson Ltd., does face the problem directly, in a three-page essay headed Inflation And Its Impact.

It explains, in laymen's terms, what the company sees as the need for higher profitability to maintain its financial health in this period of inflation.

It also deals with the understatement of fixed assets and of depreciation allowance, when traditional accounting methods—which ignore inflation—are used.

Finally, the M-F report explains the alternative accounting techniques, by which the value of inventories can be expressed on a balance sheet, and gives the reasons for its choice of the traditional first-in-first-out method.

The essay is, in effect, a short, painless course in one aspect of accounting, and enhances the investor's understanding of any financial statement.

Much more remains to be done to make annual reports as useful as possible to investors.

In some other countries there's a current trend toward more forecasting of results. That trend is being supported by the Accountants International Study Group, made up of representatives from the accounting professions in Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom.

Canadian annual reports will probably be the last to incorporate earnings forecasts—even though the average investor would dearly love to know management's estimate of how much the company is likely to earn next year on current costs.

The provincial securities commissions permit the use of forecasts in a prospectus or take-over bid only in rare circumstances.

And a good many Canadian companies stick so closely to the letter of the law that they refuse to give shareholders any information about what has happened beyond the last day of the fiscal year, although months may have passed since then.

The laudable trend away from go-go annual reports and toward realism should not be an excuse for depriving investors of information they could reasonably expect to be given.

Belleville Publication

Karen Wishart is an attractive young BCI student with a Margaret Trudeau look about her, to judge from the cover picture of the Chamber of Commerce's current "What's Happening in Belleville" publication.

Karen is seen tutoring Cheshire Home resident Peter Ramsey and she is one of 30 Grade 12 and 13 students from city secondary schools involved in a local pilot project in student involvement. It stems from a course developed by the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education and this anniversary issue of the Chamber publication shows just what is being accomplished.

The students, who must have 19 credits to join the program, are involved in a variety of tutoring and help situations in such establishments as the Cheshire Home and Hastings Manor.

It is an example of good citizenship and the more it can be expanded throughout the student body in Belleville the better.

Once again the Chamber packs into its publication a wealth of interesting information about the commercial scene in Belleville and about the people who help make the Quinte area generally tick.

Appropriate in this International Women's Year is the fact the editor of "What's Happening in Belleville" is Ruth F. Howard. She and the Chamber are to be congratulated on its broad coverage and lively content.

In addition to word of new industry and commercial ventures — a sign of the Quinte area's general economic health — there is a report on one of the area's latest sporting ventures, the Belleville Squash Club. There is also a preview of some of this year's yachting activities, including the Race Management Seminar at the Four Seasons.

There is an interesting look at the past, in the publication of Office Rules in 1852, a document found in a recently demolished building. In addition to some other gems there is this one: "This firm has reduced the hours of work, and the clerical staff will now only have to be present between the hours of 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. on weekdays."

It is followed by this: "Now that hours have been drastically reduced the partaking of food is allowed between 11.30 and noon, but work will not, on any account, cease."

So much for progress. Do we hear someone say: "Has anything changed?" A little perhaps; the work scene is more humane and unions have power and influence undreamed of in those far-off days.

In any event, "What's Happening in Belleville" is proving something of a pacesetter. Chamber manager Don Sutton says it is surprising the number of people from out of town asking to be put on the mailing list. Other Chambers have asked if they may follow their example.

Mr. Sutton's answer: "Be My Guest."

The publication helps puts the economic scene locally in perspective. Local enterprises share in the initiative, indeed in large part make it possible, by advertising within its pages.

Enrolment

Hastings County Board of Education enrolment figures for the current school year indicate there are 13,897 students attending county elementary schools, and not 22,000 as was stated in Wednesday's Intelligencer. As was pointed out at the same time, there are 600 teachers in this category. The figures for secondary school enrolment show 8,912 students and 515 teachers. Nevertheless, the fact remain that, during their "formative years," our children would seem to receive less than adequate supervision, as the pupil-teacher ratio suggests.

Fire Department's Needs

Talk about timing!

Trenton Fire Chief Cecil Ellis had just completed presenting his annual department report to own council and the Gilbert Hotel burned down.

It was a six-alarm blaze, the fourth confirmed arson attempt on the same hotel.

Two Belleville trucks, one each from Frankford, Sidney Township and CFB Trenton, and one vehicle from the Trenton station itself.

Trenton's Fire Department has two trucks, but as Chief Ellis has been telling town councillors for years — and had again just that night — if both answer alarms simultaneously no one is left to man the fire hall.

For the fifth time in as many years, Chief Ellis had asked council for additional manpower to bring each shift to three-man strength. Once again, council, in their wisdom, ignored the request.

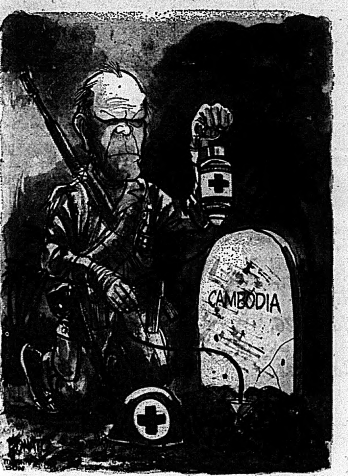
One councillor in recent memory even suggested the town revert to a volunteer fire department, a bit on the extreme side of things even if firemen's wages — like everyone else's — seem to be ballooned by inflation.

Hopefully the day will never come when the telephone at Trenton's fire hall goes unanswered. It could be a matter of life and death.

'Gospel Road' Film Here

A couple of years ago Johnny Cash's fine film, The Gospel Road, was screened at the old Belle theatre. A moving portrayal of the life of Christ, filmed on location in the Middle East, the film is returning to Belleville for two showings at Centennial high school March 21.

The Gospel Road film presentation takes us back to the realism of 2,000 years ago when Christ walked this earth, died on the Cross, and, according to Christian belief, rose again.



C. Roy Greenaway

A Newspaperman and a Painter

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — We now have a Greenaway Hall in the main building at Queen's Park.

In a most unique testimonial the Davis government has recognized a newspaper man in a most unusual way.

C. Roy Greenaway was one of this century's best Canadian reporters.

He also was a painter of considerable renown.

So the government conceived the idea of hanging one of the halls in the building with Greenaway paintings and officially naming it Greenaway Hall. It already owned some of Roy's paintings and with the co-operation of his widow was able to carry through the project.

Unusual as the honor is, it is a most fitting one.

Roy spent 20 years full time in the gallery as Toronto Star publisher Beland Honderick bureau chief, and many other years on a casual basis.

Over the years he had many gold marks on his reporter's score sheet.

At the dedication ceremony his old colleague and now Star said that Roy had first been appointed to this beat because he was the only Star man George Drew would talk to.

This was true at least to the extent that this particular Star man had a great way with people.

And he also could get confidences out of them that nobody else could. Thus he would produce striking stories such as the Gestapo scandal of 1945. It was his personality that got him the information.

This and his characteristic of being perhaps the most persistent bird dog newspaper man the province has known.

It was this quality, in fact, that I probably most admired in him.

Once he was on a story he didn't know how to quit until he had it.

My favorite recollection of him, and of course I worked with him for a long time, was of a certain murder.

A beautiful young girl had been found murdered in the trunk of a car at three o'clock in the morning.

The paper wanted a picture and got him out of bed. And all that it knew was that her parents lived on a certain street and that the name was Scott. They didn't even have the parent's initials.

The street was apartments on one side and bungalows on the other.

Roy first started on the apartments and rang the buzzer of every Scott. Without any luck.

He then started on the bungalows, and with them, of course, he had to ring every bell.

Finally at about seven o'clock he was going up some steps and a man came out to pick up his paper.

It was Mr. Scott. And Roy had to tell him that his daughter had been murdered.

But he got his picture. And no other paper did

Ottawa's Flashes of Humor

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — It's difficult to tell when Max Saltsman N.D.P.—Waterloo-Cambridge is saying something with tongue-in-cheek. His facial expression seldom gives him away.

Just before Rosemary Brown, a leadership contender for the party, came to Ottawa to address the 16-member caucus, Mr. Saltsman proposed a motion that would bar all leadership hopefuls from speaking to caucus.

It was seriously discussed before being, predictably, defeated.

Mr. Saltsman was said to have enjoyed the discussion immensely, before explaining his rationale for the move. "If they get a look at us they may decide to withdraw."

Overheard just outside the Conservative lobby:

"Did you know that Transport Minister Jean Marchand has been charged with leaving the scene of an accident?"

"You mean he's leaving transport?"

William Simon, U.S. secretary of the treasury, was in the visitor's gallery as the Commons erupted over the dredging-contract scandal. And at one point, John Reynolds (PC—Burnaby-Richmond-Delta) compared it to the Watergate scandal.

At that point Mr. Simon leaned over and told Conservatives below that "it's just like home."

When the Senate committee on legal affairs made history by allowing television cameras to record a Parliament Hill hearing for the first time, Senator Ray Perrault wanted to see that history in action.

As the government leader in the Senate, he had no trouble getting the public works department to install a TV set in his office, and he settled down to watch the results.

The TV set went on the fritz, and Senator Perrault didn't see a thing.

The Church of Scientology seems more resourceful than many highly-paid consulting firms when it comes to getting its papers into the hands of cabinet ministers. In one day this week, representatives of the church managed to buttonhole three ministers in the Centre Block—in an area not normally open to visitors. Health Minister Marc Lalonde, Solicitor-General Warren Allmand and Supply Minister Jean-Pierre Goyer took the papers with little comment.

LETTERS

Canada and the Monarchy

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

As is usually the case, the diatribe by Mr. Hockley in regard to the Monarchy is far from correct. The Crown costs the British taxpayer nothing — in fact, he is greatly in pocket.

Around three hundred years ago, in 1688, William III surrendered certain lands to the government of the day in return for an annual stipend, known as the Civil List. The vastly increased value of these surrendered properties greatly exceed the amount doled out to the Queen and the immediate members of her family. The payment of the Civil List is the prerogative of Parliament and not the Crown.

By his accent, an expatriate Englishman, Mr. Hockley should be aware of these facts. I can only hope that I have effectively blunted the axe he has to grind, since there is no "Red" plot, and merely attribute his views to abysmal ignorance. I do not vote Tory.

E. A. DANDRIDGE
FRANKFORD.

A Question of Semantics

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

With regard to William C. Hockley's letter in the March 10 edition of The Intelligencer, I wish to comment on his lack of knowledge of the English language.

In his letter "Canada and its Monarch Links", he refers to those of British heritage as "Britishers". I was particularly incensed by this, considering that two paragraphs before he used the correct term — "Britons". Although I do not profess to be an English scholar, I feel I am sufficiently well-educated to know better than to call a Briton a "Britisher".

PAT TYRRELL,
Quinte Secondary School.

Unions' Role in Economy

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

The editorial page of The Intelligencer of Saturday March 1, 1975 is another blatant attempt by the mass media to misrepresent and distort the issues in the news. Especially strikes by unions representing people in the blue collar sector of today's society. Your paper is pedding a distorted out of context version that big business controlled government wants the public to hear.

Your editorial claiming that Union leadership just snaps its fingers and the workers are out on the picket lines is a lot of bull. No worker has ever gone on strike light-heartedly because he knows that as soon as he does his only means of livelyhood is stopped, namely his pay check. He goes on strike only after the Union has exhausted all avenues of negotiation, via conciliation and mediation and that can and does consume several months of often futile bargaining.

If the Canadian economy and the Canadian people are being taken for a ride, let's put the blame where it properly belongs, not on the backs of the working people, but at the doors of the power and profit-hungry corporations who have only one dominant aim; Profits before People.

As for the right to strike being a grim joke, it would be an even grimmer joke on the general public if that right were ever taken away. That would give every employer the right he is looking for, the right to force their employees back to the sweat shop conditions of a hundred years ago.

Unions only came into existence after the working class began to realize that only as a united and organized body could they hope to survive and attain any measure of a decent living and dignity for their families and themselves.

DONALD E. WEESE,
Frankford.

Nutrition Can Be Fun: School's Kitchen Involvement Teaches Good Eating Habits

BUCKINGHAM, Que. (CP) — Letting a five-year-old try his hand at rolling liver in flour is an example of the novel way students at Buckingham elementary school, about 20 miles northeast of Ottawa, are being taught nutritional concepts and good eating habits.

As well as helping to prepare food, the students benefit from a balanced and inexpensive meal plan that allows them to buy breakfast for a quarter and lunch for 75 cents.

Principal Brian Miller said a federal government LIP grant enabled the school to hire two cooks, a secretary and a nutritionist to run the program.

"It was quite obvious to us that some children were not getting nutritional breakfasts," he said. "They would come to school dragging their heels. Also, some catch the school bus at 6:30 a.m."

Nutritionist Diane Birch prepares weekly menus in co-operation with the cooks. She also meets with teachers to plan nutrition classes.

"Grade 6 is studying snacks and the kindergarten class is learning about meat and fish" she said. "To the younger ones we are trying to give a basic appreciation of many foods, while we try to answer the questions of the older ones and motivate good food habits."

The number of students buying breakfast has tripled since the program started in January and Mrs. Birch said almost 100 of the 260 students buy lunches at noon.

The LIP grant also pays for material and for student expeditions to nearby dairies and cheese factories.

At five years of age, children are not too young to learn about nutrition, said Mrs. Birch, urging Ottawa schools to begin similar programs.

Children should be encouraged to participate in meal preparation at home, she said. A mother should "let her child flour the meat or pull apart the cabbage and give him an active role"

Group cooking has an added advantage for fussy eaters. Seeing their classmates eating something has usually encouraged them to try it too.

Even unpopular items such as liver suddenly taste good when they have helped in preparing them.

Ann Landers

Rules for Bad Teachers

Dear Ann Landers: As a mother, I was disturbed by the letter from the Oklahoma teacher who wrote the set of rules for parents which she said were "guaranteed to produce thoroughly messed-up kids."

As a parent, I hope you will print my rules which might provide interesting reading for certain teachers.

1. If you are having trouble with a child, don't let the parents know. Talk behind his back to friends, other teachers, and other parents.

2. Dont b'other to write a thank-you note for a gift from a student. After all, it takes a lot of time to write 25 or 30 notes. (Never mind about the time it took to select the gift. It doesn't count.) You told the child "thank you" when he gave it to you. That's enough.

3. Never apologize when you have made an error What's done is done—even if you learn later the child was not guilty. An apology might ruin your "image."

4. Ridicule a child in front of the class. It doesn't hurt to be cut down before one's peers. It makes a child more "humble."

5. Leave no doubt in anyones mind as to who your "pets" are. Wealth and social position rate "rewards." Give special attention and privileges to children, nieces and nephews of school board members, and those from rich and influential families.

6. When you attend PTA meetings, go out of your way to be pleasant and attentive to parents with clout, money and prestige. After all it's smart to know what side your bread is buttered on.

I hope you cen find room for this in your column, Ann. I know a few teachers who need this message—Way Out West

Dear Way Out: Here's your "message." For the teachers who don't need it, it will mean nothing. For those who do—well, shape up.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a widower in my mid-70s, in good health, and I enjoy a variety of interests. My problem is not loneliness, one so many older folks write about. In fact, it's just the opposite. I am pestered to death by well-meaning people who want to play "Cupid's Little Helper."

I am not a recluse, Ann I enjoy church and social functions. I like people, but I also enjoy the tranquillity of my little home, my books, and my garden.

Because I try to be congenial, many widows have interpreted my friendliness as a signal for help. They insist on "rescuing me from my misery." The worst offenders are the minister and his wife, and a few social workers who are determined to put a woman in my kitchen.

If you will be good enough to print my letter I'm sure it would help. Thank you.—Alone But Not Lonely.

Dear Not Lonely: Why are you so defensive? No one can drag you where you don't want to go. Nor can people inflict themselves on you if you prefer to be alone. You've got high-class worries, Dad. Kwitcherbeefin.

Doris Clark

Poem for Sorrowing Heart

Dear Doris: It really touched home when I read the letter from the lady who lost her little boy. You see, we lost our only child through cancer of the brain. They discovered it at 20 months and we finally lost to it after battling with it for two-and-a-half years. She was just five when she died.

We were left with nothing but memories of her. I was determined not to have any more children as long as I had her but now my husband and I are going to try, for you can't give up that easily.

This Christmas was kind of sad without her but may our next Christmas be brighter with the new child I hope to have. We shall never forget her or replace her with another, but at least we are trying to accept it the best way we know how.

Please send me the poem, "God's Loan".

Another Mother.

Dear Mother: The poem is on its way. Sometimes a thought beautifully expressed, as only a poet can do it, eases a sorrowing heart. We have had many asking for "God's Loan", and require only a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25 cents (which you have sent) to supply any request.

What Do You Know About Cholesterol?

Cholesterol. One of the great scare words of our time.

But stop for a moment and consider. Do you even know what it is?

If you're not sure, you're like a large number of people who associate cholesterol with heart disease, but aren't certain why.

Cholesterol is a "crystalline fatty alcohol found especially in animal fat and nerve tissue." It is essential to the formation of vitamin D when the sun shines on skin, and is the basis of various important steroid sex hormones.

Cholesterol is absolutely necessary for nerves to transmit impulses throughout the body, and much of metabolized cholesterol (80 percent) is converted to bile acids.

In other words, cholesterol is an integral part of the body, serving as a converter and conductor of other fundamental components. Animals obtain cholesterol both by synthesis within the body and from food sources.

Any time you eats eggs, meat, milk or fish you are taking in some cholesterol. Eggs are particularly high in cholesterol because the primary purpose of an egg is to produce new life. And cholesterol must be part of that process.

About 12 years ago the suggestion was put forward that coronary thrombosis (heart attack) was caused mainly by the excessive consumption of animal fats. The idea came from a close association between the amount of fat eaten in different countries and the number of cases of coronary thrombosis occurring in them.

One difficulty with this data is that heart disease is a disease of affluence, and affluent countries differ from poorer countries in many ways, not only in eating more fat.

It has been shown that the normal human body will rid itself of just about the same amount of cholesterol as that eaten.

Although blood cholesterol will rise after you have eaten a quantity of eggs, within a few hours it will be back to where it was before the eggs were eaten, according to research reported in the Journal of Mt. Sinai Hospital.

The American Cancer Society recently studied the dietary habits of a large number of persons, divided into two groups; those who ate more than five eggs a week, and those who ate less than four eggs a week, or none at all.

During the six-year period of the study, there were more deaths from heart attacks and strokes in the second group than among those who ate as many eggs as they wanted.

Several recent studies — in England, Csechoslovakia and the United States — have pointed to a crucial relationship between vitamin C and cholesterol in the blood, and involved in the transport of cholesterol in hte blood, and its inclusion in diet seems to prevent fatty build-up on artery walls.

Researchers hypothesize that this is why the incidence of heart attacks is lower in Mediterranean countries, with a vitamin C-rich diet, than it is in Scandanavian countries, where fresh fruits and vegetables are less plentiful.

The controversy about cholesterol is still far from over, however. There are still more studies to be completed before the question is settled, to everyone's satifaction.

In the meantime, as in most diet issuses, moderation and sensible eating habits are the best way to achieve good health.

Warming Up for Easter!

Karen Kilto happily devours a hard-cooked egg for lunch. Like many children, she considers eggs one of her favorite foods, in combination with a glass of milk, a piece of homemade wholewheat bread, raw celery, carrots, and an orange or apple for dessert, the quickly-prepared and no-fuss egg makes an excellent meal for growing tots. If the hard-cooked egg is to be eaten cold, it should be held under running cold water until cool, to prevent the slightly grey discoloration of the yolk that often results otherwise. It is harmless, but not particularly appetizing.

Give Easter Eggs New Zest With Tangy Sauces or Pickles

Easter eggs are marvellous for the family on Sunday morning.

But chances are that they won't all be eaten, and not even egg salad sandwiches for Monday's lunch will use them all up.

Here are a few recipes to help you turn those leftover eggs into a special and memorable meal.

EASTER EGGS WITH CHILI SAUCE

eight hard-cooked eggs
small bay leaf, finely crumbled ½ tsp. curry powder
pinch of basil and marjoram four tbsp. salad dressing or mayonnaise salt and pepper to taste
two cups of tea biscuit dough mixed with tomato juice instead of milk

Cut hard-cooked eggs in half, and remove the yolks. Mash the yolks, add seasoning and salad dressing. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Restuff the whites with the yolk mixture and put halves together in pairs.

Roll out tea biscuit dough about ¼ inch thick. Cut into eight portions and wrap each piece of dough around an egg. Seal edges of the dough with water and mould the dough to the shape of the egg.

Place on cookie sheet and bake in hot oven (425 degrees) for 20 minutes or until browned and the biscuit is cooked. Serve as main course with hot chili sauce or a tomato sauce with hot Spanish seasoning.

STUFFED EGGS WITH SAVORY SAUCE

eight hard-cooked eggs
cooked, finely chopped seasoned spinach

Cut the eggs cross-wise into halves. Take out the yolks and combine them with an equal part of the spinach.

four tbsp. butter
four tbsp. flour
two cups milk

Melt the butter in a sauce pan over low heat. Add the flour and blend over low heat for three to five minutes. Stir in the milk slowly, keeping the sauce consistence smooth and creamy.

two tbsp. Worcestershire sauce two tbsp. dry sherry three-quarters cup chili sauce
salt and pepper
one tbsp. horseradish sauce (optional)
one tbsp. prepared mustard (optional)
two cups cooked shrimp

Add all the ingredients to the sauce except the shrimp. When the sauce is smooth and just starting to bubble on the edges, add the shrimp.

Place the egg halves in flaky pastry shells, and pour the sauce over.

This dish serves eight, and is especially nice combined with broccoli or asparagus.

The sauce can be varied by substituting one cup of grated sharp cheddar cheese for the chili sauce.

LUNCHEON LOAF

eight hard boiled eggs
¼ cup diced sweet pickle pimento to taste
one cup grated sharp cheese eight crackers
pepper
salad dressing

Chop and combine ingredients and add enough salad dressing and mayonnaise to bind together. Press into a wax paper lined loaf pan and chill. Serve on lettuce or as sandwich filler.

CHEESE AND EGG CASSEROLE

four eggs
1 ½ cups cottage cheese
one cup grated cheddar cheese
1 ½ tbsp. butter
¾ cup milk
one tsp. salt
two cups cooked macaroni four hard-boiled eggs
tomato and cheese slices

Beat eggs slightly, combine with milk, cottage and cheddar cheese, salt and pepper. Mix butter and macaroni and combine with cheese and milk.

Pour into buttered casserole. Bake at 350 for 30 minutes. Top with halved hard-boiled egg and tomato slices and cover with cheese slices. Broil 10 minutes.

Cultural Symbol, Culinary Delight

As a symbol for spring, for birth and growth and life itself, the egg has played a part in human mythologies since history began.

And for just as long it has been included among the essential foods of civilization.

There's a good reason for the importance of the egg in both culinary and cultural areas. Because its primary purpose is to produce new life, it contains most of the nutrients important to health and growth.

A large egg provides 80 calories as well as protein (found in the white of the egg). The yolk contains protein, plus vitamin A, iron, phosphorus, calcium, thiamine, riboflavin and niacin, as well as other elements in trace amounts. The fat in the yolk is made up of unsaturated and saturated fats in a ratio of approximately two to one.

Egg Facts from the Inside Out

When cooking eggs, use low to moderate heat. High temperatures cause whites to become tough and rubbery.

The fresher the egg, the more difficult it is to peel when it has been hard-cooked. Use eggs you have had longest for hard cooking.

The freshness of an egg can be judged when it is broken out on a flat surface. In a fresh egg, the white is thick and the yolk stands well up. As the egg ages, the white becomes watery and the yolk flattens.

Eggs can be refrigerated for several weeks.

However, for maximum quality, consumers are urged to buy their eggs weekly rather than monthly.

Contrary to what you might have thought, the color of the shell has nothing to do with the quality of the egg. It depends on the breed of hen.

The color of the yolk depends on the feed given the hen; corn gives a dark yellow yolk and wheat gives a very pale yolk.

Those twisted white cords on either side of the yolk are simply extensions of the yolk casing. They're called chalazae and are completely edible.

For Easter, your family may paint hard-cooked eggs in the traditional way, using food coloring for the dying process, and hot paraffin for the painting on of names or designs.

If you want to decorate eggs that will last indefinitely, you'll need to empty the egg shell. The egg white and yolk you remove should be used within a day or two in recipes calling for uncooked eggs — souffles, custards, cakes, etc.

To empty the shell, wash and dry the egg. Use a long, slim needle. Carefully pierce a hole through the shell in both ends of the egg. Press needle against the edges of each hole, to widen them slightly. Push needle into the egg, to break the yolk. Hold one end of the egg over a bowl. Blow into hole at opposite end. The contents of the egg will drain into the bowl. Rinse the shell with cold water, and dry before starting the decorating process.

Women Today—Challenge for Change

Nancy Madams, leading discussion after films.

By ISABEL HUGGAN
Women's Reporter

"I get paranoid when people ask me 'Do you work?' as if there was a difference between staying home and working.

"Well, I stay at home, AND I work. And I like the life I have."

That was one woman speaking after viewing the film titled It's Not Enough, shown Tuesday evening in the art gallery of Corby Library. She was part of a small and congenial audience who'd come to the first in a series of three evenings where discussion and films explore the topic Women Today — Challenge for Change.

Nancy Madams, Kingston representative of the National Film Board, introduced the films and led the discussion following. She explained that the films are part of a group of eight films made in 1974 by Kathleen Shannon for the NFB.

"They're special, unique films in many ways," said Miss Madams. "They're entirely about women, they were made by film crews that included more than the usual number of women, and they've been made in a very informal and natural way. This documentary-interview kind of film makes the people seem more real and open."

In fact, the "stars" of all the films are simply ordinary women across Canada, whose problems are faced by women everywhere.

The biggest annoyance voiced by the audience is the lack of low-cost day-care facilities in Belleville. Mothers who work often must use large portions of their salaries to pay for child care.

Forming neighborhood babysitting centres is a good idea in theory, but only as strong as its weakest link, according to some of the women who have found that this solution eventually fails.

"What women need, whether they're working or not, is someplace to take their young children so that they can get out," said one mother.

"They need the time to take an extension course, or do some volunteer work, or just enjoy the adult conversation they don't get at home all day with little kids."

Although some of the audience were hostile to the idea of government subsidies for women who choose to be housewives ("How could you make sure that women who stay at home would work for their money?"), most were agreed that women should be able to choose what kind of life they want as much as men do.

One of the two men in the audience stressed that women must not forget that many men lead boring, unrewarding, low-pay lives too.

Social attitudes need to be changed, everyone agreed as the discussion ended, so that employers will have to be more flexible in their regulations about parents — both men and women — staying at home when children are too sick for school or day care; so that women who do stay at home can regard themselves with more self-esteem and importance in the life of their community; and so that women who work, whether from choice or from need, will no longer be "punished" for also being mothers.

"Women should publicize the undesirable ways they've had to cope with both working and raising children," says a young widow in the film called Mothers are People.

"Then, perhaps, the changes will begin to happen."

The free film and discussion program continues Wednesday evening beginning at 8 p.m.

Michael Catlin and Marvin Valensky of the provincial ministry of community and social services will comment on the films Tuesday. Thursday's discussion will be led by Scott Orfald and Evelyn Paton of the Family and Children's Services, and Ann Orfald, psychologist at Belleville General Hospital.

Statistics Prove Inequality

In order to publicize International Women's Year, the federal government is spending $750,000 on advertising, learned the audience attending the Women Today — Challenge for Change film and discussion program.

This was followed by another, more startling statistic.

Although there are over 1,800,000 children under the age of 14 in Canada whose mothers work, there are only 1,200 day-care centres in the entire country, and just 89 of these are publicly supported.

The question that is automatically raised said Nancy Madams, National Film Board leader for the discussion period, is why all that money is not being used to provide more and better day-care facilities, so badly needed by working mothers.

More facts from the NFB-film program: One third of the labor force in Canada is female. One third of all married women work outside the home, and 75 per cent of those jobs are full-time.

A mother of two, who holds down a full-time job outside her home, works an average 100-hour week.

"I don't know any women who work for fun," says one of the women in the NFB film, It's Not Enough.

In fact, most women do work because they have to, either because the husbands' incomes need supplementing, or because they are the sole providers for their families.

And yet, the annual median income for women in Canada in 1974 was $4,800. For men? Twice as much — $9,700.

This is particularly odd considering statistics that show that more girls than boys finish high school. There's a direct relationship between education and type of employment, but it doesn't hold true for women. Many women, even those with university degrees, end up in routine and unchallenging jobs, where they are taking care of other people's needs.

In department stores, for example, women are hired to sell low-priced items such as those found at notions counters. Men, on the other hand, are given the responsibility of selling appliances and other costly items which include a good commission with sales.

The old attitudes — career advancement is more important to a man's ego than to a woman's — die hard.

People and Events

CHRIST CHURCH A.C.W.

A large group of members and friends attended the March meeting of Christ Church A.C.W. where they were given a talk and demonstration on the aims, objectives and services of the volunteer organization, "Pensioners Concerned".

The speaker was F.A. Beeby who answered many questions pertaining to pensions, benefits, housing and many other services available to senior citizens

Reports were given on the world Day of Prayer; from the work group; Cent-a-meal and from the social service group at Hastings Manor. Members were reminded that there will be a Lenten Renewal Day at St. John's Church, Stirling on March 22 and also of the reception following the Confirmation service on March 23 when the new bishop of Ontario, Right Rev. Henry Hill will be welcomed on his first official visit to the parish.

A rummage sale is planned for May 2 and members were urged to get ready for this event. A substantial cheque will be forwarded to the Anglican diocesan camp "Hyanto" as Christ Church's A.C.W. contribution.

Reverend John Utley brought an inspirational message and blessing to the group. Hostesses for the afternoon were Bernice Wills and Bess Clarke.

Canada Annoying Law of Sea Allies

GENEVA (CP) — Among some of Canada's closest allies at the international Law of the Sea conference here, there seems to be a subtle but growing resentment against the federal government, which many believe is being excessive in some of its demands.

Among delegates interviewed there seemed to be a concern that, although Canada is deeply involved in nearly every major issue, the government shows little if any sign of readiness to make key concessions in the interests of reaching general agreement.

Most delegates were unwilling yet to express their uneasiness publicly and virtually all of them went out of their way to stress the extremely high regard in which they hold the Canadian negotiators here and the respect which they have for their skills.

But it is no secret that Canada has in the past worked closely with the African countries on the sea law issue and one Kenyan official told two Canadian reporters: "Let's face it, Canada is getting greedy.'

Said another delegate who asked not to be identified: "Canada has shown itself to be moderate and flexible in the past but now all we seem to hear from your ministers is talk about going it alone if we don't get fast movement towards an agreement."

"Look at it this way," said the delegate, "Canada is asking for rights over its whole continental margin which extends far beyond the 200-mile economic zone we have been proposing for coastal nations.

"It also wants control of its salmon swimming in foreign waters, special provisions for the Northwest Passage because of the ice and dangers of pollution there and a lot of other things.

"Well, all right, but (the Canadian) government will have to start giving something."

Kidnapped Show Dog Chewed Up

DETROIT (AP)—A prize-winning show dog, kidnapped and tossed unprepared into a dog-fighting ring, was the centre of a minor international incident Tuesday.

The bull terrier, owned by Sharon Jackson of Calgary, was stolen moments after he won the best-of-breed award at the Detroit Kennel Club show Sunday.

Handler John Kipp of Richland, Mich., said he was showing another dog when his son told him someone had carried off the bull terrier.

Police, acting on a tip, went to an east-side Detroit home, but found no trace of the dog.

Three hours later, one of the officers returned to the house and found the dog in the back yard.

The dog bore little resemblance to the well-groomed show entry. Instead, he bore evidence of having been in a brutal fight.

Money Found

City police are investigating the possible return of a quantity of money to Spiro's Restaurant which had been stolen from the Bridge St. E. dining establishment early Saturday.

The money was reported left in a package which had been placed at the restaurant's rear door some time this week.

Police were notified of the money's return early today.

A police spokesman said Saturday $725, mostly in small bills, had been taken from a dining room cupboard.

Bottler Backs Athletes

The Belleville bottler of Coca-Cola has joined other Canadian Coke bottlers in a fund-raising program for athletes training for the Olympic Games. The campaign is called Let's Get Together.

Keith Parry, Coke's Belleville manager, said offices of Coca-Cola bottlers across the country will become clearing houses for $2 donations that will be acknowledged by a supporter decal that can be applied anywhere from a car window to school books. The company kicked off the campaign with a donation of $100,000.

"We want to help our Canadian athletes prepare to meet competition from the world's best. One hundred per cent of everything we collect will go toward their training through the Canadian Olympic Association," Mr. Parry said.

Sure Sign of Spring

Agnes Finkle, 17, had a sure sign of spring Tuesday with a bouquet of lilies for her smile. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Finkle, 72 Dundas Street West. Friday will be the first day of spring.

Duffy Confident Moira Won't Flood

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

As far as area Emergency Measures Organization (EMO) co-ordinator Angus Duffy is concerned, Belleville can relax about a flood threat this spring.

"We haven't had the snow we normally have; we've had a milk, open winter and there just isn't enough snow left in the bush to cause any problem," said Col. Duffy.

The Moira River last rampaged through downtown Belleville in 1936. Since then it has risen to dangerous heights and caused lesser property damage. This year, says Col. Duffy, "It would need a solid week of heavy rain to create a flood situation, and even then I don't think there would be much of a problem."

"It has just been one of those good years. What snow that has fallen has been melted and run off gradually, throughout the winter and there's been no real buildup.

"There's no ice pileup at the mouth of the river and we don't anticipate any more coming downriver that won't be carried out into the Bay," the EMO co-ordinator said.

"But," he warned, "one winter can't be used as the yardstick for our flood control problems."

The Moira watershed goes north to Cashel and Effingham townships.

Land Shortage Forcing Builders into Townships

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

It's starting off as a slow year for single-family home construction in Belleville.

Despite an optimistic money market and the availability of builder loans, only half the number of house permits have been issued this year compared to 1974, said city building inspector Grant Stickle.

Building inspection department statistics show permits for six units have been issued since Jan. 1 compared to 12 issued in the same period last year.

In 1974 residential building value amounted to about $325,000 compared to this year's $200,000. Two apartment buildings valued at $520,000 are not calculated in single-family unit construction for this year.

Quinte area builders are moving to Sidney Township as land becomes scarce in the city and because "it's cheaper" to build in the country, said Bob Marcotte, president of the Quinte Home Builders Association.

In the first 2½ months of the year, local and county building inspection staff said 40 residential permits have been issued for the township with a building value exceeding $1 million.

"There's a lot of building going on in the townships because there are not as many restrictions there and because of the abundance of land," said Mr. Marcotte.

While city residential lots are selling for up to $15,000, lots in the township are still available for less than $10,000, he said.

"It's at least $5,000 cheaper to build outside the city," said the association president. "There's a real shortage of residential lots in the city for the small builder."

Mr. Marcotte said Sidney would continue to get a large portion of the housing action, but "soon the development may begin to even out with Thurlow Township."

District Newsmakers

Bureau on Display

The Central Volunteer Bureau will be holding an information mart at the Four Seasons April 27 to make the public aware of voluntary organizations in the community.

Already 17 organizations have registered to date and many other have indicated they would do so before the March 31 deadline. Over 50 organizations have been asked to participate.

Furniture Show Popular

City businessman Robert Michaud Jr. escorted two busloads of Belleville area women on a tour of Tuesday's International Furniture Trade Show.

Teachers to Toronto

The Ontario Separate School Association Conference is scheduled for Toronto April 3 and 4.

The Ontario Catholic Supervisory Officer's Association Convention is also scheduled for the same week April 1 and 2.

Single Parents Gather

City hall representatives are to contact E. L. Burnham of Belleville Rotary Club on a proposal to erect a single sign informing visitors of services clubs in Belleville. The sign has been suggested for the city's north end on Highway 14 on Quinte Mall property. In a garden setting near the Chamber of Commerce information booth, it would cost $3,400 and there's a request the city contribute $1,500.

Controls Seminar Topic

Loyalist College will sponsor a seminar on the effects of government control over utilities April 8. The seminar question is - Does a non-competitive public utility cost more? Panel members will be Marylea urtt, chairman of the Belleville Transit Commission, Norm Manning of Ontario Hydro, Bob Carleton of Bell Telephone and Gerry O'Connor, public utilities commission member.

Fork Lift Trials May 24

The annual fork lift truck competition sponsored by the Industrial Ascident Prevention Association will be held in Ben Bleecker auditorium, Saturday, May 24. Companies which intend participating in the scheme are advised to contact the association well in advance of the competition to check for rule changes and equipment necessary for the competition.

Northern Had Big Year But Layoffs Continue

John C. Lobb, chief executive officer of Northern Electric Co. Ltd. describes 1974 as "a year of achievement in all phases of operations" in the company's annual report mailed to shareholders Wednesday.

The report says consolidated sales approached the $1 billion mark and earnings per share rose to $2.05 in 1974 from $1.35 in 1973.

Five new plants, the report says, were opened in Quebec one in Nova Scotia and one in New Brunswick. New plants are under construction, or will be in 1975, in Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Alberta and Newfoundland. The company now operates 23 factories across Canada.

Meanwhile, in Belleville, layoffs continue at the city's Northern Electric plant, with a total of more than 350 employees laid off to date.

Loyalist Nursing Program Already Filled for Year

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

The diploma nursing programs at Loyalist College are over-subscribed once again this year, the college has announced.

And this situation means the college will again be forced to choose 57 candidates required to fill its quota from 80 preferred candidates through its computer random selection process, says William P. Buckley, director of the school of health science and community studies.

Mr. Buckley explained the provincial ministry of colleges and universities sets the quota at 70 places, "and some of those were filled by last year's applicants who met the college admission requirements and chose to wait for a year".

He says the 80 preferred candidates for the remaining 57 places were screened from over 300 applications received to date.

"The admission policy of the college gives preference to college area residents who make Loyalist their first choice and who have standing in mathematics, chemistry, and physics or biology at a senior level," Mr. Buckley elaborated.

Mr. Buckley points out following the final selection, the remaining preferred and acceptable candidates will be placed on a waiting list. Registration date for the programs is Aug. 1.

He adds later in the year Loyalist will "undertake to refer students on the waiting list to other colleges which have not filled their quotas."

Tape Deck Missing

A Belleville resident is minus one eight-track tape unit and one back speaker today following a theft from her car sometime Tuesday morning.

City Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said today the equipment, valued at $108, was stolen from the vehicle owned by Donna Lessard of 94 Sidney St. while it was parked at her residence.

Local Flavor Evident In Museum Music Exhibit

Most of the instruments and music exhibit which opened Sunday at the Hastings County Museum was borrowed from Quinte area residents, a move which helps in rapport between the museum and the public, says Marten Lewis, curator.

"Quite a lot of it was borrowed from around the county," he said in an interview. "And that's a practice we perform all the time."

"It gets them (public) involved in the museum and gets the museum involved in the community," said Mr. Lewis.

Among the contributors who did not request anonymity are Eugene Lang, a well-known area music critic and reviewer and Doug Asselstine, music director at Quinte Secondary School, he noted.

Mr. Lewis related setting up the exhibit, which will continue from four to six weeks, involved nine hours of work last Saturday, all accomplished by volunteers.

Workers Making More

Good news for Belleville merchants. Local wage earners are moving up in the ranks of cities who can claim some of the highest average incomes in Canada.

Latest federal national revenue statistics available for 1972 place Belleville in 36th spot out of 100 Canadian cities. In 1971 Belleville placed 43rd in the standings.

The statistics reveal the 1972 average income in Belleville was $7,889 compared to $7,209 a year earlier. Total income in the Belleville area was $139.5 million which represented .22 per cent of the national income figure.

Cities close to Belleville, with the average wage followed by the city's standing in brackets, were:

Kingston, $8,267 (20); Peterborough, $7,941 (32); Brockville, $7,495 (55); Oshawa 8,768 (9); Cornwall, $7,302 (67).

Oakville ranked first for the second year with an average income of $9,945.

Sydney and Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, took last spot with an average wage of $6,462.

Y's Budget $109,800

In a report on the Belleville Family YMCA budget estimates in Tuesday's Intelligencer, it was incorrectly reported that cost of programs and services in 1974 cost $91,600. This should have read $106,056. The Y's estimates for this year are $109,800.

Truck Trailers Damaged

City police are investigating an incident of wilful damage to six flat-bed trailers during the weekend at Warren Whitley Rental Equipment on 53 Wilson Ave.

Chief Douglas Crosbie said today all lights on all six trailers were smashed by unknown vandals, resulting in $495 damage. It was not reported to police until 1.21 p.m. Tuesday, he said.

Young and Old Mingle at Manor

Extreme youth and old age have been making regular contact in Belleville — to their mutual benefit — in recent weeks.

Scene of the bridging of the generations has been Hastings Manor — Hastings County home for the aged in Belleville.

Involved have been both manor residents and a band of youngsters from King George Public School.

It's one of those community projects — called elective programs by school authorities — that take students from the academic classroom setting into on-the-spot experience. The premise is such contact heightens young people's awareness of their own talents and appreciation of real life.

But the manor program — which ended Tuesday after 10 weeks — had something different in the way of human realities, organizers and participants seem to agree.

The way they discuss it, the youngsters emerged with the generation gap — if it existed for them before — just a cliche after their contact.

"We thought it was terrific," said Sharon Moyer craftroom supervisor for manor's residents. "It got the kids involved — a lot of them perhaps for the first time with older people.

Skevoulia Xinaris, a 12-year-old member of Grade 7 school team which has been entertaining and talking with the senior citizens, had the same feeling.

She said she doesn't quite remember her own grandparents, and now she's learned to "understand older people much more".

Her reaction was that many old people tend to loneliness because they have few people to exchange contact with.

"Most tend to think that they are just old people," said the young student. "Now I tend to think of them as just the same as us."

Society Invited

A Hastings County Historical Society representative has been invited to attend and participate in a coming meeting on future planning of the Bay of Quinte shoreline Judy Carty, society president, said Tuesday. The meeting will be held Monday, 7.30, at the Thurlow Township Hall.

Ages in Contact

Communication between youngsters and the aged has been heightened by a project at Hastings Manor, local government home for the aged in Belleville. Skevoulia Xinaris, 12-year-old public school student makes contact across the years with Manor resident, Keitha Curl, 86.

Taxpayers Asking Fewer Questions This Time Around

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Belleville taxpayers have fewer questions, fewer complaints — but more patience.

That's the opinion of Belleville's taxation director Peter Broder, who, at this time of year, could have worse things to say about taxpayers.

The new income tax law (Bill C49) was finaly given Royal assent Feb. 27 and it came into law Monday.

Mr. Broder, 44, attributes the long delay in passing the new bill as a major reason [illegible] taxpayers are behind in [illegible] returns.

Federal taxation figures up to March 13 indicated only 2.7 million taxpayers have filed returns whereas at the same time last year, more than 3 million were in.

Mr. Broder said the national publicity on the delay in the bill has caused taxpayers to ask fewer inquiries at the local taxation office.

The Belleville office, which employs about 155, handles between 175,00 and 200,000 taxpayers in this district. There are about 11 million taxpayers in Canada.

The American Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has reported an increased amount of requests for information this year.

The IRS attributed this to the inflation factor which is forcing the average American taxpayer to search for additional deductions. Rebates, in some IRS offices, were averaging $100 above last year.

Mr. Broder said this pehnomenon has not occurred at the Belleville office.

He said to date the major inquiries have centrede around family allowances, registered home ownership plans and expense deductions.

"Generally the number of inquiries decreases each year slightly. This may be because people are more used to tax return and its instructions," explained Mr. Broder, who was formerly with the National Revenue Department in Ottawa.

The Belleville office has an across-counter service which gives tax informaton to the public but will not complete the tax returns. It is open Monday through Fridays. On Mondays and Tuesdays it is open till 6 p.m.

Out of town inquiries can be made through a toll-free number (Zenith 0-4000).

The Belleville taxation office is attempting to measure the success of this program by having taxpayers fill out a questionnaire.

In general, Mr. Broder said "taxpayers are becoming more sophisticated". Apparently, the office receives fewer complaints about high taxes.

"People now seem to realize that the taxation offices merely implement the law . . . it does not establish the taxation act," added Mr. Broder.

The Belleville taxation office has the tax history of each taxpayer in the area on its files. The local office handles any questions or investigations that may be prompted by the department of finance in Ottawa.

Mr. Broder assured local taxpayers early rebates should be in the mail during the next couple of weeks.

Taxpayers again will be asked to be patient due to the slowdown in mail deliveries.

Toll-free Call Aids Tax Credit Queries

Income tax deadline is fast approaching and you may be having trouble with one part of this year's form, the tax credit scheme where additional benefits can be claimed.

To help, free phone-in information is available from the tax credit information centre in Toronto, which is open on evenings and during weekends in March and April.

Anyone in Ontario may reach the centre free of charge by dialing the operator and asking for Zenith 8-2000.

The information is available from Monday to Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. and on weekends from noon to 5 p.m. The tax credit information centre can only provide assistance with Ontario tax credit claims.

Palsy Victim Plays Organ with Pointer

TORONTO (CP) — An 11-year-old boy at the Ontario Crippled Children's Centre suffers from cerebral palsy and cannot talk or use his hands.

With the help of a wooden pointer attached to a band on his head, he is able to play simple tunes on an organ, composing many himself.

There is a band at the centre composed of profoundly retarded and multiply handicapped young adults who produce their own style of rhythm with drums, cymbals and other musical instruments.

Frank Herman, music therapist at the centre, said music gives the group satisfaction by making them feel they are succeeding at something.

She said there is a growing understanding of the healing function of music and widespread interest in music therapy as a career.

"A music program is no longer considered mere trimming in an institution but rather a sound investment in human welfare and happiness."

The boy who plays the organ uses color-coded notes—the same colors on the keyboard and on the music he reads. He moves his head so the pointer taps the keys.

Metro Beureau Takes Neutral Role in Disputes

TORONTO (CP) — The director of the Metropolitan Toronto Landlord and Tenant Advisory Bureau often finds himself a middleman between landlords and tenants.

"We see our position, our neutrality, as absolutely necessary to mediate disputes," said Paul Jones, director of the bureau since it started four years ago.

"But we sometimes go to one side or the other if we think it's necessary to move someone else to the middle."

Mr. Jones 35 is a former investigator and deputy registrar of the provincal Consumer Protection Bureau

He and his staff of six have no power to enforce their decisions

Mr. Jones said the bureau's success is a direct result of its informality compared with court procedures

"The less formal the better. If you had a choice of going to small claims court with a claim of $100 against your landlord or coming here and having us settle it, which would you rather?"

Joseph Trudel, administrator of the Ottawa-Carleton Landlord and Tenant Advisory Office, said the 10 or so bureaus in the provnce would like the power of binding arbitration in mediating disputes.

"We only have the power to mediate now," he said. "We'd like to be able to make our decisions binding on both parties."

Provincial legislation assigns the bureaus the role of advising, investigating, mediating and disseminating information on tenant matters.

Mr. Jones said the bureaus have no legal power to help a tenant fight a rent increase and their success rate is "almost nil" in persuading landlords to roll them back

His bureau had done better with "cases of distress," in which a landlord seizes a tenant's belongings and holds them until rent is paid. The practice is forbidden under the Landlord and Tenant Act, although no penalty is provided, and many such cases had been successfully mediated.

Learning Continues Even When Students Absent from Class

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Days when a child lost a year or dropped behind in school work due to illness has all but ended in Hastings County.

One of the reasons for the change is 36-year-old Margaret Flett, the home-hospital instructor employed by the Hastings County Board of Education.

Mrs. Flett, a native of Manitoba, has been with the board since its start in 1969. Along with special education superintendent E. T. (Ted) Morres, she has helped more than 20 students a year from losing courses.

A mother of four children herself, Mrs. Flett sees about seven students a week. Secondary school students require two or three sessions a week while primary grade children need more.

She also spends about one-third of her teaching time with students in hospital. Mrs. Flett said her case load is evenly split between elementary and secondary students.

Mrs. Flett is referred ot students through the principals. The student has to be away from school for at least three weeks before she takes on the task of home instruction.

"Many parents are not aware of the service and as a result we are not reaching every child that needs help" explained Mrs. Flett.

The board has recently hired an additional four qualified home-hospital instructors on a part-time basis to act as auxiliary help for Mrs. Flett. "This will eliminate the problem of not being able to help each child," she added.

She works with students who have temporary illnesses, congenital illnesses, crippling diseases, terminal diseases and psychological diseases.

Mrs. Flett said she worked with one student for over two years. The child had a terminal disease. She said she has worked with three other similar cases.

Many people, said Mrs. Flett, view home-hospital instruction as a "better than nothing solution". However, she said some of her students return to school with an edge on their fellow students.

"Many of the students complain about the amount of work I give them," said the instructor, who added she works closely with the principals for course of studies.

Mrs. Flett said she enjoys the one-to-one correspondence with the students and believes it to be the most interesting form of teaching.

In most cases, Mrs. Flett said she believes she makes educational progress with her students. "It's not just a token service," she added.

She said the field of home instruction is relatively new in education and is the outgrowth of the correspondence courses.

The program is preventing more and more students from falling behind their peers or their courses.

"In fact, I'm proud to say I've even had a few students move ahead into another level after returning to school," she concluded.

Council Requests More Road Aid from Province

City council has adopted the suggested provincial government road program which will bring it $681,000 in subsidies.

Simultaneously, council got its subsidy spoke in for an additional $500,000 or more later in the year.

The subsidy allocations come from the transportation and communications ministry. It's made up of $345,000 earmarked specifically for construction and $336,000 for maintenance.

It was necessary to get the request for the supplementary subsidies to the ministry as soon as possible, said city manager Wilbur Purcell.

"Te want them thinking about us as soon as we can," he said, explaining the request for later subsidies totalling $527,600.

Seminar Results Show Need for Labor Study

A followup meeting is schedule for this autumn to a seminar held March 5 here at the Sun Valley on Future Technical Training needs in the Quinte Region.

The seminar was organized by the Technical Education Council in co-operation with W. S. Babbitt, co-ordinator of staff development at Loyalist College.

There were 36 participants including 16 secondary school, 11 industrial, six college, two manpower and one labor representatives.

Four general areas recommended for further investigation by the council were work experience in the community, development of life skills, resource inventory in the community of people and facilities and better methods of communication between industry, labor, and educational institutions.

The council is composed of representatives from secondary and post-secondary education in the Quinte region.

New Beer On Market

A new beer is on the market in Belleville. Cool Spring, by Labatt's is the first Canadian lager beer brewed with a lower alcoholic content and fewer calories than traditional Canadian beers.

The alcohol content of the new beer is 3.9 per cent by volume, about 20 per cent lower than the normal 5 per cent.

The new beer has been on sale in Alberta and British Columbia since 1972 and was introduced into Ontario this month.

Road Priority Meeting Topic

Sidney Township council will meet Tuesday to determine which municipal roads wil be upgraded this year.

Through a grant from the ministry of transportation and communications and a township allocation of $125,000, Sidney will spend about $250,000 in road development this summer.

Tuesday's discussions will determine what are the priority areas, said Reeve Gordon Wilman.

Summer works will include hard-top surfacing and reconstruction of gravel roads, he said.

Road construction was a campaign pledge of Reeve Wilman and his five-member council — each saying roads would be a 1975 priority.

Authority Ups Levy

Sidney Township's financial responsibility toward the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority more than doubled this year, it was learned at a township council meeting this week.

This year, the municipality will pay approximately $6,100 toward the operation of the conservation authority — the bulk of authority funds going to development of authority-owned property in Trenton and Stirling.

"They're like the school board," said Sidney Reeve Gord Wilman. "They set the price and you have to pay it."

City Share of Authority Budget 55.3 Per Cent

Belleville will pay almost $40,000 this year as the largest municipality in the Moira River Conservation Authority (MRCA).

This is 55.3 per cent of the total $60,300 being raised by the MRCA from its 17-member municipalities to cover operating costs.

The total MRCA budget will not emerge until all provincial government funding — the bulk of conservation financing — is known.

But the municipal levies are higher than last year. Belleville's $39,690 is an increase of nearly 50 per cent, Ald. Ben Corke noted in city council this week.

Total of MRCA local levies for 1975 is $60,300 — compared with $40,000 last year.

One explanation, said Ald. Paul Russell, is the MRCA has increased the area under its jurisdiction.

Debenture Issue Okayed For Ice-control Dams

One more step toward the reality of ice-control dams on the Moira River was taken this week when city council approved a bylaw for a $212,700 debenture issue to cover its share of building of the two dams.

Total cost of the project — by the Moira River Conservation Authority (MRCA) — is $1,022,000. The scheme will dam the river north of the Upper Bridge (Lott dam) and College St.

Such flood control — ice jams in the mouth of the Moira have caused some major downtown floods — ends years of discussion.

It was a fact noted with satisfaction by Mayor Robin Jeffrey.

Councils had talked about such measures since well before the 1950s, she said.

"And this council in its life will see these dams built," predicted the mayor.

Bay Access Sought by City

City council is again trying a successful route to get an access to the Bay of Quinte at Herchimer Ave.

It decided this week to ask the Moira River Conservation Authority to explore the possibility of buying the land — thus taking advantage of provincial grants available to the authority.

Such co-operative arrangements before have included Moira River in the city's northwest.

Cox Suggests City Hire Belleville Talent Only

Ald. Joe Cox wants city hall only to hire workers who reside in Belleville.

Mr. Cox made the suggestion to city council this week, saying he believes workers should reside within the municipality that hires them.

He introduced an order-of-motion to that effect. The suggestion will be debated by council in two weeks.

Mr. Cox suggested that after March 17, persons hired by the city should be its residents and continue to reside in the city during their municipal employment.

An exception, said Mr. Cox, would be when the city could not find a suitable applicant within city boundaries. In that case the city could go farther afield, he said.

Clocks Ahead April 27

Daylight Time this year starts April 27, city council decreed Monday night.

It ends Oct. 27, said terms of the standard bylaw which must be approved each year.

ISSUE OF $525,000,000
NON-CALLABLE
GOVERNMENT OF CANADA BONDS
DATED APRIL 1, 1975

Bank of Canada is authorized by the Minister of Finance to receive subscriptions for a loan, to be issued for cash as follows:

2 year 10 month 6¼% bonds due February 1, 1978
Issue price: 99.60%
Yielding about 6.40% to maturity

Interest payable August 1 and February 1
Four months' interest payable August 1, 1975
Denominations: $1,000, $5,000, $25,000, $100,000 and $1,000,000

and

5 year 6¼% bonds due April 1, 1980
Issue price: 98.50%
Yielding about 6.61% to maturity

Interest payable October 1 and April 1
Denominations: $1,000, $5,000, $25,000, $100,000 and $1,000,000.

Bank of Canada has agreed to acquire a minimum of $325 million of the new bonds, open as to maturity.

Proceeds of the offering will be used to redeem $225 million of Government of Canada 7½% bonds and $200 million of Government of Canada 6½% bonds maturing April 1, 1975 and for general purposes of the Government of Canada.

The new 6¼% bonds due April 1, 1980 are an addition to $200 million of 6¼% bonds due April 1, 1980 and dated April 1, 1971.

The new bonds will be dated April 1, 1975 and will bear interest from that date. Principal and interest are payable in lawful money of Canada. Principal is payable at any Agency of Bank of Canada. Interest is payable at any branch in Canada of any chartered bank without charge. Definitive bonds will be available on April 1, 1975 and thereafter in two forms: bearer form with coupons attached and fully registered form with interest payable by cheque. Bonds of both forms will be in the same denominations and fully interchangeable as to denomination and/or form without charge (subject to Government transfer requirements where applicable).

The new bonds are authorized pursuant to an Act of the Parliament of Canada and both principal and interest are a charge on the Consolidated Revenue Fund of Canada.

Applications for the new bonds may be made, subject to allotment, through any investment dealer eligible to act as a primary distributor or through any bank in Canada.

Braised Shoulder Lamb Chops

Serves 4

Shoulder chops are delicious when braised, especially if you season them first with salt and pepper. For a variation, add a dash of garlic salt, paprika, curry or top with a little butter and blue cheese. Or for an extra zesty taste, try this marinade:

Marinade:
¾ cup salad oil
6 tablespoons soya sauce
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 large onion, grated fine
3 tablespoons lemon juice

1. Blend ingredients together to make marinade.
2. Place 4 shoulder lamb chops in shallow pan or dish.
3. Pour mixture over chops and let stand for two hours overnight in refrigerator.
4. Turn chops so both surfaces are well-seasoned.
5. Then brown chops in small amount of hot fat.
6. Add ¼ to ½ cup of water or other liquid.
7. Cover and slowly cook on top of stove or in a moderate oven at 350°F.
8. Cook until fork tender, about ½ hour.

Any of the tender cuts of beef, lamb, veal, pork, or poultry may be roasted. You can use slow heat with no salt, no water, no pre-browning, no searing. This creates less shrinkage and grease-spattering than other methods. Set meat on a rack in a shallow roast pan in the centre of the oven, with fat side up, if shape permits. If the lean surface must be uppermost, spread with soft dripping to prevent drying. Use a small, shallow pan for a small roast; a deep-sided large pan increases the roasting time. A shallow broiling pan may be used for large cuts, but remove the broiling grid and replace with a smaller trivet or open cake rack. Pan drippings will take on a richer colour and, if basting is required, pan juices are readily accessible.

I think you'll enjoy this week's recipe. It's called Braised Shoulder Lamb Chops and it's perfect for a low cost meal.

MY GUIDE TO ROASTING LAMB, VEAL AND PORK

Meat	Oven Temperature	Minutes Per Pound	Internal Meat Temperature
Roast of Lamb
(boneless)	325°F.	35-45	175°-180°F.

Planning Ahead

The Salvation Army is preparing right now for its Red Shield Campaign in May. An official kick-off is planned for May 3 and the residential blitz is May 5. Taking part in the planning stages are Capt. Robert Slous, seated middle, looking at the plans next to Doreen Reid, left and Mrs. J.E. Marsh, right, both residential co-chairmen of the campaign. In the rear are Lt. Col. W.H. Sharpe, Rod Follwell, special names chairman left, and Gerry Brennan, right, general chairman of the campaign.

Britons Looking To Iran for Help

LONDON (AP) — Britain sees some hope of salvation for its ailing economy in oil-rich Iran.

In recent deals between businessmen and government representatives of the two countries, Iran is spending a great deal of the money it has earned from Britain for its oil.

The deals covered a wide spectrum of goods and services—from trucks and apartment houses to ships and school canteen meals.

One of the latest was announced Feb. 5 when a British firm said it had won a $4.8-million order to supply 10 lifeboats for the Iranian navy.

In a statement in the House of Commons announcing a trade pact with Iran estimated to be worth more than $1.2 billion Peter Shore, state secretary for trade, stressed the importance of the Iranian market.

"Iran is one of the fastest-growing economies in the world," he said. "With its ability to transform its oil wealth into major development of its industry, agriculture and infrastructure, it represents a market of first importance for Britain."

In a further statement Feb. 5, Shore said recent agreements signed, "including as they did a new program of joint ventures and major new areas of co-operation ranging from railway electrification to hospitals, offer wide scope for enterprise by very many people."

The pact centred on an agreement for Britain to build 15 freighters of around 20,000 tons each, an order for trucks from British Leyland Motor Co. and major rail electrification of the line between Tehran and Tabriz.

Trade between Iran and Britain pushed ahead after the two countries established a joint economic commission in 1972.

British exports to Iran rose to $667.2 million from $427.2 million in 1974. Iran's exports to Britain, 90 per cent of them oil, total $1.2 billion.

With deals like those recently signed British officials are confident the trade gap will narrow further and may even be eliminated providing there are no further oil price increases.

They stress this is not their main aim.

"We are a multilateral trading nation and if we have a deficit with one country we can make it up with some other," one official said.

Iran is not only interested in buying British goods. It is willing to pay for know-how, too.

In an effort to turn Tehran into a major world centre befitting its status as an important oil capital, the government plans to spend more than $3.1 billion on building a modern city inside Tehran's present central sprawl.

Operator of Fish Hatchery Finds Red Tape Plentiful

TRACEY MILLS, N.B. (CP) — Sometimes Harry Wolverton suspects that the denizens of his fish hatchery feed principally on red tape.

For three years, Mr. Wolverton has been trying to establish himself as a breeder of trout—speckled and rainbow varieties—and has hatched more correspondence with government authorities than fish.

"This all started as a hobby with a small pond in back of the house," said the Carleton County resident, standing in a small but modern fish hatchery near his home.

"It all began simply but grew up on me."

While it was growing into a $400,000 investment, Mr. Wolverton had to take time out for a court appearance and a series of negotiations with the provincial government.

"I have a market now for all the nine-and 10-inch trout I can produce. The only trouble is that the stores can't buy them from me or sell them to a customer because the Game Act forbids the sale of trout.

"At the time it was written, no one had thought that some day trout-rearing would be commercial. Now I have to get the government to change the act somehow so farm-raised trout can be sold."

With luck, a change in the law would remove the last of Mr. Wolverton's legal hurdles.

The first arose when he built a dam on his own land to provide a water supply for his hatchery. That brought him into court on a charg of damming a stream without the proper papers.

He solved that one by paying his fine and getting the required papers. Then he ordered 150,000 small trout from a supplier in the United States.

Once again he lacked the proper papers. The fish were seized at the border and destroyed.

"It's a learning game," Mr. Wolverton said. "We have had to do most of the trial and error on our own."

At present, he has a batch of fish eggs in trays beginning a cycle that will produce small trout by the end of March. Under ideal conditions, they will be marketable in about a year.

"We need wells to provide warmer water during the winter months. The stream water is about 30 degrees and the fish are sluggish and don't eat as much as in warmer water. They also grow slower."

He has tried to get the same land-clearing subsidies available to farmers of land crops but has been told by the province that he does not qualify. Now he is applying for equipment loans, so far without success.

"I've talked to politicians until I about gave up on them."

Malcolm McLeod, the new minister of agriculture, "is the only one who has given me encouragement that things might change."

All his problems haven't been with the government.

Predators such as mink and otter are a constant threat. They can cause heavy losses, especially if they get into the fish ponds covered for the winter.

The two-legged predator is never far away, either, and Mr. Wolverton said he has had a few fish poached since he started.

"We're planning to fence the area this year and get a guard dog to patrol at night."

Kingfishers gave him some trouble last year when they discovered the captive food supply but he has devised a netting to place over the pools.

Mr. Wolverton said disease also was a problem in the early stages.

"We learned a lot about fish diseases and how to treat them. In the beginning we overcrowded the fish but it's working out now.

"All the money and work in this now is ours. The only help we got was some advice from federal fisheries experts and we appreciated that.

Largest Tree in Ontario

Ontario's largest tree, a red oak growing in the centre of Niagara-on-the-Lake, has been attacked by insects and disease and needs expert care if it is to survive. The tree has a girth of 23 feet, three inches and is 107 feet high and is more than 700 years old. (CP Photo)

Ontario's Largest Tree Said 700 Years Old

NIAGARA - ON - THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP) — When Marco Polo met Kublai Khan in 1275, the red oak growing next to One Mile Creek in the centre of Niagara-on-the-Lake was already 25 years old.

Its gnarled and twisted trunk has grown since then. Today it is the largest tree in Ontario.

Its great, winding roots anchor a trunk that is more than 23 feet around. Its branches thrust 107 feet into the air.

While it still produces leaves in summer, the tree is beginning to make concessions to age. It has shed one of its three major trunk stems, a trunk the size of a 100-year-old maple.

Insects and disease have attacked the gaping wound left by the discarded trunk and the oak may soon die.

Ald. Harold Clement, a member of the Ontario Forestry Association, is urging that some public body assume the task of taking care of the old tree, which he says will last a few more centuries with systematic care.

"It needs a lot of work to preserve it or we'll lose it," he said. "The people who own the property can't be expected to take care of it by themselves. It would be just too expensive."

He said it would cost as much as $600 to preserve the tree.

Its main trunk must be banded together to prevent splitting and a large decayed portion must be cleaned of dead wood. Dead limbs must be removed and the tree may have to be supported with guide wires to prevent it from toppling over in a storm.

Throughout Ontario, other large trees are threatened by changing weather patterns, urban development, highway construction and disease.

In an attempt to foster interest in them, the Ontario Forestry Association has instituted a publicity program known as the Honor Roll of Canadian Trees.

Revised each year, the roll consists of the largest trees of every species found in the province. The trees must be alive, positively identified and accurately measured before they are included.

The Niagara Peninsula alone has 25 of the province's largest trees listed on the honor roll.

Open Department

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta is getting into the economic mainstream of Europe and the Mideast through a department of industry and commerce office in London, says Edgar Sarton, director of European operations for the department. He said Alberta is becoming "a world power" and its resources such as steel, coal and forest products are attracting interest.

Library Corner

This Guide to England completes the series of Shell guides to individual countries, which have already covered Scotland, Ireland and Wales. The pattern that has proved so successful in the earlier guides is repeated here; there is an introduction describing the country, its history and its chief features as a whole, and there is a gazeteer containing descriptions of the most interesting and beautiful places, arranged in alphabetical order.

A PORTRAIT OF JAPAN — Laurens Van Der Post.

Colonel Van Der Post first visited Japan as a young man in 1926. It was the first country he had known outside of Africa and its impact on him was overwhelming. During World War 11 he was a prisoner of the Japanese, and in 1960 he travelled through Japan again and it is of this visit he writes in "Portrait of Japan". He describes first, Tokyo, the head of Japan as he terms it, then Kyoto, its heart, and finally the "body", for example, Nara, once briefly the capitol and Nikku to the north on Kyushu, southernmost of the main islands. This portrait of Japan is a sensitive and perceptive insight of its country and people.

SAILING TO TIMBUCTOO — John Marriner.

After exploring the rocky coast of Algeria, where the Berber pirates had their lairs, in his yacht 'September Tide', John Marriner sets out by Range-Rover on a voyage of discovery into the Sahara and the desert world of the Algerian interior. Travelling through Mali, the Niger river is the highway which leads to Timbuctoo, the legendary centre of the desert trade in salt and gold. The author introduces us to the people who inhabit this inhospitable terrain and to their customs. The Berber Mozabites who are the traders of the Sahara, and especially to the Tuareg.

Look a Lion in the Eye — Kathryn Hulme.

In the autumn of 1971, Kathryn Hulme and two companions set off on a twenty-five hundred mile safari across Africa in a bone-shaking Land-Rover, photographing the animals and the natives and absorbing the impact of the great national parks of Kenya and Tanzania. The trio with their escort-driver Luke, journeyed from Nairobi to Samburu, (where they came face to face with their first lion), across the desert to Marsabit, the land of the biggest elephant on earth. They climbed Mount Kenya, explored Olduvai gorge, site of one of the world's greatest fossil lodes, and trekked northward again through Arusha and the Amboseli Game Reserve. All this was accomplished with two of the travellers in their seventies and the third a grandmother in her sixties.

ALASKA — Bern Keating.

Alaska dazzles the visitor with variety from the grandeur of glacier-studded mountain ranges to the excitement of growing cities; from fertile farmland where 70-pound cabbages grow to barren wind-blown wastes, and seemingly endless stands of timer. But the real adventure of Alaska emanates from her people, men and women as varied and strong as the land; sourdoughs and soldiers; courageous bush pilots and indomitable Eskimo hunters. In "Alaska", Bern Keating examines the State's exciting past and promising future. Beautifully illustrated throughout with almost 200 photographs.

Spice Is Drained from Life In West Berlin by Detente

WEST BERLIN (CP) — In a sense, success has spoiled West Berlin.

The western half of the former capital of the Reich is alive and well and still prospering 110 miles inside Communist East Germany but detente has drained much of the spice and adventure of life.

The young, the bored and the ambitious are slowly moving out, leaving a largely pension-age population and thousands of youthful foreign or "guest" workers who have flooded into prosperous West Germany for years.

Twenty-one per cent of the population here is over 65, compared with the national average of 12 per cent.

Because of the unfavorable death-birth ratio, the German population has dropped by around 15 per cent in 10 years, although much of this loss is made up by foreigners.

Now, however, unemployment is an emotional issue in West Germany. Moves are afoot to crack down on illegal residents already in the country and to tighten immigration regulations. With one million out of work, the unemployment rate is a near post-war record of five per cent and the rate is 6.3 per cent among the 2.5 million foreign workers.

West Berlin still stands in a sharp contrast with East Berlin, well-ordered but starkly mundane with its row on row of monotonous apartment blocks, its mirthless downtown, its well but not fashionably clad population. Nevertheless, East Berlin is a tribute to the work ethic that is a German national characteristic—and West Berliners are first to give full credit.

"For all the talk and publicity about post-war recovery in West Germany, the East Germans have done even a better job," says a middle-aged city functionary. "Their part of the city was the worst damaged in the war. And everything that was of any use was carted away by the Russian occupying forces. Everything they have they built from scratch."

Ironically, while West Berlin is modern and slick, East Berlin, at considerable extra expense, has recreated where possible replicas of famous pre-war buildings, bringing some pockets of relief from its pervasive drab-modern architecture.

For non-German tourists a visit to East Berlin is simple—by foot or by guided-tour bus—although passport inspection is said to be the most thorough in the world.

Because it is a controlled economy, there is virtually no unemployment and prices remain stable; health, education and transport services are excellent; the state pays a "baby bonus" and working mothers get extra time off for family chores.

Nonetheless, the urge to escape remains strong and the Berlin Wall remains intact. Its erection, commenced in the early hours of Aug. 13, 1961, was the ultimate measure East Germany could take to save itself from depletion, for from 1949 until then some 3.6 million refugees had fled into West Germany.

Some still make it, but the wall is dotted with hand-made memorials marking spots where would-be escapees were shot. It is estimated that about 80 per cent of those attempting it are caught and there is a thriving campaign here to raise funds to buy the release of such prisoners.

Twenty-five years after Stalin's Berlin blockade, the city still is crammed with reserves of food, coal and other goods against a similar emergency but that seems unlikely now.

There is a sort of nostalgia for that era when the Western world held its breath and Berliners struggled for survival within the icy grip of the Cold War. Older Berliners recall those bitter-sweet days of adventure when an armada of planes airlifted in supplies, even dumping coal from the skies into the city's sports fields.

Then Berlin was the show window of Western democracy in a Communist zone and, with all its hardships, many remember with pride the excitement of world attention.

Subsequently, the Berlin Wall in 1961 brought its drama and its parade of world leaders, including President John F. Kennedy with his emotional call from the Wall, "Ich bin ein Berliner."

But the 1972 four-power agreement brought peace and relative stability, making West Berlin a showplace of detente.

Life is simpler now, if duller. Travel to the rest of West Germany is commonplace and uncomplicated and even liberal visiting rights—more than 30 days a year—to relatives in the Eastern sector are permitted.

Helped by the Bonn government's subsidy of around $2 billion a year, West Berlin is a glamorous, sparkling city, its avenues a showplace of fashion, its stores bulging with expensive luxury goods, its smart restaurants and night spots the equal of most European capitals.

But with the federal government now centred in Bonn, and the affairs of big business conducted in other German cities, the young and the talented are lured away.

New Process Purifies Pulp Mill Effluent

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — Effluent produced by certain forest industry production processes can be effectively arrested by a patented treatment developed at the Dartmouth-based Nova Scotia Research Foundation (NSRF).

The new process, known as sea water-lime clarification, was developed for use in specific pulping processes.

Developed between 1970 and 1973, the process removes color and suspended solids from kraft mill effluents. It has also proved highly successful in reducing hardboard mill effluent.

Fred Brothers, director of the chemistry division of NSRF, said the system needs a local supply of sea water and would apply to plants within one mile of a seacoast.

For the process, sea water is used as an inexpensive source of magnesium. One part is mixed with 10 parts of effluent in a holding tank and lime is added.

Mr. Brothers explained that the lime causes the magnesium in sea water to solidify and the solid product extracts color and any suspended effluent fibres. The compound then settles to the bottom of the tank.

The resulting slime is pumped through a filtered vacuum system which removes the water and leaves behind the solids, which are either buried in the ground or burned to produce usable magnesium oxide and lime.

Mr. Brothers said there would be a ready market for the magnesium oxide and the lime could be reintroduced into the effluent purifying process.

Most of the damaging pollutants in the effluent are suspended solids such as bark and wood fibres, soluble organics, toxic substances and color.

Mr. Brothers said tests in the kraft process have produced an 80-per-cent color reduction and total elimination of suspended solids while hardboard effluent color has been reduced 90 per cent and solids 98 per cent.

Start New Course

EDMONTON (CP) — University of Alberta has started a new program for senior citizens which will allow the elderly to take courses ranging from creative writing to living on a reduced income, at no direct cost to themselves. They can also take courses for credit under a special fee-rebate system. The May 5-23 program, a joint venture of the university's extension department and special sessions office, will be financed by a $20,000 government grant.

Steel Supplies Improve

EDMONTON (CP) — Steel supplies for construction projects in Alberta are expected to be good this year. "Things have improved over last year when there was a steel shortage," reports Thorsten Gaul, Alberta manager for the Canadian Institute of Steel Construction. "This year the availability is up and because of that prices have come down a little."

Study Pollution

CALGARY (CP) — A low-flying helicopter and weather balloons are being used over Calgary as part of an air-pollution study program. The helicopter flies over designated parts of the city and is equipped to record temperatures and measure the concentrations of carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxides. The weather balloons measure wind and air temperatures.

Pearl Harbor Memorial Memorable Experience

HONOLULU (CP) — There is always lots to do in Hawaii. Any list of activities would include surfing, swimming, golf — 14 courses—hula shows, glass-bottom boat tours, flying in gliders, sunset sails, museums, dining on seafood in glamorous restaurants, shopping in elegant stores and sight-seeing trips that take in Hawaiian and Polynesian villages, sugar and pineapple plantations, the royal palace and state capital.

But after the final aloha, it is none of these things, but a uniquely Hawaiian experience that remains in the mind — the United States Naval Memorial at Pearl Harbor.

It was 7.55 on Sunday morning Dec. 7, 1941, that Japanese torpedo planes, bombers and fighters began their attack on the U.S. Pacific fleet here.

When they withdrew they had destroyed aircraft at Wheeler Field and blown up battleships lined up in Battleship Row-the Arizona, West Virginia, Oklahoma and Utah. In all, 18 ships were sunk or damaged, 2,341 servicemen were dead and 1,143 wounded. U.S. Mid-Pacific naval power was crippled.

Pearl Harbor is out past Waikiki Beach along Nimitz Highway and can be reached by city bus.

The Arizona was hit by a 1,000-pound delayed-action bomb which entered its aviation fuel storage tank. The explosion raised the bow in the air and when it came down the ship broke in halves.

The memorial is a stark white building 184 feet long resting on pilings above the sunken ship, which lies 38 feet below on the rock bottom of Pearl Harbor. The monument looks as if it is floating on the water. The building dips in the middle, signifying defeat, and rises up to 21 feet at each end, symbolizing final victory. The Stars and Stripes fly at full mast.

A sculpture of the tree of life is a symbol of survival. Red buoys mark the bow and stern of the vessel and the ship's gun mounts and ventilator shafts are above water. At low tide the barnacle-encrusted steel tomb of the 1,177 men who died in the Arizona, can be seen.

The monument is divided into three sections with a large assembly area for services. A memorial service is held every Dec. 7. On display in another room are photographs taken by the Japanese navy of the bombings, posters from the Second World War crests of the ships and pictures of the surrender of Japan on the Missouri at Tokyo Bay in 1945. The third room is a shrine with the names of the Arizona dead engraved on a marble wall.

The waterborne USS Arizona memorial is small in comparison with battlefield memorials in the U.S. such as Gettysburg but it makes an impact. Tourists file through the rooms solemnly, studying the displays. Japanese visitors are impassive. Many Americans identify with the various ships and recount all they know of them to their friends.

In the parking lot back on land a cab driver looking for business began to talk.

"I came to Hawaii as a boy from the Philippines and I'll never forget that morning," he said. "I joined the navy as soon as I could afterwards. I'm glad the memorial is here, otherwise most people would forget about Pearl Harbor.

"It was all so carefully planned. They had spies up on that hill guiding them in with lights. Lots of Japanese tourists come out here and they are quiet and seem sad about it.

"They did a lot of destruction and killed many men but they missed three important things: they didn't hit the naval base itself; they didn't touch the submarine base, and they didn't bomb the fuel storage tanks. There was enough fuel in them to last three years. And they didn't realize their sneak attack would shock and unite the country into war and bring about their defeat."

In addition to running the shuttle boats to the Arizona Memorial, the U.S. Navy conducts a tour with narration around the harbor, which lasts an hour. The tour takes in Battleship Row, the shipyard, piers, the submarine base as well as the memorial. More than a million people visit the memorial annually.

Munro Returns Treated Kindly

OTTAWA (CP) — John Munro, who celebrated his 44th birthday Sunday, returned to the Commons Tuesday after three weeks in seclusion following a parliamentary battering over the Hamilton harbor scandal.

The labor minister, exhausted when he went into hospital for 11 days earlier this month, looked rested and fit and said he is ready to resume his duties.

He received an ovation from Liberal MPs as he entered the House and another as he fielded the first of several questions about labor disputes.

He was not asked about the Hamilton affair, which has developed since 1972 from allegations of local corruption to charges last week that 13 companies and 14 individuals conspired to cheat taxpayers of more than $4 million on dredging contracts. Five of the 13 companies are to be arraigned in court here today.

The questioning in the Commons Tuesday about the Hamilton harbor scandal or the dredging charges was the lightest it has been recently. Most of the questions involved Mr. Munro, although none were directed to him.

John Gilbert (NDP—Toronto Broadview) asked Transport Minister Jean Marchand whether former Hamilton harbor commissioners Joseph Lanza and Delbert Hickey were reappointed on Mr. Munro's recommendation.

Mr. Marchand said the reappointments were made by the minister of transport. Former transport minister Don Jamieson, now running the regional economic expansion department, said he had not discussed the Lanza-Hickey reappointments with Mr. Munro.

They were reappointed for six month terms in 1973 after Kenneth Elliott, the Hamilton city appointee, was removed from the commission by Hamilton city council. Mr. Marchand said that with Mr. Elliott facing charges, it was decided to shorten the normal term for the other two.

Mr. Gilbert had asked whether the decision was based on RCMP information. Mr. Marchand said there was no proof they were involved in Hamilton waterfront corruption, which ranged all the way from smuggling to alleged bid-rigging.

Takeovers Approved

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has approved the takeover by foreign firms of 12 Canadian companies and turned down two other proposals under the Foreign Investments Review Act, Industry Minister Alastair Gillespie announced Tuesday.

This brings to about 80 the number of foreign firms that have been given the go-ahead to acquire Canadian concerns after submitting plans to the foreign investment review agency.

CP News Roundup

Couples Rescued

WARREN, Ont. (CP) — Two Temagami, Ont., couples, stranded for two nights in the bush in sub-zero temperatures, returned home Tuesday with their three rescuers.

The seven were the object of a provincial police air search in an area 40 miles north of here until they telephoned that they were home safely.

Police said two brothers and their wives—Horace Renaud, 39, and his wife Folange, 32, Guy Renaud, 35, and his wife Joan, 24,—left their homes by snowmobile Friday for a fishing trip. They were expected to return Sunday.

An unidentified friend hired a private airplane when the couples failed to appear Sunday. The Renauds were sighted Monday and waved a gasoline can, indicating their four snowmobiles had run out of fuel.

Too Concerned

WELLAND, Ont. (CP) — Parents are more concerned than they need to be about what is happening in provincial schools today, Ontario Education Minister Thomas Wells said Tuesday.

Mr. Wells, who opened the $500,000 addition to Notre Dame college school, said changes, such as the implementation of the high school credit system, are needed to prepare young persons for the future.

Witnesses Halted

OTTAWA (CP) — While members of the joint Commons-Senate committee studying a report on employer-employee relations in the public service waited patiently in a senate committee room Tuesday night, a small band of demonstrators prevented witnesses from appearing before the committee.

Leaders of the Letter Carriers' Union of Canada refused to cross a picket line established by the union's office employees outside the Commons forcing the committee to adjourn.

The eight office employees, represented by the Office and Professional Employees International Union, who picketed the union's headquarters earlier in the day, were protesting the permanent appointment of a casual worker

PM Optimistic

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday he is "cautiously optimistic" that a consensus to hold down inflation can be reached among business, government and labor leaders.

He was responding in the Commons to Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield and George Hees (PC—Prince Edward-Hastings) who questioned the worth of anti-inflation talks the government has been holding for several months with spokesmen for "the principal sectors of society."

Supply More Food

ROME (Reuter) — Canada announced Tuesday that it will quadruple its contribution to the world food program for 1975.

Growth Is Real

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Claude Bennett, Ontario minister of industry and tourism, predicted Tuesday that real growth in Ontario this year will be two to four per cent.

Speaking to a group of California businessmen, he said that in Ontario "we have not talked ourselves into a recession.' The province has confidence in intermediate and longer-term prospects.

Could Help More

TORONTO (CP) — Canada can do more in the way of foreign aid, Premier William Davis said in the legislature Tuesday.

The premier said he is arranging to meet with a group of representatives from various churches to discuss Ontario's participation in foreign aid programs.

National Petroleum Company Is Opposed

OTTAWA (CP)—Progressive Conservative and New Democratic MPs renewed their attack Tuesday on the Trudeau government's proposed national petroleum company.

But they were poles apart in their reasons for doing so as debate resumed on a bill to create the company to be called Petro-Canada.

Cyril Symes (NDP-Sault St. Marie) said federal energy policies guarantee that the company will be a token operation unable to participate fully in all sectors of the oil industry. Instead of restricting Petro-Canada operations to exploration and research as the government plans, the company should be used to take over private multinational companies, he argued.

As a minimum objective, Petro-Canada should buy out Imperial Oil, the largest petroleum corporation in Canada, he said.

Peter Bawden (PC-Calgary South), a millionaire oil driller and staunch opponent of government intrusion into the industry, said the NDP might get its way. He called the bill part of a secret government strategy to take control of the entire industry eventually.

Harvie Andre (PC-Calgary Centre) predicted that the $3 billion to $6 billion forecast cost of setting up the company will balloon to $50 billion before the government is finished.

"It is downright irresponsible for any member of this House to give a government agency the authority to spend that amount of our money in an activity about which it knows very little."

Payments Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Payments of unemployment insurance benefits during January rose 24 per cent from a year earlier to $307 million, Statistics Canada reported Tuesday.

Payments in January a year ago were $249 million.

Vote For Radio

LONDON (CP) — Proceedings of the House of Commons will be broadcast on radio for a trial period of about a month, probably soon after Easter. The House voted by a big majority in favor of the experiment, but rejected by 12 votes a proposal for televising of its debates.

Lewis Says PC Collapse Near

TORONTO (CP) — The government of Ontario, which has failed to provide political leadership, to identify issues or to provide answers, is approaching the verge of collapse, Stephen Lewis, leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party, told the legislature Tuesday.

"You careen from error to error," he told a dozen members of the government who were in their seats to listen to his response to last Tuesday's speech from the throne.

In a two-hour speech the leader of the minority NDP said the public is tired of the government's posturing and rhetoric.

Frankie on the Mend

A miserable day early in December, 1974 to the beautiful weather we've experienced lately, has brought us all a touch of melancholy followed by a burst of sunlight, the hint of spring and better things to come.

That's winter. And we've grown accustomed to it.

So long as we can expect March will bring better things, as it has again this time around, the drudgery that accompanies snow, cold, freezing rain and the rest, can somehow be tolerated.

It's been all that and more for the Kelleher family, 13 Geddes Ave.

Since seven-year-old Frankie was seriously injured in an accident, December 2, 1974, the Kellehers have had reason to despair . . . found their sagging spirits lifted by people who cared . . . and finally, gratefully, seen the youngster well on the road to recovery.

Al Kelleher is very much a part of the sports picture, especially in this area.

If explanations are necessary, that's the reason his and the family's) experiences of the past weeks are recounted here.

Especially with Easter approaching, the story is a timely one. And should cause us all to pause and reflect.

But let the Kellehers tell it:

"Shirley and I and our family thank all those who phoned us, sent cards and letters to our son Frankie after his accident and while he was in Belleville General Hospital and Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto.

"We are very thankful for all the prayers that were said for him by our friends, the priests, the church congregations, and the children in the schools.

"Special thanks to Dr. Peterkin and Dr. Green whose ability saved Frankie's foot. The kindness of the nurses in pediatrics is also appreciated.

"We will never forget Roger Young, the bus driver, who put in the call for the ambulance: Brenda Sine and the two young women; Mrs. Adams and the ambulance attendants who looked after our son at the scene of the accident.

"Harold Reid, the City Police, and the Railroad Police deserve our thanks for their consideration at a very difficult time.

"We would like to tell you all that Frankie is fine but will have to wear a brace and learn to walk again.

"He has returned to school and with God's help will continue to grow up and be a normal little boy."

It should be added here that since Al and Shirley sent this thank you along, Frankie had to return to Sick Children's Hospital. But it's only a matter of having his brace adjusted.

Frankie's got plenty going for him.

He'll make it.

SLICES — Trenton's minor bantams are the second Ontario Minor Hockey Association representative from that community to advance to semi-final playoff competition.

The Red Manley-coached team opens its next series in Newmarket Friday at 8 p.m. The teams meet in the second game at Trenton Community Gardens, Sunday at 7 p.m.

Baseball in eastern Ontario got another boost in the right direction on the weekend when Oshawa's Jim Lutton was elected president of the Ontario Baseball Association (OBA).

Long active in the Eastern Ontario Baseball Association Lutton joins Newtonville's Grant Wade on the OBA executive. Wade, Jack Lee of Thorold, and Keith Weese, Corunna, were elected vice-presidents.

For the first time, OBA teams will be permitted to use magnesium bats this year.

Belleville's Ontario Minor Hockey Association midget representatives, the Yardmen Minors and Lions Majors will be part of the annual Golden Hawk Tournament at Trenton.

Both squads are tentatively scheduled for action on the first day of the tourney, Saturday.

Lions are written in for an 8.30 a.m. tournament opener with Trenton's Minor Midgets. Yardmen get their first taste of action at 3.30 p.m. when they hook up with Nepean Majors.

Thirty-two teams are entered and organizers stress the competition will be tough.

Best Team Ever Says Mets' Berra

By YOGI BERRA
Manager, New York Mets

Although I may be putting myself out on a limb, I honestly believe we have the potential to be the best team in Met history this year. The way I see it. The one real question mark is the bullpen. I know there's a feeling in some quarters that the trading of Tug McGraw will make us more vulnerable there.

I'm not trying to knock Tug, who meant so much and did so much for us, but to be realistic about it, the bullpen is where we got hurt the most last year. If Mac Scarce, who was part of the McGraw deal, can come back to his Philadelphia form of two years ago we'll be all right for quality relief pitching.

As for the positives: There's no question we're improved at our two most troublesome spots — third base and centerfield — with the acquisitions of Joe Torre, Del Unser and Gene Clines. Right now Torre figuares at third. He gives us the one more big bat we've needed for a long time. And maybe of equal importance is the fact that we can get so much out of him. We can use him at first base, and in an emergency, catch.

For the first time since I took over a manager we'll be in a position to make moves. John Milner can switch from first base to left field during the game when a spot comes up, and so can Ed Kranepool, who incidentally is coming off the best year he's ever had. Wayne Garrett is a reliable back-up at three infield positions.

Felix Millan's a pro's pro at second base. And when Harrelson's healthy there's no better shortstop around. Buddy's the guts of our infield.

The power is going to have to come from Milner, Jones — and a lot depends on how he came through knee surgery —, Rusty Stauo and Torre. Another big plus is the speed Joe McDonald picked up in Unser and Clines, and Jorge Roque, who we drafted as an outfield candidate.

Maybe we don't have too much pitching (you never really have, anyway), but what's wrong with Seaver, Koosman and Matlack for a Big Three? You'd have to concede Seaver can be expected to improve on his 1974 win total of 11; Jerry Koosman appears to be back in his 1969 groove, and Matlack may be the best lefthander in the league.

If George Stone and Craig Swan can shake off arm problems we'll be in good shape for a fourth starter. If necessary, Bob Apodaca can fill the bill, but he's so valuable in the bullpen I'd rather use him as a game-saver. Harry Parker should be able to pick up for Ray Sadecki as a double duty man who can start and relieve.

Behind the plate we're solid with Jerry Grote, on Hodges and Johnny Stearns will battle it out for the No. 2 catching spot.

Carrying Place Sets the Pace In Recreation

CARRYING PLACE — The youth program conducted by the Carrying Place Recreation Association since 1966 is a success story in sports projects that could serve as an example for other associations to follow.

Carrying Place a divided hamlet — (population approximately 400) situated within the boundaries of Ameliasburg and Murray townships reflects evidence that great amounts of youth interest can be produced and sustained when adult dedication and unselfish effort is motivated regardless of the size of the community.

In developing their minor sports program the association has been dealing with growth in activities year after year.

Last summer, softball sponsored by the community-fostered organization attracted 160 youngsters between the ages of five and 17. As a result 10 teams representing different age groups were organized from the enrolment. The association provided coaches, necessary equipment and transportation for all scheduled games during the season and the playoffs.

However, expansion caused some problems near the end of the season.

When the two softball diamonds maintained by the association proved inadequate to handle crowded playoff commitments, a concerned executive decided to build a third playing field in 1975.

Observed association president Fred Yardy: "Prospects that more youngsters could be enrolled in the program another year was the main factor that influenced our decision. It was the only way we could see there would be no more complications and disappointments due to lack of regulation facilities."

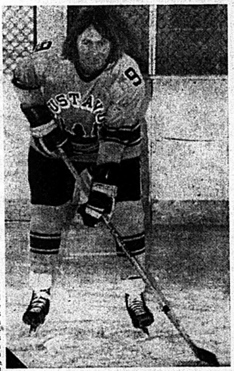
Construction of the new diamond gets under way in earnest when the frost is out of the ground according to Mr. Yardy. It is to be located west of the junction of County Road 3 (the Rednersville Road) and 33 Highway. It is one of the several recreation facilities planned for the more than seven acres south of the government post office and was a gift to the association from the estate of the late Vernon Westfall, who operated the general store here. Included in the facility will be a building for the storage of sports equipment and washrooms available to players and fans.

The Association, in its endeavors so far, has depended a great deal on parent interest. The president pointed out, however, that the task of managing and coaching the youngsters falls on the shoulders of the same adults each year and is a perennial problem the executive has to contend with. He said he foresees increased adult participation with the additional softball playground in operation.

The Association's executive also looks for more parent involvement when tennis courts and a picnic area is provided for families in the community in keeping with future plans already approved for the proposed recreation complex.

Financial support for the Association comes mostly from the townships of Ameliasburg and Murray. Since youngsters from both municipalities receive equal opportunity to benefit from the organized recreation the locally based group supplies. In addition, the association raises funds on its own, operating a lottery under a municipal licence and by other ways and means.

For example: the profits from a dance the association is holding in the Masonic Hall in Consecon on Saturday March 22 goes toward the cost of the new softball diamond.



John Mulvihill

BMHA Product College All-star

Special to The Intelligencer

ST. PETER, Minnesota — John Mulvihill of Belleville, a three-year member of the Gustavus Adolphus College varsity hockey squad, was honored twice recently for his fine play this season.

For his consistent play, operating at a blueline position, the Golden Gusties' ace received a berth on the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (MIAC) team. And for his sterling performance in the National Hockey Tournament, he was named to the All-Tournament team.

The Golden Gusties started the season with only two returning defencemen. John was one of them. He was given the responsibility of anchoring the young defensive corps, lending it his consistency and maturity.

Mulvihill's success must be measured in the success of the team: another MIAC title and a second place finish in the National Tournament.

Not flashy and not noted as a prolific scorer, John did finish the season with 20 points on two goals and 18 assists. His all-round play earned him a spot on the All - Conference team.

Tournament competition saw John play some of his best hockey of the season. It was here that his fine ability and talents were magnified. Sportscasters and broadcasters covering the tournament voted him to the All-Tournament team.

John will be returning to Gustavus next season for his final year. He should be better than ever which can only spell "optimism" for the Gusties.

John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mulvihill.

Looking For Wins

STIRLING — Ontario Minor Hockey Association playoffs are scheduled at the arena here, Friday night and village teams will be attempting to even semi-final series.

In a 7 p.m. match Stirling Legion Peewees, 4-2 loser in Stroud, Tuesday night in the best of five series opener, get a chance to even things.

At 9 p.m., Riverside Structures Bantams hook up with Maple in the second game of their playoff set. Maple took the opener at home, Monday, 5-3.

Nicholson Produces Strongest Squad Ever for '75 OFSAA

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

Come Thursday, Gary Duggan and his Nicholson Catholic College Senior Basketball team will be in the thick of a battle for the Ontario Federation of Secondary School Athletics (OFSSA) 'A' Championship.

Two weeks ago Duggan's prodigies earned the right to represent Central Ontario in the all-Ontario playoffs at Staynor Collegiate in Collingwood.

The Central Ontario Secondary School Athletics (COSSA) title was the second senior and the fourth in his nine years of coaching at Nicholson. He guided a midget squad to a COSSA title in 1967-68 and then won the senior Central Ontario championship with the same team in 1971-72. Last year he coached a junior team to the COSSA crown and in its first year of senior, the same team has repeated that feat.

"I feel we should be in the top two or three teams in the province," said Duggan, "this is a better senior team than I went to OFSSA with a few years ago and we finished third then."

Belleville is well represented in senior basketball this season. Going to AA OFSSA is Brian MacKenzie's Belleville Collegiate (BCI) squad and Jim Murray's Quinte Saints are on their way to AAA OFSSA.

Those two coaches disagree with Duggan's estimation of his team. They consider the Nicholson Nicks not among the best, but the best A team in the province.

In total, the Nicks had a season record of 39 wins and eight losses. They entered nine tournaments this season, took the Grand Championships of five, won the Consolation title of one, were runners-up to the Grand Champions in a seventh and were beaten out of two tourneys in the semi-finals. Both semi-final losses were to Quinte. Not a bad record for a school with only 450 students enrolled.

Of the eight losses incurred by the Nicks, three were to Quinte and three were to BCI, one was to Oshawa Eastdale (whom they later in the season beat quite handily) and the other was a one-point loss to Kingston Collegiate in the final of the KCVI Tournament.

Nicholson's success is due not only to the strength and ability of the team, but also to the convictions of the coach.

"I've always maintained that the best offence is a good defence," said Duggan, "when a team is able to stop its opponent from scoring their own offence will take care of itself."

All year the Nicks have played a 2-3 zone defence. They revert to a 3-2 zone though, when playing strong ball-handling teams like Quinte and BCI.

"We force teams to stay outside and shoot," said the Nicks' coach, "we let them have the outside shot and then we clear our boards and work a fast break."

Duggan's defensive plan works even better when he operates it with two of the best rebounders in the Bay of Quinte area. Jeff Boyle and Dale Wilson are next to unbeatable under the defensive boards.

The offence takes care of itself most adequately since Duggan has five starters capable of hitting double figures every game.

That isn't where his strength ends however. His bench probably has as much, or more strength than any other school in the area.

"I have at least three substitutes who can come off the bench and do the job well," he said.

That's not bad considering most teams worry about having what's known as a sixth starter — one player who can do the job consistently. In most games Duggan plays his bench for more than two quarters.

"I use my subs quite frequently," said the coach, "and I never think twice about it."

No matter what happens at Staynor Collegiate on Thursday and Friday, and from the looks of things all that can happen is the best, Duggan and the Nicholson seniors will be right back battling for the top next year. Nearly all of his players are first year seniors and they'll be returning next season.

Gander, Payne Team To Lead the Field

Quinte Auto Sports Club of Belleville got its "Rides of March" rally on the books on the weekend after inclement weather caused a one-week postponement.

One of the checkpoints had to be "scrubbed" due to impassable roads but 13 of the 15 entries completed the course.

First place went to the team of Bev Gander, driver, and navigator Derek Payne who finished with only 13 penalty points.

Driver Larry Giles and navigator John Conner were next in line with 18 penalty points.

Two entries shared third place.

Ed Rickards and Keith Anderson tied with Bernard Yardley and Ben Thompson with 22 penalty points each.

Loyalist Rinks Well Off the Pace

PETERBOROUGH (Special) — Director of Physical Education at Loyalist College, Rob Stinson, claims his mens' and women's curling rinks aren't consistent enough. And after the Ontario College Athletics Association (OCAA) championships here, on the weekend, the point won't be disputed.

His men's rink was the defending Ontario champion going into the bonspiel, but came out with a sixth place finish. There were eight rinks entered. The Loyalist women's rink finished fourth.

"The name of the game is consistency, but we're not consistent" said Stinson.

Mohawk College, Hamilton, won the OCAA men's crown and Rouyn won the women's title. In the mixed event (Loyalist was not represented) Sheridan College, from Oakville, finished first.

Birt's Moves Two Up

RICHMOND HILL (Special) — Trenton Birt's Handy Stand took a 2-0 lead in the Ontario Minor Hockey Association Juvenile AA semi-final series with an 8-5 win over Richmond Hill Rams here Tuesday night but the winners had coach Roger Drake a little upset before it was all over.

Drake was a spectator at this one, as was Rams' coach Len Campbell. They earned one-game rests when their clubs surpassed the 36-minute limit for penalties in a wild Sunday opener at Trenton won by Birt's 10-5.

"After we take a lead, we seem to sit back and wait for things to happen instead of making them happen," was Drake's complaint.

He was referring to the fact that his club blew a 5-2 lead, when Rams fought back to get on even terms in the third period.

Birt's skaters had it when they needed it. After relinquishing that three-goal lead, the trenton team responded by rapping in three of their own to wrap it up.

Bob Thompson, a three-goal shooter for the visitors, sparked the comeback with a pair of counters. His final goal came in the last minute with his squad short two men through penalties, and the Rams' goalie out in favor of an extra attacker.

Checking in with two Trenton goals was Dave Lewis. Rick Matheson potted his 50th of the season while Bruce Leedham and Bob Cameron also collected one each.

Oakley took care of two Rams' goals. Singles went to Switzer, Robinson and McCullough.

The winners drew 30 minutes in penalties to 14 for Rams.

Game 3 goes at Trenton's Community Gardens, Thursday night at 8 p.m. The teams are in Richmond Hill Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

Bus tickets for the Sunday game will be available from Birt's assistant manager Don Taylor, at the Gardens in Trenton, Thursday night.

Norm Tetlock

Industrial Loop Executive Named

The Belleville Industrial Softball League elected its new table officers Tuesday night, and all, but one, of the faces were new ones.

Norm Tetlock, from the Lenders ball club, was elected president. He is the only returning executive member. His vice-president, Eric Williams, is from The Intelligencer. Brian Carley, secretary-treasurer, and Rick Sullivan, the new registrar, are both from UIC. The convener, Joe Scott, is from Brooke Bond.

The convener's position is a new one on the executive. Last year the secretary and treasurer were separate elected table officers. The two jobs were combined this year so that the convener's position could be an elected rather than an appointed one.

Tie Islanders

3-point Lead For Canucks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver Canucks edged ahead in the tight National Hockey League Smythe Division race Tuesday night but coach Phil Maloney was not entirely satisfied.

Vancouver rallied to tie New York Islanders 4-4, putting the Canucks three points in front of Chicago Black Hawks and St. Louis Blues who share second spot after the Blues moved up to tie Chicago with a 5-2 win over Pittsburgh Penguins.

The Canucks had moved two points in front of the Hawks with a win in Chicago on Sunday.

"It would have been nice to be able to pick up four points in two games on the road but three is OK, too;" said Maloney.

In two other NHL games Tuesday, Philadelphia Flyers beat Washington Capitals 7-2 while Los Angeles Kings defeated Minnesota North Stars 5-3.

Coach Al Arbour of the Islanders, who are trying to hold off Atlanta Flames in the fight for the third and final playoff spot in the Patrick Division, was also only half-satisfied with the tie.

"I would have been more satisfied with the two points that goes with a win, but I'll take the one," said Arbour.

The one point put the third-place Islanders seven points ahead of Atlanta.

After the first period ended in a 2-2 deadlock, the Islanders went ahead 4-3 in the second but Don Lever's second goal of the game and 30th of the season at 13:16 of the third period gave Vancouver the tie.

Gerry O'Flaherty also scored twice for the Canucks who stayed over in New York for a game tonight against the Rangers.

The Canucks learned Tuesday that centre Chris Oddleifson will be out of action indefinitely with a broken jaw suffered in Sunday's game at Chicago.

Philadelphia pushed its Patrick Division lead over the Rangers over Washington. victory over Washington.

Rick MacLeish led the Flyers with three goals, including two in the second period when Philadelphia scored four times.

A crowd of 18,130 at Landover, Md., turned out to see the Capitals skate through their 60th loss in 71 games. The 60 losses tied the league record set by the Islanders in the 1972-73 season.

A large number of the fans were obviously from Philadelphia, judging from the cheering the Flyers drew.

At St. Louis, Garry Unger and Pierre Plante each scored their 30th goals of the season to lead the Blues against Pittsburgh.

Mike Murphy scored two goals and assisted on another score by Bob Berry in the Kings' victory over Minnesota. Murphy ran his season goal total to 28.

Bill Goldsworthy scored his 3rd of the season for Minnesota.

Voyageurs Trail Americans by Two

Nova Scotia Voyageurs continued their pursuit of second place in the Northern Division of the American Hockey League with a 5-3 win Tuesday night over Springfield Indians.

The Voyageurs now trail Rochester Americans by two points in the fight for second place. Springfield, with 67 points, is two ahead of New Haven Nighthawks in a battle for the fourth and final playoff spot in the Northern Division.

In the only other league game Tuesday, Virginia Red Wings stopped Hershey Bears 5-3.

Peter Sullivan, Mike Bushuk and Guy Delparte scored third-period goals to lead Nova Scotia to victory before 2,255 fans at Halifax.

Hopes Fade

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kingston Canadians saw their hopes of catching the eighth and final playoff spot dampened Tuesday with a third-period three-goal rally by St. Catharines Black Hawks.

The Hawks came back from a 3-2 second-period deficit to edge Kingston 5-4 in the Canadians' last game in the regular season of the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A.

Kingston remains one point ahead of ninth-place London Knights, who have three games left to play. Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds with two games in hand trail Kingston by three points.

In other games, Hamilton Fincups dumped Ottawa '67s 10-4, Sudbury Wolves downed the Sault 6-1 and Oshawa Generals outscored Kitchener Rangers 7-4.

Play resumes Thursday with Kitchener meeting Peterborough Petes, Ottawa visiting St. Catharines and Sault Ste. Marie entertaining London.

At Kingston, a crowd of 3,935 watched Gary McAdam score twice for the Hawks while Willie Plett, Mark Fiorentino and Rick Adduono got the others.

Alex Forsyth, with two, Rob Plumb and Tony McKegney replied for Kingston, which outshot the sixth-place Hawks 46-40.

Fincups 10 '67s 4

Hamilton ended its regular season with Dale McCourt breaking a club goal-scoring record before a home crowd.

McCourt's three-goal performance brought his season total to 53, one more than the record set by Danny Lawson in the 1967-68 season.

Dave Norris also scored three goals for Hamilton. Greg Hickey, Glen Richardson, Ric Seiling and Greg Clause got the others.

Ottawa goals went to Warren Holmes, Tom McDonell, Bruce Baker and Rick Bourbonnais.

The second-place Fincups led 3-1 and 6-2 after the periods and outshot fourth-spot Ottawa 48-34.

Wolves 6 Greyhounds 1

Four unanswered goals in the third period cushoned the lead for Sudbury which had built up period margins of 2-0 and 2-1.

Bob Russell and Ron Duguay each scored two apiece for Sudbury while Randy Carlyle and Hec Marini added the others.

Romano Carlucci scored for the Sault, outshot 56-34 before a crowd of 3,693 in Sudbury.

Generals 7 Rangers 4

Joe Kowal and Greg Malone each scored twice to lead the scoring and tighten Oshawa's hold on the seventh spot.

The Generals remain two points behind St. Catharines and have one game remaining.

Other Oshawa goals went to Larry Murphy, Brad Dillon and Paul Gardner.

Claude Noel, Joe Fortunato, Bob Schnurr and Marc Thiel replied for last-place Kitchener, which held a 3-2 first-period lead but trailed 7-3 going into the final 20 minutes.

The Generals outshot the home team 48-44 before 1,975 fans.

Oilers Take Aim on Playoffs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Edmonton Oilers, bidding for a playoff spot in the World Hockey Association Canadian Division and perhaps, even second spot ahead of Toronto Toros, made an auspicious start Tuesday night by upsetting the division-leading Quebec Nordiques.

The 8-5 victory moved the Oilers back into third place, one point ahead of fourth-place Vancouver Blazers who lost 5-3 to Minnesota Fighting Saints.

Edmonton now is nine points behind the Toros who are idle for the next week while the Oilers play three games.

Tuesday's other WHA game saw Phoenix Roadrunners beat Chicago Cougars 7-3.

Edmonton has been plagued by injuries and inconsistency most of the season but team captain Al Hamilton said after Tuesday's game that the club has no time for excuses if they want to make the playoffs.

"They have to do it on the ice," said Hamilton, who has been out most of the season with a bad knee.

Then Hamilton pointed to Bruce MacGregor and said: "There's one guy who never complains. He just plays."

MacGregor scored two goals Tuesday night, added two assists and had several more chances.

AL HAMILTON

Bill Hunter, Oilers general manager-coach, said the key was that his club came back after losing its four-goal first-period lead.

The score was tied 4-4 when MacGregor started his scoring late in the second period. Ed Joyal also had two goals and two assists and rookie Doug Kerslake added two goals for the Oilers.

Marc Tardif scored twice for Quebec.

The Cougars had a 33-second letdown in the second period after they had whittled a 3-0 deficit to 3-2. But goals by Murray Keogan and John Gray opened the floodgates to the Phoenix win.

Keogan, Gray, and Pete McNamee each finished with two goals for Phoenix.

Ted Hampson, Blake Ball and Wayne Connelly each had a goal and an assist in leading Minnesota past Vancouver.

Connelly opened the scoring then set up George Morrison's 30th goal of the season six minutes later.

Mike Walton scored into an empty net for the Fighting Saints after Vancouver had come within a goal three times with goals by Danny Lawson, Larry Israelson and John MacKenzie.

McGraw Still A Believer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When relief pitcher Tug McGraw was a member of New York Mets, his remark "You gotta believe!" became the rallying cry of the fans as the Mets went on to win the 1973 National League pennant. He still feels that way.

Tuesday, the left-hander, now with Philadelphia Phillies, checked into a Philadelphia hospital for tests prior to the removal of a lump near the lower tip of his left shoulder blade, and the 30-year-old left-hander said:

"I'm leaving this up to the doctors. They say there's nothing seriously wrong with me. When the doctors say it, well, you gotta believe, right?"

In Tuesday's exhibition games, it was the hitters who were doing the believing.

Balimore Orioles bea Texas Rangers 11-8, Chicago White Sox edged Cincinnati Reds 7-5, Detroit Tigers nipped Montreal Expos 11-10, Milwaukee Brewers defeated Oakland A's 8-7, California Angels defeated Cleveland Indians 5-4, Houston Astros beat Kansas City Royals 5-2, Chicago Cubs defeated San Francisco Giants 4-1, New York Mets beat Boston Red Sox 5-4, Minnesota Twins defeated Atlanta Braves 5-3, St. Louis Cardinals crushed Philadelphia 12-3 and New York Yankees topped Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2.

TUG McGRAW

Don Baylor's two home runs led the Orioles against Texas. The outfielder also drove in a first-inning run on a fielder's choice.

Two homers by Buddy Bradford lifted the White Sox over Cincinnati. Tony Perez hit a homer for Cincinnati.

Milwaukee's Bob Coluccio drove in five runs—four of them on two home runs—including the go-ahead run in the ninth against Oakland. Joe Rudi homered for the A's.

A lead-off triple by Detroit's Ron LeFlore and a wild pitch ended Montreal's eight-game winning streak. LeFlore also had a home run and rookie left fielder Dan Meyer hit a two-run homer.

Reggie Smith drove in two runs with a homer and a triple as the Cards routed the Phillies.

The Mets erupted for seven hits to score four runs in the seventh inning against the Red Sox. Tony Conigliaro, who has been out of baseball for 3½ years after being hit in the face by a pitch, slammed two doubles and a single in five at-bats for the Red Sox.

California collected 10 hits against Cleveland, but it took a throwing error by Ed Crosby in the 10th inning for the Angels to win. Allen Ashby hit a two-run homer for Cleveland.

Everton Upset 2-0 By Middlesbrough

LONDON (CP) — Middlesbrough upset first-place Everton 2-0 Tuesday to prevent the English League First Division soccer club from adding to its three-point lead.

David Mills and David Armstrong, England's under 23 internationals, scored the goals for Middlesbrough before its home town fans. Mills scored in the ninth minute and Armstrong made it 2-0 in the 50th minute.

Stoke City, third in the standing behind Everton and Burnley, suffered a blow at home when Ipswich Town defeated the club 2-1.

Stoke also lost centre-half Dennis Smith who was carried off in the 78th minute with a broken leg. He was the fourth Stoke player to suffer a broken leg this season.

In the third Division, Charlton advanced to the top of the table with a 3-1 home win over Halifax with Derek Hales becoming the first Charlton player in 2½ years to score three goals.

Canada's Bill Tetley Bounces Back in Style

PERTH, Scotland (CP) — Canada's Bill Tetley, hit by France with an opening-round loss at the world curling championships, took much of the sting out of that setback Tuesday with two crucial victories.

Tetley's foursome from Thunder Bay, Ont., scraped by the United States 7-5 in a second-round match when American skip Ed Risling bumped in a Canadian rock to count two, then followed up with a 6-5 victory over Scotland's Alex Torrance in the evening draw.

Maby Scottish fans among the 2,000 attending Tuesday night's games, who earlier had been loud in their cheers for the Alex Torrance foursome, gave the Canadians a well-earned hand when the game ended.

The victory left the Canadian champions still in a runner-up role at 2-1 after three games, tied with Scotland, Sweden's Axel Kamp and French skip Andre Tronc's rink which had beaten Canada 8-3 in Monday's opening round.

Still unbeaten after three games was the Otto Danieli foursome from Switzerland.

At 1-2 were John Kaerulf's young Danish Four, the U.S., Germany's Klaus (Micky) Kanz and Helmer Strombo's Norwegian entry. Italy, skipped by Guiseppe Dal Molin, was winless in three starts.

Tetley, with third Rick lang, second Bill Hodgson and lead Peter Hnatiw, went against Sweden in today's opening draw at 8 a.m. EST while Switzerland played Scotland in what observers felt would be its first tough game.

In other fourth-round matches, it was Norway against France, Denmark against Germany and the U.S. against Italy.

The evening draw, at 2 p.m. EST, has Canada meeting Germany, Norway meeting Sweden, Denmark meeting Switzerland, France meeting Italy and the U.S. meeting Scotland.

"I feel a lot better than I did 24 hours ago," Tetley said after the Scottish game, referring to the opening-round loss to France.

Although he had control of the contest from the outset, Tetley figured he missed an opportunity to secure the win earlier "when I missed a passout for three in the fifth."

The takeout shot with final stone of the end missed the Scottish counter completely, enabling the host nation's rink to steal one and tie the game at 3-3.

But Tetley cracked another two in the sixth and the rinks exchanged scores through the final four ends.

Tetley was not enthused with either game Tuesday but admitted the one against Scotland "has been our best here this week."

"We've got lots of room for improvement, though, before this thing is over."

Alberta Takes Over at the Top

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—The Les Rowland rink of Calgary, representing Alberta at this year's Canadian mixed curling championship, defeated Saskatchewan 4-2 in sixth-round play Tuesday to take over sole possession of top spot with a 5-1 won-lost record.

Prince Edward Island, skipped by Bob Dillon of Charlottetown, entered the sixth round with a 4-1 mark after topping the New Brunswick foursome of Roscoe Wilson of Moncton 6-5 in afternoon play. But nothing went right for Dillon as he lost a 5-3 decision to Dave Reid's Ontario rink from Toronto in the sixth round.

P.E.I., New Brunswick, and Larry Taylor's rink from Brandon, Man., are tied for second with 4-2 records. Defending champion Saskatchewan, skipped by Rick Folk of Saskatoon, Quebec, led by Andre Emond of Montreal, Ontario and Les Bowering's rink from St. John's, Nfld., are next at 3-3.

Nova Scotia, represented by Harry Stevenson's foursome from Sydney, picked up its first two wins of the 11-round event Tuesday, to move into a tie with the Territories rink led by Bill Melnyk of Yellowknife and from Abbotsford skipped by Jake Block. All are 2-4.

The Northern Ontario rink of Dale Harten of Sault Ste. Marie trails with a 1-5 mark.

In other sixth-round play, Quebec dumped B.C. 6-3, Manitoba edged Newfoundland 6-5, New Brunswick defeated Northern Ontario 8-5 and Nova Scotia scored two in the extra end to clip the Territories 7-5.

In the fifth round, B.C. defeated Ontario 11-1, Manitoba edged Northern Ontario 7-6, Alberta beat Quebec 8-4, Newfoundland upended the Territories 7-4 and Nova Scotia scored its first win of the event by upsetting Saskatchewan 6-3.

The Alberta-Saskatchewan game was a takeout affair with neither skip wantng any junk up front.

With the score tied 2-2 in the 10th, Folk drew his first shot deep into the four-foot circle and after Rowland missed taking it out, the Saskatchewan skip set up a good guard.

Rowland needed and got a raise takeout and counted two for the win.

Rowland's rink has two important games today as they meet B.C. in the seventh round and P.E.I. in the eighth round tonight.

In other seventh-round matches at 2 p.m. EST today, Saskatchewan faces the Territories; Newfoundland meets Nova Scotia, Quebec meets Ontario, New Brunswick faces Manitoba and Northern Ontario takes on P.E.I.

Pasadena Scores Super Bowl First

HONOLULU (AP) — Pasadena's whirlwind courtship with the National Football League brought a surprising acceptance for the Super Bowl of 1977.

Never before had a city without a pro football team of its own been voted the championship game, but the Southern California city has 104,701 seats in a world-renown stadium working for it. In accepting Pasadena's Rose Bowl bid, the NFL turned down Los Angeles, Dallas, Houston, New Orleans and Montreal.

So the 1977 Super Bowl will visit the big bowl on Jan. 9, eight days after the Pacific Eight and Big Ten collegiate champions battle in the annual Rose Bowl game.

Pasadena offered its Rose Bowl for $60,000 rental plus a five per-cent seat tax that should bring another $50,000 plus concession and parking rights. The NFL gets the ticket, television and program rights.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said the decision to select the Rose Bowl came on a sixth ballot with 20 of the 26 NFL clubs needed to vote affirmatively for one city before it gains the Super Bowl.

Pontiac Titles Are Up for Grabs

TORONTO (CP) — All four divisions of the 1975 Pontiac Cup ski series will be decided March 27-29 when the competitors take part in dual slalom, giant slalom and slalom events at Prince George, B.C.

Standings released Tuesday by the Canadian Ski Association show close races in both western and eastern divisions of the series.

In the west, Loni Klettl of Jasper, Alta., has relinquished her first-place standing in the women's division to June Brandon of Vancouver, who has 122 points going into the final.

Her counterpart in the east, Martine LeSieur of Quebec City, has taken over first place from Tracy Annand of Petawawa, Ont., with 124 points. Annand has 106.

In the men's eastern division, Daniel Bergeron, of Shawinigan, Que., is first with 112 points, followed by Scott Finlay of Kingston, Ont., with 84.

Peter Monod of Banff, Alta., continues to lead the western division with 101 points, followed by Jack Woods of Castlegar, B.C., with 80 points.

ACOSTA SOLD

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Philadelphia Phillies announced Monday they have purchased right-handed relief pitcher Cy Acosta from Chicago White Sox. Acosta, 28, joined the White Sox in 1972 and has a 13-9 major league baseball record and 2.48 earned-run average.

INTRODUCING A NEW BEER

WHO'S GOING TO DRINK IT?

Cool Spring is a new light beer brewed especially for the person who likes the refreshment of a beer but wants a lighter taste. Cool Spring contains less alcohol than other Canadian beers. (For example, most beers offer around 5% alcohol by volume; Cool Spring's content is 3.9%). It's been brewed for the person who enjoys a light beer, now and then. But who is that person? It could be the business executive out at his local. A couple relaxing at home. Or a guy who likes to balance a large sandwich with a light refreshment.

"With my heavy responsibilities I like a light beer...now and then."

"What's a five letter word meaning...to illuminate?"

"My secret? I eat big but I drink light."

Choosing a beer is a personal thing. And there are just as many reasons to drink Cool Spring as there are people who enjoy it. But wherever or whenever, we think that Cool Spring has a unique lightness which will appeal to people who enjoy the refreshment of a light beer. Now and then.

Cool Spring by Labatt's. Maybe it's for you.

Yves Giroux Caps Hull's Comeback

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pierre-Yves Giroux scored at 19:59 of the third period to give Hull Festivals a come-from-behind 6-5 win over Cornwall Royals in Quebec Major Junior Hockey League action Tuesday.

In other action, Chicoutimi edged Montreal 5-4 and Quebec City skated to a 5-2 win over Trois-Rivieres.

Cornwall led Hull 3-0 at the end of the first period, on goals by Pierre Brassard, Bill Chadwick and Luc Prudhomme. Brassard scored another Cornwall goal in the second period and Denis Rochon added a single in the third.

Jim Montgomery scored twice for Hull and Jim Vanni, Glen Sharpley and Ronald Duhamel added singles as 2,943 spectators looked on.

Hull outshot Cornwall 41-25.

Sylvain Locas scored two goals to lead Chicoutimi Sagueneens to a 5-4 victory over Montreal Juniors before 2,311 spectators.

Daniel Lecours, Daniel Poulin and Jean-Paul Leblanc added singles for the Sagueneens who were outshot 45-32. For Montreal, Normand Dupont scored two goals while Pierre Mondou and Richard Bowness scored a goal each.

Outshot 35-31, Quebec Remparts still beat Trois-Rivieres Draveurs 5-2.

Bears Lead 2-1

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Smiths Falls Bears regained their lead in the Central Junior Hockey League final playoffs Tuesday, beating Nepean Raiders 7-3 before about 1,600 fans.

the Bears, second in the final standing, now lead the best-of-seven series 2-1 with the next game tonight in Nepean and the fifth back here Friday.

Effort Wasted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob McAdoo put on a one-man show Tuesday night but failed to impress Houston Rockets.

Buffalo's 6-foot-10 centre pumped in 51 points but Rudy Tomjanovich and Calvin Murphy combined for 64, carrying the Rockets to a 122-115 National Basketball Association victory over the Braves.

Tomjanovich got 34 points and Murphy 30 to help the Rockets snap a five-game losing streak and maintain their 1½-game edge over third-place Cleveland in the Central Division.

The Cavaliers, battling with New York Knicks for the wild-card playoff berth that goes to the best third-place team in the Eastern Conference, defeated Washington 112-98 while the Knicks beat Los Angeles 109-100 to stay within half a game of Cleveland in the conference standings.

In other NBA games, Chicago beat Philadelphia 111-96, Boston whipped Detroit 116-90, Kansas City-Omaha edged Atlanta 105-101 Golden State ; walloped Phoenix 133-103 and Portland defeated Milwaukee 95-89.

The American Basketball Association was idle Tuesday night.

Bobby Smith and Dick Snyder each connected for 23 points for the Cavaliers against Washington.

New York, led by Walt Frazier's 27 points, outscored the Lakers 21-4 in the final seven minutes to win.

Chet Walker's 30 points and a fast-break offence by the usually conservative bulls routed Philadelphia.

BOB McADOO

Biltmores in Front

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — Guelph Biltmores came from behind a 3-0 first-period deficit Tuesday to defeat Windsor Spitfires 6-4 and take a 5-3 lead in points in their eight-point Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League final series.

The Biltmores shaved the margin to 3-1 late in the first period, scored twice in the second to tie it and added three more in the third before Windsor closed out the scoring.

Tim Holder, with two, Craig Hartsburg, Mitch Giroux, Jim Joy and Terry Gregory scored for Guelph.

Scott Miller, with two, John Tavella and Colin Thompson [illegible] 'Vindsor, which was outshot 48-39.

[illegible] game is in Windsor Thursday.

Confusion Causes Problems

MARMORA — Some of the problems he encounters in his work as tax collector were outlined by William Shannon, Marmora Village clerk-treasurer, to members of council recently.

As a result, Reeve Jack Reynolds advises Marmora residents many of the misunderstanding occur when people call to pay their taxes on property they many have purchased or sold, is due largely to the late notification to Mr. Shannon by the regional assessment office in Trenton.

Mr. Shannon recommends people look at their assessment notices to check whether they are still listed as owners of property they hae sold.v

If they are, they should contact the assessment office, he says.

Residents Favor Toll-free Calls

MARMORA — Bell Canada has announced a majority of residents in the Marmora telephone calling area now favor toll free calling to Havelock, Madoc and Stirling.

In a notice to various area officials, the company says, "we have concluded the canvass of Marmora Tellephone customers regarding toll free calling — in spite of several attempts, we can never reach all of the customers."

"An opinion was obtained from 758, representing 75 per cent of the customers. Seventy-one per cent of those reached were in favor."

"Our plans have not yet reached the state where an announcement can be made but Bell will keep you informed of progress in that regard."

Not Kid Stuff

When Billy Henley's father, the late William Henley, opened his bicycle shop in 1930 bikes were strictly kid stuff. Today, with emphasis on physical fitness and recreation, cycling is a popular adult sport and sales have never been higher. Mr. and Mrs. Billy Henley demonstrate one of the bikes in stock for spring in their Picton shop.

Residents Report Thin Ice On Most County Lakes

By JERRY SPRAGUE
Staff Correspondent

PICTON — Unusually mild temperatures are cited as the main cause of this winter's unpredictable ice conditions in many of Prince Edward County's lakes and bays.

Those interviewed, primarily anglers and commercial fisherman, said mid-winter ice thickness ranged from eight to 18 inches. East Lake had the thickest and most uniform conditions with a maximum of 18 inches being reported by Victor Camp of RR 1, Picton.

Blake Conley, of Wellington, said the ice in West Lake did not exceed 14 inches this winter.

Weller's Bay ice measured 12 inches said Charles Phillips of Consecon. It was thick enough to support the weight of vehicles, he said.

George Cooper of Picton recorded 14 inches at Picton Bay. A spokesman from the Picton Utilities Commission observed there was very little snowmobile traffic this winter on the harbor and attributed this to "possible unpredictable conditions".

Jake DeVries of Melville said the ice in Consecon Lake ranged from 10 to 11 inches. A mid-January thaw and high winds caused the ice to leave the lake but it did become thick enough to support the weight of a panel truck, Mr. DeVries said.

The Bay of Quinte showed the greatest variation, ranging from 12 inches to 18 inches, said Gordon Thompson of Big Island. Much of the ice left during the January wind causing it to become "just too uncertain for a truck" which Mr. Thompson habitually uses every winter for commercial fishing.

A thin eight inches was the best South Bay could do, said Williard Mouck of RR 3, Picton.

Growing Interest in Cycling Keeps Picton Merchant Active

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Immortalized in song through a girl named Daisy and "a bicycle built for two" the sport of cycling has staged a comeback.

Billy Henley, owner of a Picton bicycle shop and shoe repair store says he has sold more bikes to adults in the last two years than have been sold since his father began to carry them in 1930.

"More adults than ever before are buying them," he commented.

"Bicycle sales definitely are as high as they have ever been."

The cyclist eager to keep fit today can order a bicycle suited to his or her requirements with as much attention to detail as is evidenced by the motorist ordering a car.

Mr. Henley says there are single speeds, two, three, four and five speeds and the popular 10-speed. There is also a 15-speed version.

The cyclist who leans toward luxury can select a bike and accessories from an Italian catalogue or perhaps buy the bike handcrafted in France that is on display in Henley's shop window.

Mr. Henley noted his Italian catalogue offers pedals wholesale-priced at $37.40 and a custom chain wheel for $99.90.

These luxury accessories obviously are intended for the sportsman who takes his cycling sseriously.

Other less expensive pedals, chains and additional items are offered for the weekend cyclist who bikes for recreation and exercise

The bicycles themselves shown in the catalogues are covered by a wide price range.

One man's 10-speed racer is priced at $545. In another catalogue the best bike listed costs $269.

Mr. Henlye says biking enthusiasts can spend several hundred dollars for a bicycle or buy a much cheaper two-wheeler for enjoyment of summer sport.

He terms the French bicycle now displayed in his window as "one of the nicest I've ever had in the shop".

The bicycle is well-made in relaton to its price, offering the customer top value for his dollar, he says.

"Unfortunately, there is a lot of garbage on the market," adds Mr. Henley.

Mr. Henley gives each of the bikes in his shop a check-up before it is sold, truing up wheels and making other minor adjustments.

Mr. Henley notes his shop, formerly operated by his father, the late William Henley, has sold bicycles since 1930 and the serial number of each cycle sold in the last 45 years is on record.

This information can aid the police in the event a bicycle is stolen.

Some Collect Sap For Fun and Profit

By CHRIS ALMEY
Staff Correspondent

TWEED — When well-wishers leave, there are always the owls to hoot through the night. That's what David Tabbutt and Norm Carter found out as they toiled away until 2 a.m. last weekend making maple syrup.

The two young men have tapped 139 trees on County Road 38 just west of Tweed. Saturday the sap was running, and by 5 p.m. they had it boiling.

Neighbor Jean Graham came along for some encouragement. "You don't know the half of it," she told the two entrepreneurs. They found out one half that day. Sap takes a long, long time to boil down.

The two syrup-makers travelled from tree to tree with a sniny garbage can collecting sap.

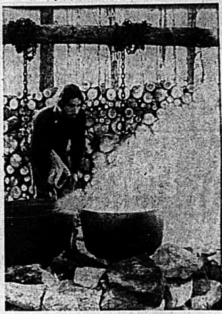
"I wish we had a horse. If we did we could double our output," David speculated.

David and Norm went around the countryside visiting stores that sold jug milk to get sap containers.

It was quite an operation washing all these jugs," David said. He explained they paid 40 cents apiece for them but will get their money back. New pails are over a dollar apiece, and non-returnable.

By 5 oclock Saturday the sap came to a boil, David noted. They stayed on the job until 2 a.m. On Sunday they started to collect sap once again.

David and Norm have lots of encouragement — last year's price of maple syrup was $15 a gallon. So for the first night they will probably make around $75. Not bad, far amateurs.



Sap's Running!

The annual migration to the sugar bush has begun with the right combination of cold nights and warm days allowing maple sap collection. Here, Norm Carter of Cavan Township stokes the fire preparing for the boiling process which evaporates excess water from the sap leaving the distinctive golden maple syrup.

Saskatchewan Liberals Given Faith by Thatcher

By GARRY FAIRBAIRN
The Canadian Press

A political scientist, surveying the first 66 years of the Saskatchewan Liberal party, concludes that it took 55 years for the party to find a philosophy.

Nevertheless, David Smith gives the party both the credit and blame for the character of Saskatchewan politics since the province was formed in 1905.

Mr. Smith, an associate professor at University of Saskatchewan in Saskatoon, prefaces his new book, Prairie Liberalism: The Liberal Party in Saskatchewan 1905-71, with the comment that surprisingly little attention has been paid to the history of the Saskatchewan party.

Not only is it a unique example of a major party competing with a protest party over any length of time, but "the subject of machine politics has received little attention in Canada and the history of the Liberal party in Saskatchewan offers an opportunity begin such an examination."

His two years of research included interviews with no less than 78 current or former members of the legislature.

The book is heavily weighted toward the nearly-forgotten political manoeuvres of the pre-Depression years. Whereas the 25 years from 1905 to 1929 are given 197 of the book's 335 pages, the 27 years from 1944 to 1971 receive only 80.

The comparative lack of space, however, does not reflect any downgrading of the role of the late Ross Thatcher in transforming the party.

"Before Thatcher campaigned for the leadership (in 1959), the Saskatchewan Liberals were a party without principles," Mr. Smith says.

By committing Liberals to continue d social reform as well as attacks on socialism "he gave voters a reason other than tradition to vote Liberal."

The Thatcher program, Mr. Smith says, rescued Liberals from the political wilderness where they had been since the CCF gained power in 1944.

In his view, the 1944 Liberal defeat removed what had until then been the basis of Liberal success:

"Patronage was what held the machine together. Patronage was necessary to the electoral success of the Liberals because they were a party without doctrine."

The professor contends that the party ruled the province for all but six of its first 39 years through patronage and the device of defusing potential opposition groups by including their leaders in Liberal governments.

Patronage abruptly ceases to be a theme in the book with the arrival of Mr. Thatcher, who had tight control over the party and cabinet, with power to order cancellation of government programs without consultation.

Mr. Smith notes, but treads lightly over, the radical change in the Thatcher government after its re-election in 1967.

The government adopted an austerity policy, fought to limit wage increases, imposed fees for treatment under the government medical insurance plan, antagonized labor with anti-strike legislation and gave generous terms to companies planning resource developments.

Mr. Smith asserts that the Thatcher government had a "policy vacuum" in the face of the population decline but does not go as far as some current party officials, who privately concede that the former premier grossly over-reacted to the economic downturn.

The book's brief postscript, on the 1971 selection of former treasurer Dave Steuart as Liberal leader after the party's defeat and Mr. Thatcher's death, is subject to qualification in light of subsequent events.

Mr. Smith implies that the Thatcher style and policies were continued, saying of Mr. Steuart, "by selecting him the convention delegates indicated their refusal to admit that the former government's policies were essentially wrong or reprehensible."

Since 1971, Mr. Steuart has smoothed over the party's bitter feud with the Ottawa Liberals that began under Mr. Thatcher and abandoned its anti-labor position.

The book presents a convincing argument that the eight Liberal leaders before 1971 and their followers shaped the flow of provincial politics, first by beginning the party system, then by fending off movements toward so-called non-partisan political groupings and finally by surviving:

"The Liberals never compromised themselves by coalescing with other parties and as a result Saskatchewan has always enjoyed in every sense of the term, partisan politics.

"Active partisanship has been the major, recurring characteristic of Saskatchewan politics since 1905, and for that the Liberals must take both the credit and the responsibility."

Prairie Liberalism: The Liberal Party in Saskatchewan 1905-71, by David Smith; $17.50; 335 Pages

READING, England (CP) — A computer to help councillors in this Berkshire town cope with housing needs five years ahead has already cost about £7,000 ($16 800). But officials concede that the new system will not directly help the homeless get accommodation—it will simply tell them why they are homeless.

Smokers' Dial

EDMONTON (CP) — Smokers in Edmonton who need a little help to stop can dial and hear any one of 10-minute-long recorded messages which provide helpful hints and advice to get them over the rough spots. The telephone-message program, known as Smokers' Dial, is sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventist Church. The recorded messages are designed to aid the smoker who is trying to kick the habit and to arouse interest in a five-day church program to help people who want to stop smoking.

New York Linguist Drafts Haida Grammar

VICTORIA (CP) — Robert Levine is a linguist working to save the language of the Haida Indians on the Queen Charlotte Islands.

He has used modern linguistic methods to prepare a grammar of the Skidegate dialect of Haida.

"We're in the 11th hour," he said, referring to the ailing, perhaps terminal, condition of northwest languages.

"They're still being spoken but they're not being learned," said the 27-year-old New Yorker, now linguistics assistant at the provincial museum in Victoria.

"The only ones who speak them with capability are the grandparents, so in 30 years, theoretically, it will be impossible for anyone to learn them.".

Haida would appear to be better off than other native languages. It has been estimated that only a few dozen speakers now know the Sechelt dialect.

Skidegate, on the other hand, has about 120 residents still fluent in Haida; Masset, the other Haida centre on the Queen Charlottes, has about twice that number.

But here, numbers do not necessarily mean strength. Mr. Levine said both groups "can go extinct at the same time."

To Mr. Levine, who first became attracted to the northwest as a boy growing up in New York and seeing Tlingit, Tsimshian and Haida carvings in the Museum of Natural History, the death of any of the region's languages would be a shame.

He said languages are the only significant aspect of culture that can be maintained in the face of economic and technological change. In China, for example, where social upheaval has been profound, languages have experienced only the "merest changes" in the last 100 years.

"Languages don't have to respond to radical displacements in technological systems," Mr. Levine said. "Being slow to change, language is almost ideal for the cultural preservation of native groups."

When he began his research in B.C. in 1972—as a graduate of Columbia University on a grant from the National Science Foundation—Mr. Levine entered a fertile field. Native languages had been researched in years long past but not with the use of modern linguistic methods.

Mr. Levine said Haida cannot be assigned to any language family with certainty. In the parlance of linguistics, it's an isolate, like Europe's Basque, which no one has been able to link firmly with any other language.

The classical viewpoint was that Athapaskan, Tlingit and Haida constituted a language family of tremendous depth, going far back in antiquity and once, long ago, were spoken as a single language.

But modern research has raised questions about Haida's place in such a system.

He said he has laid the groundwork for future work in Haida.

"I've outlined the skeleton of the language; it now can be fleshed out."

He hopes to investigate dialects of the other northern tribes.

IN MEMORIAM

SWORD — In loving memory of my dear brother Stephen Douglas Sword who passed away March 19, 1973.

His cheery ways and pleasant face,
Are a pleasure to recall.
He had a kindly word for each,
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet him,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp his hand in the better land,
Never to part again.

—Always thought of by Dorothy Andrew and Allaunie.

SWORD — In loving memory of a dear son, Stephen Douglas Sword who passed away March 19, 1973.

Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears in silence often flow,
For memory keeps you ever near us,
Though you died two years ago.

—Ever remembered by mother and dad and family.

CARDS OF THANKS

A sincere thank you to everyone for the beautiful floral tributes, contributions to St. Paul's Endowment Fund, cards, letters and personal calls since the sudden loss of our dear parents and grandparents. A special thanks to Branch No. 228 Royal Canadian Legion, our wonderful neighbors, Mr. Hogle for his efficient service and Rev. John May. Also thanks to anyone who assisted at the accident scene especially Dr. Briggs and Mrs. Morgan.

Grant and Barbara Stapley and family.

The family of the late William H. Doran wish to extend sincere thanks to their many relatives and friends in the loss of a dear father and grandfather. Appreciation for many kindnesses is expressed to Father George, the Alhambras, Division 189, B.L.E., O'Brien - Steele Funeral Home.

The family of the late Myrtle Smith wish to thank friends and relatives for their cards, floral tributes and donations to the Heart Fund; to Thompsons Funeral Home and to Rev. Kellog.

George Smith.

AT HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palmer, Bannockburn, will be "At Home" to friends and neighbors Sunday, March 23, 1975 on their Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9.30 p.m. Best wishes only.

Complete Trevertona Holstein Dispersal owned by Charles F. Treverton, Plainfield, Ontario, 10 miles north of Belleville. From Hwy. 401 take Hwy. 37 north 8 miles to Plainfield Children's Home then 4 miles east on Con. 6.

85 head, registered, classified, R.O.P. tested, 2 excellent, 7 very good. The herd will be reclassified. This is a great show and families with deep pedigrees. Sharon (excelent) 7 yr. 305d 23881m 1047f 4% (198-217 BCA). This tremendous uddered cow has averaged 100 lb. a day in her first 100 days of present lactation. 10 members of her family sell including her Good Plus daughter by "President" who has 5 year 325d 21342m 913f 4.3% (172-202 BCA). She will be fresh at sale time to Rowntree Northern Prince (Ex.), Sharon has 2 daughters by Rossfe Citation R (Ex.). Bo-Peep (very good) 2 yr. 305d 13330m 532f 3.99% (147-161 BCA). She calved in December with a heifer calf by Rowntree Northern Prince (Ex) and milked 84 lb. 4.3% on January test. Her full sister Beauty (G.P.) has completed 3 yr. 280d 13968m 565f 3.97% (132-143 BCA) and will be fresh by sale time to Agro Acres Unique. Another daughter of Sharon by "Northern Prince" was second Junior Yearling Heifer at Eastern National Holstein Show in 1974. This smooth yearling was bred September 20, 1974 to Rossfe Citation R. A truly great family! Another great family is Mildred (Excellent). This 18000 lb. producer has a very good dam. 2nd dam Good Plus 3 Star. She is due in May to Agro Acres Unique. Her oldest daughter is making over 18,000 3.4% in 305d as a 3-yr. old and is already classified very good. She in turn has a fancy March '74 daughter by Mooreville Rocket Kemp. Mildred has 2 younger daughters and a year old son selling. With this depth of pedigree the Trevertona Dispersal presents one of the best opportunities of the spring to purchase top foundation material. Lunch available. Canada Farm Labor Pools
Manpower & Immigration
Robert Andras, Minister

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT!

The Quinte Canada Farm Labour Pool would like to assist you, the Dairy Farmers, in solving your summertime labor problems. In order to have a general idea of how many farmers need summer help, we prepared a questionnaire and mailed approximately 1600 of these to dairy farmers in the district. Of the 1600 questionnaire, 30 were returned.

Is this any indication of the need of a Farm Labor Pool?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Movie unions apparently have won their fight to have Burr filmed in the United States.

The Screen Actors Guild and other unions responded angrily to the announcement that Gore Vidal's novel of early American politics would be made in England by Associated TV Ltd., headed by Lew Grade.

The ABC television network had planned to release Burr in several segments as part of its U.S. bicentennial observance.

"Unfair!" cried the unions, outraged that a celebration of the U.S. birthday anniversary would benefit British actors and film workers.

Now Grade has told the Screen Actors Guild: "If the project does proceed, which will depend entirely on the scripts, production will take place in the U.S.A."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The new Robert Mitchum film, The Yakuza, concerns the Tokyo underworld and dealers in the gambling games appear in elaborate tattoos and little else.

Among the credits at the end of the movie: "Tattoo artist—Mohri Seiji."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Are Don Knotts and Tim Conway the next Abbott and Costello?

Walt Disney Productions hopes so. The company cast the two television comics in The Apple Dumping Gang, and the combination proved so good that a rematch is happening.

Knotts and Conway will co-star as football coach and con man respectively, in a new comedy, Gus.

The title role is played by a Hungarian mule that can kick 100-yard field goals. Disney also is preparing a third vehicle for the comics. They would play undercover men disguised as prisoners in a woman's prison.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Francis Ford Coppola has won the Directors Guild of America award for the best directed film of 1974, The Godfather Part II.

John Korty was named best television director of 1974 at the guild's Saturday night banquet. He was selected for his direction of The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman.

The guild also awarded its rare Life Membership to Sir Charles Chaplin in honor of his long service to the art of film comedy.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — George C. Scott has ended the retirement from acting which he announced last year.

CBS said Tuesday that Scott will star in a two-hour tele-Trial. The drama is based on the experiences of John Henry Faulk, an American actor blacklisted for suspected Communist sympathies.

DECISION

Ottawa, March 13, 1975.

The Canadian Radio-Television Commission announces the following decision effective March 13, 1975.

Decision CRTC 75-78
ROCKLAND, OTTAWA, CORNWALL, DESERONTO, ONTARIO, AND HULL; AYLMER, LUCERNE, DESCHENES AND TOURAINE, QUEBEC

Applications for approval of the transfer directly or indirectly of the effective ownership or control of:

a) Bushnell Communications Limited, licensee of a cable television system in Rockland, Ontario (750053100)

b) Ottawa-Cornwall Broadcasting Limited licensee of CJOH-TV Ottawa, CJOH-TV-8 Cornwall and CJOH-TV-6 Deseronto, Ontario (750054900)

c) Laurentian Cablevision Limited, licensee of cable television systems in Aylmer, Lucerne, Descheres, Hull and Touraine, Quebec (750055600) and of the broadcasting undertakings operated by them, through the transfer of 894,802 common shares (52%) of Bushnell Communications Limited from Western Broadcast Holdings Ltd. and its associates to Standard Broadcasting Corporation Limited.

Decision: APPROVED

Western Broadcast Holdings Ltd. ("Western"), a subsidiary of Western Broadcasting Company Limited, acquired the present holdings of approximately 52% of the shares of Bushnell Communications Limited ("Bushnell") through a series of block purchases, share exchanges and market purchases in 1971, 1972 and 1973. The Commission's position in regard to the acquisition of the shares was fully set out in its Public Announcement dated June 2, 1972. Since that time, the Commission has denied three applications for transfer of control of Bushnell (Decisions CRTC 72-316, 74-58 and 74-390). At the public hearing in connection with the present applications, representatives of Standard Broadcasting Company Limited ("Standard") committed themselves to ensure that CJOH-TV and its rebroadcasting transmitters will provide considerably strengthened local and regional news and public affairs service. This commitment was based on extensive preliminary research. The representatives of Standard also outlined an on-going research program to assure that CJOH-TV will continue to respond to the needs of the people of the National Capital-St. Lawrence Seaway-Ottawa Valley region.

The Commission expects Standard to fulfill its commitments to strengthen the role of CJOH-TV in its licensed area, as a significant program source for the CTV Network and as an active centre for the production of television programs for general distribution.

Bushnell is the licensee of a cable television undertaking at Rockland, Ont. Its subsidiary, Laurentian Cablevision Ltd., is the licensee of a cable television undertaking serving Aylmer, Lucerne, Deschenés, Hull and Tourane, Que. Bushnell also hold 25.3% of the voting shares and 100% of the preferred shares of Skyline Cablevision Limited, licensee of a cable television undertaking serving part of Ottawa.

In numerous decisions the Commission has expressed its opinion that, except in special circumstances, television undertakings should be separate from cable television undertakings both as regards ownership and control and as regards substantial shareholdings. Decisions CRTC 69-197, 69-198, 70-145, 70-153, 70-157, 70-167, 70-168, 71-424, 72-316, 74-35 and 74-58).

At the public hearing, the President of Standard expressed a desire to retain Bushnell's cable television interests but a willingness to divest if given a reasonable period of time to do so. The Commission will require, as a condition of its approval of these applications, that Standard agree to cause Bushnell to divest itself of its cable television undertaking at Rockland, Ontario, as well as its interests in Laurentian Cablevision Limited, and Skline Cablevision Limited. The Commission will review the question of the divestiture of these interests in the case of each licensee at the time of licence renewal with a view to establishing an appropriate time for each divestiture of be completed.

The Commission has considered the interventions of two groups of minority shareholders in Bushnell, and particularly their requests that Standard should purchase such minority shareholdings on a basis comparable to that on which the shareholdings of Western are to be acquired. At the public hearing the President of Standard promised to review the positions of the minority shareholders after Standard has had an opportunity to assess more fully the operations of Bushnell.

The Commission will expect the diverse community interests served by Bushnell and its subsidiaries to be represented on the Boards of Directors of the companies.

The Commission will review with Standard at the time of the licence renewal for CJOH-TV the progress made in implementing the commitments for local and regional programming and the plans for strengthening the role of Bushnell in the CTV Network and in program production.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Thursday, March 20th, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't be too bossy around the house today or you may have a minor rebellion on your hands Consider others' rights.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll have trouble making big decisions today because you tend to see things the way you'd like them to be, rather than as they are.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is not a good day to assume new obligations or to make purchases that put you in debt Live within your means.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's unlikely you'll achieve your goals now unless you stick closely to a game plan you've thought out carefully. Don't swap horses in midstream.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) You must be persistent today if you want to be victorious. There are large stumbling blocks you must hurdle to succeed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your first ideas are not your best; in fact, they'll get you off the track. Evaluate plans several times before acting.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 Oct. 23) Don't depend too heavily on allies to carry the ball today. Success comes to you only through your intense effort.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Much of your time will be wasted early in the day on frivolous interests Later, your efforts are more productive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Shun speculative or risky ventures today No one is about to give you something for nothing. Play it smart.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Tell it as it is. Others will be able to perceive quickly if you're giving them a snow job.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're not as practical as you should be about your financial affairs A good day to hide the checkbook and zip-up your purse.

PISCES (Feb. 20 March 20) Be careful or you'll make a social commitment you'll later regret. It will be difficult to excuse yourself gracefully.

Surgery May Help Floating Kidney

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have what is called a "floating kidney." I understand what it means, but I dont know how it happened. Why can't it be reattached?

I had a gall bladder operation three years ago and the kidney was right there, so why couldn't the surgeon have tied it to something or sewed it on to something?

Also, is there any kind of truss or support I can get that will ease the continuous back pain I have?—M.J.W.

You may understand what a floating kidney is, but I fear that you have a rather simplistic idea of what surgery is all about.

Surgeons don't just waltz merrily inside the body, snipping here and sewing there. And, in fact, the floating kidney may not even have been obvious to the naked eye. But the point is that any kidney surgery would have required different pre-surgical preparations and approach than for gall bladder. The latter, incidentally, was quite enough to do in one operation.

The kidneys normally move an inch or two with body activity such as that in rising from a sitting position They even move perceptibly up and down in normal breathing. A floating kidney moves greater distances from it's attachment to the posterior abdominal wall. The tugging resulting from this movement can produce flank pain.

Conservative treatment such as use of a firm girdle will help, but if such methods do not ease your condition, surgery to support the organ can be considered. Instead of complaining, why don't you report your continuing pain to the doctor.

Floating kidney is usually seen in lean persons, and in most cases only one kidney is affected.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is prolonged use of L-dopa for Parkinson's disease harmful? My dad has used it for five years It has controlled the disease. Would continued use be harmful? Is there a new drug for it that came out recently?—K.J.

Continued use is not harmful and, yes, there are other drugs prescribed for Parkinsonism. They are used to replace L-dopa if that is not effective. Since your father seems to be doing well with his present medication. I would not suggest a change.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a woman, 59, who has been taking medication for low thyroid Could this cause palpitation of the heart? It sometimes awakens me from a sound sleep.—Mrs. J.A.P.

The medication could well be the cause. The dose might be too large—and it doesn't take a very high dose to correct low thyroid function. Be sure you are reading the directions on the medication bottle correctly, good advice for anyone taking any medication, incidentally.

However, palpitation of the heart is not an unusual thing for a person your age, even without such medication. You should raise the dosage question with your doctor.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I recently underwent gold shot therapy for arthritis and cortisone shots for bursitis. I was interested in finding out the number of shots that can be given of each drug.

Also, what might some of the side effects be?—Mrs. E.K.

Gold injections are usually given once a week, and, depending on the dose level, in about 20 injections. The first one would be small to determine any intolerance. Side effects can include a rash and a drop in blood count. Periodic blood counts are made during the therapy.

One or two cortisone injections are usually effective in treating bursitis, and there are no side effects I know of from such drugs being injected into a bursa or into a joint

South isn't too happy with his six-spade contract. He has all sorts of ways to play the hand. The way the cards lie all reasonable plays will work.

When South played the hand, he ruffed the second diamond, played ace-king and another club which he ruffed in dummy. The normal play after that start is to come to his hand with a high trump and lead his last club. West's best play will be to chuck his jack of diamonds, but this won't faze South. He will ruff that last club, cash dummy's queen of trumps, come to his hand with the ace of hearts; draw West's last trump and eventually take the heart finesse.

The hand was played in a rubber bridge game, when Terence Reese was still an Oxford undergraduate. Terence sat East. Like many experts Terence felt that he held very bad cards. He certainly did this time.

West started out as above, but when he ruffed the third club Reese played the queen, not the nine.

South had already ruffed in dummy, cashed dummy's queen of trumps and led a low trump to his own hand. Then South saw a way to avoid the heart finesse. Obviously West held the last club and East had shown out of trumps It would be perfectly safe to discard one of dummy's hearts on the 10 of clubs. South led it and West set the hand with his jack of spades.

Senate Hears Pleas To Legalize Marijuana

OTTAWA (CP) — Pleas for legislation of marijuana were presented to a Senate committee Tuesday, one of them backed up by testimony indicating the cannabis drugs are not harmful to humans.

The suggestions that the cannabis drugs—marijuana and hashish—be made legal and their distribution handled by government bodies came from the Canadian Criminology and Corrections Association and a private Toronto-based lawyers group, the Law Union of Ontario.

A. B. Whitelaw, chairman of the criminology association, told the Senate legal and constitutional affairs committee that the association's board of directors approved support for legalization by a two-to-one margin after a year's debate.

The committee is conducting herings on a bill that would ease penalties for possession of marijuana but retain severe penalties, including prison terms, for trafficking.

Mr. Whitelaw said the criminology association originally supported such a policy but decided it was untenable because it did not remove distribution of marijuana from criminal elements.

Paul Copeland, a Toronto lawyer representing the law union, said outlawing of cannabis is not working, and is probably costing several million dollars a year, to police.

He said the group believes cannabis use "is widespread in our community and includes lawyers, professors, teachers, members of Parliament, Crown prosecutors, as well as the advertising, entertainment and media people."

"But they are seldom seen in the courts," the brief said, because with few exceptions, the law is not dealing with the middle-class user.

Mr. Whitelaw said keeping marijuana illegal is widening the generation gap and bringing all laws into disrepute among young persons.

He said it should not be necessary to prove cannabis harmless to have criminal sanctions on its use removed; it should be proved harmful to justify putting it in a criminal context.

Dr. Cleo Jayewardene, a physician, sociologist and chairman of the University of Ottawa's criminology department, said evdence about the effects of cannabis is inconclusive, but indicates it is not harmful.

Delay in Legislation Said Aggravating Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Delay in introducing legislation to govern negotiations between school boards and their teachers, has aggravated an already tender situation, Albert Roy (L—Ottawa East) said in the legislature Tuesday

Mr. Wells dismissed the charge, saying Mr. Roy was following a close second behind his leader, Robert Nixon, in "causing disorder."

He told the legislature that his ministry will be ready to bring in "a bill that will be a progressive piece of legislation when we have had a chance to fulfill the promises that I gave to the trustees and the teachers . . ."

Mr. Wells promised last week that the legislation would be introduced this month.

Students' Allowances Are Being Increased

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario is increasing its aid to students under the Ontario Student Assistance Program (OSAP), James Auld, minister of colleges and universities, said Tuesday.

The allowance under OSAP for students living away from home will be increased to a maximum of $57.50 per week from a maximum of $48.50 a week in the current year.

Direct financial assistance for the next academic year will be about $47 million, an increase of approximately 16 per cent, Mr. Auld told the legislature.

Board and lodging allowance for students receiving aid from OSAP and living away from home will be increased to $40 from $32 per week: the allowance for miscellaneous expenses of $11.50 per week will remain the same; local transportation allowances will be increased to $3 and $8 per week from $2.50 and $5.

Mr. Auld said Ontario will also have a student loans plan which will provide loans of up to $1,400 over a normal academic year.

United Aircraft 15-month Strike May End

MONTREAL (CP) — A unofficial ceasefire in the war between United Aircraft of Canada Ltd. and its militant union may possibly result in an end to the strike that began Jan. 7, 1974.

During the last 14 months one of the most bitter labor conflicts in Quebec history has been characterized by violence and sporadic attempts at settlement that usually ended in chaos and frustration.

However, no bombings or riots involving strikers have occurred in the last few months and settlement of all union grievances appears imminent.

Of the many issues first presented to the company by 2,400 members of the United Auto Workers, Local 510, only a cost-of-living clause remains to be settled.

The union wants no ceiling placed on wage increases that would follow upturns in the cost-of-living while the company wishes to set a maximum.

A wage agreement giving a 34-per-cent increase in a three-year contract was accepted in February by the union. The average wage of production workers before the strike was $3.85.

Negotiations are slated this week between the union and provincial labor department officials, who will also meet separately with management.

"However, there are no face-to-face negotiations with the union immediately planned," said a company spokesman.

The most contentious issue in the strike, adoption of the Rand forumla, was temporarily laid aside when Jean Cournoyer, Quebec labor minister, promised to resolve this issue through spring legislation.

Accord Faces Tough Hurdles

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Federal laborers and tradesmen were expected to end selective strikes today following a tentative contract settlement with the government. But some potential trouble spots were showing up despite the agreement.

The tentative settlement, reached Wednesday evening after days of mediation, would provide the 18,600 Public Service Alliance members in the group with a 29.25 per cent raise over a 26-month contract.

It still must be ratified by union members, who include grain weighers and samplers, postal maintenance men and airport maintenance workers, but the union has ordered its members back to their jobs as soon as possible.

The laborers and tradesmen have held walkouts over the last month that have halted grain shipments, stalled some air travel and tied up mail service, particularly in Toronto and Vancouver.

First reaction to the settlement was mixed, with union area strike co-ordinators in Winnipeg saying they would recommend the workers not return to their jobs while in Halifax an alliance spokesman said he did not anticipate any problems among the workers.

At Thunder Bay Ont. 166 grain weighmen and samplers voted unanimously to reject the tentative contract settlement and continue their strike at the Thunder Bay terminals.

A. N. Murray regional co-ordinator of the Public Servoce Alliance of Canada said following a meeting this morning that the grain workmen have borne the brunt of the strike since Feb. 18 and yet all 18600 members of the alliance will receive the $600 retroactive lump-sum payment.

Mr. Murray said it is estimated the weighmen and samplers have lost $1000 each since the dispute began.

"We were the people doing the damage to the country but everyone gets $600 even those who have had a pay cheque coming in every week."

Mr. Murray said weighmen now earn $5.36 an hour and would go to $6 in the first year and $6.60 in the second of the proposed 26-month agreement. Samplers now getting about $4 an hour would get $6.06 at the end of 26 months.

In Vancouver, where strikes by grain weighers and samplers had halted grain shipments, a union official said strike activity planned for today would be called off.

But Jim Ainsworth, spokesman for federal grain inspectors there, said his group was very disappointed by the proposed settlement and would hold study sessions today to consider their next move.

"We are still left behind in relation to other waterfront operators in the same field, there is no question of us going back," he said.

There are 70 inspectors in Vancouver, 40 in Prince Rupert and several in Victoria.

But removal of alliance pickets would open the way for members of the Grain Workers' Union to get back on the job. Although not involved in the strikes, they have refused to cross picket lines.

Executive Favors Accord

VANCOUVER (CP) — The executive of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union voted 67 per cent Wednesday in favor of the agreement reached last weekend with the British Columbia Maritime Employers Association.

The executive will recommend acceptance to a mass meeting of 4,000 union members Friday.

Hue Among Provincial Cities Abandoned to North Vietnamese

SAIGON (AP) — The number of provinces abandoned or lost by the South Vietnamese government rose to seven today, and at least three more may be given up, government officials said.

The territory conceded to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong includes Hue, the former imperial capital on the northern coast with a population of 200,000 people.

Officials said the latest additions to the list of lost provinces are Binh Long, only 60 miles north of Saigon, and Thua Thien, on the northern coast. Hue is the capital of Thua Thien.

The abandonment of Quang Tri, the country's northernmost province, was reported Wednesday. Three in the central highlands—Kontum, Pleiku and Darlac—were given up early this week, and Phuoc Long, east of Binh Long, was overrun by the North Vietnamese in January.

The seven provinces total about 13,000 square miles, a fifth of South Vietnam's total area.

The population of the seven provinces totals about 1.7 million, just less than 10 per cent of South Vietnam's total. Hundreds of thousands of these are fleeing from Communist control and will put an added strain on the Saigon government's heavy economic burden.

President Nguyen Van Thieu in a five-minute radio address today acknowledged the abandonment of Kontum and Pleiku only. He said they were given up without a fight because government forces in the highlands were outnumbered 4 to 1 and because of the limitation of United States aid.

Thieu said North Vietnam had launched a general offensive across South Vietnam and committed 19 divisions (about 15,000 men) to it. He said Hanoi had sent five of its eight strategic reserve divisions across the border in January and February to join this force.

Fugitive Feared Life in Solitary

VANCOUVER (CP) — Escaped convict Donald Oag, 24, told a court Wednesday he fled custody Feb. 9 because it was "escape or die."

Oag, who pleaded guilty in county court to two charges of unlawful confinement, a charge of escaping custody, possession of a dangerous weapon, robbery, and breaking, entering and theft, will be sentenced Friday.

Oag overpowered a prison guard after he was taken off a plane at Vancouver International Airport. He was being transferred to the British Columbia penitentiary in nearby New Westminster from Millhaven prison near Kingston, Ont., where he was serving 12 years for manslaughter and armed robbery.

After 13 days at large, Oag was recaptured without a struggle.

In court, Oag told a story of almost four years of solitary confinement, despair over the apparent lack of hope he would ever be allowed out, and three attempts to kill himself.

He said he escaped "because of what I'd been through in solitary."

Oag had slashed his arms with razors twice while in custody, and while in hospital for treatment for the cuts, jumped out a window, breaking his back in three places.

Oag, a native of London, Ont., said he was placed in solitary four years ago after he and 14 other prisoners pleaded guilty to manslaughter following the Kingston penitentiary riot of 1971 in which two prisoners were killed.

He said his only part in the riot was to guard certain prison staff members.

He said he had been told he would never get out of solitary until his prison term expired in 1983.

He said when he and other prisoners were transferred to Millhaven following the riot, guards were waiting for them with clubs and beat them.

A royal commission report into the riot confirms that such beatings did occur. The report was produced at the hearing.

Swiss Defeat Canada's Curlers

PERTH, Scotland (CP) — Switzerland took sole possession of first place in the world curling championship today with an 8-6 victory over Canada in the sixth round of the round-robin.

The Swiss, skipped by Otto Danieli, were left with a 5-1 record and seemed assured of finishing in the top four after completion of the nine rounds, thus qualifying for the four-team playoffs.

The Canadians, led by Bill Tetley of Thunder Bay, Ont., dropped into a four-way tie for second place with defending champion United States, Scotland and Sweden, all with 4-2 records.

Canada had dropped a first-round match to France before coming back with four straight wins, including important decisions over the U.S. and Scotland.

Jack Ellis Feels Certain Uranium Deal Will Get OK

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Jack Ellis, MP Hastings, says after talking with top-ranking Ottawa officials, he is "completely" certain the Bancroft-area uranium export deal will go through.

However, the export volume could be reduced, he says.

A Toronto newspaper said earlier Wednesday government officials doubted the contract to export ore to Italy from Madawaska Mine here would go through.

But in Ottawa Wednesday night Mr. Ellis said: "I'm completely confident, after talking with all senior people in the department of mines, energy and resources, that the mine will reopen and that there will be an export licence granted."

However, the quantities or uranium for export from Madawaska "may be scaled down."

Earlier this week, government sources had confessed doubt over the export contract because of future possible domestic needs.

Senior government authorities are concerned with guaranteeing sufficient natural uranium resources to meet future energy demands.

A reserve of 30 per cent of deposits has been suggested.

But Mr. Ellis, indicated, while such a rule may apply to giant mining operations with huge resource deposits, the same rule doesn't seem realistic with a small operation like Madawaska. The deposit at the Bancroft-area mine to too small to make much difference.

The contract, between Madawaska's owners, Federal Resources Corporation, in the U.S., and its Canadian subsidiary Canadian Consolidated Faraday, and the Italian state energy agency AGIP, is for one million pounds of uranium concentrates annually for six years.

Meantime, in Toronto today, Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings said he found the delay over the Madawaska contract difficult to understand.

As provincial political spokesman for the area, Mr. Rollins had been involved in helping the project obtain necessary starting permission from the Ontario government, which regulates mining operations.

"It's certainly thrown a great deal of concern on the area," said Mr. Rollins. " . . . It's hard for me and the local people to understnad the delay.

Loot Found Concealed Under Box

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

A thief who might have felt a twinge of conscience has returned $725 in cash to Spiro's Restaurant which had been stolen from the Bridge St. E. dining establishment early Saturday.

City Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said today the money was found intact by a restaurant employee Tuesday evening, hidden under a box in a back room. The discovery was reported to police Wednesday morning.

Det. Donald Yearwood is investigating the incident which began about 4.15 a.m. Saturday when Constable Gary Gingras on his rounds of checking doors discovered the restaurant's rear door forced.

Subsequent investigation showed the money was taken from a cupboard in the dining room prompting a police spokesman to comment Saturday the unknown theif might be "someone familiar with the operation of the store."

Other items in the establishment, including the cash register, were not disturbed, he said.

Device May Boost Mileage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Auto companies are testing miniature electronic devices that may boost gas mileage of larger and middle-sized cars by up to 40 per cent, says Robert Sarnoff, chairman of RCA Corp.

The computer-like devices could be mass produced for "no more than $100 a unit," Sarnoff said in an advance copy of a speech for delivery later today at a university seminar.

Two auto industry executives confirmed Wednesday in telephone interviews that the electronic control devices known as microprocessors have enormous potential but they expressed doubt about the 40-per-cent figure, the Los Angeles Times reports.

Local Scouts Branch Out With Tree-planting Project

Boy Scouts, Cubs, Venturers and Beavers will take on a massive tree-planting project in the Quinte area this spring with three objectives: To enhance the environment, to give the boys some valuable outdoor experience and to raise money for scouting at all levels.

Wednesday night at Centennial Secondary School auditorium more than 100 boys and their parents were given details on D Day (Dig Day), Saturday, May 3.

Organizer of the project, district secretary Fran Moon, explained that participants would be issued pledge sheets so that members of the community could take part by promising to sponsor tree planters at so much per tree.

Funds raised will be used locally to help cover expenses of boys attending jamborees, rallies and unit trips. The national share of the proceeds will be used to assist Operation Amigo, a program supplying two field workers in Latin America. On the provincial level, funds will be used to promote outdoor scouting and camp development.

The trees will be planted on the property of John Gale, of Downsview, near Read. They are being supplied by the provincial ministry of natural resources, which has inspected the land and taken soil samples.

Trees to be planted include white spruce, poplar, white pine and red pine. Keith Johnson of the resources ministry's Napanee office demonstrated planting technique to the Centennial audience Wednesday.

Scouts, Cubs and Beavers were told that pledge cards would be distributed shortly so they could begin collecting signatures.

Three Firms Get Contracts

From The Ottawa Bureau
of The Intelligencer

OTTAWA — Three Canadian firms have been awarded federal contracts worth more than $155,000 for services and work at Canadian Forces Base Trenton the department of supply and services has announced.

The largest contract was given to Newfoundland Telephone Co. Ltd. which will strip former Canadian Forces Station Foymount near Pembroke of its electronic equipment and transport the gear to CFB Trenton.

With a $37,000 contract, Adga Ltd. of Ottawa will be providing engineering technical services at Trenton while under the terms of a $25,000 agreement, Automatic Sprinkler Ltd. of Mississauga will be inspecting and testing the fire protection systems at the base.

Staff Seeking Outside Views

The community committee, investigating alternatives in education, wants greater participation from non-teaching people.

The group, composed mainly of Hastings County educators, met this week at the Ann St. Education Centre to discuss further proposals.

A representative from Loyalist College told his fellow members they should seek more interested people from the community, otherwise, the committee will be dominated by educators.

The group was started last September when a provincial judge told educators that too few alternatives exist when a student ends up in court.

Meeting to Discuss Fairground Pool Site

PICTON — North Marysburg deputy-reeve and Prince Edward County council's representative to the Prince Edward agricultural society, Ken Hicks, this week told council the fair board has been "booted around" in the search for a community pool site.

He briefly outlined the agricultural society's hopes for a new track at the fairgrounds, noting location of a pool there could interfere.

"If they want the property for future expansion I don't feel we should go against their wishes," he stated.

Deputy-reeve Hicks said when a new track is built the old grandstand could be demolished and a pool constructed at the site.

The concept of a new track for harness racing with pari-mutual betting, however, was dismissed as a "pipe dream" by Roy Wight a pool supporter attending the county council session.

"No matter where you go there will be some opposition," commented Picton deputy-reeve Larry Richardson, discussing pool sites.

Although council has voted to meet with members of the fair board at the fairgrounds Saturday to discuss installation of a pool there, it was agreed an alternate site might be considered.

The Bond property, adjacent to the county museum has been a heavy favorite in recent weeks when alternate sites were discussed but councillors learned this week the museum management committee opposes the pool there. It would spoil the effect of the museum, the old rectory next door and its sprawling grounds.

Deputy-reeve Richardson said an engineer has termed this the best site as it has easy access to water services. There is also a sanitary sewer.

William Rutherford, deputy-reeve of Hallowell firmly supported the fairgrounds site in council debate stating the fair board would be "very selfish" if it turned thumbs down on the proposal.

"I'd be prepared to go over their beads," he asserted.

Wellington reeve Robert Boyce said his council is willing to give the pool committee its choice of two village park sites for the pool.

He added, however, that Picton is the practical location for the facility.

Trenton Seeking Marina

TRENTON — Town council next week will create an ad hoc committee to dig for dollars from the senior governments for construction of a marina off Centennial Park.

The marina, long a hope of town councils over the years, may become a reality for Trenton soon. Provincial-federal government machinery to study Trenton's marina needs have been set up.

And the ad hoc committee, expected to be appointed Monday, will take advantage of that machinery.

Impetus for creation of the four-member committee came with the announcement of the signing of the Canada-Ontario-Rideau-Trent-Severn (CORTS) agreement in Peterborough in February.

CORTS officials have said Trenton has a definite role in providing facilities for boaters. Any marina service here would be tied into development plans for a 425-mile corridor of recreation facilities strung between Ottawa and Georgian Bay. The entire area falls under CORTS planning jurisdiction.

The committee, says town clerk Aubrey Sharp, will attempt to take advantage of the CORTS indication. It'll "knock on the door" to see what money is available for a marina.

He said he will recommend to council that the committee be composed of a councillor, Mayor Robert Patrick, as ex-officio member, Chamber of Commerce manager Jack Wilson and former councillor John Bonn.

Taylor Gets Three Posts

PICTON — James Taylor, MLA Prince Edward-Lennox has been appointed to three standing committees in the House of Commons.

A spokesman from the MLA's office in Queen's Park said Wednesday Mr. Taylor has been re-appointed to the public account committee.

He also has been named to the resources development committee and the regulations committee.

Curiosity Satisfied

With shy curiosity, Lisa Chester 11, peers over the arm of Trenton High School Grade 12 art student Karen Smith as she completes an oil painting from an engraving in an edition of the Rhyme of the Ancient Mariner. Miss Smith was one of many Wednesday who participated in a high school display night for day students as well as those who take night-time extension courses provided by Loyalist College in Trenton.

Teachers Plan 'Realistic' Approach to New Contract

BANCROFT — Contract negotiations between the Hastings County Board of Education and teachers in the county system are expected to begin in April, according to David Wilson of the men teachers' Economic Policy Committee.

Mr. Wilson made his statement at a meeting of the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation and the Federation of Women Teachers Association of Ontario here Wednesday night.

He added, "Lots of things are up in the air. We don't want to go to the board with wild inflated demands. We go in with a realistic approach and the board is prepared to listen."

About 200 Hastings elementary school teachers attended the meeting to discuss salarary negotitations, they agreed here should be a unified elementary teachers' association at both county and provincial levels.

Present also at the symposium were representatives of the provincial executive of both the federation affiliates.

Members at the meeting requested the district executive to make a sincere effort to amalgamate the two elementary school affiliates into one strong association.

District president for the men's group Wayne Brooks, Belleville, said the Hastings teachers are a very strong organization and "we have a very amiable relationship with the board".

On the basis of the number of elementary school teachers who attended the meeting; Mr. Brooks said, "It seems to me that we have what we need already to have a strong Hastings County Teachers' Federation."

Wanda Butcher is the collective bargaining rep for women's teachers federation said that the provincial level of the federation tries not to get involved in salary situations. However "it would be virtually impossible for local negotiating committees to work without the support of the federation".

Boaters Face Lock Fee On Trent This Year

TRENTON — Pleasure boaters on the Trent Canal may be paying for use of the locks on the 240-mile system for the first time in history this year.

If the fee structure is approved, boat owners will be subject to a newly-instituted fee schedule for use of the canal's 45 locks when the system opens, probably in May.

Ontario region director for Parks Canada, Jim Christakos, said Wednesday the rates dovetail into a program that will see about $376-million spent in capital improvements on various Parks Canada canals, national parks and historic sites. Twinned with the five-year capital program is another $500-million program for operation and maintenance.

The fee schedule and Parks Canada program was recently announced by Indian and Northern Affairs Minister Judd Buchanan in Ottawa. The program still needs parliamentary approval.

On the Trent Canal, as will all other Canadian canals, fees are broken down on the daily, monthly and seasonal basis. Two different rates apply: one, for boats under 18 feet in length, and another for commercial vessels and boats over 18 feet.

The former boater will pay $3 a day, $25 a month, and $50 a season (roughly May to October) for use of locks. The latter boater will pay $4 a day, $40 a month and $80 a season. Canoes and row-boats will not be charged.

If locks are not used, no fees are paid for use of the canal. But $3-a-night charge will be levied against boat owners who dock at a lock facility for more than one night. Overnight docking to await the opening of a lock next morning will be free.

At the Trent Canal, Parks Canada will pump just over $20-million over five years into what will basically be an upgrading program. The work involves major reconstruction of locks and dams, swing bridge replacement, and lock modernization.

By comparison, Parks Canada will spend about $19-million on the Rideau Canal network. A total of $75-million will come to Ontario over the five years.

Mr. Christakos said the money will be used to bring the systems up to good operating conditions after a period of time when little attention was paid them.

The Ontario director said implementation of the fee schedule is geared to offset some of the senior government's expenses: "We feel that we have to recover at least a nominal sum."

It is anticipated the fees on the canals and increases at parks and historic sites will raise $4-million annually.

The fees are in recognition of a change in use of the Trent Canal from a transportation corridor to a recreational and historic corridor.

The canal, once under the control of the ministry of transportation and communications, was taken over by Parks Canada in 1972. Traditionally, said Mr. Christakos, fees were charged only at national parks but the change in jurisdiction altered that.

The influx of federal funds will be applied to all Parks Canada — canals, historic sites and national parks.

A Meeting of Minds

Just about the time Dr. Robert Uffen was warning a Belleville audience about the need for a more spartan approach to life, failing which we might expect mass starvation, unemployment, and international upheaval, Prime Minister Trudeau was saying much the same thing in London.

The irony of this meeting of minds is that Mr. Trudeau, as we recall, once walked out of a Club of Rome discussion in that city, because he felt it was not accomplishing anything.

That was a year or two ago, but here we have Dr. Uffen, who is vice-chairman of Ontario Hydro's board of directors, and a member of the exclusive Club of Rome, discussing its second report, Mankind at the Turning Point.

This report is more optimistic than the first; it suggests there is still time to act positively, in the interests of all mankind, provided countries co-operate to help developing nations.

Meanwhile Mr. Trudeau was calling on his British audience to redress the imbalance of wealth between industrial and developing nations. It was very much in the same vein as Dr. Uffen's observations and the Club of Rome's thinking — and certainly food for thought by Canadians and Britons alike. In fact, a message for the entire world.

Deseronto Optimistic

Citizens of Deseronto might be forgiven if they felt a certain sense of pessimism these days, given the anticipated demise of Ideal Venders with the loss of more than 200 jobs at the end of May.

But that is not the case; in fact the mood is just the opposite. The feeling is that even if the plant closes some other firm will move in.

The community itself is moving ahead; work on the new community centre, in which Ideal Venders and citizens have invested, is underway and property values have risen thanks to provision of more water services. A filtration plant is expected to be in readiness by the summer of 1976.

A couple of building projects are in the offing, including a senior citizen apartment complex and possibly a housing sub-division.

A sign welcoming people to Deseronto serves notice of its residential, industrial, and recreational facilities. It may be that the latter is its weakest link, in terms of sporting facilities at least. No golf course, or tennis facilities for instance which, were they to be provided, could enhance the community's prospects that much more.

In any event, Deseronto has the potential for a better future, spurred by a forward-looking council and townsfolk who know that better days are ahead.

Project Christopher

It is said that the problems of the world are the problems of the spirit. That is, when we get outside the realm of politics and consider fundamentals.

One of the most insidious of these is the problem of loneliness. Father John Brayler of the Project Christopher group, which has now added a farm home base in Rawdon township for its young people's activities, calls it a "tremendous loneliness" that is abroad in the world today.

Project Christopher members have done much in recent years to counter this problem and to bring young people together in fellowship and useful community activity. The camp at Waupoos Island for instance is another that comes to mind.

Still, there remain a great many lonely people of all ages in our society. Of course there is always some element of loneliness in life; nevertheless it can be eased greatly by wholesome family life and by congenial group activity. In the last resort, there is always a welcome ear for those in trouble from such fine organizations as Telecare (formerly Lifeline). Belleville was one of the first in Canada to establish such a service.

Etonians as Janitors

A new Battle of Britain spirit seems to be taking hold in Brittain as the country prepares to tighten its belt still further.

Eton College, the country's most exclusive school, may set its students scrubbing floors and washing dishes to cut expenses.

Headmaster Michael McCrum estimates it could save as much as $57,000 a year in labor costs.

What the unions will say to this is another thing of course; but what matter? It's the kind of job that would do students everywhere a lot of good.

One hears too of the spartan life students of Prince Philip's old school, Gordonstoun, lead up there in Bonnie Scotland. Many a tough and well-rounded young man has come out of this kind of school curriculum welded to the discipline and academic excellence that British public schools provide.

There is no lack of fun and freedom in such an establishment, but it is also a no-nonsense environment, freed of the shackles of the modern do-your-own thing situation that has our own system at sixes and sevens so much of the time.

Sri Lanka Seeks Oil

Sri Lanka (formerly Ceylon), which in the context of today's economics has been going through hard times, is said to be on the verge of a possible oil boom.

It is also reported to be trying to diversify and not to rely exclusively on such traditional exports as tea. A cottage industry of native arts is meeting with success and the country's air force has been earning much-needed foreign exchange by going into the tourist business. A merchant fleet is being built up which is also helping Sri Lanka to become more self-reliant.

The old British connection however is in danger. There are rumblings of discontent over the long-standing British stranglethe government of Mrs. Bandaranaike is in the process of nationalizing it. "Refugees" from this development, both white and Asian, have been among recent immigrants to Canada.

There is no suggestion at the moment of Sri Lanka leaving the Commonwealth, but the island nation's increasing links with the Communist world make it a strange bed partner.

Who for instance is doing the exploration that may help put Sri Lanka on its feet again, after years of economic decline aggravated by the energy crisis, shortages of phosphates and so on? The Americans? Of course not. The British? Not bloody likely, as Eliza Doolittle would say. The Russians? Why, of course. And incidentally, the Chinese recently made the country a gift of some warships.

Immigration in Canada Reflects Changed Times

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

The event was a one-day seminar on Canada's future immigration policy. The milieu was Seeley Hall, in the Gothic pile of Trinity College at the University of Toronto.

It was an unlikely, truly elitist architectural backdrop to the comments from a panel of speakers and an audience which included recent arrivals from the Caribbean, Pakistan and Bangladesh.

Staring down on the mainly white and Wasp audience were contemporary paints of the youthful Queen Victoria and Prince Albert.

And standing behind the prosaic table and chair used by the speakers was a bishop's chair lifted from some church or other college, to complete an impression of the panoply of the empire one of whose legacies was under discussion.

Chief spokeswoman for the one-day seminar was Prof. Freda Hawkins, perhaps the best-informed specialist in Canadian immigration problems outside of government and author of a recent book on the topic and her fellow-panelists.

These included individuals concerned with the place and influence of immigrants in urban communities, an articulate town planner, the chairman of the House of Commons standing committee on labor, management and immigration and a "zero population" enthusiast.

But Mrs. Hawkins set the tone more than any of her fellow-panelists with an articulate analysis of immigration problems present and future. Her urbane observations concentrated on the way in which Third World immigration to Canada is taking a lead over traditional European sources from Britain Western Europe and Mediterranean countries, except perhaps for the recent increases in Portuguese immigration.

Mrs. Hawkins was making observations about the presence of Third World citizens in our midst in Canada, what she called "visible minorities" because of skin, race and lifestyle, whose presence is raising animosities among white Canadians.

She indicated that Canadians should show, "a civilized response to the needs" of the new immigrants, all of them in effect, but more especially the ones seeking haven from the uncertainties of life, career planning and family raising in many emerging countries of the world.

Other panelists indicated how complex are the relationships between their new homeland and themselves. Prof. Cope Schwenger, professor of health administration, University of Toronto, observed that Canada's shortage of doctors is made up more and more by immigrant doctors. But he also commented they were coming from countries which desperately needed them to stay.

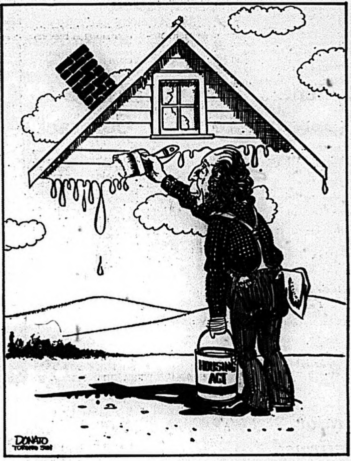
He cited the case of Jamaica, suffering a nurses' shortage much more serious than the Canadian. But it is the Canadian hospital which is hiring trained Jamaican nurses because they come here to earn more and have a more secure career.

The burning immigration issue of "temporary work permits," of which 80,000 have been issued to date, brought the response from all panelists, that these should be abolished.

It is almost impossible for such temporary visitors who want to stay and legally cannot be sent home en masse to countries in economic and political chaos.

These were just a few of the many and confusing issues which our changing immigration structure has created.

What was clear from an information-packed day is that the developing world is no longer a distant place of concern for us but is part of our society wherever its citizens have come to live and prosper among us.



Labor Demands and Inflation

By DON O'HEARN

TORONTO — Nothing could be, or should be, so closely watched for at this session than labor legislation.

There are two main matters of public concern in Canada and Ontario today.

One is inflation. The second is labor irresponsibility, disruption, or whatever one wants to call it.

On the first there are definite limits on what the government can do.

It can hold down its own spending and also hold down the rather mammoth increases it has been forced into by its employees.

It insists that controls are beyond its jurisdiction (A question that can be argued, but to what point?)

However on the question of labor relations there definitely are things it can do.

Given the will, the imagination and perhaps a spirit of adventure and it can take action, effective action.

The first step is to protect us against unlawful strikes. Today, I believe, even the bulk of organized labor would be in favor of this.

It too is fed up with having its mail disrupted, with housing costs soaring, its transportation plans always in jeopardy and even its garbage smelling up the community.

Then there is the question of secondary boycotts.

We have seen these at work many times, most recently in the random walkouts of letter carriers in the Alliance of Nation Public Servants strike.

Secondary boycotts simply don't belong in an adult society interested in self-survival.

The reason of the all-important significance of labor at this session is that we obviously are headed for a changed society where affronting the law will be something that is accepted. And the road from there leads to anarchy.

Since the war we have seen labor leadership flout the law, on the grounds that it has been bad law.

We are quickly reaching the point where even labor leadership itself is becoming frightened.

In the past government has been extremely weak through political fears.

But now there is practically no question that it has the big balance of the public with it.

It can act without serious political disadvantage. And act boldly.

In Exile

Too bad about General Spinola. A general should know the temper of his troops, but he didn't, and now after a piddling attempted coup, Portugal's most decorated soldier, less than a year ago a revolutionary hero and president, has fled the country as a disgraced fall guy, his successors asking for his arrest. He blew his chance, and he may have blown for a long time the chance of his country to establish a democratic government.

Information Booklet Helps Bereaved Wives

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Becoming a widow is a shattering experience. For many women, it is made all the worse by the necessity of making financial and business decisions that are new and strange to them.

Yet such decisions and actions must be taken, despite the great personal stress the widow is suffering.

It's true that the professional guidance of lawyers, funeral directors, trust officers and others can help to ease the burden. But the widow, personally, must settle certain financial, business and legal affairs.

To supplement this professional counsel, there is a small, useful booklet called Information or Widows, prepared by the Life Insurance Marketing and Research Association (170 Sigourney St., Hartford, Conn., 06105) and available through the Canadian Life Officers Association and life-insurance representatives in Canada.

It suggests that husbands complete an inventory of the personal papers that will be needed after death—insurance policies (life, personal, car, property) personal certificates (birth, marriage, vaccination, passport, military), real estate, will, bank and trusts accounts, safety-deposit box, securities, tax certificates, personal debts, associations, credit cards, funeral arrangements and cemetery plot.

A checklist of things to be done by the widow includes these steps:

—Round up the personal papers mentioned above. Never throw away any document that seems to be out of date without checking first with a lawyer or with the other party named in the document.

—Obtain at least 10 copies of the death certificate through the funeral director (who usually supplies the application) or directly from the local registration office.

—Ask the deceased's employer or business associates about any available benefits, such as group life insurance coverage, pension fund, civil-service benefits, vacation or sick pay termination allowance, service-recognition awards, commissions owing, disability income, credit-union balance and so on.

—Check his hospital, surgical and disability insurance. Coverage sometimes extends to widows for a specified period.

—Notify your life-insurance representative or the company's home office. Most life companies require a death certificate or attending physician's statement, plus a claimant's statement by the legal beneficiary, and some may want additional details. Be prepared to give the insurer the number of the policy, the deceased's full name and address and date, place and cause of death.

—If property is cleared from joint tenancy, any fire or other insurance covering it must be changed to the widow's name.

—Notify the nearest Canada Pension Plan administration office (a lump-sum death benefit of up to $740 is available). The CPP office will require the death certificate, deceased's Social Insurance card, proof of age of the deceased, the widow and children, if any, and a statement of the deceased's earnings for the last two years.

—Inquire of the provincial government office as to eligibility for widow's or mother's allowance.

—Inform the local Unemployment Insurance or Workmen's Compensation office, if the deceased was receiving either of those benefits.

—If the deceased was a veteran of military service and you feel you may have a claim for a pension, contact the nearest Department of Veterans Affairs office. If he was receiving a disability pension at death, notify the Canada Pension Commission's closest office.

—Contact all companies where the deceased had accounts payable and ask whether the debt is automatically paid up by a life-insurance term contract.

—If there is a husband-and-wife joint bank account, ask the bank in writing to release what money it can (banks must freeze the bulk of the deceased's accounts until death duties have been paid).

—Write to any union, business association, automobile club, fraternity, etc., to which the deceased may have belonged, to inquire about widows' benefits.

(First of a series of three articles).

LETTERS

Pensioners' Supplement

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Wilf Wright a spokesman for the Federal Health and Welfare Dept., has recently drawn attention to the fact that many Ontario Old Age Pensioners will not get their Guaranteed Annual Supplement unless they apply by March 31, 1975.

Mr. Wright points out there are still 92,000 who are eligible but have not yet applied.

The G.I.S. Program states that recipients are required to re-apply each year.

Mr. Wright urges those who have not yet filled in their application forms should do so at once.

The Counselling Service of Pensioners Concerned Canada Inc., Belleville and District Chapter have been helpful in assisting many pensioners to fill in these forms and have been successful in securing retroactive pay, also regular monthly payments for them. Widows in particular seem to be those that require assistance along these lines.

Our organization would appreciate this letter appearing in your valuable paper to draw attention to the fact that pensioners must apply for G.I.S. before March 31st annually.

Indians Want Talks With Leger

OTTAWA (CP) — Five Indians from reserves near Brantford and Cornwall, Ont., again met with Government House officials Wednesday to arrange a meeting with Governor-General Jules Leger to discuss injustices in treaty arrangements.

However, a civil case involving the Six Nations Indian reserve now is before the Ontario Supreme Court and a Government House spokesman said it is "difficult to arrange a meeting until the civil sides are settled . . . and the governor-general should not see them until the court settles the case."

Chief Murry Henhawk of the Six Nations reserve near Brantford said he wanted a full conference between Gov.-Gen. Leger and the 50 chiefs from Brantford and Cornwall reserves.

A Government House spokesman said the five traditional chiefs, who differ from those elected to the reserve councils, take the view that treaty negotiations are to be carried out with the Crown's representative.

Reach Accord

OTTAWA (CP) — A marine pilotage dispute which threatened smooth operation of the St. Lawrence seaway this year appears to have been resolved in a Canada-United States agreement.

The transport department announced Wednesday that pilotage rules in one seaway district have been changed to ensure that U.S. pilots handle ships going to U.S. ports as much as possible while Canadian pilots would look after ships going to Canadian ports.

Blames Davis

COLLINGWOOD, Ont. (CP) — Teachers and board of education trustees are not to blame for problems in the educational system, Liberal leader Robert Nixon said Wednesday.

"The system is Bill Davis's and blame for its failures must be laid at his feet."

Pleads Guilty

TORONTO (CP) — A former senior maintenance supervisor for the Ontario Housing Corp. pleaded guilty Wednesday to five charges of accepting benefits from firms doing business with the corporation without the written consent of the head of his branch.

Gerald Andrew McIntosh, 48, of Oakville, Ont., was remanded for sentencing May 23.

Pay Raised

ST. CATHARINES, ONT. (CP) — The tiny cataraman to serve as the cross-canal ferry at nearby Port Robinson won't make its first run until next week but already its skipper has been given a pay raise.

Captain Richard Gorham of Niagara Falls, Ont., who will operate the 17-foot craft, originally had asked for $5 an hour but now has decided he wants $6.

Queen May Come

OTTAWA (CP) — The possible opening of the Montreal Olympics by the Queen is being discussed with Montreal and Quebec province authorities, Prime Minister Trudeau said Wednesday.

"I don't think an invitation has been extended yet," he told Sean O'Sullivan (PC—Hamilton Wentworth) in the Commons.

Lottery Opposed

TORONTO (CP) — City council voted 14 to 8 Wednesday to condemn the Ontario government's decision to hold a province-wide lottery this spring.

Ald. George Ben described the lottery as "invidious, iniquitous and deplorable."

Peanut Plantings Possible

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — An experimental peanut crop might be planted early in May in southern Ontario if adequate federal financing is provided, Dr. O. E. Hattley of the University of Guelph said Wednesday.

Federal Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan recommended this week that the study on peanut production in southern Ontario, started last year, be given additional federal support.

About 20 acres will be seeded on Delhi-area farms once federal financing comes through, Dr. Hattley said.

Consumers' Group Worried About Milk Price Increase

TORONTO (CP) — Expressing concern about the latest increase in the price of milk, the Consumers Association of Canada (Ontario) urged the provincial government Wednesday to increase the powers of the Ontario Milk Commission.

The three-cent increase pushes the price of a quart of homogenized milk in a three quart jug here to 47.3 cents and two-per-cent milk to 46.3 cents.

In a letter to Agriculture Minister W. A. Stewart, the association notes that the Ontario Milk Marketing Board is required to justify increases while dairies and retailers are not.

The letter asks that the Ontario Milk Commission be empowered to require dairies and retailers to justify price increases.

Spring Fever Brings Quitting-school Blues

It's that time again.

In the spring ... when a young person's fancy turns to thoughts of ... freedom.

Especially if he or she is 16, or over and freedom means getting out of and away from school.

Exams come right before the March school break, and poor marks are followed by a week of blissful holidaying, or with the sudden reward of a part-time job's pay.

The sun shines, the snow melts, and the sap runs wild in more than the veins of trees.

It's nicer to sit outside than in, to listen to birds instead of teachers.

Thoughts of summer. Independence. Travel. Money. Freedom.

And quitting school.

The first sign is usually the complaints about teachers, maybe one in particular.

"Mom! He just keeps pickin' on me."

"No, I don't know why. He just doesn't seem to like me."

"I just hate him, and I hate that whole school."

Maybe you learn first when you see him (or her) downtown when you know that exams are on.

Or perhaps there's a report with a lot more sick days than you remember.

Then suddenly it's blurted out one night during supper:

"I quit school today! I'm not going back! I'm 16 and I don't have to go. You can't make me!"

There are lots of things you can do to try to change teenagers' minds.

You can bully. You can threaten. You can order them back. But you also know that, in most cases, this doesn't really work. At best, it delays the eventual quitting time.

You can point out the benefits of further education. And then they will point to the newspaper stories of BAs getting turned away from production line jobs and PhDs on welfare.

You can talk about education broadening the mind, making people better informed. They can make the same observation about travel.

You can, as a sneaky last resort, point to their friends who are happy to stay on at school. And he or she will tell you, slowly and carefully, as if you're some kind of idiot, that their friends are not THEM!

And that's probably your first clue to what's happening.

Your son or daughter is not somebody else. They're not a generalization. They're individuals, and they're reacting to an individual situation. Theirs.

And you can do something positive. You can listen.

Don't be an inquisitor, but do ask questions. Ask them in the manner of a friend who has accepted their first decision — to leave school — and who now wants to help them decide on the next step.

Maybe it is something as simple as a teacher who is failing to communicate. Or a subject hastily and wrongly chosen in the fall and now regretted.

In that case you can probably help solve the problem and school won't seem so bad. You can make an appointment to see a guidance officer, or any of the school staff. They'll be glad to help you.

Perhaps it's deeper. A need to get away from books and work with the hands. A desire to shake off the dust of years at home and just get away.

You can still help ... maybe in finding the right job, or in helping them move ... to someplace where you'll know they'll be safe from hunger "with a roof over their heads".

After all, if you were prepared to spend money to educate them in college, why not spend it on their education in the world?

Leaving school may be a big mistake for your son or daughter. But you can be sure that leaving in anger, feeling that nobody understands why, is an even bigger mistake.

A Challenge For Change

A small group of men and women gathered at Corby Library Wednesday night to watch and discuss two National Film Board films about women in modern society.

The meeting was the second of three being held on the topic Women — Challenge for Change. Michael Catlinn field worker for single parents with the Community and Social Services and Marvin Valensky, vocational rehabilitation worker with the agency, introduced the films and led discussion.

Tonight is the final night of the series and will include two films, and discussion led by Scott Orfald, Family and Children's Services, Evelyn Paton, Family and Children's Services, and Ann Orfald, Belleville General Hospital.

The program begins at 8 p.m. at the library.

Fight Fear With Facts

Some of the useful, in fact, essential information given to the Forum for Women Only Wednesday night included the following facts.

— One out of five Canadians will at some point develop cancer.

— In this year in Belleville, 300 persons will be pronounced cured of cancer; 120 cases of cancer will be diagnosed of which 40 will be cured; 180 persons will continue under treatment for cancer, and 60 persons will die of cancer.

— Cancer of the reproductive organs accounts for 20 per cent of female cancer, and this number is rapidly declining as women realize the importance of regular pap smear tests.

— The risk of cancer decreases with each successive year after the first pap test. Only six out of every 1,000 tests show any cell abnormality, and only three of these are actually cancer. Once a woman has had three annual pap tests prove negative, her chances of having cervical cancer are greatly reduced.

* * *

There are seven steps to health everyone should take: 1. Have a medical and a dental check-up. 2. Watch for any change in your normal state of health. 3. Find out about any lump or sore that does not heal. 4. Protect yourself from too much sunlight. 5. Do not smoke. 6. Have a Pap test. 7. Do a monthly breast self-examination.

Thurlow Needs Canvass Help

The April fund drive by the Canadian Cancer Society begins soon, and canvassers are still needed.

In Thurlow township particularly, there is a great need for women especially in the Cannifton area to volunteer time to assist with the canvassing.

Any persons interested in helping this cause should contact Catherine Chapman at 968-7167 or at 968-3188.

Dr. D. A. MacIntosh, Dr. Peter Scott, Dr. R. L. Vaughan, Dr. Robert Allore

Doctors Answer Cancer Questions

An audience of nearly 200 women heard reassuring words about the high cure rate for cancer Wednesday evening in Education Hall at the Belleville General Hospital. They were attending a Forum for Women Only, sponsored by the Canadian Cancer Society.

Ena Corke introduced three films explaining the "seven steps to health" cancer prevention program, illustrating the techniques of breast self-examination and the pap smear process, and showing the varied assistance program that the Canadian Cancer Society provides for cancer patients.

Following the films, Dr. R. L. Vaughan was moderator for a panel of Belleville physicians, Dr. Peter Scott, Dr. Robert Allore and Dr. D. A. MacIntosh, who answered questions put to them by the audience.

Asked whether a pap test is necessary after a hysterectomy, Dr. Allore replied that in theory the answer is yes, but in practice many doctors discontinue the test because the chances of cancer are then minimal, except in cases where cancer was the cause of the hysterectomy. In these instances, pap tests are continued as a precautionary measure.

Breast X-rays (mamagrams) need not be done regularly said Dr. Vaughan. In fact, under the age of 35 there is little reason for them, especially since tissue changes that make detection possible don't occur until after that age.

Dr. MacIntosh informed the audience that a thorough annual medical check-up should include a blood test, urine analysis, internal, pelvic and rectal examination accompanied by a pap test, and in cases where a woman in her late 40s or 50s has not had a recent physical, a bowel and kidney x-ray.

Breast feeding does not cause cancer, Dr. Allore assured the audience. If anything, it probably protects women from this type of cancer.

There is some correlation between the number of children and the incidence of cancer of female reproductive organs, Dr. Allore said, but it is likely because women with large families started bearing children while quite young. Early sexual activity has been connected with this type of cancer, but is not a "cause" just as marriage to a circumsized male is not a "prevention" of cancer.

Dr. Allore and the other doctors recommended that women ask their family physicians for a yearly pap test, since the accompanying internal and pelvic examining can disclose cancer otherwise not discovered.

Bargain Fashions

Fashion-conscious bargain hunters got a Taste of Spring Wednesday when the Mary-L Boutique held its first fashion show.

The show, held at the shop on Dundas St. West, exclusively featured clothing and accessories from the stores racks — all "second time around fashions".

Models at the show were Barbara Ross, Noreen Davis, Sherry Twa, Tania Vaughan, Bradley Vaughan. Commentator was Elinor Hipkin.

AROUND TOWN

LANA ROBINSON

Match Your Surroundings

On such a lovely day as this (it's Tuesday, as I write this) we are having a glorious preliminary to Spring. And, if you're wearing a dark, sombre, heavy winter outfit, you're probably feeling too warm and a great deal out of place with this March sunshine. Studio 231, 231 Front St. can fix that, I assure you, by outfitting you in some great spring clothes in some great spring colors. Owner Connie Mitchell tells me that great new look which is both attractive and company takes its business very seriously. And they'll treat other shirts. And she's got lots of great looking shirts for this great look. Start spring on the right foot — a Studio 231 Foot!

House Specialty

I had a delightful evening at Inn on The Bay Tavern in Picton recently. I'd heard about the Shrimps a la Maison but hadn't tried them before — what an underprivileged person I've been! They are scrumptuous, to put it mildly, a real, melt-in-your-mouth experience in good eating. And the decor and charming waitress certainly added to make a potentially lovely evening the real thing. Phone for your reservations by calling 476-3114 in Picton. Don't forget that Wednesdays are International nights and the hit of a Saturday lunch at Inn On the Bay is the meat pies.

They'll Fix 'em

Superior T.V., 103 Cannifton Road, have a very effective way of describing their servicing policy, ie. "We'll fix anything". And they can. Although Superior does factory warrantee work on many major television makes, they can fix absolutely any make. And promptness is an important part of that Superior service. They try to call within 24 hours and they do night house calls too up until 9 p.m. This company takes its business very seriously. And they'll reat your business with them the same way. Call 962-9516 and let Superior "fix it."

Lots New at the Shop

There's a lot doing right now at the Tropical Gardens Pet Shop, 301½ Front St. There are some dear puppies of various makes and model, all selling at $8. (They aren't Easter bunnie, but they'll do.) The Tropical Garden also has some other Easter gift suggestions! Diamond Doves, or Burke's parakeets. These parakeets are a larger and more colorful variety of parakeet. So put a spring in your step and some spring in your household with some new and alive things from the Tropical Garden Pet Shop.

Things Are Happening

The buyers and sellers are out, according to Gordon Roblin of Gord Roblin Real Estate, 117 North Front St. So if you want to get in on the spring action, you'd better call one of the sales staff of Gord Roblin at 968-6475. They'll get you on their list as soon as possible or start showing you what's on their list already, if you're a buyer. But the word is out . . . Spring is out . . . and the buyers and sellers are out. Let Gord Roblin help you sell or buy your property. The sooner the better, right?

It's Starting to Sink In

On a day like today (Tuesday) another Spring seems a sure thing. And all that admonishing I've been doing in the past few months telling you to call Belleview Glass and Mirror at 968-5731 to order your aluminum screen and windows should really start to mean something. You can't put off ordering much longer if you want to tell those first flies and mosquitoes where to get off — or where not to come in. Belleview will do all the measuring, ordering and installation; you just make the phone call and smile as your neighbour struggles with his wooden ones.

Now Is The Time

Well folks . . . we made it through another winter, us and our poor cars. (I hope in the next life I don't come back as a car — even as a Datsun — in our climate.) Vader's Car Sales and Service are now ready, willing and able to give your car the treatment it deserves — a spring tune-up. With the expanded facilities of their new building on College St., Vader's cand do more cars faster. All you need do to beat the spring rush is to call Vader's Service Dept. right now at 966-5302 and get a jump on the season. Who wants to drive around in the sunshine in a car which isn't working properly?

Guess Where The Easter Bunny Is?

Now, just think. If you were an Easter bunny and you wanted to be some place where you'd be appreciated, wouldn't you pick the Sidney Inn, 265 Moira St. West? Of course you would. You'd feel right at home amidst the mums and Easter lillies and all the Easter candy displays. And if you should happen to have the task of standing in for the Easter bunny, you'll also know where to go and pick up an assortment of flowers, candies, cards — and even stamps. The Sidney Inn has a post office on the premises too. Go where wise rabbits go — the Sidney Inn.

Now, Think About It

Last week, I mentioned the special offer on the purchase of box springs with the purchase of a bedroom suite from Wray's Home Furnishers, 306 Front St. This week may well have prompted thoughts of the cottage, with our lovely sunshine and disappearing snow. The cottage will benefit from your present bedroom suite and you will certainly benefit from a new one from the excellent selection now at Wrays. If you do buy a new suite and a new mattress, you need pay only half price for a matching box spring, which can means some real money. The purchase of a new bedroom suite is a substantial one, and one that you don't make every day. Wrays know this and so they are offering this special price on the box springs. It's a time of year to think of getting things done and you can get started with some good help from Wrays.

Your March Birthstone

If March is your birth month, then the Aquamarine is your birthstone. Aquamarine, which takes its name obviously from its blue-green color indicative of the sea, is found in Brazil, Madagascar and the USSR. In the Middle Ages, according to information passed on by W. Wonnacott and Sons Jewellers, 247 Front St., people believed that the Aquamarine would bring good fortune and safety at sea. It had certain acclaimed medicinal powers too, such as relieving hiccups and liver ailments and was worn to overcome poisons. The emperor Nero was very fond of this stone and the Duke of Windsor gave the Duchess of Windsor a set of aquamarines. Now, if you'd like to see this stone and various applications of it, all you have to do is to visit W. Wonnacott and Sons. Mr. Wonnacott is a great enthusiast of precious and semi-precious stones. You'll find your visit informative for certain.

Ann Landers

Impotence Confuses Bride-to-be

Dear Ann Landers: I met this magnificent guy, age 24, three years ago. We were engaged last July. I was a virgin when we met but he changed all that. And I'm glad he did, because I learned something that might make a big difference in our marriage. The guy has become impotent in the last seven months.

The most confusing part of all this is that when we are sitting on the sofa, riding in a car, or in a movie, he's rarin' to go. The minute we get in a bedroom—nothing.

The situation has become so embarrassing that he is afraid to attempt sex. He says he's sure his problem is mental not physical, and after we are married everything will be OK.

My parents are planning a big wedding. Should I go ahead in the hope that what he says is true?—Cress Between Fires

Dear E. B. F.: That "magnificent guy" should be examined by a physician and learn whether his problem is mental or physical. Chances are 10 to 1 it's in his head. If such is the case, he should go to a counsellor and get it out of his head.

If counselling doesn't help, you must decide if you want to marry a man who is impotent and count on wedded bliss to change the situation.

Dear Ann Landers: Ten years ago my husband and I took my widowed mother into our home. We cared for her until she died five years ago. My sister who lives in a distant state refused to help. Martha came to visit three times during those five years.

Last year Martha demanded that we become close because "we are the only ones left." She wants to be the big sister and boss me around, although we are both grown women. (She has been married three times, divorced twice.)

Ive developed some ghastly psychosomatic illnesses trying to establish a peaceful relationship. To put it bluntly, she is making me sick.

My husband and children can't stand Martha and they think I am nuts for trying to get along with her. I'm searching for wise counsel. Should I see a psychiatrist?—Confused

Dear C.: Yes. That sentence, "She is making me sick," is the tip-off. You need to explore verbally the conflicts that exist in your thinking—and there must be many, dating back to childhood.

Nothing in your letter indicates that Martha has moved to your city, so I assume she is still in another part of the country. If she can make you miserable from a distance, you really do need professional help.

Dear Ann Landers: You were unnecessarily rude to that couple who said they had given up sex because it caused more unhappiness than any single thing in the world.

I agree with them. The world has gone sex crazy. I'm sick to death of the whole rotten mess.

Wouldn't it be beautiful if sex were used only for procreation—as the good Lord intended?—Seen Too Much

Dear Much: The sex drive is the second-strongest emotion known to man. (Instinct for survival is Number One.) Sex as an expression of love came late in our evolution. Now that the world is threatened by starvation unless we do something about birth control on a massive scale, I hope you will rethink your views.

Stamps Aid Mission

We have a message here from The Leprosy Mission (Canada) saying that this mission received $30,198 in income from stamps and other gifts from children and children's groups; and that other gifts brought this total up to $60,000.

For 1975 they are planning to build a hospital in East Bhutan, training leprosy workers in Zaire; and giving children a good schooling as well as medical care in Thailand and Indonesia.

That's not the half of it. They are also helping a doctor in India who is training patients and ex-patients to be good farmers so that they do not become beggars. And there are other projects.

This is a unique kind of charity — helping a leprosy mission. The person who wants to help settles down to collecting stamps by the pound, not steaming them off letters but cutting them off and leaving a one-half inch margin around them.

If you want to know details, write a note to The Leprosy Mission (Canada), Suite 1128, 67 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ontario M5E 1J8.

Dear Doris: My husband is so close to his folks and so thoughtless with me. Yet I do everything in this house — paint, keep things up to date and looking nice. Our children are happy and have good meals, clean clothes.

Today when my husband and son drove to another town to see our boy play hockey, he went over to his parents' house and bid his mother goodbye, then out to the barn to see his father, and right past our own place, where I was watching out the window.

So I hollered out, "Aren't you coming in to say goodbye to me?" At that he backed up and came in. But he just thinks I'm a maid, to keep the house clean, get the meals and something to take to bed.

A woman has to feel she is a homemaker. My husband's folks have never let us run our own life, so he does not know how.

Ready to Throw in the Sponge.

Dear Ready: What you are telling me should have been changed at the very beginning of your marriage — and yet a young bride so often finds it impossible to hold out for independence!

Some parents do unconsciously foster dependence in their grown-up children, and a man may find it difficult to break loose even if he wants to. Your only hope is to become, to him, the Important Person.

Marriage is a sharing. He needs to know how you see the whole thing, and then to express himself to you. No one ever needed a trained counsellor more. Seek one, even if your husband won't come with you.

Confidential to Future Mother-in-Law: It just isn't your business to poke into the relationships in your future daughter-in-law's home. There is not much you can do to help a long-standing feud between mother and sisters who are standing up against their father.

One thing you can do is be a good mother-in-law and help make life happy for your new daughter-in-law and your son. Keep your own relationships warm and affectionate and perhaps this will set an example to the family who have forgotten what love and family life ought to be all about.

Christina Onassis: A Good Business Mind

PARIS (AP) — Christina Onassis, 24-year-old principal inheritor of her father's wealth, is said to have a good mind for business and growing maturity, qualities needed to control the shipping empire which now is hers.

She is expected to turn to her companion, Peter Goulandris, 30, heir to another Greek shipping fortune, for help in running the empire.

Christina's stepmother, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, will be the second main inheritor of Onassis's wealth. Family sources said she will receive $120 million of the estimated $800 million fortune.

Christina's contact with the ships that turned her father into one of the world's richest men has been limited mainly to swinging champagne bottles against the bows of tankers.

Her parents—Christina's mother was Tina Livinos—were divorced 10 years after she was born in the United States. Her mother's sister died of an apparent suicide, her brother Alexander died in a plane crash, and her mother, 45 and remarried to Stavros Niarchos, died suddenly last year. Aside from some aunts Christina is the last of the family.

Christina was married before she was 21 to a California real-estate man, Joseph Bolker. The marriage lasted only nine months, but Onassis reacted angrily to it, modifying a trust fund he had set up for Christina. Later, the rift was healed.

Christina has lived mainly in Paris and New York for the last two years, keeping an apartment on Avenue Foch near the Bois de Boulogne, and, a friend says, has been going out less now.

"She's much less interested in fashion nowadays," the friend said. "She just hasn't had time for that kind of thing. She was starting to work with her father after her brother's death, and she has been changing.

"I would describe her as a very strong, yet very sensitive person. She's a very faithful friend. She's funny and energetic. She's much more interested in business and politics now."

Sleepy French Village Setting for Mystery

By JACK TRACY
The Canadian Press

Despite a nearby electronics plant and a distant chemical works that sometimes pollutes the air, the French village of Moulins sleeps in the sun of the Moselle valley.

Its inhabitants gossip drink, flirt and go to socials in the Roman Catholic Church.

But Marion Rippon, in her latest novel, The Ninth Tentacle, endows the rustic community with a strange sense of foreboding.

The central characters are Fiona Rolland, an apparently dim-witted housewife, and Maurice Ygrec, a retired gendarme suffering from emphysema.

Mrs. Rippon brings them together, along with assorted village characters, hippies and outside industrialists, in a story of mystery, madness and violent death.

Ygrec has to take to his bed occasionally when the air is bad or the flu threatens, but his logical mind sorts out and simplifies the police problems.

This is the second novel in which Mrs. Rippon has featured the old gendarme.

A former resident of Britain and France, Mrs. Rippon now makes her home in Victoria.

The Ninth Tentacle, Marion Rippon; $5.75; 183 pages; Doubleday.

Vancouver Mall Reactions Vary

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bless the mall, say many Vancouver residents. But the view is not unanimously shared by the long and the short and the tall.

The downtown Granville Mall, which opened officially last summer has produced the character of the mall itself.

At its north end, where high-class stores sell expensive merchandise, the owners report that their business has increased substantially. In the south, where more modest establishments share the amenities with hookers, heroin dealers and their customers, the merchants are less contented.

Even the Sunday strollers have a few problems.

"For $3 million there's no place to sit down and rest, no public washrooms, no awnings to protect us from the rain," said an elderly pedestrian. "All they've done is widen the sidewalks and plant a few trees. The storekeepers could have done that much by themselves."

As a compromise between foot and vehicular traffic needs, two lanes in the centre of the six-block mall accommodate buses, taxis, police cars and delivery trucks. Neither drivers nor pedestrians are happy with the arrangement.

"People shouldn't have to dodge buses and taxis," said a restaurant owner. "They should keep out all vehicles except maybe a little jitney service or horse-drawn trolleys for those who want to get from one end to the other."

Bus drivers said the reduced traffic gives pedestrians a false sense of security. The buses are supposed to limit their speed to 15 or 20 miles an hour in the mall but driver John Kristianson said they sometimes go faster.

"With diesel buses, the faster you go the more noise you make to warn pedestrians of your approach," he said. "Sometimes, when a pedestrian is too close for comfort, I give the air brakes a swish or two and then toot the horn."

The restaurant owner complained that the mall "isn't run like a mall and isn't promoted like one." He urged promotional campaigns to advertise the mall and provide more benefits for the public as well as the merchants.

"This part of Vancouver has everything, every kind of store and business you can imagine yet you look out there and you see one or two people wandering by when there should be hundreds or thousands.

"There's also a problem with the junkies on the street. They're a nuisance and they discourage shoppers. There should be more police patrols on foot but they have to show discretion. Nobody wants to see people get searched and hassled out on the street."

An average of eight constables are on duty in the mall at any one time. One of them said mall duty is referred to as "garbage work" by her colleagues.

She said police have no serious problems with prostitutes, who are picked up if there is a warrant out for them and usually go quietly.

"But it's the hypes who are the bad ones," she added, re- addicts. She said the shoplifting situation is likely to improve, with the addition of better-class shops.

Another constable said several merchants have reported an increase in shoplifting but some owners are reluctant to press charges for fear of repercussons against their establishments.

He said part of the problem is that many youngsters have nowhere else to go.

"Sooner or later, with nothing to do they're going to turn to crime."

At the prosperous north end, Thomas Birks, manager of the Vancouver branch of the jewelry firm of Henry Birks and Sons, said he is pleased with the police patrols and the mall security system in general and that business has improved.

"As in all such projects, a few things were overlooked at first," he said.

P.E.I
Potatoes

	1974	1975
20 lb. bag	$2.69	69¢

difference 74%

Plenty of potatoes for pennies a pound.

This year is a very good year for potatoes. A bumper crop came out of the ground in the fall. And that's good news for anyone who wants to save money nutritiously.

The chart below illustrates just how much lower potato prices are this year over last year.

Class	Weight	1974 price	1975 price	Difference
Canada #1 P.E.I.	50 lb.	$5.89	$1.59	$4.30/73%
Canada #1 P.E.I.	20 lb.	$2.69	$ .69	$2.00/74%
Canada #1 P.E.I.	10 lb.	$1.37	$ .47	.90¢/65%
Ontario #1 Or N.B. #1	10 lb.	$1.25	$ .37	.88¢/70%
Ontario Highland #1 Red	10 lb.	$1.25	$ .39	.86¢/68%
Alberta Baking	40 lb.	$1.49	$ .99	.50¢/33%

As you can see, the average difference in price between this year and last year is about 70%. And when price is your first consideration, potatoes are your best bet.

Plenty of things to do with potatoes.

The potato has been called, among other things, the "King" of vegetables. And for a very good reason. The potato is undeniably the most versatile vegetable ever to pop out of the earth. Think about it. How many ways can you cook potatoes? Dozens of ways, right? That's what being a versatile vegetable is really all about. How many other vegetables can you do as much with?

Not many. And not any are as great a bargain as potatoes are right now.

Here are three nifty potato recipes for you to add to your files. They're all delicious. And they'll all help you stretch your food dollar a little farther.

Fresh Potato Soup

Otherwise known as vichyssoise

1 medium onion
3 leeks
2 tablespoons butter
1 pound potatoes (4 medium), sliced very thin
4 cups chicken broth
2 cups cream
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
chopped chives

Chop the onion and leeks fine; saute in butter until crisp-tender in 3 quart saucepan. Add the potatoes and 2 cups of the chicken broth. Cover and simmer for 15-20 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Remove mixture from heat, stir in remaining chicken broth and either blend until smooth in electric blender or put mixture through a fine strainer. Return to saucepan and stir in the cream, salt and pepper. Serve hot or cold sprinkled with chives. Serves 6.

Hot Curried Potatoes

⅓ cup butter
¾ cup chopped onion
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon curry powder
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups chicken bouillon
2 tablespoons white vinegar
4 cups cooked, sliced potatoes
½ cup celery, sliced diagonally
½ cup grapes, seeded and halved
1 red apple, cored and sliced into wedges (do not peel)

Melt butter in a large skillet, add onion and cook until crisp-tender. Blend in flour, curry powder and salt. Stirring constantly, cook for 1-2 minutes. Add the bouillon and vinegar slowly; cook mixture until thickened. Add the remaining ingredients and heat thoroughly, approximately 5 minutes. If necessary, add additional salt to taste. Serves 4-6.

Potato-Cheese Puffs

A tempting way to use left-over mashed potatoes

2 eggs, separated
1½ cups mashed potatoes
¼ cup milk
⅓ cup grated cheese
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper (optional)
2 tablespoons butter, melted

Beat egg yolks; add potatoes, milk and cheese and continue to beat until fluffy. Stir in remaining ingredients except egg whites. Beat egg whites until stiff; fold into potato mixture. Place the mixture in mounds on well-greased baking sheet or pan. Brush the surface with butter. Bake at 375° F for 20 minutes or until golden brown. Serves 6.

Plenty of nutrition.

Potatoes are a good source of vitamin C. In fact, one medium size cooked potato supplies about ⅓ of an adult's daily vitamin C requirement. Potatoes also supply appreciable amounts of thiamine, niacin (both B vitamins), iron and other minerals. Potatoes are good for you. So good, in fact, that Canada's Food Guide recommends that we eat at least one serving of potatoes a day.

Of course there are many people who don't eat potatoes every day. Because they believe potatoes are fattening. But the facts are very clear. The average potato has approximately 90 calories. Ten calories more than a slice of bread. Ten less than a banana.

And compared to an iced slice of chocolate cake with a whopping 235 calories, the potato doesn't really come off all that bad. Potatoes make a lot of sense. They're nutritious. They're very versatile. They're delicious. And this year, they're one of the best food bargains around.

Plenty of potato partners.

Potatoes go great with a lot of things. And Loblaws makes the art of dressing up potatoes a lot more affordable, because in addition to great low prices on potatoes, we're offering everyday low prices on all the fixings too. Save on sour cream and aluminum foil and butter and margarine. Even good old salt.

All the things you'll need to make your potatoes really something. Available. Right now. At Loblaws.

Where more than the price is right.

Experts Stress Proper Use of Consumer Credit

Consumer credit, economic advantage or consumer pitfall?

This was the question asked of the panel at a seminar held here this week at Loyalist College by the public relations class.

Guest panelists were Paul Reid of Household Finance Co. in Toronto, Roly Thomas of Royal Bank of Canada in Belleville and William Hockley of the Trenton Citizens Bureau. The panel was moderated by Loyalist student Bill Hancock.

Mr. Reid explained consumer credit was the link between mass production and mass consumption. He added when a person buys on credit he does have the use of the purchase at the same time he is paying for it but it ties up his future income, people tend to overspend and it costs money to borrow.

"Credit like medicine if properly used can cure financial illness," he commented. He pointed out a course on credit education has been devised and is available to local boards of education.

Mr. Thomas elaborated on how lenders should tell borrowers exactly what they are getting into and consumers must use common sense and be educated as to the implications involved.

Mr. Hockley commented, "the credit field has to stand up and form some workable legislation to protect people from themselves."

He noted although most people are credit-concious, there is a "hard core of people" who cannot handle credit situations.

Mr. Hockley said he feels more investigation on the part of lenders might prevent potential credit disasters.

The panel answered a wide range of questions from the audience, consisting of both Loyalist students and staff and representatives from area banks, credit unions and trust companies.

Secret Ballot Backs Teachers as Trustees

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Separate school trustees resorted to secret ballot this week to say they favor teachers serving as trustees.

The Hastings — Prince Edward County Separate School Board rejected a resolution that would have endorsed a move by the Ontario School Trustees' Council (OSTC) to prohibit teachers from seeking election to boards.

the issue was raised at the February provincial salary conference of the OSTC. Nine major groups at the conference voted overwhelmingly to keep teachers off school boards.

Trustee John Granville, a secondary school teaceher, delivered an emotional plea for fellow trustees to reject the resolution which favored pressuring the ministry of education to enact legislation prohibiting teachers on boards.

Mr. Granville said it was a "denial of democratic principles" as well as a major injustice to the teaching profession.

He suggested the OSTC should also exclude the clergy from boards due to "their vested interest". However, Mr. Granville added that he was opposed to any group being excluded.

Father L. P. Casartelli, one of two priests on the board, said he favored the resolution.

He asked fellow board members what would happen if the predominantly teacher board was confronted with a strike?

Paul Wall, a Loyalist College teacher, objected to the wording of the resolution. By implication the resolution also applies to community college teachers, said Mr. Wall, a Belleville trustee.

Mr. Wall abstained from the voting because he said the resolution was ambiguous and should not apply to community college teachers.

After voting the board qualified its position by adding the teacher reference applies only to secondary and elementary schools.

With existing legislation a teacher within a jurisdiction can't serve on the administering school board in that area. A teacher from another jurisdiction can serve as a trustee.

Belleville trustee Paul Wall requested the vote to be by secret ballot.

The board also voted to accept a resolution that would ban principals from federatons.

Most board membbers agreed that principals were managers and therefore not entitled to belong to a union type of organization.

The Ontario Separate School Trustees Association is one of four major groups that belong to the OSTC.

Stole His Lunch

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — A case of mistaken paper bags netted a thief a hamburger instead of $379, police said here. Officers said that a dress shop employee, carrying two paper bags — one containing shop receipts, the other the hamburger—was walking to a bank when a young man wrenched the bag with the hamburger from her hand and fled in a car.

Museum Projects Gets OFY Grant

One of the four Opportunities For Youth (OFY) applications made by the Hastings County Museum has been confirmed, says Marten Lewis, curator.

He told the Hastings County Historical Society this week the accepted program is Operation Museum Catalogue, a plan to cross-index the existing catalogue of exhibits.

Mr. Lewis explained the cross-index will bring the museum closer to a proposed national inventory scheme, slated for implementation five or six years hence.

"All the possessions of this museum will be in a computer in Ottawa," he noted. This will mean instant communication between museums across the country who wish to borrow artifacts from one another, he elaborated.

Mr. Lewis said the other three OFY applications for summer projects have not yet been approved.

One is a project to compose museum kits for county schools. Another is for two to five people to work in the museum under the community involvement program (CIP).

The third is a student community services project for three students to work for the museum during the summer months.

Introducing Uniroyal Tires' new mileage-booster services

How to tell when your car needs our mechanical attention

When your car shimmies, shakes, vibrates, thumps, bumps, ride roughly and noisily, pulls to the left or right, grabs when you brake — that's when you ned our mechanical services. When your tires show uneven wear, flat or bald spots, bumps and bruises — that's when they need to be replaced. Mechanical fitness — key to safe motoring.

Nothing was spared when it came to putting our new shop together. Larger, more spacious work areas — no crowding, lots of easy access and no old-fashioned hydraulic lifts. Our are the newest types of hoists with everything above floor level and out of harms way, too. Our new wheel alignment set-up is the latest, much more efficient and faster which means we can give you faster service. Everything geared for highest efficiency. What we're offering are "mileage-booster" services because faulty shocks, wheels out of whack, uneven braking all play havoc with your tires, shorten life and mileage — and we correct all that! So — drive a mechanically fit car with our help.

Checking Maps

Michael Chittleburgh, marketing director for John Bartholomew and Son, of Edinburgh, Scotland — one of the world's most famous mapmaking firms — gets ready to inspect a map as it comes off the press. The firm produces maps of almost every corner of the world.(CP Photo)

Scottish Map-makers Set World Standards

EDINBURGH (CP) — For more than a century, John Bartholomew and Son has set international standards for map-making.

The firm was founded in 1860 and its cartography traditions go back even further—to 1797 when George Bartholomew, father and grandfather respectively of its two founders, started his apprenticeship as a map engraver at the age of 13.

Today the family firm produces maps of almost every corner of the world for most of the world, taking care to maintain the degree of workmanship and accuracy that has made its maps famous.

"In Britain we are in a unique position in that we do not have to pay royalties to the Ordnance Survey, which does surveying maps of the United iKngdom, as other British mapmaking firms do," said Michael Chittleburgh, the firm's marketing director.

The firm is also noted for the large number of international maps it publishes, as well as atlases such as the Times Atlas of the World and the Readers' Digest Atlas.

Bringing out a new international map is a lengthy process

"When we have decided that we want to produce a new map, such as the one we have just published on the Caribbean, we first go to our editorial department, headed by John Bartholomew, and look through the bank of maps of the area in the library and refer to various books and magazines to get our basic material," said Chittleburgh.

The next step is to get the relevant information up to date and this is where the information editor, Roger Pountain, is brought in.

In his department information is collated as a continuous process. And as the firm has been in the field for so long, much of it is sent in as a matter of course.

British government departments and government or semi - government organizations such as health authorities, water boards, electricity authorities, tourist boards, the BBC, the National Trust, the Countryside Commission, holiday camps and industrial estates send in brochures. These relate to such things as hospitals, reservoirs, power stations, monuments and places of interest, danger areas and, above all, roads and future road plans.

In the case of a map of another country, the department writes the authorities concerned to find out what developments have occurred since the last maps were made.

All Bartholomew maps are updated every three years and the firm is always pleased to hear from customers able to make corrections.

"We get quite a number of enthusiastic amateurs writing in, and sometimes they even undertake to revise maps," said Pountain. "We check on this material but we tend to trust someone who appears to have an authoritative knowledge of the area."

Once the firm's editorial department has decided how much of this material it should use the colors have to be settled before the items are handed over to the drawing office.

It was the Bartholomew company that developed layer coloring—different shades representing heights—around the end of the 19th century. The method now is used internationally.

Most of the drawing-room staff are trained draftsmen who learned cartography on joining the firm, although some are taken on and trained from scratch.

"Cartographers are scarce everywhere in the world," Chittleburgh said, "and although we are in competition, there is a lot of co-operation between the various firms and a certain amount of exchange."

A map has to go through many processes before it is ready for printing. Starting with the outline, a series of drawings are made showing the communications and river patterns and the grid, then transferred by means of photography on to the scribe sheet.

Maps were formerly engraved on copper sheets but now are "scribed" or etched on specially coated glass or plastic scribe sheets with a sapphire-pointed cutting instrument — political divisions, highways, minor roads and rail lines being cut out with instruments of varying widths—thus producing a negative for reproduction.

Place names are stuck on to the resulting map by hand, using wax and a name compilation as a guide. The names themselves are set up on a monotype machine, and in the case of the widely spaced names of provinces each letter has to be stuck on separately.

Hill shading is a separate process, the shading being done in pencil, then photographed and colored.

From all the different positives the printing department produces plates for each color—river outlines in blue, town names and road casings in black, major highways in red with yellow infill, provincial borders in green. Bartholomew maps are printed in from six to 10 colors, unlike the more usual maps with four.

Bartholomew combines a modern outlook towards business with a deep respect for the traditions of its craft. Some of its recent ventures typify its approach.

Murray Free to Draft Official Plan

WOOLER — The Murray Township planning board received formal permission Wednesday to submit municipal official plans directly to the province without first applying through the Quinte Planning Bord.

In 1972, Murray Township, Brighton Township and the village of Brighton marched out of a Quinte Planning Board meeting saying Belleville was receiving the "lion's share" of planning from the board's resources.

In a letter from minister of housing Don Irvine, it states the province will accept a township official plan for approval but does not comment whether the township is still a member of the Quinte Planning Board.

Sine the trio walked out of the board, all parties have applied to the government for formal recognition of the rift or a provincial order to return the three to the planning area.

"It's rather a hot issue that the minister has chosen not to deal with," said Ken Rose, Murray Township clerk. "We should have an official plan to submit to the province within the next month."

Reeve Dorothy Brintnell of Brighton said her community was also working on an official plan.

No comment was available from Brighton Township.

No Takers for Low Interest Loans for Rental Construction

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Up to $2-million in Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) builder loans are available to Quinte builders at eight percent interest — but there are no takers so far.

In late January, the corporation announced a limited dividend program for the benefit of builders across Canada. Some $200-million is available.

Terry Gibson, CMHC assistant manager in Kingston, urged builders at a Quinte Home Builders Association meeting Wednesday night to act before it is too late.

The program will accept applicants only until the end of April, said the CMHC spokesman.

The program — sponsored by the CMHC — is designed to stimulate construction of rental accommodation, "primarily apartment and townhouse developments," said Mr. Gibson in an interview following the meeting.

Since the program's announcement in January, no local builders have submitted applications for funds, he said. "There's been talk but nothing formal."

Estimating what amount of money might find its way into Belleville, Mr. Gibson said the CMHC goes by a rule of thumb of $20,000 a unit.

"Personally, I'd like to see 100 units constructed in Belleville under the program," he said.

But, the "onus is on the builder to make an application outlining the plans he has in mind," he said. "Once these applications are in and the cut-off date reached, each will be considered and then funds will be allocated."

In return for the nominal eight percent interest rate on the builder's mortgage, CMHC exercises control on the rent.

"We want units constructed that people can afford to rent," said Mr. Gibson. "At the same time we allow the builder a reasonable return on his investment . . . five percent a year."

Mr. Gibson said CMHC was acting on the program to stimulate rental accommodation construction because of the national vacancy rate of less than two percent — indicating a shortage of this type of residence.

No member of the home builders spoke on the CMHC proposal.

It's a Winner!

Ald. Brian Knudsen holds up a winning number while making draw Wednesday for Quinte-Hastings Recreational Trail lottery. Grant Harvey, trail secretary, notes name of lucky ticket-holder on wall chart.

Lottery Brings Trail To Public's Attention

The lottery run by the Quinte—Hastings Recreational Trail (QHRT) didn't raise as much money as it might have, its organizers admitted Wednesday.

But what it missed in cash was compensated for in publicity, said QHRT president Jim Staveley.

The lotterynheld over two months since mid-January raised about enough money to cover the cost of its $3,000 in various prizes, he estimated.

"It was worthwhile due to the increased interest aroused in the trail," he said.

Sale of the tickets throughout Hastings and Prince Edward counties brought the 250-mile outdoor trail facility sharply to public notice.

It also aroused some public reaction.

"Two urgent demands emerged as the result of this interest," said Mr. Staveley:

(1) A need for cross-county ski trails — with routes in the Bancroft and Madoc areas;

(2) Landowners across whose properties the trail now wends from Lake Ontario close to Algonquin Park want provincial regulations to protect them against any liability claims.

More people also have taken out QHRT memberships as a result of the lottery-spurred attention, said Mr. Staveley.

$3,000 in Prizes Won by Residents

Gertrude Alford is a retired lawyer who admits she now does "practically no walking" involving any great distance.

Wednesday she won fourth prize in the Quinte-Hastings Recreational Trail (QHRT) lottery — a hiker's pack.

Miss Alford, a QC who lives at RR 2 Trenton and retired four years ago, agreed later she was "quite happy" to win the kit. However, she didn't believe she would use it much.

Big winner in the lottery — worth $3,000 in prizes — was Glenn Cowieson, 45, of RR 1 Belleville, sales manager with a major city automobile dealer.

Mr. Cowieson won an $1,800 snowmobile on the first ticket drawn at the QHRT offices by Ald. Brian Knudsen.

"It's a heckuva nice thing to win" responded Mr. Cowieson when he heard the news. He doesn't own a snowmachine but enjoys the recreation "on a sunny day."

Other lottery winners were: T. H. Cole, 83 Nelles Ave., Trenton, ($1,000 trail bike); Jack Harvey, 26 Geddes St., Belleville, ($100 cross-country ski pack).

Pembroke Doctor Killed In Head-on Collision

PLAINFIELD — A 66-year-old Pembroke physician is dead and a 57-year-old Belleville man in critical condition in Kingston General Hospital today following a two-car collision Wednesday on Highway 37 about one-half mile south of this village and about six miles north of Belleville.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville said Dr. Ernest Reinke of 483 Irving St., Pembroke, died a little over two hours after the 1:45 p.m. crash.

He was a passenger in a 1969-model Buick Skylark driven by his wife Mary, 67, which was involved in a head-on clolision with a 1969-model Ford driven by Charles Edgar Jones of 77 George St., Belleville.

A Belleville General Hospital spokesman said today Jones was transferred to Kingston General Hospital late Wednesday. He is listed in critical condition with internal and neck injuries and is unconscious.

Mrs. Reinke is listed in fair condition in BGH with injuries to her right and left knees, a chest injury and scalp lacerations.

Constable Garnet Brown, the investigating officer, said the Reinke vehicle was northbound while the Jones car was proceeding south when the collision occurred in the centre of the highway.

He noted there were rainy weather conditions and the pavemet was wet at the time. He estimated damage to each car at $1,800.

Constable Brown praised the efforts of the Quite Rescue Squad whose five members spent about a half hour cutting off the drivers' doors to free both Mrs. Reinke and Jones.

"They used their cutting torches and saws with great skill," he commented. "They did a marvelous job."

A Handy Trick

Burning a blowtorch into a handful of insulation proved one thing, "it's tough to burn." Charles Raycroft of Pal-O-Pak Industries of Whitby was demonstrating the fire resistant character of his company product at a meeting of the Quinte Home Builders' Association Wednesday. "Wooden members of a house will burn long before the insulation will," he said.

Builders' Workmanship Often Hidden from View

Charles Rycroft, president of Pal-O-Pak insulation of Whitby, criticized residential builders Wednesday night saying "some builders haven't been too conscientious."

He was speaking at the monthly meeting of the Quinte Home Builders Association. He told the group he was not talking specifically of the Quinte builders but builders in general.

Mr. Rycroft — speaking specifically of insulation — said "the home owner or the home buyer is getting really unhappy about fuel bills."

Insulation is one part of a home the potential buyer can't easily see . . . unless he goes up into the attic," said Mr. Rycroft.

"A builder will earn his reputation for the quality of materials he uses in areas the buyer can't see," said Mr. Rycroft.

Prehistoric Meeting

Seven-month-old Susie Boyce met her first dinosaur Wednesday afternoon at Queen Elizabeth Public School when primary grade students held a dinosaur day. It was open to the public. Susie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Boyce, 173 Bridge Street East.

Closed Education Meeting May Contravene New Act

Separate school policy on prohibiting the public from attending committee of the whole meetings and committee meetings may be contradictory to the new education act.

The policy committee of the Hastings-Prince Edward County Separate School Board raised the issue this week. In February the board approved a new policy which allows the public to attend regular meetings but prohibits them from the committee of the whole meetings.

The new education act (Section 179) states that board meetings, committee meetings and committee of the whole meetings "shall be open to the public except where a board determines that certain meetings of the committee of the board, including a committee of the whole shall not be open to the public."

The separate school board referred the problem to the policy committee for further study. The committee also recommended that some revision will be necessary.

Education director Ed. Neville said committee meetings have never been attended by the public. In fact, he said there has never been a request.

The board has traditionally held its committee of the whole meeting prior to its open public meeting.

Mr. Neville said the closed session is used for the discussion of personnel matters and matters of finance.

During Tuesday night's open public meeting there were visitors present except for the press.

The Hastings County Board of Education may also face the same dilemma. It also holds a public meeting followed by a closed committee of the whole session.

Acting director of education L. F. Reid said the public has never asked to be present at committee meetings. The county board does not have standing committees but rather it uses ad hoc committees.

Loyalist Echoes To Bluegrass Beat

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Foot stompin' beer drinkin' hand clappin' music took over Loyalist College Wednesday night during the annual Keg and Barrel Bluegrass Festival.

About 425 young people attended the annual festival which this year drew two well-known Bluegrass bands, the Burton County Line and the Saltspring Rainbow.

Bluegrass music, which has been labelled hillbilly and mountain music in the past, is all about "fun, good time, beer drinking type music," says Paul Burton, a spokesman for the Burton County Line.

The group, which has been together a year, is composed of Phil Kings, Skip Holmes, Dick Van Raadchooven and 23-year-old Paul Burton. They are from Toronto and have played the bar circuit for the past few months.

"We play downhome bluegrass . . . which is kind of an earthy approach to this type of music,' explained Paul, who with the group, is making his second appearance at Loyalist College.

Despite the seeming simplicity of the music Paul said the technique required to play bluegrass is complicated.

"You have to be around for awhile before you can take [illegible] with a bluegrass band," added Paul, who is a student in Toronto.

All four members of the band play a variety of instruments. The main instruments in a bluegrass band are banjo, string bass, mandolin, guitar and fiddle.

Bluegrass music did develop in the early part of this century around North Carolina and Kentucky in the mountain regions. It was a predominantly white form of music. The American negro at the same time was developing the folk blues in the United States.

Paul said the popularity of bluegrass in Canada has grown to the point where each year in Carlisle a bluegrass festival is staged. Bluegrass bands from Canada and the United States attend in June.

Budget Debate Soon

City council has set the day to discuss its capital works budget. Mayor Robin Jeffrey announced Monday the special session has been set for 4 p.m., April 2.

Hanna Guest Speaker

Dr. John Hanna, of McMaster University, spoke to the Quinte Chapter of the Society of Industrial Accountants at its regular March meeting. His topic was the current value and price level accounting.

Students Busy

The students of Parkdale Elementary School sold over 2,000 draw tickets to contribute to the school's Fun Fair recently. Shirley Matthies, convenor of the Parkdale Home and School Association, said ticket convenor Dorothy Gibson, school secretary Shirley Swan and three mothers of students, fulfilled the task of printing, cutting, assembling and distributing the tickets. " — a truly mammoth job," she commented."

Chamber Expands

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce now is the Belleville and District Chamber of Commerce.

At the molnthly meeting of the group Wednesday it was decided that the chamber would take in a larger area.

George Thompson, chamber president, said that the chamber's boundaries would now run from the southern part of Sidney Township on the west to Thurlow Township in the north to Tyendinaga and Deseronto in the east.

He said that the board of directors would remain as it stands but that when a change is made there would be consideration for those outside the city of Belleville.

Also brought up at the meeting was a reminder of the manufacturing week to take place April 3, 4, and 5.

Sticky Theft

A bubble gum robber struck in the city sometime Tuesday night.

City Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said today an unknown thief stole a peanut and bubble gum machine from a N. Front St. laundromat.

The loss, valued at $350, was reported to police Wednesday noon.

Convent Players Return

The Covenant Players are returning to Belleville. The internationally-known troupe of young actors, the Covenant Players present religious drama.

The group is returning this Sunday to St. Thomas church — the scene of a visit early last month.

Organized 12 years ago, the troupe is no-profit, self-supporting and interdenominational, which has played in 10 countries and more than 20,000 churches.

It has a repertoire of 300 one-act plays and shorter skits, — not traditional religious drama but written to challenge the imagination or stimulate commitment.

The players will be at St. Thomas for the 10:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. services and all interested are invited by the church to attend.

Dean Faces Murder Charge

A former Belleville resident has been charged with murder by Metro Toronto police in connection with a gangland-style killing in a field in Vaughan Township, northwest of Metro.

Sgts. Allan Clark and James Cole of the Metro police intelligence squad arrested Howard Daniel (Mugsy) Dean, 39, at his Franklin Ave. home in westend Toronto about six hours after the discovery of the body of Jack Ernest Raymond Richardson, 43.

Metro police say Richardson's body was found early Wednesday lying partway in an abandoned barn on the Kirkby sideroad. They say he was shot after apparently being abducted at gunpoint in Toronto several days ago.

Police comment the killing could be connected with a fourishing loan - sharking racket in Toronto.

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following call for assistance in a 24-hour period which ended at 8 a.m. today.

Wednesday, March 19, 1.17 p.m. — to a dwelling at 11 Willard St. where sparks from a chimney caused a blaze in an old fireplace, minor damage.

Belting Bluegrass

Mandolin player Paul Burton, of the Burton County Line, belts out a mountain number during the annual Keg and Barrel Bluegrass Music Festival Wednesday night at Loyalist College. About 425 young people attended the festival.

3 Nominations for Office

For years, able men from the city have served in responsible positions with the Ontario Amateur Softball association (OASA).

Belleville director of recreation Cliff Belch along with Jim Tebworth and Bruce Nickle continue to carry on the tradition and all three have been nominated for office this year.

Belch, OASA secretary for six years, stepped out of the association briefly when other commitments kept him on the sidelines in 1973. He returned last year, serving as second vice-president.

This time around, Cliff has been nominated for no fewer than five executive positions. His name appears in the list of nominees for president, first vice-president, second vice-president, treasurer and executive member.

He will allow his name to stand for election as first vice-president, since it is his ambition to move up a rung, explaining it's the thing to do. Cliff supports V. E. Walker of Port Perry in the race for president.

Other candidates for president are D. Prescott of Little Current; Tom Sims, Meaford and George Thomas, Simcoe.

Tebworth, while announcing he will stand in the list of nominees for third vice-president, agrees with Belch when it comes to assessing the credentials of Port Perry's Walker.

"Vinnie Walker is a good man," asserts Jim, who last year was an appointed member of the association's executive and has been nominated for a position on that body for 1975

Nickle was a special convener with the OASA in 1974. His name also appears in the list of nominees for the six-man executive.

Bill Huffman of Trenton, sports editor of The Trentonian, is another softball enthusiast seeking a place on the executive.

Elections will be carried out when the OASA holds its 53rd Annual Meeting, April 4-5-6, at Scarboro.

SLICES — The start of the Quinte Women's Hockey League playoff final between Stirling Ken Sine Fuels and Belleville Mel Barriages, has been delayed, reports loop-president Joyce McFarlane.

A member of the Barriage team, Joyce feels the squad, coached by Tony Goncalves and Bob Dafoe, will be ready for Stirling when the title series opens.

Barriages won a tough semi-final set with Trenton Flyers in five games while Stirling swept its playoff with Picton, three straight.

Ken Sine Fuels' coach Barry Wilson says the reason for the delay in the opening of the final is a tournament commitment the team has in Kingston this weekend.

"And Stirling has three teams involved in Ontario Minor Hockey Association semi-final playoffs, so ice time is hard to come by," observes Wilson, whose team went through 18 regular season games and three playoff matches without a defeat.

Only a 3-3 tie kept the Stirling girls from posting a perfect record. And it was the Barriage team that held Wilson's charges to the late-season draw.

The two teams should get the best-of-seven title matchup going early next week.

Branch 99 supports minor sports in the city in a big way and will use proceeds from Sturday's game to help finance that part of its program.

Generals Bounce Back

Belleville Generals, second place finisher during the regular Gas House Hockey League season, were back in form in playoff action at Memorial Arena, Wednesday night.

Upset 9-3 by Chuckwagon Foods in the opening game of the best of five semi-final set Monday, Generals squared things at 1-1 with a 4-2 Wednesday win.

In the other half of the semi-finals, Stanley Structures moved one win away from a berth in the finals, topping Rollins Lumber 4-2 to lead the series 2-0.

Defenceman Gary Goyer paced Generals to the important victory, scoring once and helping arrange another pair of goals. Hugh Holmes, a Roger Bryant and Steve Truelove counted the other goals and Dave Skelton earned two helpers.

Grant Sage and Al Talker took care of the Chuckwagon goals. Gary Sero checked in with two assists.

Stanley Structures spread its scoring among four players as the team took a firm grip on the set with Rollins.

Rob Harrington, Ron Gauvin, Wayne Storms and Ray Summers were the marksmen. Top playmaker was Ron Fuller with two assists.

Both Rollins' goals were supplied by Dale Tumon with Larry Pascoe in on both scoring plays.

Playoff action resumes Monday night at Memorial.

Major Problem

First Headache For McDonald's

Everything appeared to be running smoothly for Doug Adams and Dale Duvall, owners of the Belleville McDonald's. Perhaps too smoothly.

In any event, all the minor wrinkles that were passing them by came together in one big crease Tuesday and it appears they just haven't got an iron big enough to straighten things out.

The two have run into a dispute with their star left-hander, Bob Ethier.

BOB ETHIER

Ethier, the hurler who carried Howard and Robert Printing to an Ontario championship three years ago and to the Quinte Fastball League championship last year, has decided that playing in the Ontario Fastball League just isn't for him.

"I tried to talk him out of quitting the team," said Adams, after a lengthy Wednesday afternoon discussion with the mainstay of his pitching staff, "but he's convinced it isn't for him."

"That's not the end of things though," said the McDonald's general manager, "Dale (Duvall) is going to talk to him again tonight."

"He doesn't like the idea of us signing all the old Rollins Construction players," said coach Harold Reid, "we were really counting on Bobby. I hope we can get this thing straightened out."

To Wednesday, the McDonald's had signed Ethier, Wayne McTaggart, Paul Goodfellow, Marve Stacey, Ted Waite, Glen Carleton, Steve Ling and Duvall.

This morning it was announced they had also signed Dwight Rathwell, Ken Genereaux and Scott Reid. Rathwell and Genereaux are able to play any position on the infield although they're noted for shortstop and third base, respectively, and Reid adds to the strength of the pitching staff. All three were members of the Howard and Robert squad in 1974.

Although Adams says the situation doesn't look good with Ethier, he is optimistic.

"I'm sure we can settle the matter before much longer," he said.

With the signing of Genereaux, Rathwell and Reid, if Ethier doesn't play for the McDonald's, he might find it awfully lonely back with Howard and Robert.

How Do You Know Other Rustproofers Won't Run Out Before Their Guarantee Does?

YOU DON'T

Someone who's been in the rustproofing business for two years might give you a lifetime guarantee. But his guarantee might last a lot longer than he will. Ziebart has been in the rustprofing business 18 years. We pioneered rustproofing. And we've inspired a lot of imitators.
In the first place, our speical compound is patented. Secondly, it's not only what we use, but how we use it. Ziebart coats every critical area of your car. So there's no possibility for rust.
Finally, our process is so effective we guarantee it. If you have your car Ziebarted before it's been driven 3000 miles, we'll guarantee it won't rust through for ten years. No matter how many miles you drive it. We put it in writing.
And if that's not enough to convince you, just ask someone who's had it.
Because hes got a rustproof car. And our long guarantee. Which is our guarantee we'll be around for a long, long time.

Shutout Total Reaches 50

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eddie Giacomin didn't seem to be in the mood to enjoy the 50th shutout of his National Hockey League career Wednesday night.

"I didn't feel all that great out there," Giacomin said after turning aside all 18 of Vancouver's shots in a 3-0 New York Rangers win over the Canucks. "But with the type of game we played—tight checking, hard hitting, solid passing and all—it didn't matter much."

In other NHL games Wednesday, Montreal Canadiens beat Boston Bruins 2-1, Atlanta Flames defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 8-7, New York Islanders beat Kansas City Scouts 3-1 and California Seals tied Pittsburgh Penguins 3-3.

Steve Vickers scored two power-play goals, running his season-scoring total to 32, and Jerry Butler added the other for the Rangers.

It was Giacomin's first shutout of the season but put his career total—counting one playoff shutout—at 50.

Giacomin suffered a pinched nerve in his shoulder when he made a diving stop on one of his few tough saves, stopping a three-on-one Vancouver break in the second period.

He remained prone on the ice for a minute or so, then returned to the goal.

While Giacomin had a relatively easy night, Gary Smith was kept busy facing 31 shots in the Vancouver net—so busy, in fact, that at one point he was called for delaying the game when he flipped the puck into the crowd to halt a New York breakaway.

At Montreal, the Canadiens' used polished passing and strong skating to outmanoeuvre the Bruins. Jacques Lemaire's 31st goal of the season put Montreal ahead 1-0 in the first period, Yvon Lambert added his 29th in the secod period and Boston's Bobby Schmautz got Boston's lone goal early in the third period.

Boston centre Phil Esposito left the game after the first period suffering from a strained ligament in his left knee while Montreal defenceman Guy Lapointe left during the second period with a pulled muscle in his back.

Montreal defenceman Don Awrey a former Bruins, showed no sympathy for his old team-mates and his effective defensive play earned him first-star mention.

"I always seem to play better against my old team-mates," said Awrey.

The same might have been said for forward Tim Ecclestone, who scored two goals against his former Toronto team-mates, one into an empty net. Ecclestone had only 10 goals all season until the game against the Leafs.

Other two-goal scorers in the 15-goal game were Curt Bennett for the Flames and Errol Thompson for the Leafs.

Ed Westfall, Billy Harris and J. P. Parise scored for the Islanders and goalie Billy Smith played shutout hockey until he allowed Claude Houde's goal for Kansas City early in the third period.

Charlie Simmer's disputed goal gave the Seals the tie against Pittsburgh. Simmer scored with 14 seconds left in the second period. The Penguins contended the goal came after an offside pass, but referee Bryan Lewis allowed the goal.

First at Home This Season

Ryan Takes Loss in Stride

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New England Whalers suffered their worst home loss of the World Hockey Association season Wednesday night but coach Ron Ryan was the model of a good loser.

"We were due for a game like this," Ryan said after San Diego Mariners beat the Whalers 6-1.

"We've played a lot of tight, close-checking games in recent weeks but this one just got out of hand."

The loss was only the fifth of the season for the Whalers in 32 home games. They have won 24 and tied three of those and have an over-all record of 38-25-5. They already have clinched the East Division title.

In other WHA games Wednesday, Winnipeg Jets beat Vancouver Blazers 8-3, Houston Aeros defeated Indianapolis Racers 6-5 and Cleveland Crusaders beat Phoenix Roadrunners 5-4.

For the Whalers, the game got out of hand quickly. San Diego scored three times in the first period on goals by Norm Ferguson, Mike Laughton and Jim Hargreaves, Laughton's goal coming with the Mariners shorthanded.

They put it out of reach with two more goals in the second period, by Andre Lacroix and Gene Peacosh.

"I thought we had good pressure early in the second period," Ryan said. "Tommy Webster went in twice all alone but couldn't put it in. We put the heat on for a good five minutes but Lacroix stopped our momentum with his goal."

Webster finally scored for the Whalers but Ron Plumb got that goal back for San Diego midway in the final period.

Paul Popeil, Frank Hughes and John Schella scored third-period goals as the Aeros overcame a 4-3 Indianapolis lead, eliminated the Racers from the East Division playoff race and cut to two Houston's magic number for clinching the title in the West.

Bobby Hull scored two goals and assisted on two others in Winnipeg's win over the Blazers. He set up two of the Jets' four first-period goals, then led a three-goal outburst in the third period with his 67th and 68th goals of the season.

Terry Holbrook scored on a 35-foot slap shot with less than two minutes remaining to give Cleveland its win over the Roadrunners. The Crusaders led three times in the first two periods on two goals by Richie Leduc and one by Gary Jarrett but had to come from behind in the final period for the victory.

Phoenix goalie Gary Kurt said the Crusaders "shouldn't have beaten us .... I think they have a jinx on us."

ITALY BEATEN

SAPPORO, Japan (AP) — The East German team, composed of soldiers, beat Italy 9-2 Wednesday for a share of first place with West Germany in the Group B world hockey championship at the Makomanai Skating Stadium, site of the 1972 Winter Olympic Games.

Bears Top Leaders

HERSHEY, Pa. (CP) — Centre Jack Surbey scored two goals to lead Hershey Bears to a 4-2 victory over Southern-Division leading Virginia Red Wings in the only American Hockey League game Wednesday night.

The win moved Hershey ahead of Richmond Robins for second place in the Southern Division, behind the Red Wings.

A crowd of 5,930 boosted Hershey's attendance mark to 200,817 for 35 home games, the 13th consecutive season the club has topped the 200,000 mark.

Surbey's line of Nelson Debenedet and Jacques Cossette was on the ice for all four Hershey goals. Cossette picked up a goal and defenceman Joe Lundrigan added the other.

BCI Seniors Taking Aim on AA Championship

Coach MacKenzie

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

While Nicholson represents Central Ontario at the Ontario. Federation Secondary School Athletics (OFSSA) A championship this week and Quinte is representing Central Ontario at the OFSSA AAA championship, Central Ontario has a third representative from the city. At the OFSSA AA championship in Timmins, Belleville Collegiate (BCI) will be looking to bring an all-Ontario title home.

Thite Quinte is in St. Catharines at the AAA Championship on March 25-26-27, BCI will be in Timmins at the AA tournament.

BCI probably has a better chance than either of the other two city teams for an OFSSA championship. The team this year is almost the same as the senior team that went to the all-Ontario championship last year and finished third.

"We should be seeded second," said BCI coach, Brian MacKenzie, "the OFSSA champs, Dundas Parkside, are returning again this year and they'll be seeded first."

MacKenzie is expecting his toughest competition from the defending champions.

"They basically have the same team as last year and they have a big, six-foot-ten centre back from last year," he said.

MacKenzie has prepared his team for what's to come. He has evolved a special defence to protect against the strength of the Dundas centre.

"In short what this defence does is keep their big man outside and cut him off from our boards," said the BCI coach, "that way Larry Wilson can float under our basket and pull down the defensive rebounds."

MacKenzie doesn't intend to walk into a game without previously testing his new plan. He has arranged with Rick Williams, a Hastings County Board Trustee, to come in and work out with the BCI team against the new defence. Williams used to be a basketball player himself and his height and size make him an adequate foe.

While playing other teams MacKenzie's men will operate whatever defence is necessary. They'll probably concentrate on man-to-man however, since that is what has been the most significant in their success this season.

"That's our bread and butter," said MacKenzie, "when the boys are playing well it's as good or better than anyone's in the province."

The BCI team is, of course, well known for its defensive prowess, but is just as well known for its might on the scoreboard. With Larry Wilson, working the boards, and Larry Savage, taking inside passes and popping points with his excellent, short jumpers, the Collegians overpower their opponents.

The won 10 straight games through the regular season, won Bay of Quinte and the Central Ontario championship. In all, they compiled a 39-4, won-lost record. Included in their winnings was the championship of the Zoo Invitational in Peterborough, and the Consolation championships for the Waterloo Christmas Tournament and the Pembroke Tournament. Three of their four losses were to AAA class schools. The fourth was an early season loss to Nicholson.

BCI's offensive power doesn't end with two players though. MacKenzie has nine players on the team that he considers starters.

"I really don't pick my starting line-up until game time," said the coach, "I can go to anyone of the guys on the bench."

The Collegians have been the Central Ontario senior AA champs for the past two years. Next year, they lose all but two of the team. This doesn't bother MacKenzie however.

"There are some great juniors coming up," he said.

No matter what happens this year, he says BCI will be right back in the running next year.

Leads Semi-final 2-0

Whitby Wins in Overtime

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two overtime goals belped Whitby take a 2-0 lead in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A semi-finals Wednesday as McDonald's beat Brantford Foresters 4-2.

Meanwhile, Barrie Flyers took a 3-0 lead in their best-of-seven series against Orillia Terriers, winning 7-2 in Barrie.

In Whitby, Brantford took a 2-1 lead on first-period goals by Al Osborne and Guy Smith, with Doug Tate scoring the only Whitby goal.

The score stayed that way until 18:08 in the final period when Peter Vipond converted a Gordie McCosh pass to force a 10-minute overtime period.

McCosh let a slapshot go just inside the blueline at the 3:35 mark and Vipond scored his second goal into the empty net with six seconds remaining.

Gerry Gray went the distance for Brantford, stopping 29 shots, while Whitby's Bruce Durno turned aside 26 shots before 750 fans.

Third game in the series is in Brantford tonight.

In Barrie, Corby Adams, Jim Thompson, Phil Brasston, Paul Regan, Bill Abbott, Grant Moore and Ken Knapton shared the Flyers scoring.

Playing-coach Henry Monteith scored twice for Orillia.

Barrie led 3-1 after the first period and 5-1 after the second before 585 spectators.

Barrie outshot Orillia 36-24.

Fourth game of the series is in Orillia Friday.

Lawsuits Coming Up

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — Lawsuits seeking $160,000 have been filed in superior court here against Tom Lysiak of Atlanta Flames in connection with a traffic accident Feb. 17.

A $125,000 lawsuit was filed by Marlene Wanderski, driver of a car involved in the accident, and another suit for $35,000 was filed by her husband, William Wanderski.

The action claims that Lysiak, 21-year-old native of High Prairie, Alta., drove around a curve in the wrong lane and struck Mrs. Wanderski's car. The suit says she was seven months pregnant at the time and has since been required to wear a back brace.

Police charged the National Hockey League player with driving without a licence and with driving under the influence.

Nepean On Ropes

OTTAWA (CP) — Smiths Falls Bears took firm control of their Central Junior Hockey League final playoff Wednesday, defeating Nepean Raiders 6-4 before about 2,000 Nepean fans.

The victory gives the Bears, second in final league standings, a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series with the fifth game scheduled Friday in Smiths Falls and the sixth, if needed, back in Nepean Saturday.

Outshooting the Raiders only 27-25, the Bears got strong team effort with Barry Kerfoot, Bob Ferguson, Brian Johnson, Darrel Tracr, Gary Nichols and Don Kells scoring goals.

The Raiders, fourth in the final standings got two goals from Bryan McCullough and one each from John Nazar and Mike Meeker.

I want to talk to you people who wouldn't normally buy a used car.

Economic trends over the last several years have so affected the average consumer that I suggest it's time for a lot of people, including you, to reappraise one's buying habits.

Rapidly escalating prices and heavy taxation at all levels is now making it increasingly difficult for many people to cover all the bases with the disposable income available to them.

A new car gives one a great feeling. The Canadian dream certainly. For many however, it's a needless extravagance. Particularly when you consider that it depreciates upwards from a thousand dollars the minute you drive it away from the dealer's lot.

One way to reduce motoring costs of course is to buy a smaller car. An awful lot of people though don't like them. If you're one of these, we offer another practical alternative. Buy a used car. Not somebody else's trouble, not any used car, but a reliable, low mileage, one owner, late model vehicle. A car you can trust because it's backed by our written dealer warranty.

Rule Changes For NFL

HONOLULU (AP) - National Football League owners approved seven rule changes Wednesday and the majority help the offence.

The moves mark a continuance of the 1974 philosphy that the offence needs help to restore more balance in the pro game.

Two years ago there was wide criticism that defences had moved far ahead of offences and made the NFL games dull. So a year ago came a series of rule changes aimed at helping the team trying to move the ball.

This time the owners went further, although they did turn down a proposal that pass receivers need to have only one foot in bounds to make legal receptions.

Most important of the rule changes probably was one which provides that if any fourth-down pass from inside the opponent's 20-yard line falls incomplete in the end zone, the ball will be returned to the line of scrimmage and not to the 20. So, a defensive team might get possession fo. its offence on the two or three instead of the 20.

Defensive clubs may no longer huddle more than 11 men and take the extras out just before the offence puts the ball in motion, something the Minnesota Vikings displayed last season. The NFL will now call that unsportsmanlike conduct and assess a 15-yard penalty.

The penalty for an ineligible player downfield or offensive pass interference was reduced from 15 to 10 yards. In the case of defensive holding or illegal use of the hands on a pass play, the penalty will be assessed from the previous line of scrimmage rather than at the point the ball was blown dead—such as when a quarterback is sacked 10 yards behind the line.

Another new rule provides that a team may use a double shift on or inside its opponent's 20 if it has shown the manoeuvre at least three previous times. A prior rule required use of the double shift at least three times in the quarter before it was used that close to an opponent's goal.

FRANK ROBINSON

Manager Lays Down The Law

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cleveland Indians didn't play a game Wednesday but they were the talk around baseball's spring training circuit.

Cleveland manager Frank Robinson used the off day to take his Indians "over the fundamental mistakes we've been making." He also talked to George Hendrick about the centre fielder's failure to run full speed on a double in Tuesday's 10-inning 5-4 loss.

"George's explanation satisfied me," the rookie manager said. "He said he thought the ball left the park for a home run."

Instead, the ball hit the fence and Hendrick barely made it to second when he possibly could have ended up with a triple.

Robinson defended Hendrick and said at least two other players have failed to run hard after hitting pop flies.

"Just because it's Hendrick, everybody is watching every move he makes . . . George wasn't the first, and he wasn't the first one I talked to."

In Wednesday exhibition games, Los Angeles Dodgers beat Montreal Expos 4-3, Texas Rangers beat Houston Astros 5-2, Detroit Tigers defeated Kansas City Royals 11-10, Cincinnati Reds blanked New York Mets 1-0, Philadelphia edged Boston 5-4, the White Sox whipped St. Louis Cardinals 14-7, Milwaukee beat California 8-4, San Francisco defeated Oakland 7-2, San Diego beat Chicago Cubs 5-4 and Minnesota defeated New York Yankees 5-1.

Ferguson Jenkins pitched four scoreless innings and Texas scored three runs in the fourth inning as the Rangers defeated Houston. Jenkins was touched for only three hits while striking out four.

Minnesota scored three runs on only one single to snap the New York Yankees four-game winning streak.

Two home runs by Buddy Bradford paced the White Sox over St. Louis.

Red Star Takes Win With Penalty Shots

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eleven teams advanced to the semi-finals in three European soccer tournaments Wednesday with Red Star of Belgrade providing one of the highlights in its Cup Winners Cup triumph over Real Madrid of Spain.

Real Madrid won Wednesday's game 2-0, tying the series 2-2, but Red Star took the series on penalty kicks after the second game of their quarter-final series.

Red Star scored six goals to Real's five on the penalties.

Left winger Dragan Dzajic scored the first Red Star goal in regulation time before 100,000 fans in Belgrade and goalkeeper Olja PePtrovic made it 2-0 on a penalty shot.

Petrovic also scored during the penalty series, then stopped Santillana's spot kick which prevented Real Madrid from tying the series.

Also advancing to the Cup Winners Cup semi-finals were PSV Eindhoven of the Netherlands, Ferencvaros of Hungary and Dinamo Kiev of the Soviet Union.

In the European Cup, Leeds United of England, Bayern Munich of West Germany and St. Etienne of France advanced. They join Barelona of Spaine in the semi-finals.

Leeds blanked Belgium's RSC Anderlecht 1-0 before 38,000 fans in Brussels—thanks to Bill Bremner's goal in the 75th minute which gave his club the series 4-0.

In UEFA second-leg quarter-final action Juventis Turin of Italy, Borussia Moenchengladbach and FC Cologne, both of West Germany, and Twente Enschede of the Netherlands advanced to the semi-finals.

Canadians, Swiss Share Lead

PERTH, Scotland (CP)—Canada had a share of the lead in the world curling championships today after a wild shot on heavy ice by third Rick Lang provided a victory over West Germany.

"Just a wild shot," said Lang of his last rock in the 10th end Wednesday night. The shot edged into the button for what proved the decisive counter in a 4-2 Canadian victory.

"After my first shot came up 10 feet short of where I expected it, we decided I'd have to throw takeout weight with my second if we hoped even to get to the rings," said the Canadian third.

Despite the heavy weight, the stone swung at least six feet and drew into the button with backing on a German stone. With only skip rocks to go, Lang's shot ensured the Canadian win when German skip Klaus Kanz missed both his attempts on ice that became tricky during the last three ends of the match.

The Canadians, skipped by Bill Tetley of Thunder Bay, Ont., now share top place with Otto Danieli of Switzerland. Each has a 4-1 won-lost record.

Grouped at 3-2 are Alex Torrance of Scotland, Axel Kamp of Sweden, Andre Tronc of France and Ed Risling of the United States.

At 2-3 are Germany and Helmar Strombo of Norway with John Kjaerulff of Denmark at 1-4, and Italy's Giuseppe Dal Molin, 0-5 after two last rock misses in both his rink's games Wednesday that allowed the opposition to steal victories.

In sixth-round action today, Canada met Switzerland while Italy faced Sweden, Denmark met Scotland, Norway went against Germany and the U.S. against France.

The round-robin series ends Friday afternoon with the semi-finals set for Saturday and the final Sunday at 2 p.m. EST with national television coverage in Canada on the CBC network.

In other Wednesday night games, a last-rock draw by Trance came up short and allowed the U.S. to pull out a 6-5 win over Scotland, France defeated Italy 5-3, Sweden went an extra end to subdue the young Norwegians 11-9 and Switzerland beat Denmark 11-2.

In the afternoon draw, Scotland beat the Swiss 5-3 while Canada defeated Sweden 9-7, creating a three-way tie for top place after four draws. In other afternoon games, Norway beat France 7-5, Germany beat Denmark 8-5 and the U.S. edged Italy 8-7.

"It swung at least six feet," said Lang of his shot that proved conclusive after neither Tetley nor Kanz made any of their final two shots of the game.

"I just threw it as hard as I could. Fortunately it worked out just right."

The Canada-German game was one of tactics in which neither skip was prepared to give ground. They blanked the first three ends before Canada scored. The first junky end, in which rocks were allowed to remain in the rings, was the sixth when the Germans scored a pair.

The seventh end was blanked and then the ice became tricky and both rinks discovered their shots taking unusual runs.

The Canadians found difficulty making any draw shots while the Germans had problems with their running weights, often missed takeouts by as much as two feet.

Kanz, who fell coming out of the back with his last rock and pushed his rock in delivery, saw it wreck on one of his own in the house and bound out of play, allowing the Canadian shot rock to stand.

Tilbury Schoolboy Champ

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Brian Derooy of Tilbury district high school captured the Ontario high school boy's curling championship Wednesday with an 11-3 win over Don White of Orillia's Park Street Collegiate.

Derooy needed only seven of the regulation 10 ends to win.

In the semi-finals, Tilbury was forced into an 8-7, extra-end win over Dwayne Pyper of Lord Elgin high school, Burlington.

Orillia reached the finals by beating Joe Dark's rink from Loyalist Collegiate, Kingston.

After seven rounds of play there were ties for first in both A and B groups.

Kingston was awarded first place in Group A, winning a four-end, tie-breaker 2-1 against Tilbury. In Group B, there was a three-way tie between Burlington, Orillia and Hugh Millikin of Merivale Collegiate, Ottawa.

Orillia drew a bye going into the playoffs, while Ottawa was eliminated 3-0 by Burlington, also in a four-end tie breaker.

Ottawa, which had led Group B from the first day, dropped into a tie for first, losing 10-9 to Uxbridge secondary school, skipped by Mike McLaren, in 11 ends.

In other seventh-round action Wednesday: Lockerby (Sudbury) 8, Kirkland Lake 7; Tilbury 6, Dundas 5; Kingston 7 Sioux Lookout 3; Burlington 7, Sarnia 2; Sudbury 12, Hamilton 2.

Legion Curling

Saskatchewan Has 5-0 Record

SUSSEX, N.B. (CP) — The Don Staples rink of Kindersley, Sask., ran its record to 5-0 in the Royal Canadian Legion's curling championship Wednesday night with a 7-6 victory over the New Brunswick foursome skipped by Dick Wedge of CFB Chatham.

British Columbia and Ontario kept pace with Saskatchewan by posting their fourth triumphs against one loss in the sixth round of the nine-round, competition which ends Friday.

Kelly Carin of Kamloops, B.C., made a cold draw to the eight foot circle in the final end, cutting Quebec out of two rocks and defeating the Brock Stackhouse foursome of Auclair 6-5.

Ontario's Lou Dugre defeated Alberta 12-2. Dugre won the Legion's Dominion title in 1971 while skipping a New Brunswick rink.

Prince Edward Island's Gerry Campbell of Charlottetown ran his record to 3-3 with a 12-6 triumph over John McLean's rink from Thunder Bay, representing Manitoba and northwestern Ontario.

Nova Scotia had the sixth-round bye.

In the afternoon's fifth round, Saskatchewan shook off a 10th end challenge to defeat the Thunder Bay, Ont., rink 8-7 for its fourth successive victory. Prince Edward Island tripped Quebec 10-4, Alberta edged New Brunswick 8-6 and Ontario rolled to a 10-3 victory over Nova Scotia.

British Columbia sat out the fifth round.

Victory in Sight For Alberta Rink

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Les Rowland's Alberta rink from Calgary needs only two victories today to clinch the Canadian mixed curling championship.

The Rowland crew brought its won-lost record to 7-1 with a 4-2 win over Jake Block's foursome from Abbotsford, B.C., in a seventh-round match and Wednesday night scored an eighth-round victory over Bob Dillon's rink from Charlottetown, P.E.I.

The loss dropped P.E.I. into a three-way tie for second place with the Ontario rink skipped by Dave Reid of Toronto and the New Brunswick representative led by Roscoe Wilson of Moncton. All have 5-3 records.

Ontario created the tie for second with a 5-3 win over New Brunswick, picking up three in the eighth end to erase a 3-2 deficit.

Quebec in Charge

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. (CP) — Quebec, skipped by Frida Payson of Lachine, downed Ontario and Nova Scotia Wednesday to remain in first place after seven rounds of the Canadian senior women's curling championship.

Quebec bounced Shirley Pilson of Chatham, Ont., 13-6 in the sixth round and doubled the score on Joan Renouf's Halifax rink 10-5 Wednesday night.

Quebec has a 6-1 mark, followed by Manitoba and British Columbia at 5-2. Alberta, Ontario and New Brunswick are tied with 4-3 marks, followed by Saskatchewan, 3-4, Nova Scotia 2-5, and Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island, both 1-6.

Quebec and Nova Scotia were tied 4-4 after five ends and Quebec lost a chance to break open the match in the sixth end. They had six rocks in the house, but a Nova Scotia rock was closest to the button.

Quebec missed a clear shot at a takeout that would have given the rink seven and Nova Scotia stole one.

But Quèbec rallied for three in the seventh one in the eighth and two in the ninth for the win.

IN MEMORIAM

MUIR — In proud and loving memory of my dear grampa who passed away March 20, 1971.
They say time heals all sorrow,
And helps us to forget.
But time so far has only proved,
How much I miss you yet.
Though tears in my eyes do not glisten,
And my face is not always sad,
There is never a night or a morning,
But I think of the grampa I had.
Not a day do I forget you,
In my heart you are always here,
For I loved you and miss you,
As it dawns the 4th lonely year.
—Too dearly loved to ever be forgotten, Randy.

MUIR — In loving memory of my beloved parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Muir, who passed away, Dad, March 20, 1971, Mom, May 20, 1971.
Always so good, unselfish and kind,
What a wonderful memory they left behind.
If they could have spoken before being taken away,
These are the words we would have heard them say,
"This life for me has truly past,
I loved you all to the very last,
Weep not for me but courage take,
And please love one another for my sake."
—Till we meet again, Nancy and Eldon and David.

LEWIS, Thomas Christopher — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather who passed away two years ago today.
O happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still,
But death has left a loneliness,
The world can never fill.
—Loved by Betty and Gail, Cathy and Tom.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Mrs. Bert Solmes wish to thank their relatives, friends and neighbors for their cards, floral tributes, donations to the Gideon Bible Society and special thanks to the neighbors for their thoughtfulness and hospitality. And thanks to O. Howden Funeral Home and Mr. Simon Brownson and Mr. Hubert Andrews.
The Solmes Family.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to everyone who helped during the illness and passing of our loved one, Albert St. Denis. Thanks to Doctor's Hartt, Manderville and Morphy and staff on seventh level, Belleville General Hospital. Aso Doctor's Shah, Lott and staff on Victory Ward Three, Kingston General Hospital. Thanks for the beautiful floral tributes, cards of sympathy and donations to the Canadian Cancer Society. Special thanks to Reverend John Morrison and John R. Bush Funeral Home.
Annie St. Denis and Family.
